Farming Is Changing

Something was said on this page a day or so ago about the effect the introduction of modern machinery has had in changing the employment quotient of industry and the opinion of an industrial executive to the effect that in the long run, modern invention and the creation of new machines and new methods of manufacture would mean more rather than fewer jobs was quoted.

In this connection it is interesting to observe that methods of farming, like methods of industry, have changed radically since the Great War, and we owe Business Week a word of thanks for an article in which some of these changes are stressed.

For example we learn that while twenty years ago it required 6 1-2 man-hours to harvest an acre of wheat, the baby combines now in use requires barely one-third that many man-hours.

In sugar beets, where the cost of hand labor is by far the largest cost item in production and harvesting, savings in man-hours running as high as 20 per cent. have been effected since 1915 and machinery has barely begun its work with sugar beets. Mechanical blocking, hoeing, thinning, pulling and topping, we are told, promise to work out a further and very marked reduction in labor costs before long.

Mechanical potato diggers since 1909 have cut 6 1-2 to 14 man-hours from the labor of harvesting an acre. The mechanical cotton picker is said to be just over the horizon; if it were to be used on only half of the acreage in the areas of big plantations it would eliminate the work of 2,000,000 hand pickers, each working 10 hours a day for 40 hours each season.

Yes, farming is changing. The west used to advertise in Ontario and Quebec papers for thousands of harvest hands every summer; there are no ads today for machinery has made it possible to harvest the crops with a minimum of labor.

Helping Hockey

A sign of the trend of the times is the decision of the Chatham council to submit a bylaw to the ratepayers, asking for authority to make a loan of $50,000 to a company for the erection of a skating and hockey arena.

A number of communities already owe their modern arenas to municipal assistance and the time may come when municipal councils will regard it as much their business to provide up-to-date facilities for hockey as it has been considered their business to provide parks and playgrounds and athletic fields for other lines of sport.

Hockey, Canada's national winter pastime, occupies a very important place in the activities of the average Canadian community. The thrills provided by the various organized leagues help make the long winters pass more quickly and the game provides recreation and exercise of a most desirable type for thousands of red-blooded young Canadians.

Like everything else, however, hockey has been marching on. The introduction of artificial ice arenas, making it possible to play the game regardless of the vagaries of the weather, has lengthened the season, speeded up the play and given those centres fortunate enough to possess a modern plant an unmistakable advantage over other cities less happily equipped. The hockey arena of today, moreover, is an expensive layout and many communities, our own included, have not yet found it possible to provide the facilities that are generally regarded now as essential to success in hockey.

Here it is that the municipal government has in a number of cases stepped into the picture and provided enough assistance to make it possible to erect a new hockey plant. We have an idea that other municipal councils will eventually fall in line and adopt a similar policy.

Nothing To Fear

Oshawa council has decided to have the municipal swimming beach and wading pools open on Sundays henceforth, thereby adopting a policy that Peterborough put into effect years ago when by a vote of the people the community decided that Sunday bathing should become part of the recognized scheme of things.

We hasten to assure Oshawa and other centres that are now falling in line that no deterioration in the moral fibre of the community need be feared because an opportunity is to be given their citizens to swim on Sundays. Years have passed since Peterborough legalized Sunday bathing and we are safe in saying there have been no signs of degeneration as a result.

Sunday recreation that is not on an organized or commercial basis, that does not interfere with the rest or enjoyment of other people and that does not require a large amount of Sunday labor from folk who are entitled to a day of rest has come to be regarded as an unobjectionable feature of the weekend.

What must be guarded against, of course, is the wide open Sunday, or the commercialized Sunday. There is no demand for that kind of thing in this province and any attempt to widen out Sunday sales or Sunday recreation on an organized basis should be opposed.

In this regard a bouquet is due and is hereby tendered to the garage proprietors of Peterborough upon the very sensible arrangement they have perfected whereby only one garage is kept open on Sundays for emergency repairs while the staffs of the other garages get a much-needed day of rest. This is a vast improvement over the old plan by which all the garages in the city were in operation on Sunday and the employees worked seven days a week. The new plan is working out nicely and will undoubtedly be adopted permanently.

Why The Decrease

Recent figures must be disheartening to the Department of Agriculture officials and other persons who have been endeavoring to pump new life into the veins of the Canadian cheese industry and to restore the manufacture of Canadian Cheddar cheese to its old importance.

The official statistics show that the production of Canadian cheese for July of this year fell 12.5 per cent. short of the total for the same month last year, while in the same period the output of creamery butter in Canada made a gain of 6.9 per cent.

The unfortunate part of that situation is, of course, that creamery butter is essentially a product for domestic consumption while cheese is mainly an export product and its sale in Great Britain helps to establish the prices of all dairy products.

On top of that is the fact that we make a very superior quality of cheese in Canada, cheese that enjoys such an enviable reputation on the British market that it invariably commands a premium there.

Britain wants our cheese so long as we maintain the uniform excellence of the product and yet, strangely enough, we refuse to make all we could sell and instead turn our attention to the manufacture of creamery butter which plays little or no part in our export trade.

Just why the cheese factory, once a very prominent part of Canadian rural life, has lost so much of its attractiveness we are unable to say but the fact remains that despite earnest efforts on the part of Federal and provincial governments to encourage the production of more cheese, the latest figures show that we are dropping well below last year's output. It is discouraging, to say the least.

The Treating System

A well-known resident of Peterborough, discussing a recent article in the Examiner in which the desirability of a more efficient and consistent inspection of the operations of beverage rooms in Ontario was advocated, declares that we are on the wrong trail.

All that is needed, he declares, is to pass a law forbidding treating in beverage rooms and at once the greater part of the evils of sale-by-the-glass is wiped out.

"Under the present system," he remarks, "a man goes into a hotel intending to have a glass of beer and then goes home. He meets three or four cronies inside. They treat all round and the first thing he knows he has spent money that should have been used for family needs and he has drunk a lot more beer than he intended to."

Undoubtedly there is much commonsense in that theory. It has long been recognized that treating has been a very important factor in producing drunkenness but while that fact has been generally admitted there has never been any real attempt to do anything about it, possibly because many people feel that a law to prevent treating would be difficult to enforce and would be almost certain to result in failure.

If a man wants to buy beer for some one else he is not likely to let a little thing like a section of the Liquor Act prevent him from going through with his original intention. In fact it would probably take more inspectors than the Examiner suggested in the first place if there were an anti-treating law on the statute books and a serious attempt were made to have it enforced.

Don't Give Up Too Soon

We believe that when Health Magazine in an earnest plea for more serious consideration of the possibilities af artificial respiration declares that many cases of drownings have been mishandled and that there have been unnecessary deaths as a result, it is hitting the target squarely in the centre.

The article says it seems to be a general opinion that it is impossible for a person to remain under water for more than three or four minutes and still live and that in the absence of signs of life artificial respiration need not be continued for more than half an hour.

Undoubtedly this is the case and because this view is widely held, rescue parties have given up working on drowning victims after a comparatively short time, because they failed to see any evidence of life, whereas long continued artificial respiration might have resulted in the recovery of the rescued person.

Peterborough has had an opportunity recently to see that the prone method of resuscitation will really work even when the victim has been in the water for some time. A few weeks ago, it will be recalled, a young man got into difficulties while swimming in the canal, sank beneath the surface and was not taken from the water until a period of eight minutes had elapsed. Fortunately the firemen had been called quickly and they were ready to go to work as soon as the victim was brought out and their work, assisted by several volunteers, was finally rewarded by the restoration of the young man, whose life was saved because a squad of workers who knew the routine of artificial respiration was available when needed.

The magazine is right when it says attempts to revive apparently drowned persons should not be abandoned too soon. Persistence may mean the difference between a funeral and a life saved.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Sir Stafford Cripps is not very original. He is travelling incognito in Jamaica under the name of "Mr. Brown."

Two Chicago women picked six winners in seven races. There must be something in intuition after all.

Crooks in Toronto held up the wrong man. The latter we understand did not insist upon them going ahead with the thing.

Recent litigation shows that while it may not be possible to fight on soft drinks, it is not difficut to fight over them.

Canadians seem to be made of tough stuff. They can get lost in the woods for days and emerge in surprisingly good shape.

A Chicago broker has played 144 holes of golf in a day, but regretfully we have to report that most of the world's major problems still remain unsolved.

Possibilities of disposing of Canada's new wheat crop abroad are considered bright. The Dominion can stand a lot of that kind of news.

It is said that 10,000 cars park illegally in Toronto every day. This problem of what to do with automobiles when they are not in use seems to be too big for municipal governments everywhere.

A motorist was described in Toronto police court as "one of those fellows who cannot wait a little while." There are a lot of them and they cause a large number of the accidents.

Toronto newspapers announce that Toronto henceforth is to have a sane Sabbath. We imagine, however, that it will still seem like a week to a Montrealer.

Toronto paper reports the players of a golf club as carrying on with their games despite the destruction of the clubhouse by fire. But what did they do about the nineteenth hole?

The fate of Mickey Cochrane, Detroit manager, should serve to convince young athletes in every sport that the old saying, a hero today and a tramp tomorrow, is 100 per cent. true.

Oshawa man has been chased out of his house by grasshoppers. That is contrary from the usual Oshawa custom as it is generally the bailiff who does the trick.

Warren Oland who made "Charley Chan" live on the screen is dead. He was more Chinese than the Chinese themselves and the movie world has lost a fine character actor in his passing.

Swing bands are to be featured at the Canadian National Exhibition, which means that the proper place to look for the jitter bugs will be around the dance floor.

Britain and Canada have joined forces in a war on liquor smugglers. We hope the Quebec folk will not regard this arrangement as an attack on Canadian autonomy.

A British cruiser joined with units of the Canadian navy in manoeuvres off Victoria. If the House were in session some back-bencher would probably be sounding a warning against "entangling alliances."

PORTLAND HARBOR

Sunlight dancing at the water's edge,
Where sea and sand embrace and fall apart,
With sounds like laughter from the glad heart
Of the downs
That dip their feet into the sea.
Graciously
The great ships ride at anchor,
Ready to be away
Across the sea to far Gibraltar
And those islands
South of Italy.
Sunlight dancing at the water's edge,
The feet at anchor,
Fretting to be free;
And my heart lies a prisoner
In England
My dreams go with the great ships
Out to sea.

The Geneva Park Rally Goes On

(By Dr. R. W. Frank)

GENEVA PARK, Lake Couchiching, Aug. 10.—The problem under study here for the past two days and for the next two is and will be "Dominion-Provincial Relations" as a subdivision of "Problems in Canadian Unity."

As I am rooming with the Canadian Press reporter, I presume most dailies will publish important quotations from the various speakers. Five speakers have already been heard and as one dispensed with ten thousand words one might say we have had an earful.

Unavoidably when many men discuss the same subject from many angles there is bound to be much repetition but always something new. One thing that is noticeable this far is the unanimity of opinions which I presume comes from great study of the subject. I suppose if our knowledge could be absolute we could not disagree at all. In other words the more we know the less we disagree.

Be that as it may you may ask why after seventy years of harmonious confederation, glorious development, and the peaceful attainment of national status, should we be suddenly confronted with constitutional complications that are shaking our national unity to its very foundation.

The Rowell Commission

The public read of the Rowell Commission and I should be surprised if most people do not think it is just another bill of expense to be forgotten almost before completion.

Let me assure you it is the most important undertaking since confederation itself, for the failure to relieve the impasse in which we find ourselves today will continue to retard national progress, and may easily disrupt the nation.

It might be a good idea then if we could view this problem in its proper perspective and to that end I shall try to fill in a little background.

You will recall that confederation of the four original provinces was brought about by external as well as internal forces. A strong republic forging ahead to the south and not without ambitions to the north as demonstrated by the Fenian Raids put our straggling and struggling colonies in a precarious as well as ridiculous position. Internally the political impasse between the Canadas and the depression that followed the civil war demanded a new arrangement.

Without going into history which you know or can read, confederation was brought about by diplomacy where it would work and bribery where it would not.

Three Courses Open

Three courses were open, legislator union, and two types of confederation. Legislation union was unthinkable because of the jealousy of provincial rights, not only on the part of Quebec as many people believe but to an equal degree by the Maritimers who were perhaps nearer to becoming separate nations than any other. New Brunswick by the way still regards itself a sovereign state, and only recently it went through the formality of officially declaring George its King.

Under these circumstances then confederation was a compromise between the four provinces with others joining later under special terms. The provinces retained such powers as they could, principally pertaining to the conduct of their regional affairs, and the Dominion assumed responsibility for such affairs as were more or less common to them all. These are set down fairly clearly in Sections 91 and 92 of the British North America Act.

In spite of their best effort at the time some of these clauses clash or lack clarity and from time to time appeals have been made to the Privy Council for a definition of their meaning.

Just A Colony

Now you must recall, if you wish to understand this question, the political status of the Dominion in 1867. It was colony of the British Empire and every act of the Dominion Legislature was subject to ratified by the Imperial Parliament. Today it has the status of a nation completely independent of Great Britain.

You must also vividly picture the internal economy of the country in 1867 and compare it with that of today. Straggling, sparsely settled, primitive patches of people mostly agricultural, and mostly self servicing made up the country. Today it is highly industrialized and specialized, which means that people are interdependent and no longer self sufficient. Hardy individualism has all but disappeared and social services have grown up to take its place.

Now then you ought to grasp the reason why a rigid constitution applicable to the conditions of 1867 will not apply to the changed conditions of 1938.

To make that clearer let me take a specific instance. Clause 92 section 2 of the B.N.A. Act gives to the provinces only the right of direct taxation within the province in order to the raising of a revenue for provincial purposes. Section 13 of the same clause gives the provinces jurisdiction over property and civil rights within the province, and section 7 delegates to the provinces the responsibility of social services.

Now then you have the spectacle of the demand for social services rising by leaps and bounds within the provinces but the provinces cannot raise the money for them except by direct taxation.

For example in 1871 Ontario spent 1.12 per head on social services, while in 1934 it spent 25.36. The average for Canada in 1871 was 1.34. In 1934 it was 20.17.

Now if you will view this proposition in respect to the wealth of various provinces you will find that some provinces can ill afford social services for the wealth of Canada is mainly concentrated in the two central provinces. This is bourn out by the fact that last year Ontario collected 59 per cent of Canada's succession duties, Quebec 24 per cent and all the rest of Canada 17 per cent.

Provincial Dissatisfaction

These figures visibly illustrate the feeling of dissatisfaction in the outlying provinces who feel, and I think rightly so, that they have contributed to the concentration of industrial wealth in the two central provinces, because they are engaged in the production of goods for export which they must sell in an open market while they are compelled to pay enhanced prices for their need in the tariff protected market of the central provinces.

But to come back to my point on the constitutional question — when the late federal government decided to embark on some social services such as unemployment insurance it found that it was trespassing on certain civil rights which were in the hands of the provinces, and that some of the provinces refused to surrender these rights, and so we get an impasse; and so it will remain, while the people continue to suffer.

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

CORRIGAN

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—One of the first pictures of Douglas Corrigan radioed to America and published in the metropolitan newspapers after he had hopped the Atlantic in an antique $900 plane, showed him drinking a glass of water. Almost immediately on arrival at Dublin he was offered a glass of Irish whiskey. His reply was, "Thanks I don't drink; just give me a glass of water."

His uncle, Rev. S. Fraser Langford, of the First Baptist Church, Santa Monica, California, in whose home the young flier lives, informs the "California Voice" — "My nephew neither smokes nor drinks. I have heard him say on more than one occasion, 'Water is good enough for me. Liquor and flying do not mix.' Douglas has lived a clean life. He belongs to a Protestant church. His life's ambition is to be a good flier and he knows that to attain this end he has to have a clear head."

Like Lindbergh, who first spanned the Atlantic, he abstains from alcohol.

THE CORPS REUNION

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Do you know I felt pretty sore when before I reached home last Wednesday I was told "The Examiner gave the soldiers a pretty tough name." When I saw the articles on the front page, that told of the (perhaps a little wild) pranks some few of the men played—but it was worded as though the whole 100,000 were at it. I did feel badly, especially as I could find so little of the good.—One report was 200,000.

Those men, the great majority of whom must have been over forty were only older boys. To us nursing sisters, boys they were, mischievous ones too. Far, very far from all—burned pianos. Put 100,000 men from all walks in life, out for a holiday and a gay time, trying to meet old comrades they had gone through some veritable hellish times with, and I'll warrant there will be just as bad pranks played.

I saw 70,000 men march on Saturday afternoon. Even on that march, though there were the lame, the halt, the blind, with the "seeing-eyes dog," there was a certain amount of fun, but they kept their ranks. A few did look a little as though they carried too much beer. Later I saw some of them on the intersection of Yonge and Queen streets, sitting on cushions playing cards. I saw them stop cars, climb on the engines, even one man was lying on top of a car. The people inside taking it in good part.

Many soldiers did kindly acts, against a few relatively among so many, were pretty drunk down in the Exhibition Grounds, but would you find any fewer in proportion among so many civilians? Have we not drunken drivers of cars killing people? And not the temptation there was there.

Then there was that wonderful Drum-head Service on Sunday afternoon. As that 60,000 men marched in perfect order were nursing sisters were pined of every one of them. No cathedral parade could have been more reverent, if in as perfect order. Many thousands must have mixed with the civilians too.

The Toronto papers did not speak so badly of them. I think the people of Toronto, as a whole took it all in good part.

• The Horse Knew Its Way

(From the Ottawa Journal)

WE HAVE BEEN reading in the papers about a chap who was found guilty in Newmarket of being drunk while in charge of a horse and buggy. What happened at that stage we cannot learn, but presumably something less drastic than the penalty that falls upon a drunken driver of a motor vehicle.

In "the good old days," which now mean the days "before the war," the horse was king of the road and knew precisely what to do if his master inexplicably lost interest in the proceedings. Ned (or Kate) just sauntered along home and pulled up safely at his own barn door. The horse knew the way and accepted his full responsibility. This was a service expected of him by romantic young couples, also, and many a man of middle years will recall tieing the reins to the whip-stalk—Old Dobbin was a great aid to courtship in the gay nineties.

Today, it would be dangerous, of course, to put so much trust in the force of equine habit, and unfortunately the motor car cannot be trained to run safely of itself. Even the driver who operates his car with the left arm while the right is otherwise engaged comes under disfavor, and romance must be curbed by the demands of public safety.

It may be the Newmarket man had an old-fashioned horse and wanted to continue the old-fashioned ways. But the times are against him, and he must conform. Dobbin, even with a driver, seems out of place on the modern surfaced highway—Dobbin driverless simply has no place in the picture.

LAUGHING HELPS.

(New York Times)

DURING the World War our cartoonists used to picture patriotic German families sitting in intense concentration around a meagre breakfast table and indulging in their regular morning hate against the Allies. The cartoons usually included a little dog or a canary bird loyally co-operating in the family rite. Now comes Patrick Montford, publisher of a humorous magazine in Dublin, puroposing the antithesis of this method for America as a means of getting rid of the depression.

His suggestion is for Americans to get together and laugh about the business decline, unemployment, war threats and political disturbances. We have enough dynamic humor, he thinks, to explode each of these depressing influences out of our atmosphere. We have already done quite a bit of laughing about all these matters, but the newspapers, which probably aren't as funny as they ought to be, unfortunately remain full of them. In fact, there is a current American saying of a semi-humorous nature which Mr. Montford may have overlooked. It is "Try and laugh that one off."

COMMON FATE OF ALL

(Brandon Sun)

The Duke of Windsor's forty-fourth birthday was unnoticed. Oh well, we can remember when Father's Day had a hard time getting started, too.

LET HIM ALONE.

(Kitchener News-Record)

THE HEAT is bad enough, especially when a man has to work fairly hard for a living, but he gets hotter at the well-meaning efforts of his wife and women friends to reform him, speaking more specifically of dress.

Why does a man not dress in lighter clothes, why doesn't he don light white shoes, dispense with his belt and give up smoking cigars, the latter must make him hotter? These and others are the questions flung at his perspiring brow.

If the dear little lady could only realize it he wants to be left alone to bear his misery, somewhat on the principle that if one is always talking about the heat he really feels it more than one who plugs along and thinks little of it.

So, dear women, if you who are running around these summer days with a shade over nothing on and you feel inclined to tell hubby to do likewise, just smile your superior smile, and don't get disgusted if, when he comes home from the office, he kicks off his brogues, turns down his shirt collar, pitches his tie in a corner and lights up his "filthy pipe" and enjoys himself. That is the way he has his fun!

(New York World-Telegram)

MONEY TALKS, as the saying goes, and we add that it screams, it shrieks, it kicks up more fuss than a fire.

This refers to the daily silver parade up West St. as the truck with siren-shrieking police escort carries its load of silver bars from the vaults somewhere around Wall St. to the new bullion depository at West Point.

The silver rides in an open truck, and from the window one may try for a thrill by looking down at about $400,000 worth at a time—not much more romantic to see than a load of coal, a neat pile of darkened metal bricks, each one like three or four sash weights melted together.

If we were advising Robin Hood we'd tell him not to bother with the silver. He'd break his back trying to rush one brick across the road. But if Robin Hood were eager to do his Boy Scout good deed he might throw a scare into the escort just once, to stop them from making the roadway hideous with their noise from here to West Point.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

CRY ALOUD, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew my people their sins. Behold, ye fast for strife and debate, and to smite with the fist of wickedness: ye shall not fast as ye do this day, to make your voice to be heard on high.... Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke? Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him: and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh? Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thine health shall spring forth speedily: and thy righteousness shall be thy reward. Then shalt thou call, and the Lord shall answer; thou shalt cry, and he shall say, Here I am. If thou take away from the midst of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the finger, and speaking vanity; and if thou draw out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted soul; then shall thy light rise in obscurity, and thy darkness be as the noon day: and the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones: and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not.—Isa. lviii, 1, 4, 6-11.

THEY TELL TALES

(Department of Highways)

THEIR LIPS are motionless, their voices stilled, but dead men—and women and children—do tell tales. Especially when death has come suddenly and brutally in an automobile accident.

Lifeless, mangled bodies, crushed under the wheels of a motor car, strewn about in a tangled mess of crumpled metal and shattered glass, tell grim, horrible tales.

They tell tales of needless death—death that was the result of carelessness, neglect, thoughtlessness or inconsideration, for those human weaknesses are responsible every time traffic on city streets or country highways claims another life.

Few people seem to listen to the tales the dead tell, however. Perhaps it is because of the horror.

DRIVING MANNERS.

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

RALPH WALDO EMERSON on wrote: "Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy." There is more need for this philosophy now than when he wrote it before the motor car was invented. The automobile has made many of us into selfish boors. If drivers behave as considerately when behind the wheel as they do in the drawing room, the death rate on the highways would soon be sliced to a fraction of its present conditions.

Let's have more courtesy, better manners, more sportsmanship on the road!

TWO WORLDS

BY MAUD McCURDY WELCH

READ THIS FIRST:

Determined to show Dr. Julian Paige, the man she is in love with, that she can make her own way in the world, Noel Shayne, wealthy society girl, burns her bridges behind her, moves to a rooming house and, for lack of anything better, obtains a job as a taxi dancer which she feels will be only temporary. She is living with a girl named Laurie Evans whom she met in the park. Noel feels she has a dangerous rival in Ruth Chester, Julian's pretty nurse, who has been antagonistic. Noel is alarmed when one of the men with whom she dances at the Peacock seems to recognize her and almost discloses her identity to Nick Luigi, the proprietor. Julian calls Noel to take her to dinner before leaving town on a case. She evades him when he asks where she is working. That night a man follows her home from the dance hall. Laurie obtains a job as cashier at the restaurant which Julian usually patronizes. She tells Noel of seeing the young doctor there at noon though Ruth Chester had told Noel he had not returned from his trip. Julian sees Noel at the restaurant and "prescribes" a day in the country the following Sunday.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 12

Julian's words were such a surprise—when he said he was prescribing their Sunday outing for himself—that for a moment Noel couldn't find an answer. If she had been able to, however, she wouldn't have had time, for Julian said then, "Tomorrow at 10—don't forget," touched his hat and crossed the street to the Medical Arts.

As if she could forget—even for one single moment, Noel told herself happily. She went to work at the Peacock that night almost walking on air. She and Julian—a whole day together! The very thought made her heart almost jump right up in her throat.

She was so happy over it, that she actually wanted to cry. In fact, the happy tears felt very close, even though she knew she was acting very silly indeed.

Women were queer creatures, she thought. They always cried when they were happy, when tears were meant to be used for sorrow. Maybe that was one of the reasons women were called the "contrary sex."

When Noel reached the club, she was still in such a glad mood, she didn't even mind the sordidness of the big dance room with the garish red hangings, the huge chandelier in the shape of a ball hanging from the centre of the floor with hundreds of crystal pendants, the faded gilt chairs lined up against the walls.

Then quite suddenly she came back to herself with a sense of shock. She had gone to the dressing room as usual to slip into the tulle evening frock and gold sandals. But the tulle dress was not in its usual place in her locker. It was replaced by a resplendent new one of gold brocade.

She gave a little jump as she stood there staring at the dress, when a low voice spoke in her ears. "The other dress was beginning to look worn and draggled." It was Nick. She would have known that sly, secretive voice anywhere.

She turned around and faced him. "You had no right to do this!" she exclaimed hotly.

"Now, wait a minute," Nick Luigi held up an admonitory finger. "Don't fly off like that. You can easily pay me back out of your salary. That was what I intended, of course."

Noel looked at him in cool and contemptuous silence. Did he actually believe that on a salary of $3 a night, for six nights, that she could afford to buy a new evening dress, especially one as expensive as this brocade? Noel knew clothes.

"You see," Nick went on, his voice low and persuasive, "beginning tonight, you've been raised to $10 an evening. Noboy can say that Nick Luigi's a piker."

Noel stared at him white-faced and questioning. "So I've been raised, have I? And what about the other girls?"

"Don't worry about the others. You've got something they haven't," Nick said, for once taking the cigar out from the corner of his mouth. "You've got class. You're good for the trade. So you're really earning more money, and should have it."

"Is that honestly on the level?" Noel asked. "There are no strings?" She asked the question more to gain time than anything else.

"Strings?" Nick gave a shrug. "Of course not. Only if now and then you'd come and have dinner with me—just as a—a sort of friendly gesture—"

It sounded reasonable enough. Noel hadn't had any experience with men like Luigi, however, and she was on her guard. She choked back the angry retort that rose to her lips. She would get away from here soon. Until then—

She turned and faced Luigi who was standing there looking at her, his pale eyes alight. Noel took the dress down from the hanger. "I'll wear it," she promised. "But I won't accept the raise. I don't want anything the other girls don't get."

"Not even when I tell you that you bring more people here than all the others put together?" he insisted.

"Not even then," Noel said quietly. She added, with a shade of weariness in her voice, "Will you please go now?"

"Certainly," Luigi moved to the door. Then he came back and said softly, "You will wear the dress and look very beautiful, as lovely as a fairy queen with all your golden blondness. And when you are tired, you will stop dancing and rest. And you are not to sit at the tables. Do you understand?"

"I understand," Noel said.

After Nick was gone, she slipped into the gold brocade, though her pride had never been so humbled in her life. The gown was entirely backless and much too low in front. She placed a chiffon handkerchief across the low V-neck and was glad to find it worked nicely as a vestee.

Then she went out, holding her head proudly, two brilliant spots of color in her face, quite unconscious that Nick's taste had been unerring, and she had never looked more beautiful.

As usual, she was beseiged with invitations to dance, and there were numberless cut-ins. But she had determined not to take advantage of Nick's permission to sit out some of the dances when she was tired. She didn't intend to accept another single favor that was not accorded to the other girls.

When the place was closing at last, and the girls were changing into the street dresses in the dressing room, one of them said cattily, "Miss Doran is a fast worker, isn't she? A new dress, and a big raise—all in one night. Pretty good, I calls it."

"Perfect," another girl joined in. This was the first time any of them had been catty.

"How did you know about the raise?" Noel asked the first girl who had spone.

"Oh, the walls have ears around her. But as a matter of fact, I was standing just outside the dressing room. Nick always talks through his teeth, but it's easy enough to undersand what he says."

"But you probably didn't understand what I said?" Noel emphasized. "If you had, you'd have known that I refused the raise."

The tall, dark girl, the one who had first spoken, stopped in the act of slipping a sleaky silk dress over her head. "Did you really? Then you've got less sense than I gave you credit for. Haven't you learned yet that a girl has to take what she can get in this racket?" She turned away contemptuously. Noel said nothing to that. She finished dressing. Just as she was ready to go out, another girl came up to her, a thin pale little thing with great enormous gray eyes. "Do you live on Court street?" she asked.

Noel nodded. "Then we can walk together. My name is Maida Smith. I've just moved out there myself."

Noel was glad to have company.

Maida told her that she was a widow with a little boy. That she had a room and kitchenette apartment, and that the little boy whose name was Joey went to the Madison avenue school.

"And you make the living for both of you?" Noel inquired interested.

"Oh, yes, I have a job working in the alteration department of Bracy's," Maida explained. "But I don't have work there every day. When the work is slack I'm laid off, that's why I work at Luigi's, so I can be sure to keep Joey in school. And after school he makes what he can by selling papers. So we manage to get along."

"He must be a fine boy," Noel said warmly.

"Oh, he is," Maida exclaimed, with pride. Then she said in a lower voice, "I've been wanting to tell you something for some time, kid. About Nick. It's a good thing you didn't take all the money he offered you. You see, he's madly in love with you, so you'd better just watch your step."

Havelock Institute Plans For Hallowe'en

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Aug. 9.—The Havelock Branch Women's Institute met yesterday afternoon in the council chamber with Mrs. John Armstrong, president, in the chair. There were twenty-two members and four visitors present. The roll call was responded to with a name of an Ontario county and its county town.

In reply to correspondence regarding the "needlecraft course" the members instructed the secretary to say that the Institute would not be able to have the course here before the last week in September or the first of October.

Mrs. Clare Price, secretary, was appointed as local leader to attend the "care of clothing" course to be held in Peterborough on Sept. 9th, Sept. 30 and Nov. 10th.

Arrangements concerning the Havelock Institute's invitation to visit the Trent River branch on Thursday, August 11th were discussed and five members volunteered cars to transport the members there. All those wishing to attend are to be present at the council chamber on Thursday at 1.30 p.m.

Mrs. Charles Taylor, reporting for the cemetery improvement committee said that the grounds now presented a very beautiful appearance. Mrs. George Rigby and Mrs. B. Smith were appointed as the committee for August.

During the business the Institute decided to have the piano tuned. They also made arrangements to hire an orchestra for the annual hallowe'en dance.

The programme, with Mrs. Anderson as chairman, opened with all singing "O Canada." A very interesting paper on "Canadianization" was given by Mrs. Geo. Rigby. A number of current events were well illustrated by Mrs. H. W. Roche.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

FINALLY KNARF said to Hanid: "I know why none of the swallows has come to live in this birdhouse."

"Why?" his sister asked.

The two shadow children were inside the empty little bird house which stood on top of a high pole at the back of the garden. Father had built it as soon as the weather had turned warm, hoping that a family of swallows would move into it and raise a family. But they had all stayed away, preferring to build their nests in the trees.

"Why haven't they come?" Hanid repeated.

"Because they don't know it is for them."

"But the children thought of that and put up a sign. It's right over your head."

Knarf looked up at the sign for a moment. It said that the house was for rent, and that any swallow who wanted it could move right in.

He started to whistle

"Yes," the shadow boy said, "Only birds can't read. They don't know what the sign means."

"What can we do then?"

"We'll have to tell them."

"Tell them! How can we do that, Knarf?"

"You'll see. I'm going to tell them right now."

"But you can't speak bird language. They won't understand you any more than they understand the sign."

"It's easy to speak bird language. All you have to do is whistle."

With that Knarf stood on the little ledge, or porch, just in front of the open door of the house, and started to whistle. "Peep-peep!" he went. "Peep-peep-peep! There," he said to Hanid. "Now they'll come. Do you know what I said to the swallows?"

"You said peep-peep-peep."

Knarf shook his head. "That's what you thought I said But you don't understand bird language I really said: "Swallows, here's a house for you! Come at once!"

"Do you think they'll come?"

"Course they will."

At that moment there was a rustle in the shrubs at the foot of the pole on which the birdhouse stood. They both turned to see which of the swallows it was that was coming to live in the house.

Tweed Barn Burns During Threshing

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Aug. 10—Igniting from sparks of a threshing outfit which was in operation on his farm, the barn and contents on the farm of Mellson Conkwright, fourth Concession of the Township of Hungerford, were completely destroyed by fire late Monday morning. William Vance, owner of the threshing apparatus, and his son, Horace, sustained minor burns from the blaze in their successful attempt to save the threshing separator, that was facing the raging inferno at close proximity.

Threshing activities had started at the Conkwright farm early Monday morning, and shortly after 10 a.m. sparks were seen emerging from the separator and before even the warning of fire could be issued, the light straw was a raging inferno. Fanned by a light breeze, the blaze made rapid progress and it was only with difficulty the workmen managed to haul the threshing separator to safety.

The barn and contents were a complete loss, there being no insurance.

Ezra Pero, Tweed, and Adam, Plevna, were rushed to the Kingston General Hospital over the weekend suffering from injuries sustained near Roblin, when Pero's car is said to have collided with a loaded coal truck driven by Earnest Jackson. The latter was uninjured.

Pero received head injuries, a fractured arm, and hip lacerations, while Gregg was injured about the head and chest.

Dr. J. W. Willoughby attended the injured men and ordered them to hospital. Both car and truck were damaged. Police are investigating the cause of the accident.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, August 11

A DAY of what may be deemed devastating excitement and disruption is read from the ruling mutual and lunar aspects. There may be a suddenly-precipitated swirl of events that may lead to romantic and adventurous experiences or to hazards or defeats. In any event, the friendship and sound advice of an elderly friend should be sought.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may not have to complain of the palling monotony of the year ahead. They probably will be caught up in a whirlwind of events of a disintegrating, upheaving and exciting force that may land them into high adventure and romance or to peril, depending on their own self-government and the friendly support of a wise and calm elder. But drastic, sudden and possibly romantic changes are imminent.

A child born on this day may seek high adventure and romance. It may have many sound qualities and ideas, which it may exercise without much "rhyme or reason." It may have a singular career that may carry it far from its birthplace.

Driver Of Car Is Exonerated At Inquest Into Death Of Tot 1 Year and 9 Months

Jury Affirms Accident Was Unavoidable No Blame Is Attributed

Donald White, 515 Bonaccord street, was exonerated by the coroner's jury that investigated last night the Chamberlen street fatality of last Saturday evening in which Barry D. Moffit, one year and nine months of age, son of Donald Moffatt, was struck by a coupe driven by Mr. White and died about fifteen minutes later in the office of Dr. Herbert Young, Stewart street.

The jury affirmed that the accident was unavoidable and "that no blame can be attributed to Donald White, driver of the car."

Dr. J. C. Smith, chief coroner, presided at the inquest and the witnesses were examined by F. D. Kerr, K.C., acting Crown Attorney. T. J. Carley, K.C., was present in the interest of Mr. White. The evidence carried no suggestion of recklessness or excessive driving by Mr. White, and witnesses agreed that they saw nothing for which he should be blamed. It was simply a pathetic occurrence in which a little boy of less than two years started to cross Chamberlen street from the west side of a parked car toward his sister and some other children playing in a lane on the south side, and as he took two or three steps on to the road, the coupe driven by Mr. White from the east struck him.

Dr. Young and Dr. J. M. O'Brien said that death was due to fracture of the skull and hemmorhage of the brain.

Father's Evidence

Donald Moffatt, 526 Chamberlen street, the bereaved father, said he had last seen his little son alive about two minutes before the fatal accident happened. "I came home with him and left my car in front of the lane. I took him into the house, and he was sitting at the table. I think he took only one mouthful out of a bottle of Coca Cola."

Some how the boy "slipped out of the room," and the first impression Mr. Moffatt had of anything happening was hearing brakes of a car and screams of people.

"My wife and I rushed out. He was near a drain at the side of the road about fifty feet up the street, and against the curb. I saw a coupe six or seven houses up the street, and also my own car. My wife picked him up, and I took him and drove to Dr. Herb Young's office. He didn't regain consciousness. The doctor sent me after my wife, but when we got back he was dead. That was in ten or fifteen minutes after it happened."

Mr. Moffatt said the time was between 7.45 and 8 p.m.

Saw the Boy Struck

Mrs. Wm. Kay, 536 Chamberlen street, was an eye-witness of the accident. "I saw the little boy playing with other children up the street. For a while he was on the south side. Then he came out to the road. A sedan approached him from the west, and the little boy stood on the road with his arms stretched out. The car stopped and a man got out. He saw a girl run out on to the road, and I thought the man told her to take the boy off the road or he would get killed. She brought him to the north sidewalk and left him there. He was behind a car that was parked in front of the house west of Moffatt's. Then he started out toward the road. His sister saw him and screamed. There was a coupe coming from the east, not very fast. The little boy made a run from behind the parked car, and ran in front of the coupe."

Mr. Kerr—"Was there anything to prevent the driver of the coupe from seeing the little fellow?"

Mrs. Kay—"Yes; because the parked car was facing to the east, and the boy ran out from the west side of it."

"How far did the boy run from behind the car until he was struck?"

"About three or four feet."

"Would you say there was anything negligent on the part of the driver of the coupe?"

"I saw nothing negligent."

Mrs. Kay's testimony was corroborated in part by her daughter, Miss Anna Kay.

Other Eye-Witnesses

Donald Chambers, 19 Brown street was on his way up town, walking along the north side of Chamberlen street, when the accident occurred. His evidence was substantially the same as Mrs. Kay's. He estimated White was driving about 23 to 25 miles an hour. He stopped the car quickly, and ran back to where the boy was lying on the ground near the sidewalk.

Mr. Harry Garbutt saw the accident from the verandah of her home at 533 Chamberlen street. Her account of the precedents was more detailed, but of the fatality itself it was almost identical with the evidence of the other witnesses who saw it happen.

Mr. Kerr—"What chance did the driver of the coupe have to avoid hitting the little boy?"

Mrs. Garbutt—"He hadn't much chance. He didn't know he had struck the boy until he heard me scream and the children."

"Did you see anything for which the driver could be blamed?"

"No. Nothing."

"Looked So Small"

David Best, 16 Brown street, was sitting on the rear seat of the eastbound sedan. It was driven by his father-in-law, Mr. Winterbottom of West Chamberlen street.

"He looked so small standing in the middle of the road," Mr. Best told the court, relating the incident of the sedan's being stopped to avoid the boy. "I stepped out of the car, and just then his sister took him toward the north sidewalk. I din't say anything."

Felt No Bump

Donald White, 515 Bonaccord street, driver of the coupe, said he was a driver for the Canada Bread Company. He has a 1938 license and has been driving cars for five years. He is twenty-two years old.

"It was my idea to ask Mr. Manley to let me have his car while I made several deliveries in the south end," he said. "I was going about 20 to 25 miles an hour along Chamberlen street. There was a car coming from the west toward me and about in the centre of the road. I had to move over toward the north side of the road. I saw Mr. Moffatt's car about in front of his lane, and the other parked car, kind of a gray color, was about thirty feet farther to the west, but it was facing east. I passed Mr. Moffatt's car when the other one coming east was about opposite the gray car. My mind was partly on the car going east. All of a sudden I heard women screaming and kiddies yelling."

Mr. White said he passed the two parked cars about a foot or more out from them. "I looked out the back window, stopped and ran back. I saw the little boy, and as I knew I was driving the only car going west I assumed I had struck him."

Mr. Kerr—"Didn't you feel any bump?"

"No sir. I didn't know I had hit anybody till I heard the screaming."

"What prevented you from seeing the boy as he ran on to the road?"

"There was a parked car there, and I couldnt see him. If the grey car were parked facing west as it should, I might have seen him because the front part of it is quite low."

"What were you using the car for?"

"I had to deliver two loaves of bread, a fruit loaf and a cake."

Police Constable Archie Menzies tested the brakes of White's car when it was brought to the police station. "The foot brake was good," he said. "It stopped the car in 28 feet at 20 miles an hour with a slight pull to the right, but the emergency brake was no good."

George Manley, owner of the coupe, testified that White had asked him for the use of the car to deliver a few loaves of bread on his route. "He told me he had a chauffeur's license and showed it to me. I had previously driven with him when he had his new car, and he drove it all right. He called me after the accident, and I looked over the car, but I couldn't see a mark on it"

Other witneses were Muriel Hodgson, 531 Chamberlen street, and Joseph Mattuci, 530 Chamberlen street.

The personnel of the jury was: Harry Campbell, foreman, Charles Ireson, Ollie Taylor, Joseph Bolton, Earl Maniece, P. Coursey, Michael O'Brien, Sam Montgomery, Edward Armstrong, Joseph O'Dette and Michael English.

Shanghai Incident One Year Old Today

SHANGHAI, Aug. 10 (AP).—One year ago to-day a fight in Shanghai transformed the North China conflict with Japan into a big war.

The spark was struck when a Japanese naval sub-lieutenant and his chaffeur engaged in a gun battle with Chinese airdrome guards motoring along the west borders of the city, near Hungjao airdrome. The two Japanese and two Chinese were killed.

After the initial clash of troops one month earlier, on July 7 at Peiping, there had been hope the fighting would be limited to the northern provinces.

But for four days after the airfield incident, both Chinese and Japanese speeded armed forces into Shanghai. On Aug. 13 the storm broke, to continue until Shanghai was dominated by Japanese, the Chinese capital of Nanking captured, the centre of the country ravaged by warfare.

It continues now with Japan fighting along the upper Yangtse river, 110 miles below Hanow, the present provisional capital of China and current Japanese objective.

Trent River W. I. Invites Norwood Branch To Their August Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Aug. 10.—The August meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. S. Fennel on Friday afternoon with an attendance of fifteen members.

An invitation from the Trent River Society inviting the Norwood group to join with them at their meeting on August 11th and to provide musical selections for this occasion was accepted. The accounts were read and ordered to be paid. Mrs. George Bitten was appointed as local leader of the project for "Care of Clothing" on September 9, 30, and November 10, with Mrs. G. Hamblin as alternate.

Miss Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, addressed the meeting in the interests of their work and asked us to co-operate with them by holding a tag day. The address, given by Miss Young, was both interesting and helpful, giving the members a clear insight into the work of the Children's Aid Society.

Songs number thirty-one and seven on the song sheets were sung, following which the president, Mrs. Innes, gave a humorous reading. Mrs. Rothwell offered her home for the September meeting with Mrs. Thompson to be the convenor. The meeting was closed with the National Anthem.

Following the meeting a social hour was spent during which lunch was served and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Fennel.

Two Giant Racers Ready For Trials

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 10—(AP)—Two mechanical monsters, one tried and true, the other a new-comer, were groomed today for an assault on the world land speed record.

One was Captain George E. T. Eyston's Thunderbolt, holder of the measured mile record of 311.42 miles per hour.

The other was fur broker John R. Cobb's Railton, which made its maiden journey under its own power today and surprised even its pilot by accelerating to 250 m.p.h. on a three-mile sprint.

Drivers of these rivals for the world's most coveted speed title are fellow countrymen—from London.

The cars both have 24 cylinders, but the 14,000-pound Thunderbolt has a two-wheel drive, and the 7,000-pound Railton a four-wheel drive.

Eyston, with first call on the course until Aug. 25, is awaiting only dry track to attempt to boost his own mark to 330 m.p.h.

Cobb, erstwhile endurance run driver, and Reid Railton of London, created the new turtle-like machine, a light car as speedsters go, and relied upon downward air pressure to hold it on the track. The car was built to travel up to 350 m.p.h.

Bullet Ends Grizzly's Reign Of Terror

For six hours this 350-pound grizzly bear, escaping from the Pittsburg Zoo, after breaking inch-thick iron bars to win its freedom, terrorized an entire section of that city. Four bullets from the rifle of Arnold J. Schaumann, zoo superintendent, finally dropped the bear as it charged toward him when cornered in a culvert. A posse of amateur "big game" hunters and policemen armed with rifles and sub-machine guns had been formed to run it down. Schaumann and a police officer are shown examining the grizzly after its death.

Loyalists Spoil Franco's Summer

HENDAYE, France, Aug. 10—(CP)—Fighting for control of the west bank of the Ebro River in Catalonia dwindled into isolated engagements today, as insurgent and government armies alike sought rest.

Government forces seemed content to hold gains made at the start of their smashing offensive two weeks ago and to jockey for positions in the hills southwest of Gandesa—central point of the Ebro campaign—that the insurgents still hold.

After a series of engagements in which General Franco used up the forced he had planned to throw against Valencia, observers thought it would be months before he would be ready to resume the offensive.

Insurgent reports said 4,000 government troops had been killed and 4,000 captured when the government's northern flank was wiped out on the Ebro front 150 miles south of Barcelona, but government sources said the main purpose of wrecking Franco's summer plans was achieved.

Five Fire Rangers' Towers Continually Keep Watch On Peterborough and Hastings

Two New Towers Are Under Construction To Aid In Saving Trees

Towering hundreds of feet above the timber lands in the northern parts of Peterborough and Hastings Counties are five towers manned by fire rangers who constantly scan the horizon from dawn to dusk, guarding the vast timber lands and the many settlers in the district from forest fires. In their daily work they exemplify the motto "Eternal Vigilance is the Price of Safety" and their system of guarding, locating and fighting forest fires is one of the finest in the world.

Two other towers are now under construction, one at the Eagle's nest, Bancroft and the other at a spot known as the Hole in the Wall Hill near Glenmyer in Hastings County. At Gashell a tower destroyed by lightning during the severe storm which swept this district ten days ago is being replaced. District headquarters for Peterborough county, is at Apsley, where a private telephone system connects all towers.

Locating a Fire

The system of locating a fire once it has been spotted by a tower man is simple and may be done in a matter of seconds. On the wall in the Apsley headquarters is a map of the entire north country, on which is marked in bright ink the location of each fire tower. A circle marked in degrees covers each tower location, and hung by a small weight in the centre of the circle is a thumb tack on a string.

When one ranger phones that smoke is visible from his tower, he gives the despatcher the reading in degrees from his position. At his tower a large circle on a map also marked in degrees and always in a fixed position is used by the ranger along with a powerful telescope. The despatcher then pulls the thumb tack out of the centre of the tower reporting, and plugs the pin in the map several inches from the tower mark but along the degree line as reported by the ranger, the string serving as a guide. The despatcher then phones tw oor three other look-outs and if they are able to see the smoke gets a degree reading from each. If thay are all looking at the same fire, all string will cross in exactly the same spot. There lies the fire. The nearest ranger is then ordered to keep a close watch and if the smoke increases a crew is despatched to investigate and extinguish it.

Smokers Cause Most Fires

Barney Blasdorah, genial north country character who is despatcher at the Apsley station told reporters that smokers were responsible for the majority of the fires in Peterborough County last year with campers running a close second. Lightning, logging operations, prospectors, incendiarism, road construction and unknown causes were listed in the forestry records for the year.

At the Apsley station are two trucks, ten rangers who are on call at all times, two fire pumps, one being a Johnson and carefully stowed in racks are 2000 feet of two inch fire hose. Large pack sacks are among the equipment and are used to tote the heavy hose through swamps and wood to wherever a fire might be.

From May until the end of September the fire rangers keep their constant vigil. Added to this is the work of supervision, that is keeping tab on the whereabouts of campers who have obtained permits to camp in the timber-lands and who can be traced by the smoke from the cooking fires.

H. W. Crosbie of Tweed is District Forester and has authority over the entire northern layout. Chief Ranger is Milton Blough of Bancroft and Bert McIlmoyle of Apsley is Deputy Chief. The five towers closest to Apsley are as follows: Cardiff township, Haliburton, manner by Bill Kidd; Gull Lake, Reginald Madill; Methuen, Arthur Wilson; Dewdneys in Galway township, Archie Henderson and at Glamorgan in Haliburton, Bob Hunter and Art McCall take turns on the lookout perch.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

FIRE IN FLOWER SHOP

A fire at Turnbull's Flower shop on George street, brought firemen tumbling from their beds at 3.51 o'clock this morning. Caused by an overheated motor, the blaze was soon extinguished with little loss.

LANDS LARGE MUSKIE

At Percy Boom, on Highway No. 30, five miles south of Campbellford, on Monday, a maskinonge weighing 20 pounds, 41 inches in length and 16 in girth was caught by Harry Barrett of Warkworth.

SCATTERED SHOWERS.

Sometimes the weatherman forecasts scattered showers and on Tuesday afternoon Peterborough had an example. What was called a "good smart shower" 'of rain fell in the south end of the city while the centre and north did not get a drop.

MILK SALES

According to most recent government report 244,457 quarts of milk worth $26,524.96; and 3,374 quarts of cream worth $1,843.40 and 7,837 quarts of chocolate milk were sold in the Peterborough Sales area during the month of June. The sales include the city with the adjoining suburban consuming district.

IN NORTH COUNTRY.

A. E. Elliott, M.L.A. is on a ten-day trip through northern Ontario especially the Nipissing, Temaskiming, Sudbury, Parry Sound and Manitoulin Island areas. In a card to Dr. Ralph Honey he said he had a very interesting flying trip over the Timagami reserve.

POOL DESERTED.

The old adage that when the real McCoy comes to town the pretender hides behind false whiskers, is being proved these sunny summer days at the Y.M.C.A. The building that takes the place of summer when winter is here is as deserted as a mining town after the last gold has been panned. The swimming pool has been deserted for the waters of the Kawartha lakes. This morning in the main lobby there was only one member and not a sound came from the usually humming rooms adjoining.

GOOD DAY'S TRIP IN CITY.

You don't have to go out of the city to make a good day's trip, local taxi drivers say. Although the city is only about three miles in length, a night's steady driving through it will result in a fair day's travel. Darrell Rose has travelled 150 miles between seven in the evening and the early hours of morning without ever leaving the city limits. Rainy nights are the best for taxi owners, Sundays the poorest as a rule. Friday nights bring more customers than any regular week night, because that is the night people go to parties, dances, and bridge games Saturday is usually the latest night of all for drivers.

Farmers In Ops Hailed Out Ask Council Aid

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Aug. 10.—This week a deputation of farmers who suffered from the recent disastrous storm, waited on the Ops council with a view to securing assistance to tide them over until next year's crop. The council was very sympathetic towards the members of the deputation, and while finding itself powerless to render assistance, decided to memorialize the government to aid the sufferers in some way—providing them with sufficient feed for stock, etc. It is only by making a trip through the stricken area that one is able to realize the seriousness of the situation. Together with the destruction of barns, entire crops were hailed out, so that the farmers affected have practically nothing to garner in the fall. Some of the farmers who suffered loss are confronted with heavy obligations, so that the situation confronting them has evoked sympathy on all sides.

Magistrate Gee presided at Thursday's session of the police court, when F. Connors and H. McGinnis were charged with intoxication in a public place on Saturday night. The pair figured in a disturbance on Russell street east that evening and were gathered in by the police. O'Connor was fined $10.00 and costs. A two year old charge of consuming was also laid against McGinnis, and he was fined ten dollars and costs on two charges. The fines and costs totalled $27.50.

Bargain Day In Police Court Proves Very Costly Client and Counsel Discover

TOM CARLEY and his client, Izzie Botnick, may have got their heads together this morning after police court, and concluded they had actually got the worst of a deal with Magistrate Gee.

His Worship had deferred judgment on the charge of reckless driving against Mr. Botnick for colliding with a car driven by Alfred Hawkins at Monaghan Road and Cameron street on July 18. He found on the evidence that Mr. Botnick was guilty in that he had not exercised sufficient caution in turning off Cameron street; and His Worship also observed that Mr. Hawkins, as driver of the car at the right, had the right of way.

So, Magistrate Gee imposed a minimum fine of $10 and costs, and ordered suspension of Botnick's license for seven days. The costs seemed to be about four dollars. At that stage of the proceedings and with a lenient penalty in his favor, Mr. Botnick suggested to his counsel that the court reconsider the impounding of the car for a week, because he is an agent and uses it in his business.

The Magistrate hesitated for a moment, and then in his characteristic good nature he consented, saying, "All right but we'll charge the Crown's costs, too, to Mr. Botnick."

"How much will that be," the latter enquired of Mr. Carley and the question was relayed to the bench, and then the addition began, and the scales in which the deal might have been weighed began to turn against the Carley-Botnick combination.

Finally the costs mounted up to $16, making $26 altogether, including the $10 fine.

"I haven't the money; I can't pay it," Mr. Botnick whispered to Mr. Carley.

Mr. Carley always manages to smile when put on a spot like that, and in an off hand manner he proposed "that we trade back again, Your Worship, and you can suspend the license for a week, and Mr. Botnick will have only his own costs to pay. You know there is a lot of sales resistance these days, and my client wouldn't make that much in a week. He feels he might as well do without the car for the seven days."

Magistrate Gee, however, drew the line at further bargaining. He reminded Mr. Carley he had imposed the minimum fine of $10, although it could easily have been $20; that Mr. Botnick was being considerately treated; and that the deal would have to go through as Mr. Botnick had first proposd it.

That meant a total outlay of $26 by Mr. Botnick, and when he said, "I haven't that much," and His Worship evidently thought he meant he couldn't pay it, he added "In default of payment 20 days in jail." So it came dow nto impounding Mr. Botnick himself for 20 days or the car for 7. However, he produced $24, and His Worship told him he could have to the end of August to make up the balance of two dollars.

Canadian Pulpwood Going To Germany

SAINT JOHN, Aug. 10. (CP).—Record pulpwood exports continue to flow across the Atlantic from New Brunswick. More has passed through the Port of Saint John this season than in any previous years. A great quantity has been shipped from the Miramichi District on the north shore. And most of the shipments from this province have gone to Germany.

The freighter August Bolten sailed from Saint John yesterday with a pulpwood cargo for the Reich. The freighter Winterswijk is loading pulpwood here—also for Germany. More than 90,000 cords, it is estimated, will have been shipped from Saint John by the end of the summer season. About twenty-five freighters already have carried pulpwood cargoes from here.

Similar activity has been experienced at north shore ports. One pulpwood-laden freighter sailed from Bathurst Tuesday and two others were being loaded.

Most of the pulpwood shipped from Saint John has been exported by the Port Royal Pulp and Paper Company, Limited. Manager A. J. Lacroix said today two representatives of the pulpwood industry in Germany were stationed in New Brunswick and one at Portland, Me. These three men were agents for 95 per cent of the consumption of pulpwood in Germany, he said.

Germany made numerous products from pulpwood and allowed no waste, stated Mr. Lacroix. So far as munitions are concerned pulpwood can be made into gun cotton.

Greenwood Returning To Whitby To Unveil Window

Whitby, Aug. 9.

VISCOUNT Greenwood, Whitby's distinguished native son, will visit the place of his birth some time early in September, it was indicated here today.

The occasion of the visit of Viscount Greenwood will be the unveiling of a memorial window to his parents in All Saints' Anglican Church here. It has been revealed a stained glass window is to be placed in the church, and the Viscount has indicated his desire to attend its dedication.

Rev. E. Ralph Adye, rector of All Saints', revealed today that design of the window has been chosen and it will be ready for unveiling early in September.

Canadian Firm To Supply Planes To Britain – One Seen Over City

IF YOU SAW a brilliant yellow plane, streamlined at every point of its gleaming surface, speeding over the city on Tuesday afternoon, then you saw a ship that will soon be a familiar one to British aviators.

For it was a Canadian Cub, manufacturers of which are the Cub Aircraft Company of Hamilton. The British government has just placed an order for a large number of these planes, to be used in the heavily subsidized civil aviation industry in that country. Some will possibly be used in primary training in the Royal Air Force.

The plane that passed over Peterborough Tuesday was a demonstration plane the same in every detail as those to be supplied to England. It was enroute to Ottawa where it will take part in the opening of the Civic Airport there today. Flying it was Jack Gibson, brother of the president of the Cub Aircraft Company.

The plane is of the same make as that now being used by the Peterborough Air Service although it was mounted on wheels in place of floats. It is powered with a Franklin 50 h.p. motor, has a top speed of about 100 miles an hour, a cruising speed of around 90 m.p.h. It climbs spectacularly, gives a first class performance in the air, according to the Air Service's instructor, who took an Examiner reporter for a ride in it. The reporter, unversed in air knowledge, found it far advanced from older models. A two-seater cabin plane with dual controls for instruction purposes, it was the most comfortable airplane he had been in. Its seats were more comfortable, leg space was greater, there were no blind spots except at the floor.

Now Eyeing Japs Across Border

With the deadly snout of a machine-gun ready to spout flame and death at a moment's notice, this Soviet scout peers through his field glasses for the slightest sign of enemy activity. The picture was taken during manoeuvres near Moscow, but the scene is being repeated daily in grimmer surroundings along the Siberian-Manchoukuan border as Russian and Japanese troops clash in another "incident."

Police Probe Is To Be Resumed Thursday 10 a.m.

The police investigation by Judge E. G. Deroche of Belleville, assisted by C. G. Frost, of Lindsay, will be resumed Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. W. F. Huycke, city solicitor, told the Examiner today that Fred Lustic, wanted as a witness in connection with the Joseph Wheeler charges relating to a break-in at the F. & G. store at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets, returned to Peterborough last Friday and was locked up on a bench warrant issued by Judge Deroche to Sheriff Harstone.

Mr. Huycke said he had tried to communicate with Judge Deroche to have Mr. Lustic at liberty, as it was felt he would remain here, but that effort failed, and Lustic is being kept in jail, it was said, until the enquiry is continued Thursday.

It was learned that Mr. Lustic had applied for work here and was directed to Roseneath. Arriving there too late he went on to Belleville and eventually reached Guelph where, on the day the enquiry opened here, he was arrested on a nominal charge of vagrancy.

Won't Wed Sultan

Miss Lydia Cecily Hill, beautiful London actress, who was reported to be the prospectvie bride of the 64-year-old Sultan of Johore, has just reached Southampton after spending several weeks with her mother, as the Indian potentate's guest. Britain is reported to oppose the match, and there were tears in Miss Hill's eyes when the sultan bade her farewell as she boarded the ship which carried her back to England. Rumor hath it that the wedding will not take place.

The Rambling REPORTERS

DOUBLE SHIFT.

The busman on his holiday has a new angle in Peterborough now, and this office could do worse than place Sally on a double shift. When you phone the Examiner and hear a lilting voice say "Good Morning, Examiner," — that's our Sally. She says those words and a few others all day long, sits before a teelphone switchboard most of the day. So accustomed has she become to the telephone she finds difficulty getting away from one even when she is not working. Every night at home she sits by the hour in front of one, calling all her friends. When an Examiner reporter tried to reach her home last night it took him more than an hour to get the line. "Night is the only time I have to talk over a phone," Sally said.—P.

140 Attend 12th Grills Reunion

Plaudits For Queen Mary's Captain

Major Al. Williams, famous American speed flier, LEFT, is shown congratulating Commodore R .B. Irving of the liner Queen Mary, after the vessel had docked in New York at the end of westward Atlantic crossing completed in three days, 21 hours and 48 minutes. The time set a new record. To lift the blue pennant from the mast of the French liner Normandie, the British vessel clipped one hour and 14 minutes from the former's time.

Finds Scotland Delightful Land To Visit

Her seven weeks' trip to the Old Country convinced Miss Marion Armstrong that trans-Atlantic travel is safe for unaccompanied girls if they know their way around, she remarked to the Examiner to-day in recollections of England, Scotland and France that left familiar George street rather commonplace. Not that she was alone on most of her sojourn, but the experience of shifting for herself at times in strange and foreign places was facilitated by the care and help extended by travel agencies, boat and train officials, and kindly people along the way.

"Especially in Scotland," Miss Armstrong said, "I found the Scottish people the most friendly, eager to direct you, in fact in some instances they went blocks out of their way to make sure I reached the right station. Scotland appealed to me most, too, because it appeared more like Canada, especially the hills. I wished I could have remained all summer. Persons I met, and also from what I heard, left the impression that Canadians are particularly well liked in both Scotland and England."

Paris and the Louvre, the Champs Elysees, boulevard refreshments, and all the attractions that appeal to tourists across the channel are still fresh in Miss Armstrong's memory, and another observation she mentioned was the general custom in England and Scotland of everybody having some holiday outing during the summer, even those on the dole. Apparently this holiday arrangement is a fixed institution that is not disrupted by dependence on the government for funds, although the period of the vacation may be reduced.

Young Man Placed On Probation Term

A youth's petty theft of a pair of boots from in front of a local store thrust him into the police court this morning to his father's keen embarrassment. His only explanation was that he had been drinking and picked up the boots on display outside a Hunter Street store probably with the intention of selling them. Magistrate Gee decided to place the young man on probation for two years, with his promise not to touch liquor during that time, ordered him to report once a month to Chief Newhall. The personal bonds by father and son were for $500 and $250.

An Inverlea Park drunk contributed $14.50 to the court's credit.

One night recenti ya commercial traveller who had imbibed of beer was passing the American Hotel on Hunter Street. Several other men were standing there. A stray and trustful dog sniffed up to them and one of the men kicked it on to the road.

"Kicking your superior," commented the traveller either in rashness or courage. The brave worthies who put the boot to the dog, outnumbering the stranger, threatened to take a poke at him, and they did. When he got away from them he went to his car and while sitting in it at the curb was taken sick.

That spasm attracted Sergeant Thompson and Constable John Rogers and the traveller was taken to the police station. He was accused this morning of having been drunk in charge of a car, even if it wasn't in motion.

"I think we'll give the accused the benefit of a doubt," Magistrate Gee said, "and let him go this time." T. J. Carley defended him.

Veteran From Buffalo Bisons Helps Put Yawkey's Red Sox Back In American League Running

Plays Big Part In Boston's 16-4 Win Over The Athletics

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(CP)—The youth-must-be-served idea in baseball is a good one as far as it goes, but occasionally an old guy comes along with all the answers needed to decide the pennant question.

Right now it's 38-year-old Bill Harris, just up from Buffalo, who may put the Boston Red Sox back into the middle of the American League scrap.

Harris, acquired last week to help out the younger Boston hurlers, limited the Athletics to 10 hits, fanned five and came up with a 16-4 victory in his first start yesterday. The Sox batted out all their runs in the last three innings as Rookie Jim Tabor socked a homer with the corners crammed in the big seventh.

The veteran right hander had a trial with Cincinnati in 1923, and was a 30-year-old "rookie" when he came up to Pittsburgh in 1931. He served mostly as a "finisher" there, and earned his nickname of "Hard Luck" Harris when he managed to win more games than he lost only one season in four.

Yankees Fall 4-2

Yesterday's victory came in a good spot, for the league-leading New York Yankees took a 4-2 setback from Washington when Ken Chase set them down with six hits and drove in the winning run in the ninth inning. Cleveland's second place Indians split a double-header with the Browns losing the first game, 4-3 when Howard Mills outlasted Bob Feller, then winning the second 8-1 on a five run inning marked by Bruce Campbell's four bagger.

Those results put Boston 6½ games behind New York and 1½ behind Cleveland.

Cubs Blank Reds 3-0

In the National League, Chicago Cubs made the best gain when they whipped Cincinnati 3-0 in a mound duel between Larry French and Paul Derringer, and broke a tie for third place.

Pittsburgh's league leaders downed St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 when big Russ Bauers hurled a two-hit game, facing only 31 batters, and won it himself in the third when he singled and progressed home on Lee Handley's double and Lloyd Waner's base hit. The second-place New York Giants snapped their losing streak to beat Boston 5-4 with a three-run seventh and some nice relief flinging by Dick Coffman.

Detroit Tigers, held to four hits by Jack Knott, beat Chicago White Sox 4-1 when Rudy York belted his 23rd homer with two mates on deck. Brooklyn Dodgers hammered out a 9-6 decision over the Phillies.

Cricket Results

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(CP Cable.)—Surrey climbed a notch to third position in the English county cricket championship Tuesday with a decisive 200-run victory over Middlesex, in the runner-up position. Lancashire dropped to fourth position although victorious on the first innings over Nottinghamshire.

The group-leading Yorkshire eleven increased its lead yesterday—one day ahead of schedule—with a 210-run decision over Derbyshire.

In other games concluded to-day Warwickshire triumphed over the bottom - placed Northants team by eight wickets, Sussex defeated Kent by an innings and 16 runs and Gloucestershire, behind on the first innings, edged out a 44-run margin over Hampshire.

The Leicestershire-Worcestershire match was abandoned due to rain. Leicestershire compiled a first-innings score of 136 while Worcestershire had scored 82 runs for three wickets when the contest was called. Somerset gained first-innings points from Glamorgan.

The touring Australians, aided by powerful batting by Sidney Barnes and C. L. Badcock, triumphed over Durham by an innings and 179 runs in their two-day first-class fixture. The Aussies declared their innings and 380 for five, Barnes compiling 140 not out and Badcock 103 not out.

Durham's totals were 105 and 96. L. O. B. Fleetwood-Smith and W. J. O'Reilly each accounted for 10 wickets. Fleetwood-Smith's wickets came at a cost of 90 runs while O'Reilly spread-eagled 10 for 67.

Glamorgan 110 and 234; Somerset 147 and 51 runs for one wicket; at Weston.

A Record Entry

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10.—(AP).—Three hundred and twenty-one of this year's two-year-old thoroughbreds were nominated for next spring's 49th running of the Preakness, Maryland's greatest and richest race, Pimlico officials announced to-day.

Warming Up

Despite poor conditions on the salt flats of Bonneville, Utah, John Cobb, ABOVE, British race driver, sent his 3,500 pound front drive car hurtling over a measured stretch at 250 m.p.h. as he prepared for his attempt to shatter the world's land speed record, now held by Capt. Geo. Eyston, also in Utah for an attempt to break his own mark.

Deloro Beats Loop Leaders 2 Goals to 0

Deloro pulled a great surprise in local soccer, last night, when they trounced the Brinton Athletic,—league leaders,—by the score two goals to nil, in a game that was full of thrills. Brown's opening counter with his head was a smart goal. Jack Hart, Jr., scoring from a penalty. Brinton scored a goal in the first half, but the official referee would not allow the count because the ball hit the whistle out of his hand to divert it into the net away from the goalie who was set to clear and immediately appealed the decision.

Aggressive Tactics

The spin of the coin fell in favor of the Brintons but Deloro introduced the long swinging style of playing to offset the keen tactics of the locals thereby compelling the fullbacks to revert to first time clearances. Twice did Todd, on left wing, make progress against the Deloro defence to find Gray tackling at the first opportunity to spoil his effort. While on the other side of the field, Clark was battling hard to get an opening and kept sending shots across the goal mouth where W. Hart and Townson, fullbacks, intercepted at the logical moment. The Brinton added pressure to their attack but found the visiting halves dominating the situation. Cousins covered a lot of hard work which ultimately permitted Elliott, on right wing, to break fast but his parting shot was skyward. Then Norm O'Neill came into the limelight through his speedy recovery while in possession of the ball and received two fruitless flag kicks that Brooks diverted over the bar. Throughout this period, the Brintons endeavored to settle down to their close passing game that resulted in Deloro intercepting the movement. All the loctal forwards were down in the Deloro goal where scrimmage after scrimmage ensued until Sproul gathered up a loose ball to send his left winger away to the Brinton goal. Hart, Jr., worked two flag kicks off his opponents to finally make it successful by landing a perfect cross to Brown's head who diverted the sphere into the corner of the net. Half Time — Deloro 1. Brinton Athletic 0.

Changed Team Fails

On resuming, a re-arranged team by the Brinton executive failed to produce a scoring attack although it was not the fault of the pivot who was making openings galore for the inside men. The Brinton forwards kept up a steady barrage on O'Neill's charge who was unbeatable. Twice did Newt Downer manouver his position to send lightning drives into goal where the Deloro custodian seemed to pull the ball out of the air from under the bar. Twice did he save rocket drives from close range. Eventually Cousins and W. Hart dribbled their way up-field where Brooks connected with a fast grounder over to outside right who forced his opposing fullback to give away a penalty kick. Jack Hart, drove hard from the spot to pick the inside of the upright. The Brinton goalie fell upon the ball but not sufficient to prevent the count. At this set-back, another change in the local line-up caused some anxious moments in the Deloro territory. The defense kicking to touch to save their goal. Towards the end, it reverted in a kick-and-rush style that was only productive of interest around the goal. Brinton tried hard to save themselves from being white-washed but Deloro held their count of two goals to nil at the finish.

Deloro: J. O'Neill, goal; J. Townson and W. Hart, fullbacks; P. Gray, T. Cousins and J. Sproul halves; R. A. Elliott, W. Bradley, G. Brooks, W. Brown and J. Hart forwards. Subs: N. O'Neill.

Brinton Athletic: J. Adams, Jr., goal; A. Todd and A. Downer fullbacks; Art Downer, E. Jones and J. McLeod halves; S. Clark, H. Castle, N. Downer, F. Todd and G. Downer full backs.

Referee: J. Parry. Linesmen: W. Curtis and B. McMaster.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

WHO SHOULD BLOW into the office the other day but Frankie Whitehouse? And the former star southpaw had been reading about the good showing by the old boys in the Canadian Corps re-union ball team and he wondered if maybe the same sort of thing couldn't be put on in a small way right here in Peterborough, including Ashburnham—we insist upon that. Frank felt that there were enough former diamond greats here, who were still in fair shape, to give the local ball team quite a game. Personally, we believe that the oldtimers had better stay retired and not try to pull a comeback as more than one pitcher—and catcher—has gone to the well too often. In their prime these birds might have licked heck out of the locals—or they might have been beaten—but it is open to argument. And you can't argue with Father Time.

* * * * * * *

HOWEVER, that is our own feeling. If these starry veterans are willing to return to the fray and battle the present-day Petes, we're all for it. Just as a suggestion, we'd nominate Heckman, Hardill and Whitehouse for mound duty, with Swanston and Ross for catchers. Or Hap Wilgar. We'd say Ash, Harrison, Ray Rose, Lornie Rose, Holyman and Johnston for the infield. And Hall, McCarney and Jackson for the outfield. These are all big baseball names here and there are plenty others—which we don't recall at the moment—and in their prime they'd make a formidable team. But this is 10 to 15 years past their prime. Or so we think, as a young punk. But we are willing to bet a fin, if we can dig one up, that the oldtimers are too smart to trot out against the present players. They might or might not beat 'em in their prime, but they certainly wouldn't stand a chance today.

* * * * * * *

A Crack At Arithmetic

AND TONIGHT we are running the Petes' averages for the season. It wasn't much of a season, with Kingston being tossed out, but they are being published anyway. Nothing much to brag about; with McNally copping honors for hitting and pitching, and Calladine for fielding. Incidentally, Bill fell down on hitting this year as did several others of the regulars. Kearns did his best batting since he came to Peterborough. And Doll did okay, while Cadd—in his first year—made a pretty fair showing. The Petes will have to do better to win the loop title and hit into Ontario playdowns. We have the local box scores as well as the Ponies' and Oshawa averages in case anyone wants to check further on these figures.

THIS EDITORIAL from the Detroit Times might be interesting to ball fans: "Mickey Cochrane leaves the Tigers assured of one thing—that is he will survive as the most colorful player in Detroit history with the exception of the immortal Ty Cobb. Indeed they are a great deal alike, Cobb and Cochrane. Both had competitive spirit of the highest order. Both gave the utmost of themselves in every game. Both were turbulent, fiery, reckless of mood and deadly dangerous in crises. Already the feats of Cobb are legendary. Cochrane will become part of the same legend. Fans long years hence will recall how he galloped home with the winning run of the 1935 World Series. Mickey is a good sportsman. Probably no one in Detroit will pull harder for Del Baker than he to succeed in moulding a winning ball club."

Please, Suh, We're Innocent

FROM HAMILTON, home of the O.B.A. secretary, comes word that no more permits will be granted O.B.A. teams to play the House of David pros till further notice. On account of, says the sec., the Peterborough team used a Belleville player without permission in their exhibition against the bewhiskered brethren from Benton Harbor. We beg to take issue with the O.B.A. secretary in this respect. The Petes didn't use a Belleville player, it was the Davids who used young Lefty Noakes here in the second struggle. And he came here on his own hook. The Davids' manager told us the kid had asked him if he could go around with the team for a trial and the pilot said oke, but without paying him anything. "He isn't good enough to carry, so we'll ship him home after another game," said the bearded squad's skipper.

PREXY KEN COLLING of the Bay of Quinte intermediate ball loop—he's head umps in the C.O.B.L., too, as well as sports scribe in Belleville (boy, is he important!)—is on the spot again. Kingston Locos refused to show up for a game in Belleville the other day for some reason or other, and now the Bellevillains have claimed the contest by default and also the deposit. Leaving 'em on top of the heap, ahead of the Gibbards of Napanee. We fear it will take some prolific penmanship by our steamed—er, that is esteemed—contemporary to wiggle clear of this jam. A prophet is without profit in his own country, and an umpire is without honor in any clime!

Such a Thing To Do

IT WAS quite scandalous over at the Ashburnham Bowl yester p.m. what Westclox gals did to C.G.E. Yep, the Armour Hill maidens rubbed the Electrics right out of the softball picture for this year and they used a big 17-4 eraser to do it. Playing fine soccer, the C.G.E. colleens kicked the turnip all over the real estate whilst the winners grabbed everything with gusto, showing neat fielding. Both hurlers were hit freely in this struggle. It ends the C.G.E. team for the year, putting Westclox into league finals against Keene. First game was billed for tonight but Ivan Fletcher can't be here for the game, so it was called off. Loop officials will decide tonight where and when the playoff tussles will be held. We dunno how many contests are listed in this payoff serial.

NEXT MEN'S SOFTBALL scrap is slated for the saucer in East City, a newly-skinned diamond, Thursday in the twilight at seven. With Omemee meeting Motorists in a most informal manner. At seven o' clock if the O's are on time. Then Motorists play Westclox on Saturday e'en. It's a round-robin series of six games, team finishing on top heading into O.S.A. playdowns. Local winnah will be in Oshawa the 26th and here against Oshawa the 30th. That's the first round of O.S.A. playdowns, and the Peterborough-Oshawa emerger gets a bye in the second round, but will be in the zone finals against one of these three, Kingston, Point Anne and Belleville. Ah, weel, let's not get our neck in a knot trying to squint around the corner till we reach it.

Greyhound Takes $3,500 Trot Derby After Getting Scare

GOSHEN, N.Y., Aug. 10. (AP).—Greyhound, world's record-holding trotter, from E. J. Baker's St. Charles, Ill., Stable, came through with his fourth victory of the year Tuesday at Good Time Park's Grand Circuit meeting, but not until he had been given a bad scare in the first heat.

The 6-year-old gelding, which lowered the world mile mark to 1:56 last year, just managed to get up in the first mile of the $3,500 Trotting Derby to gain a head decision over Gibson White's Rosalind, winner of the 1936 Hambletonian. In the second and final test, however, the Grey Ghost left Rosalind and his two other rivals far behind.

Sep Palin sent Greyhound over the first mile in 2:02, with Rosalind showing the way to the final strides. In the final test Palin took no chances. He drove Greyhound into the lead at the word "go," and easily held sway. He was clocked in 1.59¼.

Nibble Hanover, owned by Dunbar Bostwick, laid claim to the 2-year-old championship after winning the $3,000 Good Time Stake from thirteen other juveniles.

After bowing to Dr. L. M. Gullinger's Peter Astra of Andover, Ohio, in the first heat, Nibble Hanover took the next two under the guidance of Harry Whitney. H. M. Parshall set Peter Astra over the first mile in 2:05½, the fastest time turned in by a 2-year-old this year, but she broke in the second and again in the third, when she was battling Bostwick's colt for the lead in the stretch. The winner was clocked in 2:08 in the second and 2:08½ in the third after trotting the middle half in a minute flat.

Felled by a fast ball thrown by Johnny Gee, Syracuse pitcher, Woody Abernathy, ABOVE, outfielder with Buffalo Bisons in the International league, is in a critical condition in a Syracuse hospital. An emergency operation was performed but it will be some days before he is out of danger. Doctors say he will never play ball again.

Seven Score 68 Out Of 70 In Rifle Test

CONNAUGHT RIFLE RANGES, SOUTH MARCH, Ont., Aug. 10.—(CP).—Seven Canadian marksmen Tuesday posted scores of 68 of a possible 70 in the Walker Cup match at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association annual meet, necessitating a shoot-off for the D.C.R.A. silver medal, Thursday.

The seven were: Private A. O. Hutchinson, Fergus; C. M. Shaw, Saint John; Aircraftsman D. Spence, Vancouver; Lieutenant C. B. Higgins, Halifax; C.S.M. H. Rusk, Ottawa; Sergeant C. E. Moore, Lascelles, Que., and Lieutenant C. E. Kennedy of Hilden, N.S.

Hutchinson and Shaw scored possibles at the 500-yard range and 33 points, two short of possible, at the 300. Spence and Higgins posted score of 34 each at the two ranges, while Rusk, Moore and Kennedy had scores of 33 at the longer range and possibles at the 300.

Second Tie Match.

It was the second tie match of the day's firing, Private T. H. Kirkman of Toronto and Corporal M. M. Morgan of Winnipeg having posted scores of 96 in the Bankers' Match. They will shoot off to-day for the the Patterson Trophy.

However, in the two matches, distribution of prize money was decided by placements of shots by the competitors. In the Bankers' Match, Kirkman won top money when he scored four bullseyes on the last of his ten shots, whereas Morgan scored a magpie, two bullseyes and an inner on his last four shots. First prize money in the Walker Match went to Hutchinson.

Grenadiers Second.

The team prize in the Bankers' Match was won by the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada when its team, composed of Capt. Lucas, C.S.M. N. J. McLeod, Sergt. W. C. Morrish and Lieut. H. D. Whitehead, scored 371 points. The Royal Regiment of Toronto Grenadiers was second with 368, five more than the Royal Winnipeg Rifles team, in third place.

Bill Calladine Leads Fielding With Perfect Mark In 8 Games Cadd Leads In Runs Batted In

In his first season in a Peterborough uniform, Frank (Lefty) McNally led the locals in batting with .364 and topped the twirlers with three wins in as many starts. Official C.O.B.L. averages for the scheduled games, the exhibitions and playoff tussles not being included, show McNally leading the league in pitching and fifth for batting. Bill Calladine led the Petes in fielding with a perfect mark in eight games,, and Cadd showed the way in runs batted in.

The C.O.B.L. season in 1938 was a disappointing one, with Kingston Ponies dropping out halfway through after an O.B.A. suspension for using ineligible players. Oshawa GM-men and the Petes cut their remaining schedule short, filled in with exhibition fixtures, and arranged a lengthy play-off series. The Petes had a total of nine C.O.B.L. games, outside of the opening playoff number last week, and their club batting average was .241, and the club fielding mark .934 for that period.

FRANK McNALLY

Following are the Petes batting averages:—

	G.	AB.	R.	1B.	2B.	3B.	HR.	SB.	SH.	P.C.
McNally	4	11	4	4	0	0	0	2	0	.364

Doll	5	19	2	4	2	0	0	1	0	.316
Starr	2	7	0	2	0	0	0	0	1	.286
Burton	9	32	2	7	0	1	0	2	0	.250
Cadd	9	32	0	6	1	1	0	1	1	.250

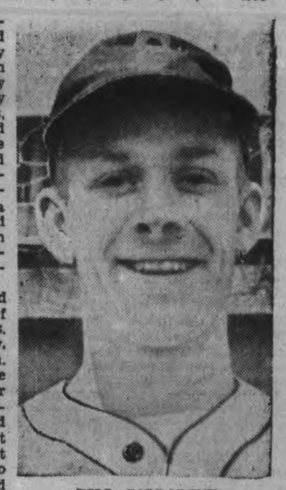
Jakafby	3	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	.000
Whitehill	5	8	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	.000

Cliff Cadd led the way for Peterborough this season in runs batted in during league fixtures, the lanky first-sacker driving home five in nine tilts. Al Clark followed closely with four, while Murphy, McNally and Doll had two each ,and Kearns, Burton, Calladine, Kitchen and Deadey one apiece. Two locals were hit by pitched balls, Deadey and Whatley. The Petes left 59 stranded on the sacks in their nine contests or about five and a half a game. Five double plays were pulled off by local infielders, with Cadd in on the five, Clark on four, Calladine three, and Murphy and Kingdon one each.



BILL CALLADINE

A number of the Murphy clan had perfect fielding marks but most of them took part in only a few games. None of the twirlers, but McNally, had an error in league competition. Whatley and Cadd had far more chances afield than any of their teammates and committed comparatively few miscues. While Doll and Murphy were well down in the list defensively, it must be recalled that both were hustling infielders who tried for everything and who had one bad game each during which they amassed three boots apiece.

The fielding averages:—

	G.	PO.	A.	E.	P.C.
Calladine	8	4	19	0	1.000
Jakafby	3	2	6	0	1.000
Kingdon	2	2	5	0	1.000

Hollingsworth	3	1	0	0	1.000
Starr	2	1	0	0	1.000

Clark	9	14	26	5	.889
Murphy	7	19	14	6	.846
Doll	5	4	12	4	.800

In the pitching department, Frank (Lefty) McNally hung up a perfect mark in three starts, winning them all as he allowed about two runs a game, six hits and fanned an average of nine. Russ Kitchen was next in line, but had two league losses chalked up agaist him. The averages:

'I'm Just Through' Says Cochrane

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 — (AP) — "Iron Mike" Cochrane, deposed manager of Detroit Tigers, met his successor, Del Baker, in the lobby of an hotel Tuesday.

They shook hands, talked briefly and parted, Cochrane to take his daughter to a movie, and Baker to lead the Tigers at Comiskey Park in a game with the White Sox. Cochrane left last night for Cody, Wyoming, for a three weeks' fishing trip.

Asked what happened, Cochrane laughed and said:

"I guess the team was losing. I told them to pay me up for this year and they could have next year's salary. I'm just through. A has-been. When it happened to Charlie Grimm right here, I thought I had an inkling of something coming on to me."

A Calgary Kick

CALGARY, Aug. 10 — (CP). — Greater representation for Calgary on the programs of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is urged in a resolution adopted by city council last night.

"Calgary is being treated as though it were not on the map," charged Alderman H. R. Chauncey. Vancouver gets 40 programs a week, Calgary none, he told the Council meeting.

LESS THAN $100,000 GATE EXPECTED FOR THE AMBERS FIGHT

Armstrong's Welter Title May Be At Stake

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP).—Henry Armstrong, a little brown windmill—or call him a buzz-saw because he's the fellow who punched Barney Ross loose from the welter crown at 90 blows a round—climbs into the Polo Grounds ring tonight, gunning for lightweight champion Lou Ambers and his third title in 10 months.

The 135-pound Ross enters the 15-round fray the underdog. Ambers has seldom been the favorite and the odds are 3 to 1 and 16 to 5 for Henry to strip the "Herkimer Hurricane" of his lightweight crown and become the first fighter to hold three championships simultaneously.

Victory for Armstrong, the featherweight ruler, would also make him the first Negro lightweight king since that July 4 night 30 years ago when the immortal Joe Gans was shorn of his laurels by Battling Nelson. It would make Henry, on paper at least, the greatest fighting man between 118 pounds, the bantam top, and 147.

But as a box office draw the fight is ordinary. If it goes $100,000 promoter Mike Jacobs may thank his lucky stars. He even may do that if it grosses $75,000 with the lightweight champion taking 37½ per cent and Armstrong 22½.

Under a special clause in the fight contract, Ambers will have no claim on Armstrong's welter title, should he win. Henry's featherweight title is out of consideration of course. But there has been considerable talk of Ambers being generally recognized by the public and the national boxing association as the welter boss should he pass Armstrong.

This is Henry's 39th fight in 18 months, only three of which went the route as he scored 27 consecutive knockouts. He won the featherweight title last Oct. 31 from Petey Sarron in six rounds and trounced Ross for the Welter crown last May.

Against this Ambers has had 82 fights over six years. He won 49 by decisions, 21 knockouts, dropped five verdicts and fought seven draws.

Champion War Canoe and Doubles Singles Winner

The climax of the competitive season in Canadian canoeing circles was reached with the holding of the Dominion championships in Kingston. The most coveted title, the mile war canoe championship, was captured by Carleton Place, paddling its way to its first win in C.C.A. competition since 1920. After one false start, the winning team took an early lead and were never headed, winning in 6:46. The conquering 15-man crew is shown ABOVE. Alongside is Bill Russell, of Toronto Canoe Club, who turned a neat trick by winning both the junior and intermediate singles titles. He was left at the post in the junior event, but battled through to nose out Behan of Sudbury.

Blinded In World War, English Doctor Acquires Remarkable Skill At Golf

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—He plays golf in the low eighties.

He drives and puts with the assurance of a man on his game.

He flubbs a shot whenever he "takes his eyes off the ball."

Yet Dr. W. H. J. Oxenham, visiting his brother here, cannot see anything, believe it or not.

Since a day on the Somme in 1917, when a German shell blotted out the French sunshine, Dr. Oxenham has struggled in perpetual darkness.

"When I was blinded, the loss of sight itself was less important than the loss of independence," Dr. Oxenham explains his achievements. "I decided I must not become dependent on others to lead me through life. And golf is the final expression of my desire to minimize my handicap."

Golfer by Accident

Dr. Oxenham, whose home is at Hove, England, became a golfer less through design than through accident. He went to a golf course five years ago to meet a friend, suggested he wanted to whack the ball himself.

"Why not?" agreed the friend, who showed his blind acquaintance how to hold the club, told him what to do.

As chance would have it, the ball flew straight down the fairway. Dr. Oxenham holed out in a par four. And another golfer was born. Within four months he had achieved a club handicap of 20, and he frequently shoots in the low 80's.

His first demonstrations over here have confirmed his reputation as a marvel of the golfing world. Except when his caddy and chauffeur, George Rennie, who accompanied him from England, lines up the shots, there is little to set Dr. Oxenham apart from others on the course. He is slender and athletic, even youthful in appearance. He wears smoked glasses, such as anyone might wear in the open. When following the ball, he strikes along briskly, Rennie and he holding a club tandem.

Example of Concentration

His remarkable playing demonstrates that concentration is the biggest factor in golf. His form might shock a sensitive pro, but it is the form adapted to the limitations of his game. Sheer concentration and willingness to follow the description of the play given by his caddy have enabled the sightless player to beat expert opponents.

He not only has learned golf and osteopathy since he was blinded Dr. osteopathy since he was blinded; Dr. family of three children, oldest of whom is 17. He is accompanied by his wife on his tour, and will be joined by his son now that school is out.

Westclox Girls Rub Out C.G.E.

Westclox girls defeated C.G.E. 17 to 4, last night at the Bowl before a big crowd to win the second-half playoff series in two straight games and qualify for the final series against Keene. They meet Keene tonight at seven in the Bowl in the first playoff tilt. Last night's fray was one-sided all the way with C.G.E. playing bad ball and Westclox in top form. They kicked in with eight errors as M. McCarthy was hit hard over most of the route. The winners played perfect defensive ball to back up fair twirling by Barb Blade. There were few strikeouts or walks issued.

Marie Ferguson of Westclox belted a homer and single as M. Hawthorne, J. Corley, A. Sturgeon and D. Botting got two hits apiece. For C.G.E., M. McCarthy banged out three hits with P. Bigelow, I. McCrank and A. DeCarlo getting two apiece for the losers. Several nice fielding plays were turned in, particularly a running catch early in the tussle by Dot Merrett in left for the victors. Toronto Splits Double Bill With the Bears

TORONTO, Aug. 10. (CP).—Everytime some oracle proclaims that baseball has been taken over by the hitters, the pitchers' union rebels and well-pitched ball games bounce up all over the baseball map.

The majors did it yesterday and the International kept pace last night with five games in which the pitchers were supreme.

Newark and Toronto split a doubleheader, the Leafs winning 5-2 and then bowing in young Marius Russo's 15th triumph, 4-1; while Rochester's Ken Raffensberger blanked the Jersey City Giants, 1-0 only to have the Giants win the second game 2-1.

Montreal took its first game with Syracuse, 2-1, but the Chiefs clubbed out an 8-5 win in the second. Buffalo and Baltimore also split, the Bisons winning 11-4 and losing to the Flock 5-4 in the nightcap.

Russo, to whom New York Yankees look to take up the slack when Vernon Gomez fades, was supreme all the way. He fanned 11 Leafs, allowed only three hits and blanked the Toronto club from the second inning on.

Raffensberger came up with the best game of the night when he blanked the Giants with two hits in the seven-inning opener. He fanned three and walked only one. Then big Tom Baker, who is beginniog to live up to his early promise,, halted the Wings with six hits in the nightcap. He fanned nine.

Japan and Australia To Meet Thursday In Second Round Of Davis Cup Series

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—(CP).— A quartet of tennis aces from the other side of the world was ready today to carry the hopes of Japan and Australia into the final round of Davis Cup play in the North American zone.

Draw for the series that starts here to-morrow and continues until Saturday will be made to-day at Mount Royal Tennis Club where two weeks ago Japan eliminated Canada in five straight matches.

Fumiteru Nakano and Jiro Yamagishi, the steady duo that ousted the Dominion's players, and Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist, ranking Australians, are expected to be the names in the hat for the open-players likely will team up for the players likely will team up for the doubles as well.

The Australians, who arrived here a week ago after qualifying for the final by eliminating Mexico 5-0, are favoured to win the series and meet Germany, European zone champions, for the right to challenge the cup-holding United States team.

Births Marriages Deaths

In Memoriam
Cards of Thanks.

BORN

COLBECK.—On Tuesday, August 9, at Oshawa General Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd H. Colbeck (nee Marjorie Turner), a son.

IN MEMORIAM

WELLS.—In loving memory of W. T. Wells, who passed away five years ago, August 10, 1933.
—Ever remembered by Mr. and Mrs. J. Cairns and family, and old friends.

CHAPMAN.—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Henry Chapman, who passed away August 10, 1933.
Time takes away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Ever remembered by Wife and Family.

BROWN.—In loving memory of my dear Husband, W. F. Brown, 191 Dublin street, who passed away eight years ago to-day, August 10, 1930.
I will build a boat of dreams,
And sail beyond the years,
Across the bright and dreamless past,
Upon a sea of tears;
Beyond the moon and past the sun,
Where purple shadows lie,
And past the hills of youth and joy—
Where day lies down to die,
Until I find that stream again,
Where we as sweethearts met,
And on its bank perhaps I'll find
A charm to still regret;
Regret that Love has spent its flame,
And youth grown pale and wan.
Perhaps I'll find old faces there,
Long since I looked upon.
For I am weary of the strife
Of endless nights and days,
So I'll go seeking you, my love,
A-down the old, old ways.
To gaze upon your face once more,
To search your eyes again,
To find there shining in their depths
The balm for old, old pain.
—Sadly missed, always remembered by wife Emma, and son Lynn.

FORSYTHE.—In fond and loving memory of a dear son and brother, Douglas Lorne Forsythe, who departed this life, August 10, 1936.
Time speeds on, two years have passed
Since death, its gloom, its shadows cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will;
His vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in Heaven we will meet again.
—Ever remembered by Father, Mother, Brothers and Sisters.

FORSYTH.—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Douglas Lorne Forsyth, who died August 10, 1936.
The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still;
But death has left an aching void,
The world can never fill.
The midnight stars are shining,
Upon your silent grave,
Beneath sleeps the one we love,
The one we could not save.
—Lovingly remembered by Wife and Children.

CARD OF THANKS

New Mine Sweeper To Patrol Off B.C.

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 10, (CP).—The hull of a new Canadian minesweeper sped down the ways of a north Vancouver shipyard with a prayer from Mrs. J. W. de B. Farris, wife of Senator Farris of Vancouver, that "this ship will sweep away the thought of war from all the seas of the Empire."

Shrill sirens and deep-throated roars from ships in Vancouver harbor mingled with the cheers of spectators as H.M.C.S. Comox felt the sea on her keel yesterday for the first time.

Stubby and grey, 150 feet in length, the Comox was the second of four Canadian minesweepers now under construction to be launched. Only last week a sister ship was launched in a St. Lawrence shipyard, while the other two are still on their ways at Esquimalt, B.C., and in Ontario.

When he engines, powered to give her a speed of from 12 to 14 knots, have been fitted, the Comox will be ready to act in the service of Canadian citizens in peace-time and war.

Fight Fire in Peacetime

While the country is at peace, the sturdy vessel will patrol British Columbia coasts, act as a fire boat for protection of shipping and equipment in Vancouver and perform other duties.

Equipped with one or two anti-aircraft guns and one four-inch gun as well as depth charges and mine-laying and mine-sweeping equipmet, she will be prepared to take part in the defence of Canada's Pacific coast during any future war.

The Dominion's minister of national defence, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, was on hand for the launching as were leaders of British Columbia affairs. Representatives of the provincial legislature, of various municipalities, and the Canadian and British navies attended the ceremony.

The launching, said Mr. Mackenzie, was a demonstration of the fact Canada was "sea-conscious," that "we keenly realize the importance of the seas to our commerce and industry."

Two Hook One Fish

PENN YAN, N.Y., Aug. 10 (AP).—It took two fishermen, two poles and two lines to land a two pound black bass. John Carpenter said today he was fishing with Evelyn Askey, when Miss Askey got a strike. While she let the line remain slack a few seconds Carpenter also got a strike. When they pulled in their lines both were attached to the same bass.

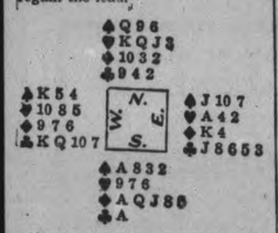
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT TO EXPECT

WHEN YOUR side has bid three suits, the remaining one is almost sure to be led if you wind up playing a no-trump game contract. It is therefore incumbent upon you to beware of that declaration unless you are prepared to care for whatever risks are involved in that lead. Usually this means one of two things—either a double stopper or a single sure stopper with enough set-up tricks to run your game before the other fellows can regain the lead.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vul...erable.)

North and South got along famously for the first two rounds of bidding on this deal, with 1-Diamond by South, 1-Heart by North, 1-Spade by South and then 2-Diamonds by North. Guessing that his diamond suit was probably solid, South then hopped into 2-No Trump. The logic was not far-reaching enough, as even with solid diamonds there would not be nine immediate tricks in sight unless North had some, too, which could be run at once.

West led his club king against this and immediately knocked out the ace. Trying to get into dummy to take the diamond finesse, South led a heart, which East won. The declarer now had a total of ten tricks in sight, enough to make four no trump, but he could never collect more than eight of them, for some had to go to waste while the opponents scored the setting tricks.

After North's 2-Diamonds bid, South should have been wary of no trump and moved upward with the minor suit, in which, as it turned out, five-odd could have been made whether the hand got bid quite that high or not.

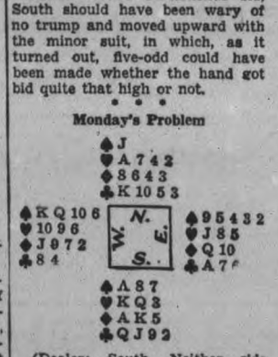
Monday's Problem



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Against bidding of 1-No Trump, 2-No Trumps, 3-No Trumps, what are the two great reasons why West should lead a certain particular card?

Lakefield Institute Presents Young Couple With Service

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 10—Wallace G. Hendren, local village constable and caretaker of the Memorial Hall, who recently joined the ranks of the benedicts, was presented with an English crystal and silver salad service by the members of the local branch of the Women's Institute when they held their regular July meeting here on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was in the form of a visit to local industries and concluded with a picnic.

The Institute members gathered at the hall preparatory to visiting local industries, and while there surprised Mr. Hendren in his office and presented him with the salad service. Mrs. H. J. Bullock made a short address, asking Mr. Hendren to accept the gift on behalf of the Institute as a token of appreciation of his courteous service and many kindnesses and inviting Mr. and Mrs. Hendren to have supper with the Institute at the park in the evening. Miss Margaret Sanderson made the presentation.

On leaving the hall, the ladies joined the members of the Junior Institute to make about 24 in all, went first to the Lakefield Creamery, where the manager, Chas. Hunter, conducted them on a tour of the building.

Mr. Hunter staged a contest for the ladies in the office of the creamery. The contest, to guess the number of sheets of butter paper in a pile, was won as follows: Mrs. Stanley Higgins, first prize (3 lbs. of butter); Mrs. Rooke, second prize, (2 lbs. of butter); Muriel Bullock, third prize (1 lb. of butter).

The second industry visited was W. J. Charlton's grain elevator. A. J. Young conducted the ladies through the plant. The third and last industry visited was Lakefield's Shingle and Barrel Top factory which is owned and operated by O. E. Kingdon.

About 5 p.m. the ladies gathered at the Lakefield Park and there held a short business session.

The treasurer's report showed the proceeds from the pie and ice cream social were $12.47, making a balance on hand of $21.94.

The local leader training school to be held in Peterborough in the early fall was discussed. Mrs. W. E. Gillman was appointed leader for the Lakefield Institute, with Mrs. T. Chaplin as a substitute.

Miss Sanderson reported having interviewed Councillor D. B. Millar, chairman of the property committee, re moving the Institute box into the kitchen and building shelves there. The ladies decided to go ahead with the work at the expense of the Institute, the box and shelves to become the property of the village.

A vote of thanks was moved to Mrs. J. H. Payne, Mrs. Art Montgomery and the committee in charge of the pie and ice cream social. The secretary was asked to write a note of thanks to the managers of the local industries visited during the afternoon.

The Junior Institute, who had been holding their business meeting in another part of the park, then joined the ladies in a delightful picnic supper.

Pick-a-Back 'Plane Home After Flight To Canada

Back in England after their successful airmail flights across the Atlantic, the crew of the pick-a-back airplane Mercury, which landed at Boucherville near Montreal to complete its flight from Foynes, Ireland, received congratulations of the designer and a fellow pilot. The flight started when the mother-ship of the odd two-some lifted the Mercury into the air and started it westward. It ended, BELOW, as the speedy ship settled on to the water in Southampton harbor after a return flight in easy stages via New York and the Azores. The flight, completed in less than a week, was considered successful. In the group at TOP are Designer Mayo, Capt. Wilcoxon, who handles the larger section of the composite craft; Radio Engineer A. J. Coster and Capt. Bennett, of the Mercury. Bennett and Coster made the transatlantic flights.

Child Bride at 12, Mother of 28 at 62 Celebrates Golden Wedding Day

By W. H. WARD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

DRUMMONDVILLE, Qpe., Aug. 10 (CP).—Yesterday was the golden wedding anniversary of a charming French-Canadian woman who in her half-century of married life has raised mother love to a new peak. Mrs. Daniel Lamothe, bright eyed and active at 62, has born 28 children and adopted eight others from time to time.

"I love children," she said simply in an interview. Just 50 years ago, a child bride of 12 knelt before the altar with strapping 19-year-old Daniel Lamothe in the parish church at nearby St. Germain.

At 14 she was the mother of a baby girl, Marie Rose, and the babies kept arriving at one-year intervals for the ensuing quarter-century. "Baby" of the family is Herve, a grinning youth of 22 who was married July 9. Herve and four others are the only survivors of the Lamothe brood. The other died, some in infancy and the remainder in adolescence.

Another Adopted Boy.

Baby laughter still echoes through the modest little upper flat of the Lamothe's in this mill town 65 miles east of Montreal, for little Henri Godin, aged five, is the latest adopted child, and he plays with five Lamothe grandchildren. Four of the adopted children have married, one is dead and another is away at college in Quebec.

"Mother" Lamothe has the kindest blue eyes imaginable. They shine when she speaks of her children. They showed tenderness when she called little Henri, the foster child, into the spotless little living room and put her work worn hands on his shoulder.

"Le Bon Dieu" sent her her own large family, and saw fit to take most of them away, she said. As for the foster children, she said they were "homeless and helpless and I just couldn't stand to see them without a home and a mother's care."

There was one set of twins, a boy and girl, and one "New Year's gift," she said. Another was born in a sleigh behind the flying feet of a fast horse galloping over January snow drifts in a fruitless race with the stork.

Burlington, Ont., Aug. 10.

TOWN CLERK M. M. Bush read an election proclamation here last night but he can't prove it—the hall was empty.

The election vacancy was created by the resignation of Councillor George McMillan.

Chicago Gangsters Slay Union Agent

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP).—James Dungan, business agent of the Painters' Union, was shot and killed last night in the sixth gang slaying on Chicago streets in less than seven weeks.

The 35-year-old union head, who frustrated an attempt on his life in 1934, was killed in front of his home. The shooting followed by 36 hours the assassination of two political workers on the West Side.

Dungan was about to step into his parked car when two men, whom he apparently knew, approached. While they were talking a third man walked from behind a parked automobile, drew a pistol and fired four bullets. Two of them struck Dungan in the neck.

The three men ran to an automobile which drew up to the curb and as they stepped in one of the occupants poked a pistol through a window and fired four shots. Two of the bullets struck Dungan in the head and side. He died in a hospital.

Most recent victims in the gangster slayings, all unsolved, were Leo Mosinski, 32, and Bruno Switaj, 33, who were political workers, police said, of Alderman Joseph P. Rostenkowski. They were shot to death last Saturday.

Burglar Is Caught

Six Badly Hurt In Odessa Crash

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 10 (CP).—Two Toronto persons and four from Belleville were seriously injured in a head-on collision near Odessa Tuesday.

Col. Patterson and his wife of Toronto were driving west from Kingston and their car collided with an eastbound car from Belleville. All occupants of the two cars were badly hurt and rushed to the Kingston General Hospital. Mrs. Patterson was badly gashed about the head and throat and her condition was very serious, while Col. Patterson was not as badly injured and was expected to leave the hospital in a day. The condition of the Belleville people was not known as they were in the operating room of the hospital this afternoon.

Col. Patterson was commander of the Canadian Mounted Rifles in France during the war and is said to be in the employ of the Sackville Furniture Company in Toronto.

Ruth Tully Honored At Kitchen Shower

MOUNT PLEASANT, Aug. 10 — The Misses Verne Gardiner and Annie Graham entertained at an enjoyable and charming kitchen shower, at the home of the former on Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Ruth Tully, Reg. N., whose marriage to Mr. Ross Rutherford takes place this month.

During the afternoon a 'mock wedding' was performed, Miss Gardiner taking the part of the minister, Annie Graham the bride and Norma Fee the groom, while the wedding music was played by June Shied.

Following a contest conducted by the hostess, the gifts, piled in a basket, decorated in pink and white, were brought in by Annie Graham and Norma Fee, while a nicely worded address in poetry, made to resemble a scrooll, and tied on two dish mops with white ribbon, was read to the guest of honor by Miss Gardiner. After the gifts were unwrapped and displayed. Miss Tully thanked her friends for their gifts and invited them to visit her in her new home.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostess and following a short period when Miss June Shield entertained at the piano, the gathering rose and crossing hands sang "Auld Lang Syne."

Those present included, besides the bride-elect, Verna Gardiner, Annie Graham, Norma Fee, June Shield, Margaret Best, Mabel Eggleston, Mildred Jones, Blanche Langton, Helen Perrault and Mesdames Frank Gardiner, Alex Tully, Fred Horton, Bob McAdam, Stan Tully and George Tully.

Blamed For Killing Three

Calm and composed, Harlan Hopkins, 17, holds the gun with which the state claims he shot and killed his father, mother and older brother as they slept on their farm in Minnesota. After the murders, Harlan set fire to the farm house and the gun was recovered from the ruins. Authorities believe the boy, who said he committed the crime "to save humanity," was mentally unbalanced.

Oshawa Official Gets 18 Months

OSHAWA, Ont., Aug. 10—(CP).—John H. Brown, one-time city engineer, was today sentenced to 18 months definite and six months indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory when he appeared before Magistrate C. F. Bick on a charge of theft of civic funds to the sum of $2,781.

Although the city auditor was not present in court, Brown pleaded guilty to the charge. Crown Attorney Annis said discrepancy involved small sums over a period of three years. The money taken was in the form of proceeds from building permits, sewer connection and salvage from the old town hall.

J. P. Mangan, counsel for accused, laid part of the blame upon the shoulders of the city for not having an efficient auditing system. He pointed out that if a more effective system of auditing had been in effect the shortages would have been discovered much earlier and before the matter assumed such proportions as to prevent making it good.

Brown was dismissed at a special emergency meeting of City Council a month ago when irregularities were discovered in the engineer's department.

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE BAD BREATH

Millions Suffer Without Knowing!

You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—but others can! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.

Ordinary brushing can't get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." But just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.

Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities, Good Housekeeping and tens of thousands of delighted users. Long-lasting can costs only 40¢ at any drug store.

POLIDENT
Cleans, Purifies Like Magic
Put plate or bridge in ½ glass of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse—and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

Prevents "Denture Breath"

Injures Back—Tapes His Chest

Since he made that famous trip to Ireland after "starting out for California," Douglas Corrigan seems to have taken on a turned-around complex. Here he is as he displays the bandage on his chest, which was taped up when it was found he was injured as the result of too much backslapping. It seems the hero-worshippers in displaying their enthusiasm in a physical way displaced a cartilage in the young flier's breast bone.

Siberian War Ceases Both Retreat

Moscow Conference Brings Truce, Guns Grow Silent

TOKYO, Aug. 11 (AP).—The foreign office announced a "cease firing" order was given along the disputed Manchoukuo-Siberian frontier today and that both Russian and Japanese forces began preparations to withdraw.

Details of the truce effected in Moscow still were not available here, but in official circles there was evident satisfaction with the peaceful settlement.

Domei (Japanese News Agency) said that "cheerful silence" prevailed on the frontier area, broken only by occasional bursts of gunfire "like fireworks," (presumably in celebration.) Each side calmly watched the other retreat.

An area several hundred yards wide separated the two forces at most points, but they were only 75 yards part on the slopes of Changkufeng Hill, scene of the most intense fighting since the border dispute developed into open conflict July 29.

Following the cease firing order, Domei said, the "chattering of the Russians was "clearly audible" to the Japanese.

Corrigan Taking Job Of Co-Pilot

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Douglas Corrigan said today he planned to return immediately to New York to reassemble his $900 Atlantic-spanning airplane and then to prepare for a regular job.

Feted at a breakfast by Oswald Ryan, member of the United States Civil Aeronautics Authority, Corrigan told a group of government officials he intended soon to accept a co-pilot's job with an airline company (American Airlines).

"Co-pilot?" an official asked, "I thought you'd be a bigger shot that that."

"No," smiled the flier, "I guess it'll be a long time before I'm a big shot."

25 Out In Erie Gale All Reported Safe

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11 (AP).—Twenty-five persons in six boats, missing on storm-lashed Lake Erie, were rescued or made their way to safety today.

The last to be found safe were six members of a Mansfield O., fishing party, including three ministers of United Lutheran church, who cruised into Sandusky under their own power after pulling into Middle Island to ride out the storm. They had rescued two men from Sandusky in a helplessly-drifting boat.

A short time before, a United States coast guard cutter picked up near Toledo four Toledo yachtsmen, returning from the inter lake yacht regatta at Put-In-Bay, and two young couples in another boat from North Shores, Mich.

Detroit Calls Thousands Back To Work

DETROIT, Aug. 11.—(AP)— Industrial Detroit, so often the economic barometer of the United States, moved at quicker tempo today as the automotive plants prepared for production of 1939 models.

Thousands of men were called back to work and 1,260 families were withdrawn from the welfare rolls in the last two days.

First plants to feel the upsurge particularly are the parts and accessory makers.

United States Rubber Company executives said telegrams had been sent to more than 100 workmen calling them back to their jobs.

An executive of General Motors Corporation said its parts plants had started production for 1939 assemblies and that all units in the Detroit area would be in operation by the middle of September.

Ford Motor Company resumed steel production. Three open hearth furnaces were lighted. Three hundred men went back to work on Ford steel. The rolling mills are to start operation in a few days. Ford has built six furnaces during the recession as part of a $34,000,000 expansion program.

At nearby Toledo, David R. Wilson, president of Willys-Overland Motors, announced that 1,000 men would be recalled by August 15 for assembly line operations by August 22.

Quints All Abed To Save Hearts

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 11 (CP). —Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe exercised every precaution today to ensure that the Dionne quintuplets did not develop heart conditions as a result of throat infections which have kept the five sisters in bed since Friday. Emilie is the only one of the quintet whose temperature was not down to normal today.

Dr. Dafoe could not say today when the quintuplets would be allowed to leave their beds. Nurses have found it more difficult each day to keep the children quiet in bed as their conditions steadily improved.

A certain amount of poison has accumulated in the blood stream as a natural result of the throat infections and is apt to affect the heart muscles, Keith Munro, business manager of the quints, said in reporting for Dr. Dafoe. The greatest care is being exercised to avoid the slightest possibility of the children developing heart conditions, he said.

Four nurses have been on duty since the Quints developed throat infections, said to have been induced by tonsil conditions. The children have not been seen by visitors since Friday but Dr. Dafoe suggested the children may be lifted to the nursery windows for weekend visitors.

$10,000 In Wine Siphoned From Toronto Cellar

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—An ingenius siphon-pump system was used yesterday to take possession of 1,800 gallons of confiscated wine from the cellar of a large house on Lightbourne Avenue, the occupant of which was recently convicted of a breach of the Liquor Control Act.

A crew of men attached to the Liquor Control Board, aided by three Provincial constables, employed the unusual tactics when they were unable to carry the huge casks of wine up the cellar steps.

The seized wine is valued at close to $10,000 and represented one of the largest seizures in Toronto in several years. The house was raided two months ago and resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Petro Cuirluini. She was convicted on June 8 and sentenced to two months in jail. The seized wine was ordered confiscated.

Appeal Delays

The delay in taking possession of the huge store of wine was due to the appeal of Mrs. Cuirluini against her conviction. The appeal was dismissed and she had to surrender yesterday to start her term.

The seized wine will be distilled and the alcohol drawn off and given to hospitals and physicians for medicinal purposes, it was learned.

A massive ten-ton truck drove up the driveway of the Cuirluini house at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and drew away twelve hours later, loaded with forty large kegs, thirty-seven of which were full of the valu-

BULLETIN

BOSTON, Aug. 11—(AP)—Nearing the end of its projected nonstop flight from Berlin to New York, the German airplane Brandenburg reported her position to the Radio Marine Corporation at 2 p.m. (EDT) today as 30 miles northeast of Boston.

This position meant the plane had covered approximately 3,700 miles of the 3,942-mile air distance from Berlin to New York.

Her last reported speed was about 155 miles an hour. If maintained, this would bring her into New York about 3:30 p.m.

Britain's Maternal Death Rate New Low

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Walter Elliott, Minister of Health, reported today the 1937 maternal death rate of 3.1 per 1,000 births in England and Wales was the lowest the ministry ever had recorded.

But, he declared in the annual report for the year ended March 31, "we cannot afford to lose every year nearly 2,000 mothers and more than 35,000 children under one year.

"We cannot view with complacency the annual death roll of nearly 30,000 persons from tuberculosis and nearly 70,000 from cancer."

Britain Asks Italy To Explain

Hears Troops Sent To Aid Franco Despite Agreement

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(AP).—Great Britain was disclosed to-day to have called Italy's attention to "certain allegations" that she had sent new troops to help the Spanish insurgents despite her understanding with Great Britain and her non-intervention commitments.

The matter was brought to the Italian government's attention both here and in Rome. Italy has not replied.

Great Britain said France was "placed in a very embarrassing position" by the allegations—made by Oppositinon members of Parliament before the adjournment.

France has closed her frontier to war materials for government Spain. French Leftists now are clamoring for re-opening of the frontier, contending Italy is continuing to supply aid to General Franco.

The British step made remote the prospect that the Anglo-Italian friendship accord, signed last Easter, soon might go into effect. It is to become operative after the Spanish problem is solved.

On July 29, the day the House of Commons recessed for the summer, Frederick Cocks, Labor, asked Prime Minister Chamberlain if he was aware "substantial reinforcements in men and mataerial have been supplied General Franco from Italy in recent weeks."

Charges Well Founded

Mr. Chamberlain promised to investigate the reports although he said "I cannot subscribe to the accuracy of the statement."

It is indicated the foreign office now has reason to believe the charges were well founded.

The representations were made first in Rome by Sir Noel Charles, charge d'affaires of the embassy there, and passed on to the Italian embassy here.

Viscount Halifax at the same time received assurances from General Franco that his delay in answering Great Britain's plan for getting foreign fighters out of Spain was due "to the intricate nature of the document."

(The Spanish government already has accepted the withdrawal plan in principle, making several minor reservations. The plan proposes neutral surveys to determine the number of foreign soldiers in both armies and then proportionate withdrawals.)

A British official said General Franco's assurance was "at least something but not satisfactory." He had promised a month ago to give the plan his "urgent attention."

France to Open Frontier

PARIS, Aug. 11 (CP-Havas).—The French government has sent to London a warning interpreted by political circles here to mean that the Pyrenees frontier will be opened for the passage of supplies to government Spain unless the insurgents reply quickly to the London proposals for withdrawing foreign combatants, it was learned here today.

Since the plan was agreed upon by the London non-intervention committee a month ago and dispatched to the two Spanish governments, the extreme left of the government majority here, led by Leon Blum, former Socialist premier, has campaigned to have the frontier re-opened.

In a series of articles he is publishing in Le populaire, socialist organ, Blum argues this would be the best reply to the insurgent delays. In today's article he proposed an armistice be arranged during the period in which volunteers are being withdrawn, and that mediation be undertaken to prevent a resumption of hostilities.

The British government was informed of this pressure from the left, and told that if the insurgents did not answer soon the French government will be forced to reconsider its position with regard to Spain.

Jimmy Roosevelt's Income Only $170,000

BOSTON, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Evening American, in a copyrighted story, declares today that "James Roosevelt's total taxable income for the last five years was $170,000."

"The income figures," the article said, "were revealed to the American by a responsible authority in refutation of the Saturday Evening Post article, 'Jimmy's Got It,' which contained an estimate of the James Roosevelt annual income as from $200,000 to $2,000,000."

The $170,000 figure, the paper asserted, included the president's son's total income from all sources, except his $10,000 federal salary as secretary and aid to the president. That salary, by law, is not taxable.

2 Burned In Blast

OTTAWA, Aug. 11—(CP)—Saxe Cole, 25, and Percy Doyle, 37, were seriously burned early today by an explosion in the basement of the Dominion Agriculture Department's plant products laboratory.

Five windows in the basement of the laboratory were blown out. Cole and Doyle were the only two men on that floor although more than a score were working upstairs. Cause of the blast was unknown.

Veteran Paddler

Oldest man to compete in the Wallace's Point regatta in Wednesday afternoon's drizzling rain was 75-year-old Steve Nichols of Hiawatha, who finished first in a special 200-yard paddle. Half a century ago he was one of this country's outstanding paddlers, and he showed youthful competitors that he had lost little of his skill with the passing of the years. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Ottawa Must Handle Relief If Our Civilization To Be Saved Says Manion

Charges Wealth Badly Distributed, Vicious Circle Of Growing Costs Dragging Business Recovery Down

BARRY'S BAY, Ont., Aug. 11 (CP). — A solution to the problem of relief, which should be a Federal responsibility, must be found to obviate the danger of "wrecking" present-day civilization and returning to barbarism, according to Hon. R. J. Manion, national leader of the Conservative Party.

The "vicious circle" of increasing relief costs and municipal taxation is retarding business recovery and slowing home building and home owning, he said in an address here yesterday, adding: "We must do away with these taxes municipally, in part, and put the relief burden on the Federal government."

National planning of Canada's economic life also is needed, the Conservative leader said in his first address in Eastern Ontario since the Ottawa convention July 7 when he was elected to succeed Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett. He spoke in his native Renfrew County at the annual picnic of St. Hedwig's Church in this lumbering town 35 miles southwest of Renfrew.

Past Federal governments, Liberal and Conservative, had done little in the way of national economic planning. It was time for action. "Today in Canada wealth is badly distributed," he said. "We have the rich on one side and the poor multitudes on the other. There is a fear psychology. There is a danger of revolution which we must realize."

Town Key Needs

Dr. Manion listed four things which he said were needed to justify the British Democratic system today; greater opportunities for youth; work and wages for all willing to work; security for the aged and a fair deal for all. He added: "The country owes no man a living but it owes to all the right to earn a living."

His belief was that the principles and practices of British Democratic government could best be carried on in Canada by the two-party system of government. The British way of things envisaged parliamentary institutions, freedom of press, speech and assembly and an economic system based on private enterprise. His hope as party leader was to justify this system.

But the liberties that Canadians love demand and need protection, Dr. Manion added. "Our way of life is well worth having," he said. "I believe in saving it. But unless we correct the errors of that system we may not be able to save it.

"If we are to build up our country, to make a contented and happy people, we must increase the numbers of the middle classes, those of moderate incomes and moderately well off, at the expense of both ends —the many poor and the fewer wealthy."

Stratford Area Hard Hit In Gale

STRATFORD, Ont., Aug. 11 (CP) —Electricity and wind struck hard over a wide area in this district last night, resulting in barns being burned to the ground, great roofs of barns and driving sheds being lifted off and left in twisted masses, houses damaged, fields flattened and orchards extensively damaged.

It was the worst storm of its kind in many years. From Goderich and the lake shore on the west across a wide area and hitting particularly on a section near Amulree north of Shakespeare came reports today of lightning and wind damage.

The storm was accompanied by the heaviest rainfall of the season, the reading here being nearly an inch and a half. Stratford itself had power interruptions and many tree branches were blown down during the high wind and rain but damage seemed to have been more extensive in the rural communities.

St. Marys was plunged into darkness and the rainfall was the heaviest in some seasons. For a time residents of the stone town feared a recurrence of the disastrous wind storm of 1933.

Five Of 8 Still Free In Guelph Escapes

GUELPH, Ont., Aug. 11 (CP).— Guards from the Ontario Reformatory scoured the Guelph district today for three prisoners of the institution who smashed a screen at the height of a fierce thunder storm last night and fled. Guards who had been searching for Kenneth Churchman, who walked away from the abattoir and was later caught, had not returned to the institution when Ernest Courtney, Albert Hurst, and Dominic Rainon made their getaway.

Eight prisoners have made breaks from the reformatory in a period of eight days, three of them have been recaptured.

Probe Into Police Affairs Resumed Seek To Find Where Confiscated Beer And Liquor Goes

Unable To Discover Who Rented Long Home For Entertainment Purposes During Night Of 1936 Policemen's Ball

Fifth of Joseph Wheeler's charges against the local police administration which was resumed in the council chamber this morning by Judge E. G. Deroche of Belleville was alleged by implication in the question, "Where does the liquor and beer go that was confiscated?"

T. J. Carley, K.C., representing Chief Newhall, said it was ridiculous that a charge should be made in that way. He enquired whether any specific period of time was involved or whether it was a blanket or general charge.

Judge Deroche interpreted it as meaning that beer and liquor were confiscated from time to time and were not sent to the proper place. It was not simply one instance.

Cecil G. Frost, K.C., Lindsay, conducting the enquiry, read from the statute that forfeited liquor was to be returned to the Ontario Liquor Control Board, except bottles that had been opened, and their contents were to be destroyed here.

This charge was proceeded with after several "flash backs' 'to evidence taken at the first hearing prior to the adjournment two weeks ago.

Lustic Is Called.

Fred Lustic, who had been arrested on a bench warrant for failing to appear on summons at the earlier phase of the enquiry, was taken back to the jail after a brief appearance this morning. W. F. Huycke, K.C., called Judge Deroche's attention to the continuing detention of Lustic, and explained that he had made his way to Guelph, where he was arrested and kept in jail for a week or more and then returned to Peterborough.

"He's like Corrigan," said Judge Deroche. "He should have been here, but he landed in Guelph. I think he has been held long enough for disobeying the summons to come here as a witness."

His Honor directed that Lustic be liberated.

Opening Evidence

As the enquiry continued this morning Judge Deroche requested that Sergeant John Thompson be called in regard to the occasion on March 26, 1937, when Mrs. Max Vincent was brought to the police station on a liquor selling charge and released, her husband taking her place in custody. Mr. Frost also asked that Fred Lustic be released from jail to be examined as a witness in the charge respecting the break-in at Fitzpatrick and Geraghty's store at Hunter and Aylmer streets.

Inspector Reid presented a receipt for the rent of the Legion Hall for the Police Dance in 1936, and a receipt for $2 for the rental of the Long house at the rear of the hall, paid by Constable Puffer.

Inspector Reid said that since the adjournment he had been unable to get any information as to who rented the Long house and also who ordered the beer, which was mentioned at the previous hearing as part of the refreshments served in the Long house the night of the dance two years ago.

Keith Jarvis, 379 Bethune street, testified that between 6 and 7 p.m. prior to the 1936 dance he saw Joseph Wheeler, Ray Lee and Alex Lyons carry beer into the Long house. Jarvis said he was in charge

Bird-Eating Frog Misses Meal On Woodpecker

Victoria, Aug. 11 (CP)

A BADLY shaken woodpecker fluttered around suburban South Saanich today making tentative pecks at trees and swearing to keep away from nice cool-looking pools of water.

A fat bullfrog in a pool in the garden of Mr. H. C. Curry has a taste for birds. So far this year he has absorbed one sparrow, and has neatly taken off the tail of a robin.

Yesterday the Curry's 15-year-old nephew, Ronald Barker, found the amphibian with a grip on the breast feathers of a woodpecker, just pulling it under. He rescued the bird, almost lifeless.

Ontario, Quebec Shying Off Rowell Probe

TORONTO, Aug. 11 (CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn has notified Prime Minister Mackenzie King that Ontario has withdrawn from all further deliberations in connection with the Rowell Commission on Dominion-Provincial affairs, the Toronto Daily Star said it was learned today. Premier Maurice Duplessis is said to be taking similar action, the paper added.

Ontario's action was a direct result of amendment 32B of the Federal Income Tax Act, Mr. Hepburn was said to have advised Mr. King and Alex. Skelton, secretary to the Rowell Commission. Premier Hepburn's stand was that prior to the appointment of the Rowell Commission it was agreed at a round table conference that no new taxation would be introduced while the commission's investigation was in progress.

Amendment 32B of the income tax act reads:

"Where on winding up or otherwise a company distributes any assets to its shareholders without sale or a sale price substantially below the fair market price, which assets if sold at the market price would create income of the corporation within the meaning of this act, the minister shall have the power to determine the fair market price of such assets and the company shall be deemed to have sold assets at the price so determined and thereby to have received income subject to tax and the distribution received by a shareholder or member shall be deemed to be a dividend. 'Company' includes associations and the members thereof."

The Ontario government was reported to regard the amendment as "an absolute breach of faith" by the Dominion in its relations with the mining provinces.

Hon. Paul Leduc, Ontario Minister of Mines, said the amendment effects a further tax on mining profits. When a syndicate sells any part of its mine holdings to a company, the money turned over is considered an income—rather than assets—and is taxed accordingly. The amount taxed is the difference between the syndicate's original investment and what it receives from the company, Mr. Leduc said.

Police Guarding Ousted U.A.W. Head

DETROIT, Aug. 11 (AP). — A police guard was posted today at the home of Richard Frankensteen, one of the deposed vice-presidents of the United Auto Workers of America, following the bombing last night of a garage at the rear of his residence. No one was hurt and the damage was slight.

Frankensteen said his only enemies were "persons on the other side in this U.A.W. factional dispute."

Police indicated they feared an outbreak of factional violence might develop, but a spokesman for President Homer Martin of the U.A.W. who ousted Martin from the union, said the incident was "too unimportant" to warrant comment.

Storms Play Havoc In Eastern States

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 11—(AP)—Summer storms brought torrential rains, thunder and lightning to western New York early today leaving one dead, widespread damage and flood waters racing through the streets of Penn Yan.

Charles Vogel, 39, Buffalo, was drowned in a cellar when he attempted to unplug a drain following a terrific thunderstorm and heavy rains which flooded thousands of basements and city streets.

C.C.F. Test Rally To Avoid Police Clash

NEW TORONTO, Aug. 12—(CP) —Every person connected with the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation who intends to be present at its outdoor "defiance" meeting Friday night in this Toronto suburb, was instructed to-day not to engage in any rowdyism or resistance of police. The meeting was called to test the validity of a month-old by-law prohibiting outdoor public meetings without a municipal permit.

Rowdyism was not the issue so far as the C.C.F. was concerned, E. B. Jolliffee, of the provincial executive, said to-day. "We would only defeat our own ends by creating a disturbance," he said. "There will be no trouble so far as the C.C.F. is concerned. Specific instructions will be given that no one is to resist police in any way if the meeting is broken up."

The sole purpose of the C.C.F. in holding its meeting is to test the by-law, Mr. Jolliffe said. "If the New Toronto people think their by-law is all right, it is up to them to prosecute us," he said.

"If they take us to court, then we have the opportunity of testing the by-law in the proper place. If the meeting is not broken up, then we know they are convinced their by-law is not all right. In that event we will consider another line of legal action."

Council refused a permit Monday night to the West York C.C.F. branch for permission to hold tomorrow night's meeting. Officials reiterated police would enforce the bylaw, passed after Toronto union men tried to organize rubber workers here into a Committee for Industrial Organization Branch. A. J. B. Gray, supervisor for the Ontario department of municipal affairs, was presented at the council meeting which approved the by-law, Councillor J. V. Shelley said.

Britain, U.S. To Be Partners In Disputed Pacific Isles

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP).—A new "working agreement" for use of Canton and Enderbury Islands indicated today that Great Britain and the United States were willing to be partners in the development of trans-Pacific aviation.

The two countries ended four months of discussion over ownership of the mid-Pacific islands yesterday by a novel arrangement to use them jointly as aviation and communication bases.

They left details for future consideration, along with the question of ownership. Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, said there were no commitments on defence.

Canton and Enderbury are prospective stepping stones on an airline between Canada or the United States and Australia and New Zealand. Their location makes them nearly as vital as the American-owned Midway and Wake Islands are to the existing aerial clipper service between California and China.

With an eye to aviation's rapid advances, the interior department had asserted the United States' claim to Canton and Enderbury in March by putting a group of colonists on each. The islands are 32 miles apart and 1,850 miles southeast of Honolulu.

No British Protest

The same procedure had been followed in 1936 in the case of Howland, Baker and Jarvis Islands, in the same section of the world. These are less strategically situated, however, and Great Britain made no formal protest.

An effort toward co-operation in Trans-Pacific flying originated in Tokyo three years ago but failed to develop any agreement with Japan.

The United States Commerce Department reported plans were being considered to extend a Japanese line southward through the Pacific-Mandated Islands to a connecting link with the American aerial clippers at Guam.

Official circles recalled that when Pan American Airways launched its clipper service in 1935, Tokyo made overtures for a Japanese line from Japan via Formosa to Manila, in the American Philippines, and to Hong Kong, Great Britain's Crown Colony in China.

The reply contained a proviso that American and British planes in return should be permitted to land in Japan. Japan declined however.

Hunt Hat In Bay Adorned With $2,000 In Diamonds

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)

WATERFRONT police hunted a hat today. What made the hat so valuable was a brooch pinned to it containing ninety-two diamonds—valued at $2,000. It blew off the head of Mrs. Ogden Reid, wife of the editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, as she cruised on a yacht in the East River.

Economic Suicide If Empire Trade Idea Lost

CALGARY, Aug. 11 (CP). — Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett contends that if the system of family trade preference is maintained among the British family of nations they will be invincible, but disintegration will set in if the system is list.

The former Conservative leader told members of the Calgary Conservative Association yesterday that Prime Minister Mackenzie King proposed to give away the family preference privilege, content to allow United States to trade with Britain on the same basis as Canada so the Dominion could enter the United States market on a restricted basis.

"If Canada sells out on this basis it will be economic suicide," Mr. Bennett said. He referred to United Kingdom - Canada - United States trade pacts now under negotiation.

Mr. Bennett said such movements as Social Credit and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation were merely manifestations of wonder by citizens as to why governments failed to keep pace with progress in science and arts.

Alberta had opened its books 33 years ago with not a single debit and he asked if its citizens were proud of their handiwork in intervening years. It is time a business administration is installed in the province, he said.

Mr. Bennett believed the capitalistic system is still the best system but that did not mean it should not be changed.

"Conservatism's job is to determine what changes will be for the better."

West Is Prepared To Make Planes

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—(CP)—Plants in western Canada as well as in the east are prepared to manufacture airplanes for the Royal Air Force.

In Winnipeg MacDonald Brothers make airplane parts and repairs and at Fort William the large plant of Canada Car and Foundry Company is equipped for the production of aircraft. This plant recently completed a $2,000,000 order of 40 aircraft for the Turkish Government.

Representatives of both companies have been active in the discussion carried on among Canadian aircraft manufacturers prior to and since the arrival of the British air mission. One of the objects of these discussions is to work out an arrangement whereby Canadian manufacturers may co-operate to meet the British demands with a maximum of efficiency.

The Fort William plant specializes in the production of Grumman two-seater fighting planes. These machines have a maximum speed of 250 miles per hour and can be turned out at the rate of about three per week.

Chinese Prisoners Riot In Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Aug. 11 (AP).—Seventeen Chinese and seven Russian international police were injured today in a fight at the Chinese concentration camp in Kiachow Park, where a battalion of Chinese prisoners raised the Luomintang (government) flag.

The Chinese refused to take it down, and the police tried forcibly to do so with a resulting fight in which sticks, stones, fists and truncheons were used. There was no shooting. Seven of the Chinese were injured critically.

It was reported the Chinese had been given permission to raise the flag tomorrow, anniversary of the start of Chinese-Japanese fighting in Shanghai, but had insisted upon doing it today.

Terrific Storm Hits Peach, Grain Crops

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—(CP)—Western Ontario farmers and fruit growers counted heavy losses today after a devastating rain storm washed out bright prospects for peach and apple crops, flattened corn and grainfields, and delayed harvesting operations over wide areas.

A spectacular electrical storm, the worst this season, darkened Clinton, London, Ingersoll and Goderich for varying times and disrupted telephone lines in many districts. Lightning hit and destroyed several barns, especially in the Holmesville district 10 miles east of Goderich.

Toronto escaped damage in the brilliant lightning storm, but lightning hit a Hamilton street car. Motorman Fred Sharples, the only one in the car, was unhurt and quickly put out the flames.

St. Catharines district farmers said further rains threatened to rot unharvested fruit, vegetable and grain crops. Tobacco farmers said rain damage was slight and would mean only a delay in harvesting.

A score of communities in Western Ontario reported flooded streets as an aftermath of the rain. Trees were removed from highways and houses after the 50-mile-an hour gale blew many down.

Economic Gospel For The Poor

KRUM ELBOW-ON-THE-HUDSON, N. Y., Aug 11—(AP)—A new economic gospel for the poor in pocket sprang up here today.

The prophet of the new gospel was Father Divine, bald and dusky Lord of nearly a half hundred "Heavens," who will lead his children today in a promised land on the 500-acre ancestral estate purchased from Howland Spencer.

More than 2,000 of Father Divine's "Angels" left New York yesterday on two excursion boats to inspect the new Canaan. While they waited at Milton for a three-hour feast of boiled corn, fried chicken and pie, Father Divine told them:

"There is no reason for the depression, no reason for the welfare (relief).

"Why should our country's land be landless? Be impractical? Be improvident? Be good for nothing; because those who should be working are getting doles?

"They don't want to work. Many millions will be through our missions if there is relief from taxation. We mean to lift our standards of living in this country for business, for labor, for trade."

27 Jap Planes Bomb Area About Hankow

HANKOW, China, Aug. 11.—(AP) —Japanese air raiders killed an undetermined number of Chinese today when 27 planes heavily bombed Hanyang and Wuchang, across the Yangtse river from Hankow, provisional Chinese capital.

Preliminary estimates placed the total casualties in the two cities at more than 500 but it was feared the toll would be much higher as rescue squads dug desperately in the wrecks of buildings.

One bombo scored a direct hit on the Boy Scout building of Boone University where a number of Chinese civilians had taken refuge.

Another missile exploded outside St. Hilda's school, the concussion blowing in the walls.

Hanyang's crowded waterside boat colony suffered heavily as bombs falling at the junction of the Han and Yangtse rivers sank more than a score of junks, killing and wounding approximately 100 Chinese.

Adjacent riverside structures were set on fire by the bombs and the blazes were brought under control only after a three-hour battle by firemen.

$3,500 Fire Destroys Seymour Barn

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., Aug. 11. —(CP).—More than 100 volunteer firemen formed a bucket brigade to fight a fire to-day which broke out on the farm of William G. Craighead, of East Seymour, about two miles east of here. Damage estimated at about $3,500 was caused.

The blaze started from sparks caused when a belt snapped off a threshing machine, owned by Harold Fry, and which Craighead was using near his barn. The sparks ignited stacks of wheat and rye. Craighead estimated a loss of 150 bushels of wheat and 100 bushels of rye.

Ewart Anderson, a neighbor, after first soaking himself with water, drove a small tractor into the middle of the blaze and hitched his machine to the threshing machine. He then pulled the blazing threshing machine into an open field. It was believed his action kept the fire from spreading to the barns and other buildings on Craighead's property, as a strong wind was blowing at the time of the fire.

U.S. Out To Raise Purchasing Power

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 11 (CP) — President Roosevelt said today that one job of the United States federal government is "to raise purchasing power and thereby create wealth in those sections where it is far too low."

The president spoke at the University of Georgia, where he received an honorary degree.

He did not refer, in his prepared talk, to the Georgia political situation. At Warm Springs yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt said he hoped Lawrence Camp, an administration supporter, would be the next senator from Georgia. Camp is among the opponents of Senator Walter F. George, who opposed wage-hour and other administration measures.

Discussing the duties of the federal government toward state and local educational objectives, Mr. Roosevelt called today for "constant progressive action" on both educational and economic fronts.

This, he said, "is better than following either those who want to slow up or those who promise they will hand you the moon on a silver platter a week after they are elected."

Government, he asserted, should seek to prevent the waste of natural resources, encourage each section to become financially independent and "take the lead in establishing social security."

Their airliner flying from Newark to Buffalo was delayed and they used a police escort across Buffalo to catch an international train held 15 minutes for them.

Arctic Hazards Fail To Stop Mercy Flight

ARCTIC BAY, Baffin Land, N.W. T., Aug. 10(CP-via Transport Dept. wireless - delayed). — Father Paul Schulte, a German army aviator in the Great War, roared out of the Arctic skies today on a mission of mercy, carried a stricken missionary to his plane and headed back less than four hours later for Chesterfield Inlet, 800 miles to the south.

The flying priest, engaged in one of the northland's most thrilling mercy flights, brought his plane down here at 12:25 p.m. E.S.T. Father Chochard, seriously ill of fever, was placed aboard and Father Schulte took off for Chesterfield at 4:15.

When the mercy plane reached here, Father Schulte and his mechanic, Brother Beaudoin, had flown about 1,200 miles through rain and fog from Churchill. They were more than 300 miles inside the Arctic Circle, far north of the arctic mainland.

Father Schulte was at Churchill, Manitoba's port on Hudson Bay, when he learned Monday of Father Chochard's illness. The flying priest started his daring flight immediately, planning to take the sick missionary to the only hospital in the barren region at Chesterfield.

No Time For Rest.

The priest had just completed a 70-mile hop from Repulse Bay to Churchill, but he had no time to rest at the Manitoba post. He flew 400 miles north to Chesterfield, where he hoped to pick up Dr. Robert Melling at the hospital, and found Dr. Melling himself was sick and unable to make the flight.

As Father Schulte and his mechanic roared northward alone, Dr. Melling broadcast medical instructions from Chesterfield to the sick missionary.

Late yesterday the mercy plane landed at Igloolik, on Melville Peninsula, after a 350-mile flight from Chesterfield. Father Schulte and Brother Beaudoin spent the night there and completed their race to Arctic Bay to-day.

It was believed the flying priest would attempt a non-stop, 800-mile jump to Chesterfield on the return journey unless prevailing rains force him to make a stop at Igloolik.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, August 11 — (CP) — Winnipeg wheat prices slumped sharply to-day, chiefly on the influence of outside declines, particularly Buenos Aires and Liverpool, together with favorable weather reports from Western Canada.

Final quotations were 2¾ to 2⅞ lower with October at 70¼, November 70¼, December 69¾ to ⅞, and May 72.

Trading was comparatively dull throughout the session, with mild flurries appearing in the early stages. Export business was estimated at 50,000 bushels mostly new crop wheat.

Buenos Aires divided 2¾ to 3⅜ cents and Liverpool was down ¾ to ⅞d at the close. American markets showed fractional declines.

Reduces Varicose Or Swollen Veins

Simple Home Treatment Prove It At Small Cost

The world progresses. To-day many minor ailments that took weeks to overcome can be helped much more quickly. If you have varicose veins or bunches start to-day to bring them back to normal size and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moones Emerald Oil at McDermid & Jury's or any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. In a short time the veins should begin to grow smaller and by regular use soon approach normal.

People who want to reduce varicose veins or simple swellings, should not hesitate to try a bottle at once. It is so penetrating and economical that a small bottle lasts a long time.

A Dangerous Practice

In the interest of public safety, as well as for the enjoyment of hundreds of people who frequent the swimming beach at Inverlea Park during the summer months, the parks committee should provide facilities for diving. The board long used by bathers has disappeared and has not been replaced, and during the present season the only spot from which divers could do their stuff has been the Park Hill Road bridge.

The use of the bridge for this purpose is strongly objectionable. In the first place divers are exposed to danger in making an unskilful dive from such a height, but a much more serious peril is the chance that some youngster, intent upon watching the bathers leap from the bridge, may be knocked over and killed by a passing motorist. Cars necessarily pass close to the railing and with scores of bathers, large and small, congregating on the bridge there is always a certain amount of risk that should be eliminated. The police have repeatedly chased the youngsters away from this danger point but officers cannot be there at all times and when there are no police in sight there is a rush back to the bridge.

It is felt that if a suitable diving platform, equipped with a tower and a number of planks were built and anchored in the river off the beach the majority of those who now use the bridge would be satisfied with the new facilities and most of the danger of accidents would be eliminated. The diving raft need not be an expensive proposition and the benefits it would produce would loom large when compared with the cost involved.

There are still weeks of swimming left. It is not too late to do something in this line now and we believe that the parks committee would be justified, in view of the conditions that have developed, to deal with the matter without delay.

Not The Way Out

A fine sample of the muddled thinking that is being done by the powers-that-be in Alberta at the present time has been furnished by a speech made recently by Hon. Solon Low, Alberta's provincial treasurer, to his constituents.

To Mr. Low there is nothing easier than solving Canada's financial problems.

All that is necessary to be done to vote the Alberta financial genius is for the Dominion government to "distribute money free to all Canadians so that all industries would be busy, ending unemployment."

As easy as that.

As to making this huge inflation scheme possible, Mr. Low has the answer for that too.

He would make use of "all gold produced in Canada" and he would pay for it with bank notes, arguing that these would cost the government "only the printing."

Apparently Mr. Low has not gone the inflation trail far enough to see that the scheme he is proposing surely would put the Canadian dollar on the toboggan slide and shoot it to the bottom at a record speed.

He suggests distributing money to all Canadians, apparently oblivious to the fact as pointed out by the Ottawa Journal, that to present Canadians with a bonus of even $100 would mean the printing of $1,100,000,000 of new paper money—three times the total paper currency now in circulation and doing the business of the country.

The Alberta treasurer had better read the history of Germany and what inflation did to the German mark and the people before he advises free money resort to the printing press as the route to prosperity.

Pedestrian

Mr. Gee's remarks in police court the other day about millions spent on roads and not a dollar on footpaths for pedestrians drew attention to a situation which ought to be well-known to every-one in the government.

The tendency apparently is to build highways as the exclusive domain of the motorist, disregarding the fact that many folk have necessarily to use these roads on foot. Long before the modern highway was thought of motor cars were not even a dream and school children were built along the arteries of traffic and they are there today, which means that the authorities must still use them, pedestrians must still use the highway, despite the fact that the roads have been turned it into a speedway.

Obviously, walking on trunk roads these days is a dangerous operation, but some provision is made for pedestrians folk will have to go on taking the risk. The answer of course is the construction of footpaths along heavily travelled roads and some of the millions that are being tossed away building modern highways along such routes as the Oregon Trail and blasting through rock to straighten out curves in other roads, might be used to far better advantage in providing sidewalks or cinder paths along the highways.

The cyclist furnishes another problem. Evidently the bicycle is in for a new era of popularity and that means riders will add to the congestion on highways, risk their own lives and shatter the nerves and ruin the tempers of motorists by bobbing up all over the place.

Is the only solution to go on killing pedestrians and bicycle riders or cannot we, as supposedly sensible people, arrive at a program that will recognize that both of these classes have a right to ask for protection and consideration?

Doing Fine Work

The fact that Hon. P. W. Dewan, Ontario's minister of agriculture, who formally opens the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition on Thursday next, has arranged his plans to be in Peterborough so that he may address the dinner of the junior farmers on the evening before is an official recognition of the very important work the Exhibition is doing to keep young people on the farm and instil in them greater pride in agriculture as a profession.

The Peterborough Industrial has pioneered this junior farmers' work as an Exhibition feature, and, so widely has it expanded and so keen has been the interest engendered, that it has become one of the most important, and certainly one of the most encouraging departments. It is interesting to note that this year the farm girls threaten to steal the show and that the competitions in which they are represented may surpass in number of entries the contests carded for farm boys.

In other words, Peterborough's big fair has been winning friends for itself not only among the boys of the surrounding district but among the girls as well, and with scores of enthusiastic boosters among the young people has no reason to feel dismayed about the future.

There is a feeling among the directors that this year's Exhibition is destined to set new records in attendance, number of exhibits and all-round excellence. The Peterborough Industrial is of course a Class A fair now, which means that all the live stock shown here must be registered and it is the hope of the directors that the local exhibition will do for the farmers of Central Ontario what the Ottawa Fair has done for Eastern Ontario and the London Fair for the folk of the western part of the province.

In assigning a most important part of the program to junior farmers' work the management is going a long way toward meeting that aim.

Those Fishing Licenses

The Examiner's contention that the fee charged non-resident fishermen is unreasonably high and is creating resentment among tourists from the United States has been borne out by the story from Lindsay of Pennsylvania and Ohio visitors complaining vigorously about the cost of fishing licenses and threatening not to come back to this province another summer.

The fact is that in several fishing states of the Union, notably Michigan, the state authorities are satisfied with a nominal fee of $1 for non-residents and it is the knowledge of that low license that inspires visitors to Ontario to complain when they are called upon to pay over five times that sum.

To make matters worse it is not proving a good fishing season in many sections and tourists can scarcely be blamed for registering a protest when they are nicked heavily for the privilege of fishing, pay handsomely for a boat and the services of a guide and then have to go home with a small catch or perhaps none at all.

Under the circumstances a reduced license fee would seem to be indicated and it should be accompanied by a constructive policy of re-stocking fishing lakes and streams. We cannot expect to collect luxury license fees from visitors who find it difficult in many cases to catch their quota, after they have dipped deep into their pockets for money to pay for the privilege of wetting a line in Ontario waters.

We must charge less for fishing and at the same time endeavor to provide better fishing if we hope to continue tourist traffic into the province at the same volume that marked earlier years when there were more fish and visitors did not mind paying for the opportunity of catching them.

It has been the case, hitherto at least, that our tourist business has been linked up with our resources of fish and game. If we want that business to flourish it is obvious we must do more than we have been doing to see that those resources are maintained. Otherwise we should cease advertising Ontario as a fisherman's paradise and start out on a new tack of selling this province to our American friends as a summer playground par excellence for the whole family. There is always that course available, but in the meantime we should not lose our reputation as a fishing province without making an earnest struggle to save it.

Just Marking Time

It will be a matter of regret to the few folk with vision who have been preaching the desirability of reforestation to learn that the project upon which the Peterborough County Council embarked so gaily at the June session is still marking time and that the present indications are the deal with the Department of Lands and Forests may fall through.

There were high hopes when it was announced that a large tract of land in the county, suitable for no other purpose than for reforestation, would be secured by the council and that upon this area of Belmont and Methuen townships new groves of trees would be planted, designed to become valuable stands of timber in the years that lie ahead.

There is every need for a vigorous policy of reforestation in this district which has not only been bared of practically all its timber as a result of the activities of the lumber companies but in more recent years has been denuded likewise of most of its supply of wood for fuel purposes, as the advent of the motor truck opened up new districts, where wood-cutting had been economically impossible until the new form of transportation paved the way for operations.

Most of the land that was covered by these stands of timber is useless for agriculture; it is fit only for growing trees, and unless it is devoted to that purpose it is to all intents and purposes valueless. On the other hand it is ideal land for reforestation and the more acreage that is used to that end, the greater will be the contribution to the wealth of the district when the trees reach a marketable size.

That being the case it is disquieting to find that the reforestation policy of the county council is not being pursued with any great signs of vigor and that the whole scheme threatens to be hung up even before the land has been acquired. Growing trees is necessarily a slow process, but the earlier the start in getting a reforestation program under way the sooner can returns be expected. The present holdup in the scheme is, frankly, disappointing.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The treasurer of the Wong Hi Society in Toronto was robbed by holdup men. In other words the Wong Hi is now low.

A newspaper asks the question, "Do you object to women smoking in public?" Well, suppose you do.

Niagara Falls may be short one bridge but is still able to report honeymooners as registering in average numbers.

Peterborough's Exhibition is only a few days away. The wise citizen is all ready for the event, having purchased his strip tickets.

There is talk in Toronto of appointing a traffic dictator. They had better furnish the official appointed with a couple of machine gun squads.

At least Premier Hepburn waited until he got home from the West before declaring the fixed price on wheat to be "absolutely asinine."

The quints are to be on view to the public again next year, it it announced, which sounds like a record early start in tourist promotion for 1939.

John Cobb, British driver, in a trial run, has travelled at 250 miles an hour. That makes the speeders on the Lakefield road look as if they were crawling.

Winnipeg has imported another football star from the United States. Apparently there is no duty on triple threat men.

They are making hot dogs with zipper fastenings now and the next improvement will be to put some meat in the things.

Ontario's tobacco crop is estimated as worth $18,000,000 and that is a lot of money to get out of something that not so long ago was not even regarded as an Ontario product.

They are planning underground garages in Ottawa to help beautify the city. Now if they could also get the cars to run underground the whole problem would be solved.

Premier King has been leader of the Liberty party for nineteen years and probably feels that nothing worse happened to him in that time than the advent on the political stage of Mr. Hepburn.

RAIN IN SUMMER

O gentle, gentle summer rain,
Let not the silver lily pine,
Tho' drooping lily pine in vain
To feel that dewy touch of thine—
To drink thy freshness once again,
O gentle, gentle summer rain!

In heat, the landscape quivering lies;
The cattle pant beneath the tree;
Through parching air and purple skies
The earth looks up, in vain, for thee;
For thee—for thee, it looks in vain.
O gentle, gentle summer rain!

Come thou and brim the meadow streams
And soften all the hills with mist,
O falling dew! from burning dreams
By thee shall herb and flower be kissed,
And earth shall bless thee yet again,
O gentle, gentle summer rain!

Souvenir Spoons Stage Comeback

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

AN OLD FRIEND is coming back—the souvenir spoon of a generation ago. The New York World's Fair next year will witness the return of this fad of the nineties, according to an announcement by a jewelry firm which has an eye to the future as well as the past. When the fair opens Grover Whalen will probably throw out the first spoon. Maybe it will have Corrigan and his "crate" on it—or maybe not.

Remember the souvenir spoon from another World's Fair — the one in Chicago in 1893? Others appeared then and later. There was one of a Chautauqua, when Chautauquas were in flower. The Flatiron Building in New York was the inspiration of another. And, of course, Washington, D.C., inspired spoons with George Washington, the Washington Monument, Mount Vernon, and the White House. In Richmond, Robert E. Lee was spoon-arized.

In time, many such spoons found their way to many a whatnot in many a parlor. They were supposed to be merely ornaments (except sometimes when there was "company"), but children were allowed to play with them on rainy Sunday afternoons. They looked their best deployed in parallel formation on the mauve plush sofa.

Whence came souvenir spoons? From Europe, a nameless historian records. A Washington, D.C., jeweler brought back some of historical nature, and soon was making and selling spoons suggested by current and earlier American celebrities and events— the battleship Maine, Admiral Dewey, McKinley, T. R., the Gibson Girl, Niagara Falls, the Statue of Liberty, the Woolworth Building (when that was a skyscraper), Pike's Peak, Bunker Hill.

Hail to your return, O, souvenir spoon! Let him scoff who will! Why not record history on a spoon? Do we not remember something imperishable on a Greek urn?

WHY WORRY?

(Telephone Echo)

MAN COMES into this life, without his consent, goes out against his will, and the road between is a rocky path. When he is young the big girls kiss him; when he is older the little girls kiss him and big ones won't. If he is poor they say he is "no good"; if he becomes rich he is a "grafter." When he needs credit he can't get it; if he does not need it every one tries to extend it to him (even the bank). If he enters politics, it is for what he can get out of it. If he keeps out of politics he is not public spirited enough to do his part. If he gives to charity, it is just "for show." If he does not, he is "stingy and miserly." If he takes an active interest in church work he is a hypocrite; if he does not he is a hardened sinner. If he is affectionate he is "soft"; if he is not he is "cold blooded." If he spends money he is a spendthrift; if he saves it he is a tightwad. If he dies young he had a wonderful future ahead of him; if he lives to ripe old age he never amounted to much anyway. So why worry.

FOOD ON SHELVES.

(Kitchener Record)

IT IS CANNING TIME, and thanks to kind Providence orchards and fields are again producing fruits and vegetables in abundance. Shelves are beginning to sag under dozens of quarts of cherries, green beans, beets, pickles and what not.

This doesn't necessarily mean that prosperity has rounded that elusive corner, but it does mean food for next winter. There is something satisfying about shelves heavily loaded with food. It makes for a measure of confidence in the future. The interest on the mortgage may be coming due, and the coal bin may still be empty, but one may face the days ahead with the assurance of having at least something to eat. A well-stocked larder is always more assuring than next winter's pay cheque. So, for the time being, let's not worry too much about what the complicated economic system may have in store for us in the future.

A NEW ELEMENT.

(Christian Science Monitor)

THERE'S much to be said in favor of the existence of a 93d element, transuranium, announced at the French Academy of Science as discovered by the noted physicist, Dr. Jean Perrin and associates, and very little that can be said against it—until the initial data have been carefully checked. This will be done immediately by physicists all over the world as soon as the paper is published.

When the distinguished Russian chemist Mendeleeff conceived of the Periodic Table, or "social register" of the elements, arranging them in families and groups according to weight, chemical activity, etc., he left many blanks to be filled in during later years as new elements were discovered. From the lightest to the heaviest known elements the series allows for 92. Italian physicists, however, have made a 93d and a 94th by adding electrons to uranium in atomic bombardment.

BRAIN VS. PHYSIQUE.

(Halifax Herald)

IT IS ANNOUNCED from Berlin that students taking examinations for all German universities must:

Be able to run two miles in 13 minutes; jump 13 feet, six inches; throw a 16½ weight eight yards; and swim 54 yards, breaststroke, in 60 seconds.

Imagine a Goethe up against a physical test of that description, or a Handel or a Beethoven....

Or, reductio ad absurdum, fancy imposing those "matriculation" conditions upon two of their most prominent authors, the ponderous Goering or the crippled Goebbels!

But that, of course, is the absurd essence of Nazi-ism: not what its leaders could or should do, but what the rank-and-file must do

• A Newspaperman At the Races

(From the Ottawa Journal)

PSYCHOLOGISTS tell us that most behavior in life is a process of escape (which is as good an excuse as any). With the market averages, the diplomatic cables and other news speaking grimly, we decided to stop trying to get our fourth putt up close, and seek high, impracticable adventure (plus forgetfulness) at the races.

Well, to make a long story short, we're beginning to wish we hadn't. Our visit to the track, of course, was concerned mainly with improvement of horse-breeding, but we have to admit that, with no pecuniary motive whatever, but just for a lark, we risked a few shillings on the outcome of shillings on the outcome of a few a few races.

Which is what we want to tell you about. We have no objection whatever to a small contribution to Mr. Duplessis' exchequer, nor even to that of Mr. Thomas Patrick Gorman; what burns us up is the contribution's proof that we're not a judge of horseflesh.

It wasn't that we lacked advice; that we didn't consult with experts. We had, and we did. People just crazy about horses (we could tell it by the way they studied the racing forms) placed all their lore at our disposal. They told us that such and such a horse, out of such and such another horse, was a cinch, that it was an indignity for it to be on such a track instead of matching hoofs with War Admiral at the Pimlico Futurity. We, alas, agreed with them.

Tips? We had them from the grain box, and the horse's mouth. We had them from owners, and from friends of owners, and from friends of friends of owners, and once we had one from a man whose cousin had been to tea (that's what he said) with the aunt of a jockey. We didn't prosper.

That's what they call the "daily double." This (not a setting-up exercise) part of judging good horses, or process of improving the breed, consists of one's ability to pick the winning horse in two consecutive races. Here, bringing into play all our skill, plus a little diversified hedging on our judgment, we were enabled to guess the winner of the first race, but never the second. That second baffled us. We resorted to betting on numbers, and on combinations of numbers, and on names of horses (think of "Dinain"!) and on the colors of the jokeys' caps—to no avail. Finally, we reflected sadly that if racing be the sport of kings, as Shakespeare or somebody said it was, the genealogical tree of our royal lineage must have widened desperately.

Yet there was one thing that we liked; a sort of consolation. Some horses lead from barrier to camera. Others come from nowhere out of the pack, make a garrison finish. The ones we bet on always remained well behind, where everybody could see them.

• Horseshoes A Fine Old Game

(From the Lindsay Post)

MEN, and some women, who indulge in that very pleasant pastime of horseshoe pitching need have no hesitation in admitting the fact that they seek recreation in this particular game because it has an honorable history. When in the company of persons discussing birdies, approach shots, niblicks, etc. it is not necessary for them to keep their own counsel and refrain from mention of "ringers," "leaners," one and one-quarter turns and other terms of horseshoe pitching because the game of their hearts dates back long before the first golf club was swung on the pebbles which first served as balls.

Horseshoe pitching is a game which has occupied leisure hours of noblemen and kings, and courtiers and princes in days gone by. The grand old game of barnyard golf, popular through the years when other lesser activities have risen, flourished and died, still goes on and is enjoyed by thousands throughout the world.

According to Frank G. Menke, in his All Sports Record Book, the horseshoe pitchers can trace the origin of their sport back to the time immediately following the invention of horseshoe—a mere lapse of 2,500 to 2,000 years.

"When Rome and Greece were world powers, the soldiers found exercise and sport in throwing the discus," Mr. Menke writes. "The camp followers could not indulge in such contests because they lacked both the money to buy a discus, or the means to manufacture one. But, when horseshoes were invented to protect hoofs of animals travelling over mountains or through rock-strewn passes, the followers picked up the discarded shoes, and fashioned them into discus form, the pioneer quoit."

Only haphazard rules governed the game until as late as 1869 and at that time the English brought up a set of rules. Since that time the game has met with increasing popularity throughout the world and at the present time there are many countries in which national champions are widely feted.

It is indeed a proud history that this game has, and don't you horseshoe pitchers forget it.

• Of Vest Spots There's No End

(From the Stratford Beacon-Herald)

IN THIS EDITORIAL we shall put Phil Cooper on the spot—and let him do his best with the vest that carries the spot. Or spots, to cover the case more inclusively.

But first—meet Phil. He's been a New York dry cleaner and stain expert for lo! these thirty years. So Phil knows spots—from soup to cosmetics. Not excluding gravy spots, either—not by a ladle full.

"The vest," opines Phil, "has a natural magnetism for gravy; for some reason women's garments don't attract it so readily." Which seems puzzling, since it is the same gravity at work in both cases.

Soup spots are more consistent—strange paradox—than are the usually more consistent gravy blobs. Both sexes, Phil assures us, manage to get soup stains. "Bity city" diners soon became soup-spotted, no matter how thin or thick the soup—or the diners. This vest-collecting of variegated soup spots is practiced by even the best-mannered soup-sippers. Silent-type soup-spoon artists are afflicted with spots equally with the whistlers and gurglers. Clear consommes contribute generously. No need to sing "I'm from the city"—your vest spots are eloquent enough.

Spots are seasonal, 'twould seem from Phil's figures. Behold the diet-ers. Their clothes are "spotted" the year round—with grapefruit and tomato juice spots. But January and February are the "intoxicating months" in the spots diary—liquor spots converting dry-cleaning plants into second-hand grog shops during this rush season for beer, wine and cocktail dribblers.

At first blush we would conclude that the recent big increase in face powder spots on gentlemen's evening clothes indicated more love-making. We're wrong, according to Phil Cooper. It's the trend to closer dancing that does it—coupled with the dislodging contortions of the fair partners.

Spot statistics fairly splatter one, as Phil flings them. A million liquor spots a year. Three million summer dirt spots. Two million, nine hundred thousand auto oil and grease spots in the fall—and three million school-children ink spots in the winter. Not to overlook 4,875,000 Thanksgiving and Christmas gravy spots.

Phil finishes with a warning moral for spotty men. "The spottiest person is the man who has no woman to watch his appearance," asserts Spot-Expert Cooper. So, look at your vest, fella, and go get yourself a wife—or something.

ABOUT CORRIGAN.

(Detroit News)

"IRISH EYES are smiling, Kathleen Mavourneen, and top o' the mornin' t' ye, b'gorry"—and all that sort of stuff.

If it all sounds kind o squiffy, excuse it please; I've been reading the papers about this feller Douglas Corrigan. And I can't help thinking that the boys are putting it on a bit too thick.

Douglas Corrigan is an American of some three or four generations removed from the "ould sod," and it was North of Ireland sod at that. The newspaper boys are hysterically giving him an Irish dialect and making him out more Irish than Chauncey Olicott, when Chauncey was acting on the stage and not sipping a mug of German beer at the Players.

Corrigan isn't any more Irish than Charles Lindbergh is Swedish or Howard Hughes Welsh. Also, they call him a Californian and he was born and raised in Texas.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

WHO HATH measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and meted out heaven with the span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure, and weighed the mountains in scales, and the hills in a balance? Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord, or being his counsellor hath taught him? With whom took he counsel, and who instructed him, and taught him in the path of judgment, and taught him knowledge, and shewed to him the way of understanding....To whom, then, will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him?—Isa. xl, 12-14, 18.

Canst thou by searching find out God? canst thou find out the Almighty unto perfection?—Job xi, 7.

✧ ✧ ✧

O the depth of the riches, both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor? For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever.—Rom xi, 33, 34, 36.

CAN'T STOP NOW.

(Detroit News)

IF WHOLESALE government relief had never started, we do not think starvation or desperate want would have been permitted to afflict anyone, in Michigan or the United States, whose need became known in his community. Such things were not permitted in this country for 140 years. Relief as a government obligation having been assumed and developed to the present stage, conditions of desperation would exist if it were suddenly stopped. The government is relied on now! High taxes are paid on the assumption that they include the relief requirements.

COSTS ARE DOWN.

(Marketing)

AT THE mid-year convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association in Cincinnati this month it was shown that a list of twenty items purchased daily by the consumer at an average department store apparel and home furnishings, cost $450 in the 1920's, but the same goods could be bought in the 1930's for $300. The savings of $150 were accounted for in this way: $57.50 a reduction in the cost of manufacturing; and $52.50 a lowering of the cost of distribution.

Mackenzie Picks 15 Eminent Officer-Advisers

OTTAWA, Aug. 11. (CP).—The whole defence system of Canada stands on a new basis today as a result of developments in connection with administration, policy and personnel which amount to fundamental changes in the structure of the nation's armed forces.

Normally directed by a civilian official, the Department of National Defence will henceforth have at its head an officer with the rank of major general. Promotion to this rank came yesterday to Col. L. R. LaFleche, D.S.O., deputy minister who has supervised the department's activities since 1932. General LaFleche will, in all probability, be posted to the officers' retired list but his rank and authority will stand and he will continue as deupty minister.

At the same time Defence Minister Mackenzie has enlisted the co-operation of 15 prominent Canadians, all officers of the non-permanent forces or on the reserve, in the creation of honorary advisory committees. He will have a committee of five for each of the services, naval, militia and air.

From time to time, it was stated, the minister will consult with them on matters relating to the efficiency and improvement of the services.

Senior officers of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force were advanced to ranks, one of which—rear admiral—disappeared from the active naval list shortly after the end of the war. The air force rank—that of air vice marshal—has been created as another rung of the promotion ladder for the two senior officers of the R.C.A.F.

Naval Advancements

Promotion of Rear Admiral Percy W. Nelles from the rank of commodore was accompanied by advancement of two naval commanders, L. W. Murray and G. C. Jones, to the rank of captain.

The step up given to Air Vice Marshal G. M. Croil and Air Vice Marshal J. Lindsay Gordon opened the way to five other R.C.A.F. officers. Two group Captains, E. W. Stedman and L. S. Breadner, became Air Commodores; and three Wing Commanders, W. R. Kenny, N. R. Anderson and A. E. Godfrey became group Captains.

The previous large scale turnover in the defence forces was in December, 1936, when the Mackenzie reorganization of the non-permanent militia became effective.

Then numbers of smaller and less active militia units were merged. Many infantry and cavalry regiments were converted into machine gun or tank units in accordance with the mechanization program dictated by modern conditions.

The honorary naval advisory committee consists of Captain B. L. Johnson, D.S.O., Vancouver; Commander J. J. desLauriers, Montreal; Commander W. B. Armit, Montreal; Commander E. A. Brock, Winnipeg; Commander E. C. Sherwood, Ottawa.

The honorary militia advisory committee: Lieut.-Col. A. M. Thomas, Toronto; Brig.-General T. L. Tremblay, D.S.O., Quebec; Col. H. F. G. Letson, M.C., Vancouver; Lieut.-Col. H. W. Murdock, Truro, N.S.; Col. A. E. Potts, Saskatoon.

The honorary air advisory committee: Hon. Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., Montreal; Hon. Air Commodore R. H. Mulock, D.S.O., Montreal; Squadron Leader A. D. Bell-Irving, Vancouver; Captain H. J. Burden, D.S.O., Toronto; Squadron Leader, F. S. McGill, Westmount, Que.

Mackenzie King, of Canada, are expected to meet at Kingston, Ont., on August 17, when the new Thousand Island international bridge system will be officially opened. Above photo shows the designers' conception of the new suspension span crossing the American channel from Collins Landing to Wellesley Island, one of the five separate spans and eight-and-a-half miles of approaches and connecting roadways comprising the Thousand Island international bridge system from Collins Landing and Ivy Lea, Ont. Rich Mining Area Falls To Rebels

HHENDAYE, France, Aug. 11—(AP).—A two-pronged insurgent attack bit today at the Almanden mining country in southwestern Spain, one of the Spanish government's wealthiest areas and the world's richest mercury-yielding region.

A column driving northeast reported it captured Almorchon, giving insurgents control of a railroad from Almaden 42 miles west to Castuera and a branch line from Almorchon south toward Belmez in Cordoba.

Another column operating farther north along the Guadiana River Valley said it made a seven-mile advance in 12 hours and captured six small towns.

Conflicting reports obscured the progress of battle in eastern Spain along the Ebro and Segre rivers, where insurgents said they were cleaning up rapidly the gains made in a government offensive the past two weeks.

An official government communique said all insurgent counter-attacks south of the Balaguer bridgehead across the Segre, in western Catalonia and about 80 miles from Barcelona, were repulsed.

Other dispatches from Barcelona, provisional government capital, said government troops continued their advance and widened a breach in insurget lines.

Insurgent bulletins said General Franco was beginning to put pressure on the Gandesa pocket, about 50 miles to the south, by attacking south from Payon.

NOVELTY RACES ADD TO SUCCESS OF WALLACE POINT REGATTA

McLin Wins Rich Hambletonian Trotting Stake

GOSHEN, N.Y., Aug. 11 (AP).—Lawrence B. Sheppard proved the wisdom of his $20,000 investment Wednesday when the well-built McLin trotted to a straight-heat victory in the Hambletonian, blue-ribbon event of light harness racing.

At home on Good Time Park's triangular track, where he received his preparation for trotting's richest race, the bay son of Mr. McElwyn-Ethelinda turned back the bid of nine other high-ranking 3-year-olds including Long Key, the heavily played favorite, owned by E. J. Merkle of Columbus, Ohio.

Just ten days ago McLin was quartered in W. H. Cane's near-by Good Time Stable. He had finished last in five starts as a 2-year-old, but jumped into prominence by whipping Long Key in one heat of the American stakes at Agawam. Previously he had showed his veteran trainer, Walter Cox, plenty of speed in early season trials, although having a tendency to break stride when going at full steam.

Sheppard, looking for a colt to follow in the footsteps of other Hambletonian winners from his Hanover, Pa., Shoe Farms, Hanover's Bertha and Shirley Hanover, offered Cane and Cox $20,000 for the horse. The offer was accepted. Today McLin earned nearly all that back, for the winner's share of the $37,962 amounted to $19,994.30.

Champlain, driven by Vic Fleming, former Dundas, Ont., driver, finished tenth and last in the first heat and third in the second, and won third money of $4,351.49.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

LET'S SEE NOW, just what lies ahead this week-end for sports fans here? Well, there is the lacrosse game Friday p.m. at nine between Long Branch and the Petes, preceded by a midget fray. Those Long Branch lads may give the cocky locals quite a battle and it ought to draw a nice crowd. The Petes took a decision over Long Branch early in the summer here but were held to a draw on the Branchers' home grounds later. And just a few days ago we heard where Brooklin had a heck of a time to pull out a close win at home over the Longs, as we call 'em—hoping it doesn't start a tong war among the Hums and Lees of this city! We're told Long Branch has added to its roster recently from Mimico and, if this is the case, they may really push the Petes plenty tomorrow on the local floor. Anyway, fans can bank on another good evening of entertainment.

* * * * * *

ON SATURDAY AFT at Riverside, Oshawa GM-men play the Petes at three in the second game of the C.O.B.L. playoffs, Oshawa having won the first. While the series is best four in seven, that doesn't give the Murphyites any license to think they can coast for a few fixtures. Nossuh, most definitely. A loss Saturday will practically ruin them, no fooling. They've got to get in there and fight like a mother in the Millar Stork Derby or they're sunk. The potent bats of the GM-men have been pounding out a victory chant for three years now and it's up to the classy locals this semester to stop it with pitching, besides getting the hitting and fielding. Dunno who who will pitch for us yet, but it'll be a real game and should pack in a record crowd.

Low-Downs On The Higher-Ups

LOOKING over the C.O.B.L. averages, brief as the disappointing schedule—with Kingston tossed out early—was, we see where Oshawa led in hitting with .256 and fielding with .993. The Petes had .241 in hitting but only got .934 defensively. Kingston collected .188 in anemic batting and .961 afield. First 10 batters were Rowden, Miller, Wallace, Elliott, McNally, Foley, Biddle, Kearns, Kitchen and Jamieson. And top fielders included: Calladine, Whitehill, Kearns, Wallace, Hurst, Biddle, Rowden, Elliott, McIntyre, Handford and Webber. Rowden hit .566 in five frays. Runs batted in showed Cadd and Rowden tied on top. McNally led the C.O.B.L. hurlers with three wins while Biddle was next with three and one loss.

LOTS OF WATER overhead and in the river yesterday at the Wallace Point regatta and swim races. A good regatta, despite the weather, with a big crowd on deck and plenty of entries. Keen competition, too, in most of the events. In the swim races at night Stan McBride took a close one over Alex Carlisle in the senior men's one-mile plug. Paul Hickey, a cripple, stole the applause with his game finish in this race. Alice Carver copped the half-mile senior drive for gals and Mary McKinney won the junior lasses' affair. Ralph Rogow came first in the junior boys' half-mile swim. A feature of the day there was the showing of 75-year-old Zack Smoke in full Indian regalia and birch-bark canoe. He lost to Steve Nichols in the race for gees 60 and over, but won a mixed canoe fours, in which he had two 13-year-old girls. A grand old paddler and may his tribe increase.

A Southpaw In Hot Water

TOMMY POINTER, former Belleville and Napanee senior twirler, and now ace moundsman for Port Hope Ontarios of the Lakeshore Loop, is in the hospital. Had an accident on his job in Port Hope the other day when a connection from a hot water tap became disconnected and sprayed steaming aqua on his arms and back. He will be kept several days in hospital and the Ontarios, heading into the playoffs now, will miss Tommy muchly. The lanky lefthander has been burning 'em over for the Ontarios since they imported him this spring from the Gibbards and the veteran ought to have a few more good seasons in intermediate company. But not if he persists in getting into hot water!

SOUTHEND Softball Loop winds up its schedule tonight with tilts at the Brinton Field and Quaker diamond. Four games a week were run off in this circuit since May 12th in a 56-game schedule. Five of the eight teams have qualified for playoffs, Keene, Little Harlem, DeLaval, Quakers, and Leafs. And Cogs have a chance tonight if they win from Quakers. The winner of the Little Harlem-Keene clash will be tied with DeLaval in third place this half, as will the Cogs if they win tonight. Game at the eastern diamond is at 6.30 o'clock and the southend scrap is at 7.15. In case it comes down buckets of rain, both frays will be pushed over a night. Loop officers meet after the games tonight to arrange playoff dates.

On Softball And a Scribe's Hop

OMEMEE PLAYS the Motorists at seven or so tonight in the Bowl in the first of the six-game set of final fixtures. And a goodly gang of foghorn-voiced fans will no doubt be on deck to yodel their favorites along the way. The five-game gals' final serial begins tonight, too, with the Westclox women (young women, of course!) in Keene. Second and third games will be staged at the Bowl on Friday and Monday nights at seven chimes. It bids fair to being a torrid serious with no holds barred and Managers Ivan Fletcher and Ab Delahaye won't look any happier than fat men with a stomach ache until it is all ovah. Great stuff for graying the hair, eh? Motorists and Westclox men play here Saturday night.

LEO BEGLEY, popular sports writer of the Lindsay Post, has been promoted to town editor of that sheet and will quit turning out his daily sports column. A most readable pillar it was, too, with lots of boosts and only the deserved knocks. We credit this scribe with doing much to keep sports alive—rugby in particular—in a town which suffers from athlete's foot. That is, athletics have been booted around there till most of the better players have drifted to greener pastures. Jack Lamb, who has played a flock of games, will take over the job of banging out sports copy for the Post and we wish him well. But we'll miss Begley, too; at the same time sending our congrats and hope of luck on the higher-up desk.

Ambers-Armstrong Fight Is Postponed Mike Jacobs To Stage Scrap Next Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 — (AP) — Henry Armstrong has been stopped—but it took a good, soaking rain to do it.

He and Lou Ambers were all ready to climb into the ring for their lightweight title scrap last night at the Polo Grounds when a drizzle turned into a downpour and Promoter Mike Jacobs declared a week's armistice.

Taking no chances on another rebuff from the weather, Mike transferred the bout indoors to Madison Square Garden, where the pair will meet next Wednesday night. This was the fight's second postponement, it having been set up for the original date of June 26 when Ambers returned from the west coast with an injury.

The transfer to the Garden pleased Armstrong. Both the little Negro and his portly manager, Eddie Mead, wanted to fight Ambers there all along, but the lightweight king insisted upon an outdoor setting, figuring it would require at least a ball park to hold the crowd.

He doesn't need to worry about that now. There probably weren't more than 5,000 customers rattling around in the Giants' parlor when the rain came last night, and there were none to speak of on the outside trying to get in.

'Out For a Year,' Says Cochrane

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 11—(AP)—Mickey Cochrane, deposed Detroit Tigers baseball manager, hinted Wednesday he hopes to return to baseball after "this year."

During a brief pause here on his way to his ranch near Billings, Wyo., Cochrane was asked if he was through with baseball.

"For this year, I'm through," he replied.

Unexpected Catches

RALEIGH, N.C., Aug. 11.—(AP).—Game Warden J. Y. Eller of Pisgah National Forest, seeking to count the number of deer in the forest, set out traps to catch and hold the animals—without harm—until they had been examined. The traps yielded; an irate hunter, a lady's handbag, and two embarrassed young women in scarf of apples.

Local Athlete Among Stars In Water Meet

A steady drizzle of rain that lasted all afternoon failed to halt the Wallace's Point eighth annual regatta on Wednesday afternoon. From hundreds of cars spectators watched the events, and hundreds more stood about in the rain to cheer the competitors.

Had the day been sunny the regatta would undoubtedly have attracted the most spectators of any meet this year. As it was there were more competitors in every event than at the other regattas, and competition was the keenest to be shown on the water this season.

It was a meet in which events were so varied, competition so keen, that the crowd's interest was at top pitch during the four hours and more that it lasted. Like the boy that saved the icing on his cake to the last, the swimming events at the conclusion of the meet held the crowd, almost to a man, on the grounds through all the rain, until the last man had crossed the finishing line. But the cake itself was of the best quality, needed no icing to make it palatable.

Outstanding stars of the meet were Peterborough's Ward Wright, Hiawatha's Ralph Loucks, Pat and Mary Perrin of Bewdley. Since the Wallace's Point association is their home club, Bill Taylor and Herb Cardwell were not in action. Usually heavy point winners they bowed to the custom that will not permit such stars to compete at their own meet. Taylor raced in double events with Pat Perrin to boost her score toward the women's championship for the regatta season, but took none of the trophies for his victories with her.

Chuckles for Crowd.

A novelty race in which competitors had to propel their boats by paddling them with their hands brought many a laugh from the crowd. Another chuckler was a paper bag race, in which entrants paddled their canoes with their heads covered by paper bags. Many a competitor steered a course straight for the shore, one got turned around and started off upstream in the wrong direction. In another event two men propelled each canoe from the ends of a board balanced across the canoe's midsection. It was a tricky race with numerous spills.

The 50-50-50 race was another that aroused great interest. Competitors raced 50 yards, dove from the pier to swim 50 yards to canoes which they climbed into and paddled for another 50 yards. Winner was Ward Wright of Peterborough. Last event on the regatta before the swimming was listed "canoe tilting from platforms." Each canoe was equipped with a platform on which stood an athlete armed with a long pole tipped with a rubber fist. Lithe competitors found difficulty standing on the wet platforms in the rain, more when they were jabbed in the ribs or under the chins by the rubber fist. Winners were Ralph Loucks and his paddling partner, Bill Hogan. They ousted D. Mortimer and D. Wilson in the finals, both teams being knocked into the water after Loucks had brought Mortimer to his knees but failed to spill him completely.

Competition in all events was closest of any regatta this year. Ward Wright was one of the chief point winners. He captured the men's single canoe event, won the men's tandem canoe with Ralph Loucks and the same pair were first in the novelty hydroplane race. With Pat and Mary Perrin and Ralph Loucks he finished third in the mixed canoe fours. He won the 50-50-50 race. Pat Perrin won the ladies' single canoe event over Mrs. Seleby of Hiawatha; she won the ladies' tandem canoe with her sister; with Bill Taylor she captured first honors in the mixed tandem canoe event; she was first in the mixed tandem gunwale event with Bill Taylor, she was on the team that finished third in the mixed canoe fours.

Canoe tilting—1 R. Loucks and Bill Hogan, 2 D. Mortimer and D. Wilson.

Judges at the meet were H. B. Cowan, senior, Clare Althouse, J. W. A. Patoine, and Doug Loomis, all of Peterborough. Starter Jack Deyell of Millbrook did an outstanding job getting events under way, and gave a demonstration of expert canoeing by spilling intentionally, loading his overturned craft with water, emptying it entirely by rocking, and then climbing back into the craft. Henry Perrin of Toronto was official announcer, Thelma McMillan of Peterborough, sat through all the day's rain to record winners. Bill Taylor and Herb Cardwell were clerks of the course.

"No-Hit" Vander Meer Fails To Stop the Chicago Bats

And Cubmen Climb Within Half Game Of New York G's

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.— (CP).—You never can tell in this baseball business. The fellow who draws his pay-check every two weeks from the club treasurer, will tell you it's champagne one day, water the next; a limousine to-day and a hitch-hike to-morrow.

They know there isn't an awful lot of difference between a pat on the back and a pop bottle out of the stands.

Take a look at a couple of this year's examples—long Lornie Warneke, one of the few reasons the St. Louis Cardinals are still in the National League, and Johnny Vander Meer, the double-no-hit kid, whose tossing tricks earlier in the year boosted Cincinnati Reds into the money.

For weeks, long Lon was getting exactly nowhere. But the six-footer from Arkansas has returned to form, gone the route in five of his last six starts, allowed just eight runs in 52 innings, and won four out of five, three of them by shut outs.

Blanks Pirates 5-0.

Lonnie's latest was a four-hit 5-0 whitewashing over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates in a game cut to seven innings by rain.

Vander Meer, now, has been running just the reverse. Young Johnny tossed two no-hitters in a row, if you remember, and was instantly labelled the hottest thing to come down the pike in years.

But Johnny has failed to go the route in his last five starts, boasts just one victory in seven trips to the post since mid-July, and has been tagged for 26 runs in about 45 innings, which goes to show you how fast things can change. Yesterday he went against the Chicago Cubs, but his boom-ball was belted for four runs in the eighth frame, and the happy Hartnetts took a 6-3 decision.

Gain On Cubs.

By the win, the Cubs climbed to within half-a-game of New York Giants, who were given a neat and thorough going over by Boston Bees, 8-2, and remained 6½ games off the Pittsburgh pace. The scheduled Philadelphia-Brooklyn game was rained out.

The Yankees held their five-game edge in the American League by nipping the Senators, 12-11, in a weird 10-inning affair. A walk with the bases loaded forced in the winning run.

Cleveland's second-place Indians had to stage a five-run rally in the ninth to top St. Louis Browns 9-6.

Swingin' Sammy Chapman celebrated his return to the Athletics' line-up with a two-run homer that beat Boston Red Sox 5-3. Chicago White Sox clubbed four pitchers for 15 hits to nose out the Tigers, 8-7.

VANCOUVER NORTH SHORE TIES THE DOME SOCCERITES 1 TO 1

Pacific Team Gets Tie Goal In Late Rally

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11.— (CP). — Dome Mines, Eastern Canada soccer champions from Timmins, and Vancouver North Shore, Western champions, will start from scratch when they resume their best-of-three Dominion final series here tomorrow night.

Moving from a short-passing game to one of long-range kicking, Vancouver overhauled the light, speedy Ontario team last night to pull out of the first match with a 1-1 tie. Trevor Harvey's 40-foot shot levelled the score late in the game after Timmins' concerted attack had brought an early goal.

From a first period that belonged almost entirely to the miners, the game turned quickly after the intermission to a demonstration of power by North Shore. The Coast eleven's kick-and-run tactics forced Timmins back on the defensive for minutes at a time.

Timmins' lone goal came when Cummings, attempting to clear a drive by George Chambers, deflected the ball into his own net.

In the second half Harvey caught an upper corner of the net with the tying goal.

They All Carry Dynamite-Laden Bats To Plate

Smiling out from the dugout are four reasons for the first division berth now held by Cincinnati Reds in the National League. The happy warriors are Ival Goodman, outfielder; Frank McCormick, first baseman; Ernie Lombardi, catcher, and Wally Berger, outfielder, and for a large part of this season they have occupied four of the first five places in the league's leading batters. Berger, in particular, has been wielding a wicked willow of late after being traded from New York Giants, with whom he was somewhat of a bust.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP)—It was a jinx fight from the day it was signed...Nobody warmer up to it...It never was an outdoor show, anyway and now they've got it where it belongs—in the Garden...From the start ticket sales have lagged which discouraged the fighters as well as their pilots and Promoter Mike Jacobs...Not one in 20 ever gave Ambers a chance against Armstrong and that hurt...Another thing, interest in Schmeling and Louis reached such a high peak that when the reaction set in it really set in...The sports world still is talking about that fight.

Can't keep football news from sneaking onto the sports pages... Here's George Halas, owner of Chicago Bears, predicting the 1938 season will be one of the most outstanding in history...At Ann Arbor they're getting ready for a crowd of 75,000 for the Michigan-Michigan State game largely because of the excitement stirred by the arrival of Fritz Crisler at Michigan...Arnold Herber, Green Bay Packer passing star, has gained 4,738 yards (almost three miles) on his tosses since 1932...

Bill Terry will stand pat on the present Giant lineup for the rest of the season...Pa Stribling just couldn't stay out of boxing, so has taken over Harry (Moon) Mullins, recent Golden Gloves winner...Mike Jacobs has completed arrangements to renew his Garden lease but is saving the announcement until today or tomorrow...Joe McCarthy thinks the Indians will blow up and that Boston and Chicago will furnish the Yank headaches from now on.

Oshawa Squad To Play Petes

The second game of the four-in-seven C.O.B.L. playoffs will be held this Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in Riverside Park. Oshawa GM-men beat the Petes handily in the Motor City last Saturday in the first playoff number and the Petes will have to get in there battling and grab off this tilt to even it up, or their chances will be slim. Third game will be the following weekend in Oshawa. A record crowd of fans for this year is expected out, if the weather is right, to see these classy rivals fighting it out on the diamond in such an important struggle.

No definite announcement has been made by Manager Eddie Murphy of the Petes as to who will start on the home slab. All four flingers, Russ Kitchen, Gunner Whitehill, Joe Jakafby and Letfy McNally, are all set and ready to step in. After his poor showing in Oshawa a week ago, McNally may be given the chance to go back in there this Saturday to see if he can hit his former form and hold the powerful 1937 champions in check. Jack Turner, lanky righthander, is likely to get the call for Oshawa and he has given the locals plenty of trouble to date this year. It will be a grand ball game between good clubs with plenty at stake.

Lacrosse Fray Here Friday

Long Branch lacrossers are playing a scheduled O.L.A. senior "B" fixture with the Petes here this Friday (tomorrow) night at nine o'clock under the lights in the George St. arena. It will be preceded by a midget contest at 8.15 between Y's Men's and Kiwanis. With the senior schedule nearing the playoff season, and the Petes battling to stay up around the top of their group, every game is becoming more and more important now. The locals will be trying hard to hang up another home victory this Friday against the experienced Long Branch crew, and the game should draw another big crowd of guttedstick followers.

Fans have been seeing some swell scraps in lacrosse here lately. A week ago, the Brooklin boys nearly started a few riots, and last Monday the Bramptonites hustled the homesters plenty till out in the fourth frame of a clean, interesting tussle. Long Branch have been playing good lacrosse most of the season and fighting to make a playoff berth. They have promised to send a full squad and will make every effort to get here on time. It ought to be an exciting game between these teams with plenty of action resulting.

Soccer Notes

Tonight on King Edward Park, Brinton meets the C.C.F. in a league game. Kick off at 6.45 prompt. Players to be on time. Referee, T. Foster.

Harold Stewart, the popular C.G.E. right half, has just returned from the hospital after undergoing an operation for appendicitis and is resting at his home. Fans wish him a speedy recovery. Last season, he unfortunately broke his leg.

Since the beginning of the season, William Curtis and Jack Parry of the C.G.E. team have had operations. The latter now is acting as official referee; while the former is anxious that he keep his continuous record of playing consecutive years.

The players and fans that travelled to Port Credit report that the game was an exhibition of excellent character. They were banqueted and entertained after the game by the Beehive executive and received a token of their visit.

Before a player can go and play for another team in any game, he must receive the permission of his club; also the team requesting his services must notify the club concerned.

There is no game in the city Saturday. C.C.F. travels to Deloro in a league game.

Jerseys Swamp Redwings 11-1

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—(CP).— It doesn't happen often, but every once in a while the Jersey City Giants combine their customary good pitching with good hitting and they look like one of the International League's top clubs.

It happened yesterday and the Giants' 11-1 triumph over Rochester Red Wings was the standout game of an abbreviated schedule. Buffalo and Baltimore divided a double-header, the Herd winning 8-2 and losing 4-3. Montreal's night double-header with Syracuse and Toronto's night game with Newark were rained out.

The Giants piled up 13 hits behind the hard-working Glen Gabler, giving him a lead he doesn't often enjoy. Everyone but Babe Herman and Tom Winsett, who naturally enough are former Brooklyn outfielders, got at least one hit, and Mickey Haslin clodted a homer and a single. Catcher Tommy Padden accounted for a triple and a single and drove home three runs.

able wine. Hundreds of spectators crowded the sidewalk.

The Liquor Control Board officials first tried to carry one of the full barrels up the narrow cellar steps, but were forced to resort to the improvised siphon system. Several lengths of hose and an electric pump were secured. A plug was inserted into the bung-hole of the loaded kegs to which was fastened one end of the hose. The wine was then pumped directly into kegs on the large truck. Transfer of the beverage took twelve hours.

Petro Cuiruini, husband of the convicted woman, said he was a wine-maker by trade, having learned the art in Italy. He has been making the wine steadily since 1926, he said. Numerous batches he valued at $8 a gallon.

The wine, mostly manufactured from grapes, was processed by Cuiruini in the large cellar under his home. The basement, a large white-washed area, has none of the accepted appearances of stills or illegal liquor hideouts.

Dozens of barrels line the walls. Immediately at the foot of the stairs is the home-made press which is used to squeeze the juice from the grapes. There appeared to have been no attempt to conceal either wine-making equipment or the product.

Stan McBride Wins Swim By Half a Length At Wallace Point Regatta

Alex Carlisle Swims Close Second in Field Of Twenty-Two Entrants

Stan McBride of Peterborough and Alex Carlisle of Peterborough provided the greatest crowd thrill of the Wallace's Point Regatta on Wednesday afternoon when through a drizzling rain, they swam neck and neck over a mile course in the men's senior race. McBride forged ahead in the home stretch to win by less then half a length over a field of twenty-two, sixteen of whom finished. So close were the two men that they were clocked together, in the fast time of 21 minutes and 10 seconds.

The swimming races that closed the rainy regatta held greatest interest for the crowd, almost all of whom stayed through the drizzling rain to see the end of the last race. Every race had its own highlights, brought excitement to a high pitch.

Although McBride and Carlisle provided the greatest racing, Jack Jopling of Bridgenorth finishing third and Vern Janeway of Peterborough ending in fourth position, the greatest applause was won by none of the four men. Most applauded of all the competitors finished next to last, a full 15 minutes after the first man had crossed the finishing line. He was Paul Hickey of Peterborough, badly crippled from infantile paralysis.

Carried to the water's edge, he dropped in with the other competitors, struggled around the gruelling course with one leg hanging useless in the water. Hickey learned to swim at the Peterborough Y. M. C. A. only last fall.

Most spectacular swimmer in the meet was a 15-year-old girl from Caesarea, May McKinney, entered in the junior girls' half-mile event. Juniors and seniors took to the water at the same time, although the races were clocked separately. Ahead of the whole field, of thirteen seniors and juniors alike, all through the race was May McKinney. She finished a hundred yards ahead of the next swimmer, who was Alice Carver from Caesarea, to whom went the senior title. May McKinney's time for the half mile was 12 minutes and four seconds, almost a record.

Second in the girls' junior race was Mhora Howson of Crowe's Landing, who finished far behind the winner. Grace Barnes of Peterborough was third. Seven started in the race, all finished. Second in the girls' senior half-mile was Jean McKinney of Caesarea, and third was Mrs. Lillian Wood of Peterborough closely followed by Thora Stalter of Peterborough.

First boy to cross the finish line in the boys' half-mile swim was Ron Cook of Oshawa, disqualified because he did not reside in this district. He had hitch-hiked from Oshawa, a trip that took him an entire day, to enter the swim. He had not sent in an entry and regatta officials had not been able to warn him his trip would be in vain. First prize went to Ralph Rogow of Peterborough who finished only a body length ahead of Donald Howson of Crowe's Landing, in a thrilling race. Gerard O'Toole of Peterborough was third. Eleven were entered, all finished.

Results of the swims were as follows:

Girls Junior Swim: 1. May McKinney, Caesarea, 12 minutes, 4 seconds; 2. Mhora Howson, Crowe's Landing; 3. Grace Barnes, Peterborough; 4. Pat McGarrity, Peterborough; 5. Iris Forbes, Peterborough; 6. Lena Shearer, Buckhorn.

Girls Senior Swim: 1. Alice Carver, Caesarea, no time given; 2. Jean McKinney, Caesarea; 3. Mrs. Lillian Wood, Peterborough; 4. Thora Stalter, Peterborough; 5. Margo Edmonds, Peterborough; 6. Shirley Zacks, Peterborough; 7. Mary Radford, Bewdley.

Men's Senior Mile Swim: 1. Stan McBride, Peterborough, 21 minutes and 10 seconds; 2. Alex Carlisle, Peterborough; 3. Jack Jopling, Bridgenorth; 4. Vern Janeway, Peterborough; 5. Sonny Cadman, Crowe's Landing; 6. Bill Ferguson, Bridgenorth. Others to finish were Bill Campbell, Caesarea, Ed Prete, Peterborough, Paul Hickey, Peterborough, Jim Hardy, Peterborough, Jim Lillico, Peterborough, Charles Cook, Wallace's Point, Willon Wildman, Peterborough, Jack Bennett, Peterborough, Peter Burke, Oshawa.

The races were organized by Gord Minty, swimming coach at the Y. M.C.A. here, who also operated the microphone during the events. Thanks were extended to the Peterborough Examiner who provided a loud speaker system for the meet. By this means spectators in cars throughout the extensive grounds learned immediately who had won each event.

County Council To Be Guests Of City Council

The members of the county council will be guests of the city council at luncheon next Thursday at which Hon. P. M. Dewen, Minister of Agriculture, will be extended a civic reception.

Hon. Mr. Dewan is coming to Peterborough formally to open the Exhibition, and an invitation has been sent to him to be the city's guest at the Empress dinner. If Alderman Gordon, chairman of the reception committee, has returned from his vacation by that time, it is likely that he will preside, otherwise the honor may go to Alderman Cotton, who has been assisting in the arrangements.

Peterborough's Exhibition opens next Wednesday. The first automobile will be passed out to some one that night, and the whole plant will be doing business, but Hon. Mr. Dewan was invited by the directors to come on Thursday and officially open the "Ex."

Regatta Held At Wallace Point In Spite of Heavy Rain

Pavilion License Is Held Up By North Monaghan Council

The North Monaghan council held their regular monthly meeting on August 8.

Dr. J. A. Middleton was present and asked approval by the council of a plan of a subdivision of his property on Monaghan Road.

A resolution was passed that Dr. Middelton's subdivision of a portion of his ten-acre lot should be accepted and confirmed for registration.

Herbert Payne presented an application form for a public hall license at Rye's Pavilion. The council refused to approve the request until such time as the conveniences and the operation of the pavilion meet with the approval of the council.

The following accounts were passed for payment: Roads, $127.88; direct relief, $139.51; special grants, $20 administration of justice, $6; printing, $50.85; high school rates, whatever balance of the 1937 taxes the collector has on hand; salaries, $45; miscellaneous, $3.

The following correspondence was read:

Bruce Menzies, asking for a raise in salary. Harry Dunlop, re child in Sick Children's Hospital. The Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act. The town of Leaside re school budgets and municipal councils. F. G. McNeeley, re relief administration and earnings of relief recipients. Department of Public Welfare, re relief recipients receiving pay from the Department of National Defence. Dr. A. E. Berry, re sewer on Charlotte street. Department of Public Welfare, re new registration of relief recipients. The city clerk, restating that the city of Peterborough would co-operate in erecting stop signs with the township on Monaghan Road when the township gets the approval of the Department of Highways. The Construction Safety Association re Workmen's Compensation Board.

The clerk was instructed to write and ask the Department of Highways for permission to lay sewer and water main on the south side of Highway No. 28, from Frederick street to Mr. Dallin's property. The meeting was then adjourned, with a special meeting to be held at the call of the reeve for general business.

Winterton Painting Worth $48,800 Stolen

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP) — A painting by Sir Joshua Reynolds valued at £10,000 ($48,000) was stolen from the country estate of Earl Winterton, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, early Wednesday, it was disclosed today.

Reynolds' oil painting of Edward, first Earl Winterton, was removed from its frame. A miniature described as "extremely valuable" and quantity of jewelry also were taken.

Both Lord and Lady Winterton were away and only servants occupied the house.

A secretary said the full value of the stolen objects had not yet been estimated. The jewelry included a diamond snuff box, a gold ring, two gold cigarette cases and a number of medals and coins.

27 POUND 'LUNGE.

Largest lunge to be landed from Lake Chemong this year was captured on Wednesday by Charles Forsythe of Bridgenorth, who was trolling. The fish weighed 27 pounds and was brought to Forsythe's boat after a terrific struggle.

APPOINTED EDITOR.

Leo Begley, son of Tom J. Begley, of Lindsay, has been appointed editor of The Lindsay Post, a responsibility held some years ago by his father. The change follows the resignation of S. R. Pitts, who with H. M. Davies, accountant, have acquired the Barrie "Northern Advance."

YOUNGEST COMPETITOR.

Smallest and youngest competitor in the swimming races at Wallace's Point Wednesday was Iris Forbes of Peterborough. Barely twelve years of age, weighing only 60 pounds, she finished second in the half-mile event for junior girls, amid enthusiastic applause from spectators. Iris won the city diving championship last year, is one of the Y.W. C.A.'s most promising swimmers, an aquatic star whom swimmers say will make a great mark for herself.

SWIMMER INJURES FOOT.

Louis Giardino of Parnell street, is the fifth victim to injure himself while swimming at the High Bridge on the Trent canal above the Lift Locks. On Wednesday Giardino jumped into the water, struck his foot on bottom and when he swam ashore discovered his little toe was severely gashed, as if he had struck a piece of broken glass on the canal bottom. He bandaged the foot himself and rode home on a bicycle. Four others have been injured in a similar manner at the same spot.

New Publishers

LOST EYE IN GOLF

OSBORNE, Isle of Wight—(CP)—Taking part in a golf mixed foursome, Mrs. C. H. Cooper was struck in the eye by a ball driven from a tee. The optic was removed in hospital.

Despite a steady fall of rain all Wednesday afternoon Wallace's Point put on the best of all the year's regattas, with more competitors, a wide variety of events, keen competition, and high crowd interest. Chief winner among the women competitors was Pat Perrin of Bewdley, shown at left in (1) with her sister, Mary Perrin. The two sisters were team mates in many double events.

Highlights of the day's events was the swimming that closed the regatta. Junior and senior girls started together, separate time being kept for the two races. A hundred yards ahead of all contestants, senior and junior alike, at the finish was 15-year-old May McKinney of Caesarea shown in (2). Behind her finished Alice Carver of Caesarea, who captured the senior title.

Ralph Loucks of Hiawatha and Ward Wright of Peterborough (4) were chief point winners in the men's events. Wright at the stern of the canoe. An Indian in full regalia paddling a home-made birch bark canoe gave the crowd a thrill in the race for men over 60. He was Zack Smoke, aged 63, of Alderville and he finished second, behind 75-year-old Steve Nichols of Hiawatha. Zack returned to race to victory with Fred Smoke and two 13-year-old girls, in the four-in-canoe race over a large field of the meet's best water athletes. He returned to the meet after his victory mounted on a horse, waved to the cheering crowd (5).

Eleven entrants lined up for the men's single canoe race in a drizzling rain. First to finish was Ward Wright of Peterborough, in the canoe fifth from the camera.

RATHER EXCITED.

Florence Leach, optometrist, must have thought she was in England on Wednesday afternoon when Ben Morris, Kawartha Golf Club pro., quoted her a price for repairing clubs.

Ben was in a bit of a daze at the time, and no wonder; his wife had just given birth to a baby and he was just recovering. Ben has had triumphs in his golfing career and has had many a birdie, but this was the first baby.

He was receiving congratulations from dozens of golfers who were crowding his shop at the club waiting to see if the rain would let up enough to permit play, when Miss Leach came in to ask him to add weight to her clubs.

"How much will it be?" she asked.

With eyes still glazed, his mind wandering, Ben answered: "Four and a half pounds. Isn't that great."

Hotel President Dies

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11.—(CP)—Lloyd Manley, 72-year-old president of the Hotels Association of Canada and founder of the interior British Columbia city of Grand Forks, died here last night.

75-Year-Old Indian Retains Skill As Great Canoeist

A 75-year-old Indian from Hiawatha, Steve Nichols, one of the most famous paddlers in this country half a century ago, showed spectators at the Wallace's Point regatta on Wednesday, that he had lost little of his skill with the passing of years.

He won a special two hundred yard canoe race for men sixty years of age and over, by soundly defeating another Indian, Zack Smoke, of Alderville, 63, in a race that was little slower than the races paddled by younger competitors. Smoke, in full Indian regalia, was paddling a home-made birch canoe. Nichols took the lead from the start, paddled a strong race, won handily. "My ars are all right still," he said afterwards. "but my heart isn't what it used to be."

Most spectators thought that for 75 years of service his heart had behaved extremely well. Half a century ago Nichols was famed throughout the entire province. He and Madden Howard of Hiawatha, who is himself the oldest guide on Rice Lake now, used to have sensational competitions for canoeing championships, and their triumphs are still told by oldsters.

But if Zack Smoke was outshone by Steven Nichols in the race for oldsters, he returned to a blaze of glory in another event in competition with young paddlers. With Fred Smoke and two 13-year-old girls, Betty Walker and Iris Forbes, he raced to victory in the mixed canoe fours, ahead of a large field composed of the regatta's most outstanding stars, defeating such prominent water athletes as the Perrin sisters of Bewdley, paddling with R. Loucks and Ward Wright.

Rising Golfer

One of the longest driving amateur golfers on the continent and a party to be reckoned with in future tournaments is Bud Ward (above), at Olympia, Washington, whose feats have been outstanding on the Pacific coast. Bud lost out to Johnny Goodman in the semi-finals of last year's U.S. amateur, but since then has turned in fine performances on Uncle Sam's Walker Cup team, and captured the Washington state open and amateur crowns.

Demark is using rigorous measures to stamp out the hoof-and-mouth disease.

Move Entirely Due To Present Day Economic Conditions

Fifty employees of the Auburn mill will be out of work by the end of this week as a result of a shutdown of two departments, decided upon this morning by officials of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Company. Dyeing and finishing operations will no longer be carried out at the Peterborough plant, but will be moved to the Hespeler plant, it was announced.

The shutdown is the result of economic conditions entirely, and has no connection with labor troubles in any way, according to H. S. Leybourne, comptroller of the Auburn plant.

Announcement of the change came from Henry Barrett, managing director of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Company after he had conferred with the city council's manufacturers' committee, Alderman R. M. Glover, R. S. Cotton, James Dutton, and Herbert Bradburn, and company officials this morning at the Auburn mill to discuss the situation.

Mr. Barrett's statement was as follows: "Due to the necessity for operating in the most economical manner possible the company finds it necessary to consolidate at one point its dyeing, finishing and subsequent operations.

"To bring this policy into effect the company is obliged to discontinue these operations at the Auburn mill and sincerely regrets the step will have some effect on the labor situation in Peterborough."

The dye house is already closed and some of the machinery has been moved to Hespeler, while remainder of the shift will be carried out by the end of the week, it is thought. Other departments in the mill will continue to operate as in the past.

The manufacturers' Committee discussed with the company the possibility of sending some of the men who will lose positions here, to work at the Hespler plant, but found that no such course is possible. Should business improve to a marked degree, however, it is possible the space that has been occupied by the dyeing and finishing departments, may be put into use for other operations which are still being done at the plant. There was no indication, however, that such a step is being contemplated at the present time.

Collis—Florence

Malloney's Art Galleries, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 6 o'clock last night when Beatrice Florence, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Florence of Peterborough, was married to Benjamin Collis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Collis of Oshawa. An orchestra supplied the wedding music and Miss Kay Cherney sang during the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and the traditional Hebrew marriage ceremony was solemnized by Rabbi Sloacum, of McCaul St. Synagogue, Toronto. The bride wore a graceful floor length frock of ceri lace, fashioned on princess lines and the sleeves and skirt were trimmed with lover's knots. The sleeves were full puff and had long cuffs while the collar was Peter Pan style. Her full veil was held in place by a tiny satin bonnet in matching tones and she carried a Bible from which hung many rose tipped ribbons.

Miss Selma Florence, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor and wore a dainty jacket frock of blue sheer, with Peter Pan collar. The two bridesmaids were Miss Bernice Fine and Miss Ruth Beube of Toronto, cousins of the bride and they wore identical dresses to the maid of honor except in pale pink shade of sheer. All three wore wreaths of rosebuds and carried nosegays of roses.

Mr. Elliott Cohen of Toronto, attended as best man and the ushers were Earl Florence, brother of the bride and Meyer Cherney of Peterborough.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Art Galleries to 70 guests where the bride's mother received wearing a gown of pale blue suede lace and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Collis, mother of the groom, wore rose suede lace and corsage of sweet peas.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Collis left on an extended honeymoon trip to Havana, Cuba and will visit Miami, Florida, on their return. The bride travelled in a white dress of Tahiti linen trimmed with black, white and black straw hat, sailor model, white shoes and a top coat of white polo cloth. They will live in Oshawa.

Boddison—Grainger

St. Peter's Cathedral was the scene of a pretty wedding at eight o'clock this morning when Marie Helen, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Grainger, was united in marriage with Sidney William Boddison, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Boddison. Rev. Father Kelly solemnized the marriage and celebrated the Nuptial mass, and the wedding music was played by Miss Veronica Scollard, A.T.C.M., with Miss Phyllis Cowie singing.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a stately gown of white satin with slight train. The frock had a lace yoke, fitted bodice. Queen Anne style collar and leg of motton sleeves with tight fitting cuffs. Tiny satin covered buttons adorned the dress at the front from the throat to the hem. She wore a full veil held in place by a satin Juliet cap, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. White lace mittens and white kid shoes completed the costume.

Miss Eileen Grainger, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and was frocked in turquoise chiffon with tiny pink flower design appliqued on the dress. The low neckline was flower bordered and she wore a shoulder veil of pink caught with a cluster of rose buds. She carried Sweetheart roses.

Miss Doreen Grainger and Miss Peggy Boddison were junior bridesmaids and both carried old fashioned nosegays of sweet peas. Miss Grainger was frocked in pink taffeta and Miss Boddison in green with both frocks being identical in style and had seven bows on the bodice. They wore Juliet caps of taffeta in matching shades. The flower girl was a niece of the bride, Rose Marie McColl and she wore yellow taffeta, a cap of rose buds and carried a basket of sweet peas and summer flowers.

The best man was Mr. Frank Hitchens, and ushers were Roy Grainger and Melville McColl, brother and brother-in-law of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception and wedding breakfast was held at Walkerfield House, where the bride's mother assisted in receiving and wore poudre bleu chiffon and white picture model hat. Mrs. Boddison was gowned in dark blue chiffon with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Boddison left later on a honeymoon trip by motor to Port Colborne. The bride travelled in a blue crochet suit with white sash, white shoes, gloves and purse. On their return they will live at 592 Douglas Avenue.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Making Use of Vegetables When They Are Plentiful Healthy Diet For Family

Before Audrey went on her holidays my mind was full of noble resolves to prepare some rare and different meals while she was away—but she has been gone a week now and I yearn for the end of next week when she will be back.

Her patience with cleaning and preparing vegetables and making delicious sauces for them—and peeling and cleaning and stoning fruit is endless, and I am going to pin a medal on her for it on her return (on her lapel I mean.)

Naturally I have evolved a few short cuts since I have to do a three-a-day myself.

Mock Drawn Buter Sauce for Cauliflower, etc.

Instead of lamenting the wasted butter on the sides and bottom of the vegetable serving dishes I drained the cauliflower and pushed it to one side of the pan in which it was cooked. I dropped about 3 tablespoons butter on one side, melted it, and added about 1 tablespoon flour and stirred it into the butter, then add not more than ¼ cup of the cooking liquid. This gave me mostly butter, but enough thick liquid to make it all cling to the cauliflower and make it interesting looked with very little effort. The addition of paprika or a few gratings of green pepper is an idea for next time.

Carrots a la King

My tastes must be bourgeois because I like carrots.

The farm next to our summer cabin has carrots about ¾-inch in diameter this week. They merely needed scrubbing to clean them, and I cooked them whole in salted water.

If the carrots were large they could be cut in quarters lengthwise.

For about 1 quart of carrots make a white sauce using 4 tablespoons each butter and flour, 1 cup each milk and liquid in which carrots were cooked (melt butter, stir in flour then liquids, stirring until they thicken). Flavor with white pepper and salt, and add 1 tablespoon each finely chopped or grated celery, pimiento (or green pepper), minced parsley, grated onion. Reheat, but if vegetables are fine enough they need no additional cooking, and pour over carrots.

A good item on a semi-vegetarian dinner is:

Baked String Beans and Bacon

Two pounds yellow or string beans, 6 slices bacon, 1½ cups thin white sauce (see above recipe for white sauce—replace the carrot water with bean water), 1¼ teaspoons salt, ¾ teaspoon white pepper, 3 tablespoons melted butter or cooking oil, ½ cup sifted crumbs. Cook the string beans cut in inch or ½-inch lengths until tender. Cut the bacon into small strips and saute until crisp. Add the bacon to the drained beans, with the white sauce, salt and pepper and 2 tablespoons of butter or oil. Pour into buttered casserole and sprinkle the crumbs which have been buttered in the remaining tablespoon of butter or oil over top. Bake at 425 for 20 minutes or until cream sauce bubbles and crumbs are golden.

Casserole of Spinach

Make this in the same way as Baked String Beans and bacon, replacing the bacon with 2 chopped hard cooked eggs, and adding 1 teaspoon grated onion to it.

Vegetable Marrow Au Gratin

(I like this vegetable with salt and pepper and butter but a hotel chef tells me that it attracts very little attention on the menu unless it is served with cheese or Hollandaise sauce.)

Wash, cut in rings, peel and remove seedy portion from a small marrow. Cut rings in crescents. Parboil in salted water 5 minutes—no longer or it will be too soft to handle. Place a layer of the marrow in bottom of buttered casserole and sprinkle over it old grated cheese, add over this thin white sauce—continue these layers 3 times and cover top with buttered crumbs. Bake long enough to make sauce bubble and crumbs golden.

Vegetable Marrow French Fried or Boiled

Prepare the marrow for boiling as above only parboil it only 2 minutes—so it will still be crisp enough to handle.

Dip it in crumbs, egg and crumbs and either fry in deep fat at 390 for about 5 minutes or broil under hot flame, turning once. A delicious piece de resistance for a vegetable plate.

Stuffed Onions

Peppers, tomatoes and onions are one of my best standbys for stuffing for Tuesday night's dinner, when the end of a roast has to be utilized without appearing to be a leftover. This summer's crop of onions is cheap and wholesome, easy to prepare this way.

To 1 cup dry crumbs add 1 cup cream sauce, about ½ cup ground meat, chopped parsley, salt, pepper, an egg if you want to. Peel large onions and boil gently until tender. When cool enough to handle scoop out about half the centre, fill cavity with stuffing, sprinkle top with cheese or crumbs and bake until heated through and golden. These are so good we advise serving them as the feature on a vegetable plate—corn on the cob, broccoli with Hollandaise, sliced tomatoes on lettuce making colorful and flavorful accompaniments.

Don't Forget

To brush freshly husked corn with butter and broil it, turning about 3 times, instead of boiling it in water every time.

That celery (especially the outer stalks) may be cut in inch or 3-inch lengths, until tender, rolled in sifted buttered crumbs, and broiled for a moment to brown the crumbs. If outer stalks are used this is a very cheap item for dinner.

The egg plant has a less intense flavor if parboiled and then dipped in crumbs, egg and crumbs and then fried or French fried, than it has if sliced and fried raw.

That fresh corn and finely chopped celery make a grand savory custard when two eggs beaten in 1 pint milk are added along with salt and pepper and a finely chopped tablespoon of green pepper.

To utilize leftover cooked corn on the cob by heating it in top of double boiler with milk, then forcing it through sieve, adding butter and salt to make cream of corn soup—one of the best of its kind.

Corn and cabbage and Swiss chard are all good "au gratin."

Gray and Black

Your tweed suit may combine several colors and designs or it may use but one or two.

This town suit worn by Bette Davis is in spongy surfaced gray wool cross-barred in black.

The coat is three-quarters length, and has a neat turned-down collar of Persian lamb, while the patch pockets show the same fur trim.

Miss Davis' accessories are black.

Try Counting Meteors

UPPER DARBY, Pa., Aug. 11—(AP)—The American Meteor Society, of which Dr. C. P. Olivier is the directing head, asks that sleepless persons tonight and tomorrow night count meteors instead of sheep and report the result. An unusual show of meteors is expected.

Unique Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11—(AP).—Leaders of the Nation's Union Bartenders and of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union slept, ate and held meetings under the same roof to-day. Both groups chose the same hotel as national convention headquarters.

Wrong Mortgage

HOLT, Mo., Aug. 11.—(AP).—A flustered bridegroom, late for his wedding, waited impatiently for the marriage license to be filled out. Finally he grabbed a paper from the Clay county recorder and rushed to the home of his intended bride. The waiting minister opened the folded paper—it was a chattel mortgage on a sow and seven pigs.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Though man a thinking being is defined,
Few use the grand prerogative of mind.
How few think justly of the thinking few!
How many never think, who think they do!" —Jane Taylor.

Dear Friends:

To continue about our thoughts and the effect they have on us in peace of mind, or in a sense of futility, or in many small irritations. How foolish we are when we let someone else's silly prattle disturb the serenity of our thoughts.

Have you ever sat by the side of a stream and watched it slipping by, while the sun sparkled on the ripples it made? It gave you a sense of peace, it lulled you to rest, and the day seemed so pleasant in every way.

But, let someone come along and stir around the bottom of this stream, and all there is, is muddy dirty water which the sun cannot brighten, and it becomes a place where you want to get away from.

That is what happens when we let others stir up our lives with too many of their small happenings. And there are many in the world who will not let things be, but must forever be stirring things up, muddying their own lives, and carrying some of this mud into your life by their talk.

It is a hard thing to learn to do, but I find a dose of indifference, a sort of blank wall for them to talk into, with a bare yes or no as answer, is far the best remedy for this sort of thing.

Because, if you try to show interest, they keep imposing on you more and more, they do not know their place, they overflow into your life, and then irritation gets it's fangs into you.

There are those who never tire us, the ones whom we like to exchange ideas with, the ones whom we put confidence in and who put their confidence in us, and these people are a joy to be with at all times.

They are the ones who think things out, who reason about this and that, who read and digest what they read, and truly have something to talk about. But God preserve us all from those who talk inanities, who don't seem to have a brain in their head unless for what concerns themselves exclusively.

And, to change the subject a little, consider how your thoughts affect you. Think of something good that has come along and you can go about your work happy and content, maybe even whistling or singing a bit.

Did you ever realize that a thought put into words, gains life? Yet it does. And so, when you want to pray, use words to do it. When you want to praise, use words again. When you want to blame, consider a little, then if it is indicated, go ahead.

What is worry but thinking? Turn it in the other direction and you have constructive thought. Never once have I had a worry show up without having my brain going frantically, so that I should rid myself of it.

So, instead of wringing your hands, wring your brain to find a solution of any trouble you are in. If you cannot see a way out, then ask God to do it for you. He will not fail you, for it is my opinion the only ones who are not answered are the ones who leave it ALL to Him, doing nothing to help themselves. Control your thoughts and they will help you see daylight again. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE)

My mind still being on the subject of veal because of its drop in price I give you this veal recipe because it proved a decided success last night for dinner.

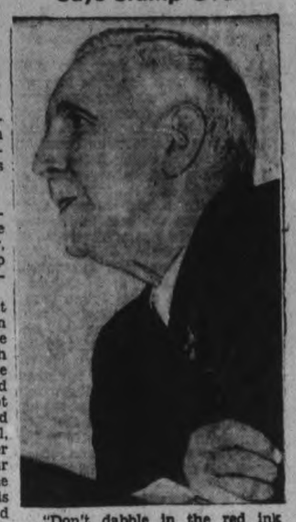
VEAL—German Style

Three strips bacon, 2 cups chopped peeled onions, 1½ to 2 lb. slice veal from top of round, ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, speck pepper, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice.

Chop the bacon and brown it with the onions in the frying pan stirring. Sprinkle the veal with the mixed flour, salt and pepper. Push the bacon and onions to one side in the pan, put in the veal and brown it on both sides over hot flame for about 2 minutes. Spread the onions and bacon over the veal, pour in the water at one side, cover and cook slowly for at least ½ hour—preferably one hour, then add the vinegar and cook 15 minutes. This is served in Germany with fried noodles—boiled macaroni well buttered is good too.

Among the students in the Fine Art class dealing with Ancient, Oriental and American Aboriginal Art, were the following from Peterborough: Margaret Whittaker, Constance E. Wagar and John Londerville.

Says Slump Over



"Don't dabble in the red ink business," says Roger Babson, ABOVE, well-known economist and business analyst, expressing the opinion that business was unusually good for this time of year and would continue to improve for the rest of the year. Since he predicted the debacle of 1929, Babson's words have not been taken too lightly.

READ THIS FIRST:

Determined to show Dr. Julian Paige, the man she is in love with, that she can make her own way in the world, Noel Shayne, wealthy society girl burns her bridges behind her, moves to a rooming house and, for lack of anything better obtains a job as a taxi dancer which she feels will be only temporary. She is living with a girl named Laurie Evans whom she met in the park. Noel feels she has adangerous rival in Ruth Chester, Julian's pretty nurse, who has been antagonistic. Laurie obtains a job as cashier at the restaurant which Julian usually patronizes. She tells Noel of seeing the young doctor there at noon though Ruth Chester had told Noel he had not returned from his trip. Julian sees Noel at the restaurant and "prescribes" a day in the country the folowing Sunday. One of the girls at the peacock warns Noel that Luigi is madly in love with her. He had offered Noel a raise which she refused. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 13

WHEN NOEL awakened the next morning, her thoughts went back at once to Maida's warning about Nick Luigi. Laurie had warned her too, but Noel resolved to put all thoughts of Nick from her mind. She was too happy today to let her mind dwell on unpleasant things, because in a short while she and Julian would begin their holiday together.

Laurie went to work on Sunday as well as week days, so she was up early. Noel stayed lazily in bed and watched her as she moved about the room getting ready for work. Laurie was always so neat and deft about everything she did with a quick bird-like way of getting things done, it was really fascinating to watch her.

Noel hadn't yet gotten over her clumsiness when it came to doing her hair and nails, working with her clothes and mending her stockings.

Sometimes Laurie would see her struggling with a run and she'd say with a laugh. "'Here, let me do that. You're all thumbs."

Once she had said teasingly, "Honey, for heaven's sake, don't ever marry a poor man. You'd ruin him."

Laurie had meant it only as a joke, and she didn't see that her words had caused Noel to wince.

Noel learned something nearly every day from Laurie, who was only to glad to explain things to Noel, such as how to find bargains in the basement of the stores, how to champoo your own hair, and set the wave, how to get shiny places off your woollen clothes.

But Noel knew she would never be as deft with her fingers as Laurie was. This morning she got up early, as she had to work on her suit. It had a sort of wilted look since she had gotten it so damp.

As she brushed and pressed the skirt, Noel thought of her expensive tailored suits, the blouses in crepe and lace she had worn with them, as well as the gardenia, which she had always considered necessary to complete such an ensemble. All that seemed very far away indeed.

But Noel wasn't looking back regretfully. She believed, like everything else, that the first few weeks were always the hardest. She felt serenely confident that when she had a chance to leave Luigi's that things would be ever so much better.

She was dressed in the suit skirt of tweed, and a little slip-on sweater of Laurie's part wool and cotton, which was just exactly the color of Noel's eyes (which was why Laurie had insisted she should wear it) and the little "beanie" sitting on the back of her head, and ready to leave for the De Luxe nearly half an hour before time to meet Julian.

She had even given herself a manicure of sorts, and brushed her hair until it had recovered some of the shimmering beauty it had always possessed when Nanette, her maid, had taken care of it. Remembering that Julian had remarked upon her paleness, she used rouge and lipstick. Then she started walking slowly toward the De Luxe. It would be better to be 10 minutes late than even two minutes early.

By walking slowly and stopping for a bit of window-shopping now and then, it was a little past the hour when Noel entered the De Luxe.

Laurie was busy at the register, checking up the breakfast tickets, and Julian was standing near, with one elbow resting on the cigar counter.

Then he and Noel were waving Laurie goodby and walking out together. Julian looked like a boy in his red turtle-neck sweater, with his dark hair tousled a little and his eyes eager.

In another minute they were in the car, Julian at the wheel carefully threading his way through the early morning traffic.

For a while there had been a few clouds in the sky. But just as they left the city limts, the sun came out in a great smiling burst of light. It was going to be a glorious day, Noel told herself happily.

"We're passing Riverside park and going down the river about 20 miles or so," Julian told her. And added, "I wanted to be sure we could have our part of the river and the woods to ourselves. The rowboat will be there waiting on the bar."

"I had no idea you were so efficient about picnics," Noel complimented admiringly.

"Listen," Julian began with some of the boastfulness of a small boy, "you'd be surprised to find out how efficient I am about a lot of things in the woods. I was born on the 'wrong side' you know, 'way out in the sticks. I'm a country boy."

"If you don't look out, some day you'll grow up to be president," Noel teased.

Julian gave a chuckle.

If Noel had only known it, she hadn't needed rouge or lipstick either, for the crisp morning air soon whipped up a rich color in her face, and brought a sparkle to her eyes. It was wonderful to be sitting beside Julian, feeling his shoulder occasionally brush hers, watching his sensitive, slender, brown fingers guiding the car.

Then she realized that Julian was stopping. He took his hands off the wheel, pulled an immaculate handkerchief from his pocket, and applied it gently but firmly against her cheeks and lips. "Now you look better," he said and started the car again.

He had removed the rough and lipstick entirely. "Julian, you are simply too, too funny," Noel laughed.

He gave a little chuckle. "I suppose I am."

"I hadn't any idea you were so old-fashioned," Noel went on, and then said, "and I do wish you wouldn't treat me as a child."

"But that's what you are. A dreadfully spoiled, willful, stubborn—but quite adorable—child."

"That's not true," Noel retorted with a little pout.

"It's a good thing I'm not looking at you now," Julian said, seemingly for no reason at all, but his words brought a quick flush to Noel's cheeks. She thought he meant that if he had been looking at her while her lips were drawn into a pout, he would have kissed her. But of course she couldn't always be sure just what Julian did mean. He was often enigmatic.

Then they reached the little spot on the river where there was a sand bar, and a rowboat beached right in the very spot where Julian had expected it to be. He brought cushions from the back of the car, arranged them in one end of the boat, then held out his hand to Noel. "Sleopatra, your barge awaits—"

Another minute and Noel was seated in the end of the boat, leaning luxuriously against the cushions, while Julian took his seat in the centre, putting the oars into the oarlocks.

"Noel, I have a confession to make," he said as he started rowing "It's absolutely necessary for me to sing when I row a boat and find myself off in the woods like this. I hope you'll be able to take it philosophically."

"This is too dreadful," Noel bantered. "I suppose you are also a bathroom baritone. You would be."

"Must you be personal?" Julian retorted. "How about 'The Long, Long Trail?'" he went on. "My repertoire is not very modern, but what it lacks in that way, I make up in noise."

"I knew this was going to be awful," Noel commented.

"That only proves that you know nothing of good music," Julian began. Then he lifted his voice and began singing in a really nice, but untrained voice full of gusto and feeling. In a minute Noel's clear soprano joined in.

When they had finished, Julian laid down the oars and let the boat drift for a few minutes. "Why, Noel, you really can sing. Your voice—" he stopped as if for a moment at a loss for words. "It has warmth and appeal, and it—sort of cuddles up against your heart strings."

"I'm entirely too comfortable, or I'd make you a bow for such a pretty speech," Noel said, lazily letting her fingers trail in the water.

"It is a surprise to find that you have such a sweet voice," Julian repeated.

"You might learn other things about me equally as surprising, my erratic young friend," Noel countered saucily.

"Are you still trying to upset my theories about young ladies who have too much money?"

Young Widows Should Remarry If They Want Happiness and Security In Later Life—There Is No Sense In Mourning Too Long Over That Which Is Gone

DEAR MISS DIX—When my husband, to whom I had been married for twenty happy years, died I thought that I was done with all thoughts of love and marriage and that I would spend the balance of my life being faithful to his memory, but a dear friend, whom I have known ever since my high school days has asked me to be his wife. The feeling that I have for him is like a sister's love for her brother. Great affection and friendship, respect and admiration, but it has nothing of the passion that I felt for my husband. I have told my friend just how I feel and he says that he will be perfectly satisfied with imperfect love. For myself I might refuse this offer of marriage, but I am poor and can give my children none of the advantages that their father might have given them had he lived. This man is both able and willing to provide for the children. He is very fond of them and they love him dearly, thus there would be no stepfather problem. It is only the fear of appearing inconsistent to my husband that makes me wonder whether I should remarry. D.K.

ANSWER:

By all means take the good that the gods have provided for you and thank heaven for the luck that has fallen you and your children.

Don't let any silly, sentimental thought about being faithful to your husband's memory keep you from marrying this good man. Many women make that mistake. They have some sort of an idea that they prove their devotion to their dead husbands by spending the balance of their lives mourning over them and watering their graves with their tears.

I have known widows who wore mourning for twenty and thirty years, who never went anywhere except to church and who cut themselves off from all the joy and sunshine of life, though why they thought it would add anything to the happiness of saints in glory for the wives they had left behind them to lead miserable, unprofitable lives not even they could explain.

If those who have passed on to the other world know what is happening in this, your husband will be glad to know that you have a strong man to protect you and the children and to provide you with comforts instead of you being forced to exist meagerly and toil and strive to keep the wolf from the door.

I heartily advocate the remarriage of young widows. Death has written "finis" to one chapter of their lives. That is ended, but there is no reason why they should not begin another one that may bring them even greater happiness than the first, and that, at any rate, will not leave the pages of their lives so blank as they will be if they live alone. For being married unfits a woman for single blessedness.

Having been at the head of her own house she cannot fit into any other woman's house, and if she tries to run her own house it is empty with no man in it. There is no kick in getting up good meals if there is no man to eat them. She misses the strong arm on which she has leaned. She misses having somebody to go about with. She misses even her husband's grumbling and having somebody to fight with and blame for everything that goes wrong.

Many young widows refrain from marrying for fear of giving their children a stepfather who will not be kind to them. This is a very imminent danger, because many men are jealous of their stepchildren and so it behooves a woman who is thinking of marrying a second time to be very certain that she is getting a man who is not only fond of children, but who has the wisdom and patience to deal with adolescents.

But, even so, the widow has to think of herself as well as her children. In a very few years they will be grown and gone from the home nest, and in the meantime she may have let the years pass in which she could have married again and established her own home. And it is far better for Mother to have done that than to be dependent upon them.

Do not worry because you are not so romantically in love with this man as you were with your husband. That sort of love comes only when we are young, and in time that, too, changes into a beautiful friendship, if it lasts at all.

* * * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a married man of 38. Get a good salary. Live in a congenial neighborhood and have five fine children. My life would, indeed, be pleasant except that my wife makes my home a hell by her constant, ceaseless, everlasting nagging. Not a day passes that she does not bawl me out about some insignificant thing. She makes every meal so unpleasant that I have quit eating at home and go to a restaurant. I have stood her bickering as patiently as possible; in fact, she admits that I haven't spoken a cross word to her in all of our married life. Only my love for my children has kept me tied to a woman who has not only wrecked my happiness but her children's as well, but now I can stand it no longer. Since I am a devout Catholic, divorce is out of the question, but I am thinking of leaving her. Is there any other way out of my desperate situation except separation? A. B. G.

ANSWER:

I am afraid not. At least, I have never known of a nagger who ceased nagging, but perhaps if you left your wife for a while and made her understand that you refused to have your life ruined by her continual fault-finding you might scare her into behaving herself.

She would not like for it to be known that she was nothing but a common scold. Nothing could be more humiliating to a woman than for it to be generally said that her husband was driven away from his home by her being a virago. Also, she would miss the liberal allowance that you give her for spending and which she could not possibly expect to have if you were separated from her.

There are only two things that a man who is married to a nagger can do. One of them is to leave her, and the other is to bow his head meekly to the rod and stand it. But what complicates your situation is you can't take your children with you. You leave them to stand the nagging alone, with nobody to defend them, and that looks like letting them down, doesn't it? But something with boiling oil in it ought to be done to the naggers.

DOROTHY DIX.

Learn the Right Way to Train Your Dog

"Come, Jerry!" you call, and Jerry comes running, panting and eager to carry out your next command. Then how proud you are!

Such obedience is not a matter of accident. Nor is it a matter of the dog's intelligence alone. A dog should be trained by one person (not two or three) according to certain definite rules. The first rule is to get your dog's respect and confidence. Then start in with easy, specific commands such as "Come!" "Go!" "Lie Down!" Always use the same words each time you give a command.

The rest of our full, fascinating lesson in dog-training is given in our 32-page booklet. Also instructions on correct feeding, housebreaking, grooming and keeping your dog healthy.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

THERE WAS stirring in the shrubs in the garden. Knarf and Hanid, who were standing at the open door of the empty birdhouse, looked sharply. Knarf smiled. "It's two swallows," he said, feeling very proud of himself. "They heard me whistling. I mean, they heard me talking bird language, which is the same as whistling. They're coming to move into this birdhouse."

"I hope you're right," his sister said. "Only I don't think they're swallows. They look too big. They are . . . why, Knarf, ther're chickens!" she exclaimed. She burst out laughing.

"This house isn't for chickens."

But Knarf didn't laught at all. He felt very annoyed that two chickens shoud answer his whistling call for two swallows.

"Cluck-cluck," said the first of the chickens. "I understand that birdhouse is for rent."

"We'd like to move in," the second chicken said.

"No," said Knarf. "This house isn't for chickens. It's a swallow house, not a chicken house. Please go away."

"Cluck-cluck!" said the two chickens, tossing their heads. "We don't have to live in your old house. We don't like it much anyway. It's a stuffy little house. It may be good enough for swallows, but it's not good enough for us!" And off they marched, their heads in the air.

Hanid couldn't help smiling at poor Knarf. "Your whistling didn't do much good, did it Knarf? The swallows didn't even hear you."

"They must have been out flying somewhere. I'll whistle to them again. They'll hear me this time. And as soon as they do hear me they'll come here in a hurry. They'll know a good house when they see one. You con bet they'll want to move right in." Then he climbed up on the roof of the little house and stood up as tall as he could and whistled with all his might: "Peep-peep-peep!" And in bird language that meant: Swallows! Come quick!"

Wage Negotiations

TORONTO, Aug. 11 (CP).—Negotiations for wage and working condition agreements were opened yesterday and today between officials of the Canadian Seamen's Union and executives in Toronto of four steamship companies plying the Great Lakes waterways. The seamen plan to negotiate agreements with a dozen shipping companies employing a total of about 2,000 men.

Mr. Frost—"There's no use asking him anything else. He doesn't wish to be frank."

Lustic had said in his brief and delayed appearance that he knew Gahagan, "but it wasn't him," and he thought Moore was a red headed lad, but he wasn't certain about that. He was led out of the council chamber by F. J. A. Hall, who had brought him him.

"Where Goes the Beer"

Mr. Frost took up the next charge, a question as "where the confiscated beer and liquor goes."

Mr. Wheeler said one night he took the evening paper to the Chief's house. "I saw a case in his pigeon house, part of a container with my initials on it."

Mr. Frost—"Were any bottles in it?" "No."

"It was part of a carton with your name on it?" "Yes."

"When was that?" "After the Peterborough Exhibition last year."

Wheeler said Inspector Reid told him confiscated beer should be returned to the Liquor Control Board, but it wasn't.

"Reid just laughed when he told me."

Witness said he saw the Chief going out of the station one night between 11 and 12 o'clock with a case under his arm.

Mr. Carley—Would it surprise you if Inspector Reid testified that beer is destroyed?

"I wouldn't be surprised at anything Reid would say now."

Wheeler said he was never given any beer to destroy "because they knew I wouldn't destroy it," an admission that raised a ripple of laughter from the crowded gallery.

Wheeler admitted there was no proper waiting room for witnesses at the police station, and the accommodation was insufficient.

Witness said he was having his supper at the police station the night he alleged he saw the Chief walk out with a case of beer.

Mr. Carley—"And you could even read the label on it?" "Yes. He was just walking out with it."

"What size bottles were they?" "It was a quarts carton. I didn't know what was in it."

Mr. Carley—"If anything? It might have been empty?" "It might have been but hardly probable."

Wheeler said both his and Sergt. Thompson's names were written in ing on the piece of cardboard that had been part of a beer carton.

"You can draw any conclusion you like from it," he said. "I don't know whether any beer went down in a case or not. I only saw that piece of the carton."

Wheeler alleged these incidents were of last year, July, August and September; and Mr. Carley remarked that it was in October the former constable had some difficulty with the chief.

Records of Seizures.

Constable Puffer was the next witness. If one of the policemen confiscated a bottle of whiskey from a man under arrest, he made out a special report, and kept the bottle in his own locker. It was later placed in the chief's keeping for court purposes. Mr. Puffer detailed other rules of routine procedure and record.

Turning up the occurrence book he read that Mrs. Max Vincent was arrested on March 26, by Thompson, Wheeler and Naples for a breach of the Liquor Control Act. The notation was signed by J. H. Deannard.

The same book showed that on March 27 at 11.50 a.m. Mrs. Vincent was liberated on orders from the Chief Constable, Max Vincent, the same day for illegal possession was fined $104.50, and the fine was paid by Mrs. Vincent.

Mr. Puffer said there was no record of seizure of any liquor on that occasion.

Mr. Frost—"I understand that by the instructions of the Liquor Control Board an officer is required to make a record of any liquor seizure and immediately send it to the Board. Is that the practice here?"

"No. Generally I make out the reports. That is our practice".

"Was that done in the case of Mrs. Max Vincent?"

"I did".

Mr. Frost pointed out that four copies of the report were to be made out, one to be retained by the police.

One Record Missing.

Constable Puffer said he could not find in his files the copy he made of the last Vincent seizure. Nor could he find a receipt for the beer given by the manager of the local vendor's store.

Mr. Carley interposed that the records might be found, and it noted be unfortunate "if your honor should comment that records were not produced, if they could be found by further search."

Mr. Puffer said several other records for about that period were also missing.

Looking through a sheaf of records, Mr. Frost turned up two, one of them showing that the seizure of 52 bottles of beer was reported to the Liquor Control Board, and another was a receipt for them, signed by David Fleming, local vendor for the L.C.B. They were an earlier seizure in 1936 from Vincent.

Mr. Frost said it was satisfactory "I'm glad to say," but he noted that the receipt by Mr. Fleming indicated the 52 bottles were not delivered until February, 1937, about six months after they were confiscated.

The missing records related to a previous seizure of 36 bottles from Max Vincent.

No Constable There

At the opening of the afternoon session Harry Long was questioned by Mr. Frost as to who was present at his house adjoining the Legion Hall when Lyons and Lee delivered the cases of beer.

"I saw only those two. There was no constable present." He added that he did not see Wheeler.

"I was there and received the beer." Mr. Long remarked that he had never been in police court, and for that reason he objected to the frequent reference to the "Long house" in connection with the policemen's dance in October, 1936.

Constable Puffer was recalled, continuing his evidence relating to Wheeler's charge about the disposal of confiscated beer. It was adduced that Leslie Steer, 891 Water street, was found guilty of illegal selling of beer, but there was no memorandum in the records as to what was done with the beer, nor was their a receipt for it from the local vendor, D. Fleming.

Mr. Frost—"Do you think it was turned over to the Liquor Control Board?"—"Well, I didn't hand it over myself. I never do, and I have no receipt for it."

Mr. Puffer said that in come cases beer was opened, or it was unfit for sale and was poured down the sewer.

"The duty of the police is to deliver it to the Liquor Control Board and it is for them to decide whether it is fit for sale or what is to be done with it," Mr. Frost commented.

Judge Deroche—"Do you know whether any confiscated beer has found its way into the home of any policeman?" "No sir. Not that I know of."

Report of seizure of part of jar of wine August 21, 1937, was read by Mr. Frost. Witness informed him he remembered the incident. Only a little wine was left in the bottle seized by Sergeant Wigg, and it was simply poured into the sewer. No report was sent to the Liquor Control Board.

A seizure of thirteen quarts of beer, seven of them on the premises of Harry Carter and six that were tossed away by two boys who said they got them from Carter, was recorded in the police occurrence book, but Mr. Puffer said he had no record of a seizure slip or receipt from the official vendor that would show the beer had been sent to the Department.

Garbo Coming Back To Movies On Nov. 1

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11—(AP).—All the talk about Greta Garbo retiring to a castle in Sweden was just idle rumor.

Some of the boys who were making bets wish it hadn't been talk. If they knew Greta's record, they would know better. Once again she's coming back to her fenced-in house and she'll be here almost a year. M-G-M, which is most interested, announced Nov. 1 as the date of her return.

The M-G-M announcement made no mention, of course, of Leopold Stokowski. The orchestra man and Greta have been seeing Europe together and Hollywood presumes he will be returning too, possibly for film work.

If Stokowski comes to Hollywood, folks think they'll be seeing Greta oftener. This theory is based on Stokowski's liking for seeing people and going places. They won't go 'round and 'round like some people do in Hollywood. Stokowski likes quiet, private gatherings.

The studio also says Aldous Huxley, the writer, will start to work to-day on one of the two screen plays Garbo will make. Huxley is putting into scenario form the biography of Madame Marie Currie, written by her daughter, Eve.

The other Garbo play will be about a beautiful spy who gets terribly involved, with the fate of a nation resting on her decision.

While hot, add: 1 to 1½ cups of granulated sugar and juice of 2 lemons, strained. • Then shake or stir contents well, until sugar is fully dissolved. Fill container with cold water. DO NOT ALLOW TEA TO COOL BEFORE ADDING THE COLD WATER: otherwise, liquid will become cloudy. • This is now ready to serve in tall glasses with chipped ice or cubes. A slice of lemon may be added if desired. • The above will make two quarts of iced tea, or 7 tall glasses.

Mrs. Sidley Said Suffering From Incurable Disease Did Not Want Other Doctors

TORONTO, August 11.—Because Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley had expressed the wish that no doctor sent directly or indirectly by her brother, A. J. Horlick, or by her son, should see her, the physicians attending her felt her trust could not be ignored, Dr. Ian Macdonald told D. L. McCarthy, K.C., in his examination before Robert S. Stonehouse, special legal examiner.

The examination report of Dr. Macdonald as a witness on the pending motion to hold up inquest proceedings, was filed at Osgoode Hall Wednesday afternoon, although the actual examination before the Special Examiner was held without press attendance last Friday.

Dr. Macdonald told Mr. McCarthy that William Sidley, son of Mrs. Sidley, seemed to be satisfied with what was being done for his mother.

Visited Mother Often.

Young Sidley visited his mother frequently, but never spent very much time with her. On July 5 at 12.45 he had called him up and expressed a wish to bring Dr. H. A. Bruce and Dr. Smirle Lawson to see his mother. Mr. Huycke of Osler, Hoskin and Harcourt, had also asked that these physicians be allowed to see Mrs. Sidley.

Dr. R. F. Farquharson advised against such action in view of the serious illness of the patient, the hour of the night and the fact she was sleeping at the moment. Dr. Farquharson had said: "I do not refuse; I advise against it." Dr. Macdonald told of the unannounced visit of Dr. Bassoe of Chicago. He pointed out that the patient was frightened of strangers. She had expressed the wish that no doctor sent directly or indirectly by her son or by her brother, A. J. Horlick, should see her.

Asked about the motor drives which were taken during her illness, Dr. Macdonald said the drives were taken with his concurrence and advice because he felt the patient should be made as happy as possible. The patient was suffering from an incurable disease of the spinal cord. It was a progressive degeneration of the nerve tissue which could not be replaced.

Anxious for Autopsy.

The disease affected all those functions in which the spinal cord is either the key or the passageway to the periphery, Dr. Macdonald explained. After the death of Mrs. Sidley the attending physicians were very anxious to have an autopsy performed. "Dr. Owen and myself felt we must get an autopsy because there was an extremely interesting problem, and it should be absolutely cleaned up beyond any doubt," declared Dr. Macdonald.

He pointed out that he and other physicians in attendance had been advised by a prominent surgeon that some of the relatives wanted an autopsy. Permission for the autopsy had been signed by William Sidley in the room occupied by Dr. Farquharson at the home of William Perkins Bull.

Dr. Trevor Owen, who was also examined last Friday and whose report was filed Wednesday afternoon at Osgoode Hall, testified that he was called into consultation by Dr. Macdonald on June 17. He agreed with the diagnosis as a form of progressive muscular atrophy, which sometimes goes by the name of amyotrophic laterial sclerosis.

Brain Stem Involved.

"The disease has various forms, depending on the particular fibres that happen to be involved," explained Dr. Owen. "This particular type was involving her brain stem as well as the muscles of respiration, swallowing and articulation. It was a long-continued thing. It could be described as an unknown and yet well-known disease, a well-known entity described in every standard neurological text book.

"In her case she had paralysis of the soft palate; she couldn't speak, she had wasting—the usual bilateral (both sides)—and a wasting of the muscles of her hands," he explained. There was nothing specific to do about this disease, Dr. Owen pointed out. The patient could be kept reasonably quiet, carefully fed, with general peacefulness of surroundings the most important. No medication or other forms of treatment would be of the slightest value. Careful nursing was a requisite.

When Dr. Owen first saw her the patient was sitting in a chair. She had a grayish color and looked seriously ill. Every time she exhaled she made a groaning sound as many people do when they are feeling weak. After making an examination, he felt she was suffering from a progressive neurological disease in her upper spinal cord.

Patient Very Low.

On June 28 Dr. Owen was called hurriedly to 3 Meredith Crescent. He arrived at 9 o'clock and found Mrs. Sidley very low. With the aid of Dr. Macdonald and a nurse, they were able to revive the patient. To do this they gave her many cubic centimetres of a drug called coramine. Adrenalin had been administered to the heart muscle by Dr. Macdonald. Dr. Owen declared he had never seen any one look more hopeless.

From then on he had lived in the house, Dr. Owen told Mr. McCarthy. Such attacks were usually and finally fatal. William Horlick telephoned and told us we must use our best judgment. Asked what he thought of the suggestion that the death of Mrs. Sidley had been caused by slow poison, Dr. Owen termed it as "absolute nonsense."

"No one on earth could do more for the patient than was being done at that time," declared Dr. Owen. "It was mostly a question of nursing."

Jap Aristocrats Fighters Names Dot Army, Navy

TOKYO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Japan has not hesitated to expose royal blood to the perils of war in China.

Official lists of army and navy units in action in China are studded with titles including the oldest and most aristocratic families in the empire and some closely related to the imperial house.

The Emperor recently sent his brother, Prince Chichibu, on a long hazardous trip over the China front. He travelled exclusively by airplane from the Siberian border to Shanghai under constant guard of two fighting-ship convoys but always exposed to the danger of sudden attack. The Prince last year visited Canada.

Last August a Japanese destroyer was steaming up the Whangpoo river under command of Prince Hiroyoshi Fushimi, son of Prince Hiroyasu Fushimi, chief of the naval general staff.

Prince is Wounded

Near Shanghai it encountered unexpected action when lookouts spotted Chinese constructing fortifications on the river bank. Instantly the air was full of steel, going both ways.

A Chinese shell burst on the deck near the prince and badly shattered his arm. Japanese newspapers proudly reported that he bound the wound with strips of his uniform and remained at his post until the action was over.

All three of the senior Prince Fushimi's sons have seen naval action. Hiroyoshi, the eldest, returned to his squadron after his wound healed. Marquis Kocho Fushimi is a torpedo officer and Count Hirohide Fushimi, the youngest, is a gunnery officer, both on ships in Chinese waters.

Cameras have been barred from private airplanes in France.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11.—(CP). — Problems of salary and of working facilities were discussed to-day by the Canadian Teachers' Federation, in annual convention here.

Mr. Henry told of establishment of a board of reference, supervised by a Judge appointed by the Minister of Education. No Board is allowed to fill a disputed teaching position until 10 days after the Board has made its report.

Maritime and Prairie Province delegates told of low salaries and the uncertainty of payment in some districts. John W. Barnett of Edmonton, said 2,000 Alberta teachers are receiving less than the stipulated minimum salary.

Canada's Oldest Colliery Still Produces

GLACE BAY, N.S., Aug. 11—(CP)—Dominion Coal Company's Caledonia mine, the colliery known in Cape Breton mining circles as "Old Faithful," that has produced more than 18,000,000 tons of coal, continues to operate after 72 years of service. An average of about 2,300 tons a day is raised to the surface.

The first ton of coal was brought up from the "deeps" of the oldest producing colliery in the Dominion the year before confederation.

During the year 1937, the total output of the colliery in the heart of this island's great coal mining area reached 502,102 tons and during the present year the daily average has been 2,327 tons. Employees of the mine point with pride to their record of having brought 2,132,579 tons of coal to the surface of the mine without a fatal accident. The last fatal accident occurred on Feb. 8, 1933.

Caledonia claims the honor of being the scene of many "firsts" in the history of the coal mining industry in Canada. It is believed here that the first commercial telephone in the world was placed in operation back in 1887.

The telephone was installed between the manager's home and the mine office. At that time a friendship existed between the late Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, and the late David McKeen, at that time general manager of the mine.

Dr. Bell paid many visits to his friend while engaged in his early experimental work on the invention and a mutual interest in the work resulted in a telephone being installed between the house and office.

Playing an important part in the output of the Caledonia colliery today is a compressor which was brought to Cape Breton by the late David McKeen back in 1894. He visited the world's fair at Chicago and brought the compressor to Cape Breton, where it was installed at the Caledonia mine. After 45 years of service, the old machine is still running satisfactorily.

Canadian Plants Are Being Limited To One Specific Type Of Plane

MONTREAL, Aug. 11 — (CP). — Canadian aircraft manufacturers were to meet with Great Britain's Air Mission to-day to exchange views on Canada's potentialities for supplying planes to the Royal Air Force.

The negotiating committee representing the Canadian industry was to be invited to build one specific type of machine to begin with, Sir Samuel Hardman Lever, head of the mission, said yesterday. He indicated, too, the committee favored one central assembly plant for the possible "substantial" British orders.

The mission leader said he was unprepared to designate now the type of plane or the locality of the suggested assembly plant. Decision on the plant would await the arrival here early next week of Sir Edward Ellington, who is inspecting factories at Vancouver, Winnipeg and Fort William, Ont., as he travels toward Montreal from Australia. The decision, however, would be up to the manufacturers.

Yesterday Sir Edward visited a plant at Vancouver, and last night Sir Samuel said he would make similar inspections at Winnipeg and Fort William. The head of the mission denied making a statement, attributed to him in a published interview, that the "right sort of labor" was not to be had at Winnipeg or Fort William. Sir Samuel said he had not discussed labor conditions.

Frederick Handley-Page, British aircraft maker, who is a member of the mission, said visits would be made to plants with suitable facilities. Movements of the body would depend to some extent on Sir Edward's findings in the West.

JOSEPH HUBERT GRAY.

The funeral of Joseph Hubert Gray, whose death occurred at his home at Crawford's Grove on Sunday, took place on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 from the Funeral Home of A. Comstock and Sons. Rev. R. T. F. For years he was a tinsmith, but of late when his health failed he operated a small garden more or less as a hobby but his garden was the pride of the neighborhood.

Born in England 74 years ago, Mr. Gray came to Canada as a youth fresh from a university course at Oxford. He made several trips back to England and was planning to return this year when death intervened.

He was a member of the St. John's Anglican church and and the Canadian Order of Foresters.

DIED

GIBBS, Mrs. John.—On Thursday August 11th, at her home at 479 Stewart street, Elizabeth Selina Gibbs, beloved wife of John Gibbs, in her 78th year. Funeral on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Rev. R. T. F. Brain of St. John's Anglican Church officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

LEVASSEUR.—In loving memory of Mrs. M. Levasseur, who passed away one year ago to-day.

One year has passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon her grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for her who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.

—Ever remembered by her daughters, Eleanor, Mildred, Sylvia, Thelma.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Harold C. Drury and son wish to thank neighbors and friends for kindness shown in their recent sad bereavement.

Mrs. H. Alton and family wish to thank the Assembly Department of the Westclox, Raybestos, H. J. Boyle Co., and the many others who sent flowers; also kind friends and neighbors who loaned cars and were so kind during our bereavement.

Japs Renew Drive Toward Hankow

SHANGHAI, Aug. 11 (AP). — Chinese and Japanese fought sharply southwest of Kiukiang today as the invaders sought to renew their push toward Hankow, provisional Chinese capital.

One Japanese force thrust westward from Kiukiang, Japanese advance base 35 miles down the Yangtse River from Hankow, after claiming occupation of Shahochen and a close approach to Huanglaomen, 10 miles of Kiukiang.

Five hundred shells from Japanese artillery were said to have destroyed Chinese defences in the region and wiped out two companies of Chinese troops. Chinese reports, however, said the invaders' success was short-lived because other Chinese units counter-attacked, killed 300 Japanese and forced surviving invaders to withdraw.

On the north bank of the Yangtse, the Chinese declared reverses caused the Japanese to bring up 20,000 reinforcements.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO TELLING REASONS

MOST FAIR players know one reason why they should generally lead an honor against a no trump contract if their suit contains three of them including a couple of "touchers" such as a king and a queen. They realize that it helps set up the lower honors as trick takers. Many do not comprehend the other important consideration—unblocking for your partner in case he happens to have a longer string in the suit than you have yourself.

Snappy bidding of 1-No Trump, 2-No Trump, 3-No Trump set the stage here for West to get an object lesson which has cured him for all time of a pet aversion he possessed. He was one of those fellows who insisted always on making a "number-showing" fourth-best lead, to help his partner count the distribution of both his and declarer's hands. Never would he lead an honor against no trump, he used to say, unless he had a set-up suit, because such a lead did not give his partner any information about suit lengths.

West led the spade 6 to the A. When South next lost a trick to the club A and East returned a spade, West blocked the suit and the contract was made.

Consider how different if West had led the spade K. This would have set the contract, as the 6 would have been retained by West as an exit card to put his partner into the lead with the 10.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

How should South play to make his contract of 3-No Trump after the lead of the spade 6?

Carmel United Church Observes 50th Anniversary Services

Rev. Hinton Speaks At Both Services

WARSAW, August 11. — Carmel United Church held its fiftieth anniversary services on Sunday last. Rev. M. L. Hinton, a former pastor, and now at Castleton, conducted both services.

Warsaw United choir assisted by Clarence Watts led the service of praise. Mrs. Stuart Clysdale sang "My Saviour Walks With Me." The quartette was by Mrs. Arthur Payne and Mrs. James Hawthorne, Mr. Clarence Watts and Mr. David Miller. There was a due by Mrs. Payne and Mrs. Hawthorne.

Before the sermon Mr. Henry Puffer read an history of the church as follows:

In the year 1858 David Drain, Sr., and family came to Stoney Lake. At that time there was no one living farther east than where Jordan Crowe's farm is, and the rest of the country from there on was a dense forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Drain and family moved in the month of October and lived in a lumber camp until they got land cleared and a house built. There wasn't even a road, just a trail through the woods that lumbermen used, and only a log on which to cross the Canal at what is now known as "Gilcrest Park." They had to bring in all their supplies in winter by crossing the ice at Gilcrest Bay, and if more supplies were needed in the summer they would go by boat to McCracken's Landing and walk to Warsaw for them.

Mrs. Drain and part of the family frequently walked to Hall's Glen to church service held in the building now used for Orange hall. Quite often in summer they would walk to the church that was on the place where Ernest Batten now lives.

As other settlers came in they decided to build a school, and in 1863 a log structure was erected which served for both school and church. Service were carried on here for a number of years by Presbyterian students in the summer. Later a supply was secured from Warsaw Methodist church one a month. That school was burned down, but they decided to build a new one, which is used for school at the present time.

In 1885 when Mrs. David Drain, who now lives at South Dummer, came here to make her home things were much improved, but they still had service in the school once a month. When the Rev. Mr. Tozeland was preaching here the people began to feel the need of a church. James Miles offered to give the land on which to build one, and his offer was accepted. In Douro township, on the Lakefield road across from George Garbutt's, was an old Bible Christian church which was not in use. This was purchased for the sum of $40, taken down by John R. Miles, Billie Dunford and George Carveth, and rebuilt on its present site by John Miles at a cost of $325.00. A load of material was taken by each of the following men: William Miles, James Miles, John Drain, David Drain, Johnny Nixon and Albert Ray; while the porch was moved by David Nelson, Robert Miles, John R. Miles and Fred Miles. This was done in March, 1888. F. Miles worked with John R. Miles at rebuilding and painting the church. Mrs. Abe Dunford also assisted with the painting.

By June the church was completed and ready to be re-opened. This was celebrated in the form of a tea in the last week of June, 1888. The sum of $100 was realized, and this went toward paying off the debt. In addition to this, any one who wanted to give a thankoffering was given the opportunity of doing so the night of the tea, with the result that the debt was paid off at that time. The name "Carmel" was suggested by Mr. Tozeland. This seemed very suitable, due to its position, and the suggestion was accepted.

The ministers who have labored in this church and on the circuit are as follows: Reverends John Tozeland, John Power, E. Dewart Lewis, John Robeson, George Robinson, C. H. Fusee, George Nickle, H. McQuaide, Dr. Marvin, A. C. Huffman, M. L. Hinton, D. R. Clare, G. Weir, J. D. Knox, H. B. Herrington, and the present pastor, Rev. J. E. Wilkinson.

The first stewards of this church were: John Drain, David Drain, James Miles, William Miles, John Miles, John Nixon, James Robb, William Robb, Robert Miles, Fred Miles.

Elders at the present time are: John Drain, Joseph Grantd, Goldie Grain.

Mrs. Wm. Purdy was the first organist, and the money to purchase the first organ was raised by means of an autograph quilt. For several years Mrs. Alvin Drain was organist, and organists at the present time are Mrs. Russell Puffer and Miss Norma Crowe.

Mrs. Walter Crowe is president of the Woman's Association, and Henry Puffer is superintendent of the Sunday school.

Czech-Nazi Tension Not So Dark As Been Painted

(Copywrighht 1938 By the Havas News Agency)

London, Aug. 11 (CP-Havas) — VISCOUNT RUNCIMAN has found reason for encouragement in his efforts to find a peaceful solution of the minorities problem in Czechoslovakia, Havas said it was reliably reported here today.

Persons close to Prime Minister Chamberlain told Havas he had received a letter from Lord Runciman, whose status is unofficial, saying both Sudeten German leaders and Czechoslovak government representatives had shown themselves less uncompromising than he had expected.

Five Generations

Topping all previous generation' pictures is this one of a family that has remained linked through five generations. Oldest man in the family is Nathaniel Hawley of Chandos, aged 83. He is the great-great-grandfather of Beverley Montgomery, who will be two years old in September. Beverley is seated on her mother's lap. She is Mrs. Cecil Montgomery, 589 Harvey Street. Beverley's grandfather, Gordon Hawley of Peterborough, is standing at CENTRE. Her great-grandfather, Robert Hawley of Chandos Township, is at LEFT. At RIGHT is her great-great-grandfather, Nathaniel Hawley. Gordon Hawley was a grandfather when he was only 38 years old. His father still operates a farm, originally operated by Nathaniel Hawley, in Chandos. Nathaniel lives with him, is now retired. He once worked in the Auburn Mill here, lived in Peterborough for 12 years.

HepburnCalls Birthday 'Mine' Party

Duplessis Heads Guest List At Premier's Farm

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Aug. 12 (CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn, celebrating his 42nd birthday at his Yarmouth township farm home near here today, awaited the arrival of Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec for a conference expected to deal with mining problems relative to the two provinces.

On hand for the meeting were Hon. Colin Campbell, Minister of Public Works for Ontario, and Sir James Dunn, president and chairman of Algoma Steel Corporation, Limited, guests in the premier's home. Col. John Bourque, Minister of Public Works for Quebec, J. P. Bickell, prominent Toronto mining man, and L. J. MacGinnes, Toronto financier, were expected to arrive with Premier Duplessis.

Mr. Duplessis was believed to be at Timmins, northern Ontario. He was understood to have motored there last night from Larder Lake, 80 miles east of Timmins. Mr. Bickell's amphibian airplane, in which Mr. Duplessis is travelling, left for Rouyn, Que., after being forced down by bad weather. Whether the plane would pick up the premier at Timmins or whether he would complete the flight in another machine could not immediately be determined.

Judge Duncan Ross of St. Thomas and L. H. Dingman, St. Thomas publisher, also were understood to have been invited to attend Premier Hepburn's private birthday celebration, a feature of which will be an onion-grading exhibition for Mr. Duplessis' entertainment. The first onions of the season will be graded.

Aim Mostly Guesswork.

Nature of the meeting was unknown but Ontario's withdrawal from further discussions of the Rowell Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations, announced yesterday by Mr. Hepburn, almost certainly will be dealt with. Reports were current Quebec would take similar action.

Premier Hepburn said the action was taken because the Federal government budget, brought down in the House of Commons June 16, contained two tax changes which were "an affront to the provinces and to the Rowell Commission." The tax changes to which he referred were an amendment to the

Whitby Starts Probe Of Grave Mystery

WHITBY, Ont., Aug. 12—(CP)—Police today opened an investigation in an effort to determine the identity of a body found in a shallow grave by three boys yesterday. Parts of the head and body were found.

Coroner Dr. R. T. MacLaren said he estimated the body had been buried for "some time" and police records show no person has died in the district in at least 30 years who had not been accounted for.

Acting Police Chief Thomas said a theory murder may have been committed elsewhere, and the body buried here, was being investigated. The body was in an upright position.

Gets $50,000 Party

A debut to end all debuts will be that of Lesley Hyde Ripley, ABOVE, whose bow to society will play a $50,000 or $60,000 tune on the Ripley bankroll. The coming out will be held at the family estate at fashionable Newport, Rhode Island, where a special ballroom is being constructed, to be torn down immediately after the affair. The ballroom itself will cost $25,000. Mrs. Ripley, a patent medicine heiress, is taking care that things will really make news.

King Airs Issue In Dispute On Gift Tax

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—(CP).—Amendments to the gift tax, made effective in the last budget, safeguard the revenues of both the Dominion and the provinces, Prime Minister Mackenzie King has told Premier M. F. Hepburn of Ontario. Correspondence covering the controversy between the Provincial and the Dominion leaders in this respect was released from Mr. King's office here to-day.

The letters disclose one bone of contention to have been the amendments to the gift tax. These were designed, according to Mr. King, "to prevent the evasion of liability to income tax by gifts of income-producing assets made by well-to-do persons to their relatives." The effect would be to protect both Dominion and Provincial revenues.

The interchange makes no mention of amendment 32 (B) of the Income War Tax Act, which Mr. Hepburn yesterday declared was unfair to the mining companies. It is understood Revenue Minister Isley is awaiting the return of C. Fraser Elliott Commissioner of Income Tax, expected back from Europe later today, before replying to the Ontario Premier.

Mr. Hepburn takes issue with the Dominion government for having amended the Income War Tax, in repect to the Gift Tax, before the Rowell Commission on Dominion-

German War Machine Alarms Paris

1,300,000 Reserves Said Called; Bluff For Czechs?

PARIS, Aug. 12.—(AP).—France to-day instructed her diplomats to transmit immediately to Paris all information available concerning military preparations now taking place in Germany.

Foreign office officials declared reports of German military measures of unusual size were "being followed by diplomatic circles with the greatest attention."

An authorized source said information in the foreign office's possession showed "important manoeuvres will be held in the Reich."

The statment was made in regard to reports of huge German troop movements published in French and British newspapers. These sources said "it seems excessive" to call German troop movements "mobilization" as reported in some French and British newspapers and declared the German troop figures cited in the European press appear exaggerated.

Reserves Called.

Some newspapers of both London and Paris reported 1,300,000 reservists had been called to the colors in Germany for a period of instruction to supplement the standing army.

Some belief was expressed in foreign office quarters German military preparations were designed to aid diplomatic pressure on the Czechoslovak government as well as on Great Britain and France for a rapid solution of the Sudeten minority question.

While saying "anything can happen," foreign office and diplomatic circles in the main were inclined to believe the preparations were designed only for pressure and discarded the probability of conflict.

Border Is Closed

METZ, France, Aug. 12 (AP).—Germany authorities today withdrew permits for German miners to cross the French-German frontier daily to work in French mines.

The order puts an end to daily contact between French and German workmen at the time when Germany is pushing work on fortifications on her side of the frontier.

Czechs to Stand Fast

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 12 (AP).—The society of Czechoslovak army officers declared today there could be "no retreat" by them from the Czechoslovak government's stand that the integrity of the republic must remain unimpaired in settling its minorities problems.

Radio Lights End Fog For Fliers

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Aug. 12 (AP).—Radio lights, a new method of seeing through miles of the thickest fog or clouds, were announced today at Purdue University.

The lights are planned to enable a pilot to "see" the runway of a field miles away and to land on that strip no matter how completely the ground is obscured. They are under development for aeronautics by R. H. George and H. J. Helm, of the engineering experiment station.

The lights are short-wave transmitters. The plan is to set a row of them along each side of a runway. Each is a miniature wireless station, sending out a signal along a path toward the incoming plane.

In the airplane is a receiver able to determine the direction from which these radio waves are coming. Special equipment converts the signals into spots of light on a round glass screen on the instrument board.

This screen is much like a television screen. Upon it the distant, little wireless sending stations appear in the same relative positions as if they were lights on the landing field.

The pilot has the impression of looking out through a hole in his instrument board and seeing the lights on the field. The position of the lights inform him whether he is approaching the runway head on, crossways or at an angle.

Credit Plan Promised Alberta This Fall

EDMONTON, Aug. 12—(CP)—A new Social Credit plan for the issuance of credit will be introduced in Alberta this fall, Provincial Secretary E. C. Manning told a Social Credit rally yesterday at Bashaw, 90 miles south of here. He gave no details of the plan.

Questioned concerning Mr. Manning's announcement, Premier Aberhart said here that he could give no details of the plan. Asked whether an Autumn Legislative Session was indicated, Mr. Aberhart's reply was: "No."

Mr. Manning reviewed legislation passed by the present Government and contended disallowance of some of the important acts was the reason for the Social Credit Government not fulfilling its promises to the people.

Hoppers Make Themselves At Home As Horde Takes Over Regina

Regina, Aug. 12 (CP)

GRASSHOPPERS clung to Reginians today. The pests took over the city yesterday and made themselves at home.

The "visitation" was probably the worst Reginians have experienced this hopper season. Unabashed, the 'hoppers invaded the storekeeper's counter and the cafe's tables.

Science was called for defence. Many a storekeeper used various kinds of bad-smelling stuff to keep the insects away. The chemicals, sometimes kerosene, were sprayed on store entrances with the warning, "Hopper, keep away from my door."

Councillors Swing Fists But Allow C.C.F. Rally

New Toronto Officials Decide To Postpone Test Of Their "Padlock Bylaw"

TORONTO, Aug. 12 (CP).—New Toronto councillors, after an exciting meeting marked by a fist fight, postponed a test of their bylaw controlling public meetings yesterday by granting the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation permission to hold a meeting in the suburban Toronto municipality.

The C.C.F. had announced a meeting for tonight to test what they termed a "padlock bylaw." After yesterday's stirring but private meeting of New Toronto councillors, the C.C.F. executive said the meeting would be held in the place permitted by the council's decision, rather than in a vacant lot.

The Ontario executive of the C.C.F. announced the meeting after the council refused a permit for a meeting to the New Toronto branch of the political party.

Accounts of the council meeting and its legality varied. Councillor R. T. Greer said he had a fist fight with Councillor J. V. Shelley, who arrived at the council meeting after the resolution was passed.

Greer said Shelley came into the meeting, declared there was not a quorum of the council and then threw the resolution out the window. Other members summoned the Chief of Police, Hedley Padgett who ordered Shelley to bring back the resolution.

Shelley denied there had been a fight and the Police Chief said he stopped the two before any blows were exchanged. Others at the council said there was a melee. Shelley after the meeting reiterated his statement the resolution passed was illegal.

To-night's meeting will not be a test of the by-law which was passed in June after an organizer of the United Automobile Workers of America toured New Toronto streets using a loud-speaker to announce a public meeting in Toronto.

The New Toronto council, declaring it did not want "outside agitators disturbing local labor," and passed the by-law forbidding public meetings in parks or streets unless the council granted a permit.

Long Lake Water Diversion Ready February

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—(CP).—Facilities for diverting into the Great Lakes waterways system water which normally flowed north into James Bay and the Arctic ocean will be completed within six months in the Long Lake area of Northwestern Ontario, it was learned to-day. The project will permit a controllable flow of up to 1,200 feet of water per second.

Undertaken jointly by the Ontario government and the Hydro-Electric power Commission of Ontario, the work has been directed by Hydro officials. It had two purposes: To provide facilities for water diversion for possible later use by Hydro and to provide an immediate waterway for floating down millions of dollars of pulpwood and other timber from the Long Lake basin.

Log-driving requires only a small flow of water for a short time of the year and the project is so designed that any required amount of water up to 1,200 feet per second may be diverted into Lake Superior. When not required, the water from Long Lake basin will be allowed to follow its natural course into James Bay.

U. S. Hedges.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn requested United States' authorities allow Ontario to keep title to the 1,200 feet of water from Long Lake so the provincial Hydro system might use it at Niagara Falls in addition to the 36,000 cubic feet of water the province is allowed to use there each second to generate power. United States authorities refused immediate permission, linking the proposal to the St. Lawrence waterway proposed development and suggesting both be considered at the one time.

Ontario has no intention of using the Long Lake diversion facilities for immediate Hydro development in view of the United States' attitude.. There is no immediate intention of developing Hydro power in the Lake Superior area since present sources of supply are con-

6 Monkeys Play Tag In Montreal Park

MONTREAL, Aug. 12.—(CP). — Six Rhesus monkeys swung from lofty tree tops near Belmont park in suburban Cartierville early to-day and stopped now and then to tweak their saucy noses at police and park officials, who tried to coax them back to the cage they slipped out of yesterday with three more of their brethren.

The nine monks scampered through a weak spot in the side of the cage where 36 are confined and made their antics a little funnier than usual as they gamboled above the hundreds of spectators who journeyed to the park for the afternoon.

But after seven hours' freedom, three of the fugititives, tired of life on the loose, returned voluntarily to the cage for a good night's rest while their more curious brothers remained aloft.

1,000 Scottish Moors Echo To Grouse Guns

PERTH, Scotland, Aug. 12—(AP)—Over a thousand Scottish moors, overlaid with peat and often covered with heather, wealthy sportsmen participated today in the most expensive sport in the world.

Dawn brought the opening of a grouse shooting season it was estimated would cost £2,000,000 ($9,800,000).

The King, at Balmoral Castle, has rented two extensive areas, the Glencallater Cairnshiel and Micras Moors.

Many hunting parties started before daylight to the plump, red-brown birds could be rushed to London by airplanes and fast trains and be served at luncheon.

Perhaps next August Canadians will be eating grouse 24 hours after they are bagged in Scotland, if regular trans-Atlantic air service is inaugurated by then.

The grouse will bring from 24 to 28 shillings ($6 to $7) each in London stores today and tomorrow but next week the price will drop to about four shillings ($1).

Liner Is Fired On

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 12—(AP). — Passengers of the British liner Llandaff Castle reported to-day a Spanish insurgent trawler fired upon the vessel in the Strait of Gibraltar.

They said the attacker held her up for 15 minutes before the Netherlands sloop Johan Maurits Van Nassau intervened.

The Llandaff Castle, a vessel of 10,786 tons, is owned by the Union-Castle Mail Steamship Company of London.

Fifteen Cartons Of Confiscated Beer Found In Makeshift Storage Are Brought Before Judge E. G. Deroche

Laxity Is Found In Handling Beer And Liquor

Collapse of Joseph Wheeler's charge that William Welch, Hunter Street barber, residing at 140 Douro street, had been permitted to buy a $2 dog license instead of paying $10 for a kennel license, advanced the police investigation to its last stage at the conclusion of Thursday's sessions about six o'clock. Six of the original list of seven allegations had been thoroughly sifted, and the seventh promised only a brief hearing. Like the two immediately preceding it, the last one was posed in the form of a question: "Why was P. C. Clarke allowed to electric wire Max Vincent's house, 692 Park Street, when he was on the police department and knowing it to be a bootlegger's house?"

On the eve of the conclusion of the enquiry, Judge E. G. Deroche, Belleville, presiding referee, intimated he would dispense with hearing summations and argument by counsel, Cecil G. Frost of Lindsay, who conducted the probe, and T. J. Carley for Chief Constable Newhall. Mr. Carley said he did not wish to prolong the hearing more than necessary, but he preferred the opportunity of reviewing certain facts brought in the evidence. Judge Deroche agreed to that terminating detail as he adjourned the investigation until this morning.

"I'll take the responsibility for saying we have heard enough," Mr. Frost volunteered after William Welch's evidence made it clear that he had owned only one dog last year.

Mr. Wheeler said he had seen as many as five dogs around the Welch place at various times during 1937, and that it was known as the Lift Lock Kennels. Chas. W. Holland, dog catcher last year, said he saw four dogs, and E. A. Outram, deputy city clerk, quoted the city's assessment roll as charging Mr. Welch for only one.

Mr. Welch's explanation was that he had not operated the kennels for five years, and owned only one dog throughout 1937. The charge fizzed out when he testifid that he received dogs that were sent to him for the purpose of having their hair plucked. Some of them might be kept a day, two days or even a week, and in some instances two weeks. Mr. Welch produced his license which he stated he had paid for himself. He added that he did not "see the Chief" about it.

Evidence taken earlier in the afternoon pursued ineffectually the confiscated beer that had disappeared without a trace, and when the last of that episode had been heard Judge Deroche declared: "Liquor shouldn't be left in these rooms at all. There had been real laxity in that respect."

"Not for such a length of time," Mr. Carley agreed.

"There is liquor there now," His

James Roosevelt Bares His Income

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP).—James Roosevelt, in a magazine article entitled "I'm Glad You Asked Me," yesterday made public his income tax returns for the last five years, showing an annual income ranging between $21,714 and $49,167. A total income of $172,978.03 was shown in the five returns.

The president's son invited investigation of his affairs by "some hard-hitting anti-new deal Senator."

"My trouble," he was quoted as saying, "seems to be a mixture of being son of the president and not failing in business."

Young Roosevelt, who said that what he hated most was having his father "smeared through me," authorized the United States treasury department to turn over to Walter Davenport, associate editor of Collier's, certified photographic copies of his tax statements which indicated that his annual income never had reached $50,000.

In a recent Saturday Evening Post article, Alva Johnson said Roosevelt's earnings from the insurance business were estimated at somewhere between $250,000 and $2,000,000 a year.

Dundas fire department responded to a call and volunteers formed bucket brigades to try and check the blaze. Firemen remained several hours after the blaze was under control to check new outbreaks and control the flying sparks.

Ex-Magnate Insull Worth Only $1,000 At Death

Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP)

SAMUEL INSULL'S will disclosed yesterday he was worth about $1,000 when he died July 16 in Paris. The man who built a $4,000,000,000 house of power and once had a fortune estimated at $100,000,000, left the paltry sum that constituted his estate to the widow, Margaret.

Insull, who died at 78, left London at 20 as a $1.25 a week clerk, and in America he rose to dominate a power kingdom that collapsed in 1932. Once he was President of eleven companies, on the boards of sixty-five; his utilities network had 6,000 units in thirty-seven States and Canada, employed 75,000 persons, and had 600,000 investors.

Fresh Incident Threatens Russ-Jap Truce

Tokyo, Aug. 12.—(AP).—A new border incident involving Japan and Russia was reported to-day from Sakhalin Island, where Japan and the Soviet Union divide control.

Domei (Japanese News Agency) dispatches from Shikika, one of Sakhalin's principal cities, declared Russo-Japanese tempers had flared over the alleged shooting of a member of a Japanese "inspection party" by a Soviet secret police agent.

Japanese police went to the scene of the incident near the frontier which separates Japanese and Soviet halves of the long northern island off the Siberian coast.

Neither name of the wounded man nor reason for the reported shooting was made known. The inspection group, led by a member of parliament, included numerous prominent Japanese.

The incident came while Russian and Japanese troops kept an armistice on the border of Siberia and Manchoukuo where serious hostilities were waged from July 29 to Aug 11.

Tokyo newspapers reflected a feeling of doubt that the truce on the Siberian-Manchoukuoan frontier would end Japanese-Soviet Russian troubles.

$25,000 Farm Fire

NELSON, Ont., Aug. 12.—(CP)—Several young cattle, two valuable bulls, a horse, two sows, 75 hens, 2,500 bushels of grain and 60 ton of hay, were destroyed when a two-storey barn on the farm of Elias Watson, second concession north of the Dundas highway, was destroyed by fire yesterday while the family and hired help were away.

The barn was one of the most modern and best equipped in the Hamilton district and the loss from the fire may reach $25,000. All the farm implements, including a tractor, waggons, a truck and other machinery were destroyed by the fire.

Enquiry Is Closed With Discussion Between Officials

The judicial enquiry into the administration of Peterborough police affairs was concluded at 11.45 o'clock this morning with an informal and private discussion of some points of evidence by Judge E. G. Deroche of Belleville, presiding referee, C. G. Frost, K.C., of Lindsay, who had conducted the examination of witnesses, and T. J. Carley, K.C., representing Chief Constable Newhall.

For that final incident, Judge Deroche requested the large audience, also witnesses, and reporters to leave the council chambers. First he called Mr. Frost and Mr. Carley to his desk, and after briefly conversing with them, announced that formal agrument by counsel would be dispensed with.

"I simply wish to talk over some of the evidence with Mr. Frost and Mr. Carley, and as there is nothing more for the public I think the room should be cleared," His Honor directed.

Beer Produced

At the suggestion of Mr. Frost, some of the constables carried into the chamber fifteen cases of beer that had been confiscated from time to time back to 1936, but had not been disposed of. The pile of cartons was assembled from the makeshift storage places around the building. Most of the cartons were related to court cases by marks and notations that identified them, but none of the missing Vincent, Carter and Dixson beer was found.

Concluding evidence struck a unanimous note of eulogy by Chief Constable General Draper of Toronto, Alfred Cuddy, and Lorne Henderson, also Alderman Gordon and F. D. Kerr. It was character evidence with local reference especially by Alderman Gordon to the inadequate office conditions in which the police department has to perform its duties.

Mr. Carley said he could call other witnesses, some of whom had attended the Thursday afternoon session, but he felt it would be unduly taking up His Honor's time. He felt that sufficient had been said to show the reputation Chief Newhall bore in Peterborough and elsewhere.

Mr. Frost wound up his part in the enquiry by announcing that all the available witnesses had been heard, and he had no further evidence to offer. Judge Deroche briefly intimated that his report to the Police Commission would simply be a statement of facts without recommendations.

Order Beer Brought In

At the opening of this morning's session Mr. Frost said he had been thinking over during the night the question where the Dixon, Carter and Vincent beer went to.

"It occurred to me it might still be in the chief's office," Mr. Frost added.

"I think Mr. Carley suggested that yesterday," Judge Deroche commented.

"We are told there is still la lot of it around the office somewhere," Mr. Carley said, "but even so there is no use trying to argue there was no laxity in the handling and keeping of liquor, and the extent of it may be that the beer is not on the premises but if that were so it should not warrant a conclusion the police took it."

Year Fades, 6 Russians' Fate Still An Arctic Mystery

EDMONTON, Aug. 12 (CP)—One year ago today Sigismund Levaneffsky and five fellow Russian airmen took off from Moscow in a four-motored airplane on a trans-polar flight to North America and a hoped-for long-distance non-stop flying record. They have not since been seen.

Somewhere in the vast Arctic the big ship went down. Pilots of three nations, Russia, Alaska and Canada, joined in a search concentrated at a spot in the Beaufort Sea some 1,500 miles north of Point Barrow. It was from that area the last signals from the plane were believed to have come.

Levaneffsky — the "Lindbergh of Russia"—piloted the ship across the North Pole at 2.40 a.m., M.S.T. (5.40 a.m., E.D.T.) Friday, Aug. 13. His goal was Oakland, Cal. If he had reached it he would have eclipsed the existing long-distance record set by another Russian flier a short time before.

At 3.10 a.m. that day Levaneffsky reported: "Everything is all right." Nothing further was heard until 7.44 a.m., Aug. 14. Then a wireless station at anchorage, Alaska, picked up the last signal from ill-fated fliers. It was: "No bearings.... having trouble with....wave band."

Scores of Fliers Join Hunt.

More than a score of pilots were engaged in a search that continued almost without cessation until March, 1938. Among them were Pilot Bob Randall of Edmonton and Jimmy Mattern, United States Flier Leraneffsky once rescued in Siberia. The search flights extended to within 40 miles of the pole.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted Arctic explorer, headed one rescue expedition in a huge all-metal flying boat specially purchased by the Russian government. His pilot was Air Commodore Herbert Hollick-Kenyon of Winnipeg, one of Canada's best airmen and experienced in Arctic and sub-Arctic flying.

The Wilkins search got under way less than a week after the Russians went down. It continued unceasingly for a month when it became necessary to use a ski-equipped plane. He returned to the search late in November of 1937 and gave up only in March, 1938. Wilkins covered 21,000 miles in the hunt.

Spanks Daughter Too Hard Farmer Pays $47 Fine

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 12—(CP) — Earl McCutcheon, Mulmur Township farmer, was fined $47.97 in police court for giving what his counsel termed a "good spanking" to his 17-year-old-daughter, Irene. His wife laid a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm which Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe reduced to common assault.

McCutcheon claimed his daughter had disobeyed him when he asked her to go to a celebration at Hornings Mills. "She apparently didn't want her father to go along when her boy friend was going," McCutcheon said. "She was friendly with the hired man Victor Ferguson, 21," he said.

Finding McCutcheon guilty, Magistrate Woodliffe said he felt that McCutcheon had little provocation and used too much strength in the act.

Ferguson said he quit his job because of the incident. Mrs. McCutcheon testified her husband had ordered her daughter and herself from the home when Ferguson left.

Dr. Graham of Creemore testified that the girl was badly bruised on the back. "She was very nervous," he said.

"I believe no man has the right to go as far as the accused did with his child," Crown Attorney R. D. Evans said.

Irene told the court that she had never had a spanking. "My mother was sick and couldn't go to the celebration. I said I didn't want to go and leave her alone," Irene testified. "The girl's action was commendable," Crown Attorney Evans said.

Prairies Want Heat

WINNIPEG, Aug. 12 — (CP) — Warm weather is required on the prairies to facilitate harvesting which has been delayed by heavy rains, the weekly crop report of the Canadian National Railways said today. With the appearance of clear weather threshing will be in full swing shortly.

Hail shattered crops and blighted farmers' hopes in widely scattered areas during the last week but damage is not abnormally high, the report added. Rust is prevalent over a wide area but in districts affected crops are too far advanced to suffer. Rust resistant wheats have proven a boon to farmers.

Berlin-New York Flight Takes Only 24 Hours

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(AP). — Minor damage to the propeller and an engine cowling of the 19-ton German plane Bradenburg delayed today the start of the huge ship's homeward flight across the Atlantic ocean.

A four-man crew brought the 24-passenger transport skimming into Floyd Bennett field yesterday at the end of a record-breaking trip from Berlin. It was the first west-east linking of Berlin and New York and the 3,942 miles were covered in 24 hours, 54 minutes.

Spouting oil betrayed the damage as the plane rolled to a stop. Alfred Henke, blond captain of the Bradenburg's crew, said the damage was trivial and that, if necessary, the plane could have started home immediately. But there was no rush and New York had shown them such a "splendid welcome," he said, that the fliers wanted to stay "a day or two."

Nice Easy Trip.

Henke and his flying mates, Rudolph Von Moreau, co-pilot; Paul Dierberg, flight engineer; and Fritz Kober, radio operator, were casual about the flight.

"We expected to make the trip in something like 24 or 26 hours," Henke commented, "and now we've done it."

He described the trip as "smooth" with the exception of the mid-Atlantic head winds that have been the bane of every flier who attempted the westward crossing.

The Brandenburg made the unheralded flight as a demonstration of Germany's readiness to institute mail and passenger service between Germany and the United States. Henke said, however, that oceanic passenger flights in such ships as the four-motored low-winged Brandenburg probably would be impracticable because of the big fuel load necessary.

The flight was sponsored by the Focke-Wulf Company which manufactured the plane.

Noted Mine Expert H. S. Denny Is Killed

TORONTO, Aug. 12 (CP).—Henry Samuel Denny, C.B.E., was killed yesterday when his car crashed into a tree as police believe he swerved to avoid a child playing in the road. Mr. Denny was thrown clear of the wreck, but a piece of the broken steering wheel pierced his neck.

Mr. Denny, president of Sudbury Contact Mines, Ltd., and of Mentor Exploration and Development Co. Ltd., was director and consulting engineer of other Canadian mining companies.

Born at Bathurst, Australia, March 13, 1872, he was associated with Sredlock and Denny, London, Eng., as metallurgist in 1890. The following year he became assistant manager of Tekero Gold Mines, Austria-Hungary.

Between 1892 and 1896, he was associated with South African mining. In 1907, he became interested in Mining in Mexico, and later in the United States and Europe. In 1915, he was appointed superintendent of high explosives factories in Great Britain, and in 1919, was technical advisor to General Plumer.

Coming to Canada first in 1920, on professional work, Mr. Denny took up temporary residence in 1927. He was the author of works on metallurgy in England, the United States, and South Africa. He is survived by his widow, Edith Mary Denny, one son and two daughters.

Urovincial relations had rendered its report. This, he declares, constituted an affront to the Commission. He also registered protest against "further invasion of provincial fields of taxation" by the Dominion administration.

Passed Back In 1935.

Premier Mackenzie King recalls the gift tax was three years old, having been passed in 1935. The tax was not a large revenue producer, but to the extent that it prevented the transference from one person to another of income-producing assets, in the way of gifts, it would "maintain unimpaired the sources from which the Dominion and those provinces imposing them derive their income taxes."

The Dominion Prime Minister agreed there may be double taxation involved "in some few cases where gifts are made within a limited period before the death of the donor," but felt that knowledge of the gift tax provisions would act as a deterrent to such acts. By so discouraging them, the gift tax would not only preserve intace the capital from which both the Dominion and the province derived revenue, Mr. King said, but would also leave unimpaired the estate on which succession duties were levied.

100,000 Cords This Winter.

The Pulpwood Supply Company, granted limits in the 65-square mile area of Long Lake basin, already is making preparations for cutting 100,000 cord during this winter. The wood will be floated down the canal next spring. The company's long-term plan calls for cutting close to 5,000,000 cords of pulpwood within the next 75 years. It is estimated a cut of 75,000 cords per year could be maintained in perpetuity in the area, barring drastic forest fires or other disasters.

Feature of the diversion, which takes in the area from Long Lac to Schreiber, is a long ditch or channel joining up small lakes between Lake Superior and Long Lake. The ditch, 14 feet deep, has a minimum of 10 feet in width at the bottom and a maximum width at the top varying from 150 to about 200 feet. It cuts through a height of land to carry water from Long Lake to the lakes and rivers which empty into Lake Superior through the Aguasabon River at Schreiber, 150 miles east of Port Arthur. Long Lake now empties into the Albany River which flows into James Bay.

A large $450,000 dam constructed on the Kenogamisis River, 75 miles north of Schreiber in the Long Lac gold field area, together with a smaller dam five miles south, will be used by Hydro engineers to control the flow of Long Lake in either direction — north into the Albany River or south into Lake Superior. The larger dam is 50 feet high and 263 feet long.

Military Action In Germany Stirring Fears

LONDON, Aug. 12 (CP).—The Havas News Agency last night said that intensive military preparations "reliably reported to be in progress in Germany" were the centre of diplomatic speculation.

Well-informed quarters, said Havas, believed that the resume of these military preparations published today by the Manchester Guardian (Liberal), approximates information now in the hands of the government.

The Manchester Guardian's diplomatic correspondent reported military train movements along the Nuremberg-Ulm line; provisional extension of conscript service and the fact that all farmers have been ordered to place their horses at the disposal of Reich military authorities by August 20.

"There appears to be no trace of enthusiasm for any kind of conflict," the article said of the German people. "Discontent with the regime is growing steadily and it is being intensified by concern over the international situation."

Whatever the extent of Berlin's military preparations, they were interpreted differently by three schools of thought.

1. Simply as preparations for extensive manoeuvres designed to impress Germany's neighbors.

A new sort of warning given openly by the Reich as a psychological strategem to influence the current trend of events.

3. Mobilization of a war machine ready for instant action should the projected "solution" of Czechoslovakia's problem fail to materialize within "reasonable" time.

B.C. Port Expects 50,000,000 Bus. Wheat To Ship

VANCOUVER, Aug. 12 (CP). — Seven huge grain elevators here with combined capacity of 17,815,000 bushels today await their share of Western Canada's 1938 crop.

Unofficial estimates set that share at about one-sixth of the 300,000,000 bushel crop anticipated on the prairies. Grain men predict shipments from Vancouver for 1938-39 will reach 50,000,000 bushels, only a fraction of which will be made up by the carryover from the previous season. At Aug. 1 the grain in store here had dwindled to 172,000 bushels, an all-time low.

The nearly empty granaries stand ready for the westward movement of the 1938 crop to export markets. Already almost 1,000,000 bushels have been booked here for October, November and December loadings.

The 50,000,000 bushel estimate is based on the proportion of prairie grain shipped via Vancouver in normal years. It is almost four times last season's shipments of 12,700,000 bushels, the lowest on record. Grain dealers explain the slump by abnormally low production on the prairies and hope a good crop this year will help Vancouver toward its former position of leading exporter of Canadian wheat in North America.

Most of those exports go through the Panama canal to the United Kingdom and Europe, which in the record years here of 1932-33 took 84,000,000 bushels of the 97,000,000 bushels shipped. Last season British continental markets absorbed 11,800,000 bushels from here, or 90 per cent of the total shipments. Only half a million bushels went to the Orient, which at one time was one of the leading importers of Canadian wheat.

Mrs. Dodge formerly was a telephone operator at Gore Bay. She met Dodge three years ago while the young millionaire was holidaying in the Northern Ontario backwoods.

Losses In Thousands

LIGONIER, Pa., Aug. 12—(AP)—Destroyed and damaged homes, losses in the thousands and one death by lightning was the toll today of the summer's most severe rain and electrical storms in western Pennsylvania.

Torrential rains lashed this district in the foothills of the Alleghenies for three hours late yesterday, sending the Loyalhanna and Mill Creeks over their banks. Lightning killed 15-year-old Willa Faye Snyder as she sat in a hammock at Clarion, Pa.

Gold Buyers Active

LONDON, Aug. 12.—(AP)— Gold buyers rushed into the market today in appearenly increasing anxiety to get their holdings into safe-keeping until uncertainty is removed from the world political and financial situation.

The price of gold rose 3.5 pence to 142 shillings of eight pence ($34.78) an ounce, the highest level since November, 1936.

His Honor expressed approval of Mr. Carley's point.

Mr. Carley suggested that the police look around their offices and bring to the court room any beer and liquor at present in custody.

"After hearing W. T. Hall and David Fleming testify that no beer had been delivered to them by the police I could not help wondering where it did go, and also whether it could be found in this building."

Constable Puffer was called in and requested to rake up various exhibits of beer and liquor and other samples that had been seized and carry them into the council chamber where Judge Deroche has presided over the enquiry.

Wired Vincent's Home.

"Policemen are supposed to be on call all the time," Mr. Wheeler told Mr. Frost in regard to his charge that Constable Clarke had wired Max Vincent's house. He said Joseph Astles of the fire department had told him so. Mr. Wheeler also said Clarke had also worked on the chief's cottage at the rear of his house.

"Astles told me he was going to wire it and that Clarke was going to finish it," Wheeler replied to Mr. Carley.

Max Vincent, recalled, said he was making some alterations to his house last year and he asked Astles about the wiring. Astles recommended Clarke to him.

"Clarke wasn't working when I saw him, but I think he got the police job before he finished for us," Mr. Vincent said. "I didn't know Clarke before then."

Mrs. Vincent supplemented her husband's evidence. She said she bought the house, and Clarke did some wiring on it during that month. Before he finished he was appointed to the police force.

Mr. Frost—"Did Clarke work for you after he was appointed to the police department?"

"Yes, he did."

Mr. Frost remarked that Clarke was appointed to the force on May 5 and began his duties on May 8. Mrs. Vincent added that she bought the place about the first of May last year. She paid Clarke $9 for the wiring he did.

"So it wasn't a very big job," Mr. Carley observed.

Witness said the building had been a barn. She received $379 from her mother to acquire it and was prepaying it in $15 monthly instalments.

Constable Clarke endorsed the previous testimony that Mrs. Vincent had got him to do some wiring. He wasn't working at that time, so he purchased the materials that were needed; then he was appointed to the force and because he had made a small investment in the work he went ahead with it.

"I never gave it a thought," Mr. Clarke said.

"Did you know Max Vincent had been involved in bootlegging?"

"No. I didn't know him from a load of hay." Clarke said he was 38 years old, and not 43 as Mr. Wheeler asserted in his charge. As to his connection with Astles, they were both born in Campbellton, N.B. where they had gone to school together.

Clarke said he had begun to wire the chief's octtage but didn't finish it.

Judge Deroche said he had no jurisdiction in the matter of Clarke's age. It pertained to the Police Commission of Peterborough, and besides there was no question of wrong-doing about it.

Character Evidence.

Mr. Carley proposed to present certain evidence respecting the reputation of Chief Newhall and opinions of his work in the city. First of these witnesses was Alfred Cuddy, former commissioner of Alberta Provincial Police, and assistant commissioner of Ontario's Provincial Police. Mr. Cuddy said he had known Chief Newhall for thirty years. "I don't think there is a better police officer in Canada than Chief Newhall. He is a very capable officer and he takes the greatest interest in co-operating with other police forces of Ontario and elsewhere in Canada."

General D. C. Draper, Chief Constable of Toronto for the last ten years, said he fully endorsed the statement of Mr. Cuddy.

"Chief Newhall is an officer of broad viewpoint in the process of law enforcement," General Draper said. "In addition to his official duties in the enforcement of law in Peterborough, he has extended his interest in a broad respect as to Canada as a whole. He has been president of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada, and his advice and experience has been of benefit to all of us. I can say that Chief Newhall has frequently co-operated with our department in Toronto, and I have valued highly his assistance and his advice."

Duties Increased.

Alderman G. N. Gordon spoke of the heavy increase in police duties growing out of the construction of new highways that radiate from the city in all directions. The result was that at weekends thousands of automobiles pass through the city, and sometimes there were as many as forty cases to be heard in the traffic court, with witnesses lined up the stairs, and herded in any available space. Chief Newhall's office was often only a thoroughfare.

"The building has not been much altered in fifty years, and I have thought the police accommodation should be enlarged by cutting through this wall into this room," Ald. Gordon said. "The lack of accommodation is such that the local newspaper made an editorial comment about it that was true enough. I think one cure would be to make this room available for police needs. The Crown Attorney is overworked, and I feel the government should pay him enough so that he could devote all his time to the duties of the Crown. Chief Newhall is a good, vigorous officer, and I know that when I was city solicitor during the time of the O.T.A., he followed up cases with a great deal of energy."

Alderman Gordon said there might be some improvement in a better distribution of police duties between the Chief, Inspector Reid, Constable Puffer and several of the others. He said Puffer was overworked, "especially considering that he was an overseas man" It might be helpful, Mr. Gordon said, if the Magistrate and Crown Attorney would meet before police court, decide what cases were to be tried, and arrange then for any remands. He remarked that Magistrate Langley was highly technical in regard to the drafting of information. They had to be exact or he would send them back to be changed. "If you have three or four of them handed back to the Crown Attorney, and they have to be altered by the constable, the effect is not good on the police court crowd. It is too much like entertainment at the expense of the Crown Attorney and the clerk. I wish to add that the Chief is hasty at times but he has the confidence of the employers of labor, and his personal effort on behalf of first offenders and boys has been particularly good. I know he has got some of them jobs that I couldn't get, and as a rule employers do not like to take men like that. The Chief has given a great deal of care and thought to such first offenders, and has shown good judgment in this phase of his duties of which very little is heard."

F. D. Kerr, K.C., acting Crown Attorney during the vacation of V. J. McElderry, K.C., said that when he had defended accused persons he had the impression the Chief was over-active in endeavoring to bring them to justice, but since then, in a more neutral position, he had studied the Chief closely and had found that he gave every assistance in the prosecution of cases, "and I can't say I ever got the impression he prosecuted persons unfairly. At times I was impressed by his solicitousness that a man be given every opportunity to defend himself. The best impressions I have gained of him were in matrimonial and child cases, where patience and also firmness are required. I have seen the Chief acting in matrimonial cases that called for judgment, firmness and kindliness. I know personally the Chief has been at the station night after night dealing with young people guilty of small crime or on the verge of it, and in many of these cases he has administered a paternal held and advise rather than simply acting at Chief of Police."

Mr. Kerr concluded with the expression the city was comparatively free of serious crime, and that condition he attributed to the activities and alertness of the police force under Chief Newhall's direction.

Lorne Henderson, head of the investigation department of the T. Eaton Company, stated that he had known Chief Newhall for fifteen years, and regarded him as the most capable Chief of Police in Canada. He had come in contact with him quite often, found him a man of honor in his home and private life "and in the business dealing I have had with him." Mr. Henderson said he had always received prompt co-operation from Chief Newhall in any matters on which he had consulted him.

As to Joseph Wheeler's assertion in one of his seven charges that "false evidence was brought before the Police Commission against me," Judge Deroche said that was beyond the jurisdiction of the enjuiry, and was a matter solely for the Police Commission.

"We are not trying the Police Commission," Mr. Carley commented.

Tokio Skeptical Truce To Last With Russians

TOKIO, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Tokio press reflected a feeling of doubt today that the Siberian frontier truce would end Japanese-Soviet Russian troubles.

"It remains to be seen whether Moscow's instructions will be observed strictly by the far eastern army authorities," said the newspaper Asahi editorially.

A sharply-defined border and extensive fortifications were urged by the newspaper Miayako, which has a large circulation among the lower classes, because "the Soviet union is a mysterious country and Soviet troops constitute a mysterious army."

"There still remain fundamental differences in the respective views of Russia and Japan," observed the Daily Hochi.

A war office communique said the truce was arranged yesterday between Colonel Cho, representing Japan, and General Shutern, chief of staff of the far eastern Red army.

They agreed to the suspension of hostilities about Changkufeng Hill and the surrounding area, which Japan says is part of Manchoukuo and Russia says is part of Rusisan Siberia, and to co-operation in removing bodies in the area between the opposing lines. They arranged a second conference today to exchange written documents.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 12—(CP). — Winnipeg wheat prices drifted to new seasonal lows near the close of the session to-day. Absence of any particular support coupled with moderate selling by local and southern houses sent prices to lower levels in drab trading.

The finish found quotations ⅝ to ⅞ lower, with October at 69½, November 79⅛a, December 68⅝, and May 71⅛ to ¼ cents.

Most selling was credited to southern accounts involving spreading operations with Winnipeg October being sold against purchases of Chicago futures.

Export dealings were at a minimum, with only odd lots traded. Outside interest was dormant and most support came from locals and commission houses. Buying was scattered.

Resistance To Post-Mortem On Mrs. Mabelle Sidley Expected By Dr. Herbert Bruce

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—Dr. Herbert A. Bruce assumed there would be some resistance to a post-mortem on Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley because Dr. R. E. Farquharson had told him he thought it would be necessary to secure the consent of the executors before holding an autopsy, the eminent surgeon told R. H. Sankey, K. C., in his examination as a witness on the motion to hold up the inquest proceedings.

Examination of Dr. Bruce took place last Friday in camera and the report was filed yesterday at Osgoode Hall. Dr. Bruce said Dr. Farquharson was not adverse to an autopsy, but thought consent would have to be obtained.

"That is sometimes done," suggested Mr. Sankey.

"I said that, in my experience, I had never known it to be done, that all I had ever found necessary was to get the consent of the nearest of kin—in this case it was the son—if he gave consent, that would be sufficient. I said in addition to that, 'I understand that one of the brothers also would like to have a post-mortem.'

Describes Practice.

"Dr. Farquharson then said that in the General Hospital it is the practice to obtain the consent of the executors, to which I replied, 'I have been on the staff of the General Hospital for many years and I never heard of that regulation.' As a consequence of my talk, I assumed there would be some resistance to a post-mortem and I telephoned Mr. Huycke (counse) for William Sidley) and reported what Dr. Farquharson had said to me. Mr Huycke asked what he could do and I suggested he see the Chief Coroner."

Asked by Mr. Sankey why he considered it advisable to call the Chief Coroner before death, Dr. Bruce said such a course was followed in certain cases. "The practice with me over a period of years is this," the witness said. "If a patient has been seen by me in a hospital or elsewhere there is some suspicion that something has been done to hasten the death of the patient, I immediately report the circumstances to the Coroner."

At the start of his evidence, Dr. Bruce testified he had met William Sidley on July 5, and his only previous dealing with him was through Mr. Huycke, his lawyer, who had called him on the telephone on July 4. He had met William Perkins Bull in England "a good many years ago," about 1916. He had rarely seen him since.

Asked of his relations were pleasant or unpleasant, Dr. Bruce said he had no occasion to have any relations with Mr. Bull, because he didn't see him often. Mr. Huycke had stated over the telephone he was consulting the witness at the request of Mr. Sidley, and was also acting for A. J. Horlick, a brother of the sick woman. He said Mr. Sidley had been informed his mother was not likely to live more than a few hours, and possibly not through the night.

Telephones Doctor.

Mr. Sidley had been anxious that there should be an autopsy or post-mortem in the event of death, Dr. Bruce said.

He said that as a result he had telephoned Dr. Farquharson and told him that Mr. Huycke, who was acting for Mr. Sidley, was anxious a post-mortem should be performed on his mother in the event of death, "which I understand was impending.

"Did you mention any suspicious circumstances?" asked Mr. Sankey. "Yes, I did," replied Dr. Bruce. "I said I thought there was some suspicion she was being restrained as a prisoner in the house."

"Did you say anything about Mr. Bull?" asked Mr. Sankey. "I said that I didn't wish to be drawn into this matter, because I had had some previous experience with Mr. Bull during the war and I was really very reluctant to have anything to do in the matter at all. I said nothing more about Mr. Bull except that I didn't wish to be mixed up with him because I had—I may have said run into him—made some expression intimating I had had an experience with him during the war."

"Pleasant or otherwise?" queried Mr. Sankey. "Well, the experience was such as to——. Would you like to know what it was?"

"No, I don't want to go into that," responded Mr. Sankey. "I want to know what you told Dr. Farquharson." "I may have said it was an unpleasant experience, because it was," persisted Dr. Bruce.

Queries Suggestion.

"The only suggestion of anything improper which you had received up to this time was that the lady was being imprisoned or held against her will in Mr. Bull's residence; is that right so far as Mr. Huycke is concerned?" asked Mr. Sankey.

"Well, there may be suspicious circumstances connected with the case which I think would include more than being a prisoner," replied Dr. Bruce.

"Enough to suggest that her physical condition was due to something wrong or just her detention?"

"Well it was, naturally, some suspicious circumstances connected with her case; that is, that her death might be due perhaps in some measure to something else rather than to natural causes."

Dr. Bruce testified he had not understood that Dr. Lawson was to see her as a physician. Mr. Huycke had called him up after calling him the previous night, and had said: "We have not been able to get permission for you or any other physician to see Mrs. Sidley."

Mr. Sankey—Failing to is not a refusal, and I don't want you to argue with us.

Dr. Bruce—He asked for permission and he failed to get a permission; isn't failing to get a permission a refusal?

"No."

"I don't understand English if that isn't a refusal."

The surgeon testified the reply given by physicians in charge of the case for refusing further consultants was "for purely medical reasons." He had suggested the names of Dr. Boyer, Dr. Goldwyn Howland and Dr. Lougheed as extra consultants, and he had also suggested the names of Drs. Robinson, Linell and Lougheed to perform the autopsy.

Father Defends Son Who Plotted Death

Nat Young, aged 60, RIGHT, told police officials at Paris, Mo., that it was the worst blow he had ever received when authorities told him his son, Clifford Young, LEFT, had made a written confession that he had negotiated with four men to have his own father killed, in order to gain possession of his parent's rich farm lands. The father stated he didn't want to have his boy sent to the penitentiary and hired a lawyer to defend him in court.

Calves and Hogs Gain 50 Cents On Week's Sales

TORONTO, Aug. 12. (CP).—Including 1,000 cattle carried over from last week, there were about 5,800 head for sale on Toronto livestock market this week, the Dominion livestock branch reported. Trade continued dull with buyers taking the pick of the killers at steady prices and with inferior steers and heifers selling from 15 to 25 cents lower.

Calves opened firm and gained generally 50 cents cwt. Tuesday with some sales $1 higher than last week. Hogs advanced 50 cents under light supplies. Lamb prices dipped 50 cents in light trading. Sheep were unchanged.

Fresh cattle receipts included 1,200 from the west, mostly stockers. Export buying accounted for only 75 cattle for Great Britain and 30 plain steers for United States.

Choice weighty steers sold at $7.25 to $7.50 kith a top load $7.60. Good butcher steers and heifers traded at $6 to $6.50 with most sales from $6 downward to $4. Cows brought $3 to $4.25, canners mostly $2 to $2.25. Good butcher bulls made $3.75 to $4 with a few reaching $4.25. Bolognas were $3 to $3.50.

Fed calves ranged from $7 to 9.25 with some choice at $9.50 cwt. Common to medium western stockers moved slowly at $4 to $5.25 cwt. with some culls down to $3.50. Milkers and springers were steady at $60 to $65 for tested tops.

Veal Tops At $9.

Top veal calves were at $9 with medium to good calves from $6.50 to $8.50 and common vealers from $5 to $6. Heavy grass calves traded at $3.75 to $4.50.

Off-truck bacon hogs opened steady at $9.50. Wednesday's price was $10 as was Thursday's although the closing market was a little shaky. Both grades of sows sold at $6.50 off trucks.

Sheep and lamb receipts were a little heavier. Good ewe and wether lambs held steady to Wednesday at $9.50. The close was easier with truck lambs down to $9 cwt. and with only a few car lambs making that price. Bucks were discounted generally $1 cwt., culls bringing $7 to $8 cwt. Sheep ranged from $2 to $4 cwt. according to quality.

An Impossible Position

We are inclined to believe that the council of New Toronto has contrived through its padlock bylaw and its refusal to give the C.C.F. a permit for a public meeting, to get itself into a rather ridiculous position.

We hold no brief for the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation; many of its theories we look upon as visionary and we cannot see that as a political force it offers a way out of the serious problems with which Canada is faced. But why there should be any official objection to those theories being voiced at a public meeting is difficult to understand. Nothing that C.C.F. speakers have said or are likely to say would represent the slightest menace to Canadian institutions or to constituted authority in this country and why in the name of common-sense a municipal council wants to place itself in the impossible role—in a democratic country—of an enemy against freedom of speech is something that most folk will have trouble in appreciating.

This development of a Fascist desire to suppress all views that do not agree with our own is a disturbing trend. Most Canadians find the spirit of Quebec's padlock law distasteful and it is disquieting to find something of the same kind taking root on Ontario soil. New Toronto is on dangerous ground in interfering with liberty of speech but when it attempts to apply a silencer to such organizations as the C.C.F. it is introducing an element of comedy into the picture.

It is to be hoped that before there is a serious clash over this affair, a refreshing breeze of common-sense will have swept across the fevered brows of the New Toronto legislators and they will come to the conclusion that in their present attitude they are attempting something that is impossible. Our advice is to let the C.C.F. go ahead with its meeting; the more its views are aired the less likelihood of its doctrine making any substantial progress. On the other hand a refusal to permit free speech will make martyrs of C.C.F. supporters and also make friends for its cause.

The Art Of Swimming

The progress that has been made in recent years in the art of swimming was effectively illustrated by the success of the swimming meet held in conjunction with the Wallace's Point regatta the other day, when some 25 swimmers took part in the mile race and other events were almost as well filled.

In the not-so-distant past it would have been a difficult matter to have found that many youths in the district who could swim a mile at all, let alone race for that distance, and if they could have been found it is safe to say that instead of covering the course with the racing crawl stroke favored by most of the competitors on this occasion they would have drifted along at a snail's pace, sticking faithfully to the slower breast stroke.

As for the women it would have been a hard job to locate one capable of swimming half a mile. What few of the fair sex could swim at that time were regarded as wonders if they could keep themselves afloat for a couple of dozen strokes. That of course was not surprising when the outfits they wore as bathing costumes are recalled. The girl in the gay nineties who went swimming was togged out in a bathing suit of heavy material, with baggy sleeves, even baggier bloomers and a covering over them of a long skirt. With heavy stockings added to this cumbersome attire, the effect was similar to trying to swim with a suit of armor on and it is no wonder few girls of that era were proficient swimmers.

Today the whole situation is changed. Man has learned to move through the water under his own power at a speed that was not thought of a generation or so back, and to keep up a fast rate over a long distance. And woman who timidly splashed up and down in the shallow water in her ridiculous bathing suit of yesteryear is now wearing a half yard of material and competing almost on even terms with man in his speedy progress through the water. It is an amazing change and a welcome one.

We Could Use One

We are grateful to a local citizen for a copy of The Weekly Scotsman containing a most interesting article on Scotland's mountain and view indicators and for the timely suggestion that the lookout from the top of Memorial Park Hill offers itself as a most opportune site upon which Peterborough might erect the first of these indicators to be used in Canada.

What is an indicator? Well, as used in Scotland, it may be a chart marked on a glazed stoneware slab or engraved on a bronze plate or it may be a photographic panorama. In any case it is situated on a mountain top or some other point offering an excellent view of the countryside and upon it are marked the principal points of interest visible from that particular site. There are thirty-seven of these indicators at present in use in Scotland, and they are of invaluable assistance to the visitor who, looking out from a lofty point on a mountain, has only to consult the indicator to find out what are the most important objects in the landscape before him.

With such a device on top of Memorial Park Hill, it would be possible to mark the location of the principal features of Peterborough and the surrounding countryside so that the tourist who drives to the top of the high hill to view the scene below would have an easily-read chart at his disposal that would tell him all about the places at which he is gazing.

The Scotsman declares that building an indicator on a local viewpoint is a comparatively easy matter. The pedestal of the gadget is usually built of stone while the chart itself is engraved or etched on a metal plate which stand the weather quite well.

The thing offers distinct possibilities and the local parks committee might do well to make some inquiries in the proper quarter in Scotland as to the cost involved in the erecting of an indicator. Certainly such a device would add materially to the attractiveness of Memorial Hill park and if one can be placed there for a reasonable amount we have an idea the public would regard it as a desirable expenditure. Certainly few sites in Canada are more ideally situated for a view-aid of that type.

The Dangerous Driver

Whenever a motorist is charged in court with having been drunk in charge of a car there is usually a battle as to whether or not the accused's condition rendered him liable to conviction under the charge as laid. In some instances it seems necessary to prove him to have been almost helplessly intoxicated before it is possible to have him found guilty and now that the penalty includes the impounding of the offender's car for three months in the event of conviction, the courts will probably insist upon stronger evidence of intoxication than ever.

And yet from the viewpoint of public safety it is quite possible that too much stress is being laid upon the degree of intoxication.

A driver need not be blindly drunk to become a menace to life and limb; on the contrary it is quite possible that by far the most dangerous driver is the fellow who has only taken a few drinks and who does not realize that it has had any effect upon him. He is usually in an exalted mood that convinces him that he is a driver of no mean ability and as a result he does things at the wheel that he would not think of attempting were he coldly sober.

An American jurist, Judge Harry H. Porter of Illinois, has been writing on that aspect of the drunken driver problem and his remarks are worthy of attention.

"Strangely enough," writes the American judge, "the really dangerous driver is not the horizontal drunk. Drivers in that condition usually realize their subnormality and attempt to compensate for it by slower speeds and extra care."

The really dangerous driver is the man who has had a few drinks and who is absolutely and thoroughly convinced of his own sobriety and of his unequalled driving perfection."

"He is not ordinarily recognized to be intoxicated by the average police officer or the average layman because he does not exhibit the objective symptoms of drunkenness in sufficient degree. The problem before enforcing authorities is to recognize, apprehend and incarcerate this type of driver with the utmost expedition."

Unfortunately, however, our laws as they stand today do not enable the few-drinks driver to be dealt with adequately.

This Is Bad News

The decision of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds to remove two of the departments of the Auburn Mills to Hespeler will be deeply regretted both for practical and sentimental reasons.

The change means that fifty local persons have lost their jobs and that is an important consideration for them and for the community and the blow is not softened a great deal by the indefinite prospect that the labor opportunities represented by the departments that are being moved may be restored eventually by the use of the space for other purposes.

In these days anything that means loss of employment for half a hundred citizens cannot be regarded as coming within the category of good news.

On the sentimental side there is the feeling that the breaking down, to some extent, of the Auburn plant is the beginning of the end of a mill that for generations has occupied an important place in the industrial life of this community. For many years the Auburn mill has been an institution. In the Carnegie-Kendry regime it was one of the leading industries here and in some cases the grandparents of present-day Auburn workers found employment in the old plant.

To those whose lifetime has been spent in the employ of the Auburn plant the removal of some of its departments is more than the end of a job; it means parting with surroundings that have grown as familiar as the homes in which the workers live.

It is regrettable indeed that economic conditions have forced this move and the only consolation the situation affords is the hope that the remainder of the plant may be retained in operation here. In industry, as well as generally, half a loaf is indeed better than no bread and the community will have to take what comfort it can obtain from that view of the matter.

The West Coming Back

To The Examiner that story from Lethbridge the other day to the effect that over a million dollars of new farm machinery had been sold in that Alberta city this year looms up as a very significant and encouraging piece of news.

When the farmers in the Lethbridge area find it possible to buy new equipment on that scale it can surely be accepted as evidence that Western buying power, which for years has been curtailed to a fraction of its former volume is this year forging back to something like its normal peak.

The thought that this condition sends winging around the eastern section of the country is that if the west is in the market for new machinery it will probably be in the market for a lot of other goods produced by eastern industries. In other words the prairie provinces have every reason to feel hopeful as to the outlook and knowing that fact business men and industrialists in the east have equal cause to look for a much greater volume of business in the form of western orders.

Another bit of evidence that points in the same direction is the fact that the banks of Canada have increased their staffs in their western branches recently, which surely is eloquent of better business conditions all around.

The outlook at the present time is so good, having regard to the crop reports, the fixed price for wheat and other factors in the situation, that it is not too much to hope that the improvement on the prairies will soon make itself felt in industries throughout the manufacturing centres and that factories now running below their normal output in some cases, will find it necessary to increase their working staffs. There are many things in the stories from the west these days that makes confidence justifiable.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There is no Canadian more worthy of promotion to the rank of Honorary Air Marshal than Col. Billy Bishop, V.C., ace of aces during the world war.

President Roosevelt's son is to work in a department store. He probably wonders what is the use of having a father at the head of affairs.

They had better not soften conditions too much in Canadian penitentiaries or the prisoners who are released will be anxious to get back.

Surely the Mr. King Premier Hepburn describes as being unfriendly to Ontario is not the same Mr. King Mr. Hepburn recommended to the folk in this province in the last Federal election.

The farmer in Elgin County who destroyed 700 feet of new pavement by driving a heavy tractor with five-inch cleats over it must be a rugged individualist.

Conservatives in British Columbia will select a new leader in September. The organization will be able to advertise from one end of Canada to the other "Under new management."

Jesse Owens, United States colored sprinting star, is opening a dry cleaning establishment. If he cleans up there like he did on the track the customers should have no complaints.

Police in Toronto have confiscated 1,800 gallons of wine, valued at $10,000. That means the owner has the headache, instead of the hundreds of people to whom she had hoped to sell the wine.

One hundred pairs are entered in the fifteen-mile canoe race to be held at the Canadian National Exhibition. Surely the list should include a few entries from Peterborough, the home of the canoe.

A ship without a steering wheel arrived at New York. That, of course, is not new, for we believe Mr. Hepburn is of the opinion that the ship of state in Canada is being operated without a hand at the helm.

ROAD MAP

Lines and marks and little curves,
Mountains, rivers, hidden lakes—
Meaningless to some, perhaps,
But they're trips that my heart takes!

Here a forest, there a town—
Each one such a tiny mark,
Held together by a road,
One end desert, one end park!

North or south, I never care!
East or west a little ways!
Each direction holds something
I'll remember all my days!

But I've put a special mark
Guiding me where'er I roam—
It's journey's end of all my trips,
The little place that's known as Home!

Many Disturbing Factors Debated

(By Dr. R. W. Frank)

GENEVA PARK, Lake Couchiching, Aug. 12.—Yesterday I discussed briefly some of the constitutional difficulties that led to the formation of the Rowell Commission on the causes of national cleavage and threatened national disintegration.

Today might be well spent in synopsizing other factors that lead in the same direction.

First there is the geographical factor which you would at once appreciate if you could glance for a moment at a relief map of Canada.

You will find down by our eastern sea three small provinces. One a beautiful little island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, cut off entirely and reached only by steamer. Then there are Nova Scotia and New Brunswick sparsely settled in straggling communities but cut off entirely from central Canada by mountains and the Maine salient.

Next you come to central Canada, Ontario and Quebec, which again are separated by many hundreds of miles of rock and forest from the three prairie provinces. Then comes the greatest mountain range in the world, beyond which lies the habitable portion of British Columbia.

Are Real Obstacles

In these geographical barriers lies one of the real obstacles to national unity Distances are too great to permit free intercourse of peoples and the expense of communications, railway and highway, make transportation costs burdensome and construction and maintenance one of our greatest problems.

Coupled with the geographical divisions must be noted the divisions of economic organization and activity.

On the east and west coasts we have maritime activities, fishing, lumbering and exporting. In the central provinces of Ontario and Quebec we have a highly industrialized section and one might say the business and financial centre of Canada, and in the prairie provinces the extensive farming section dependent on foreign export.

Here again you will find disruptive causes. Three sections out of the four depend on foreign sales for their products which they must sell in the open markets of the world at world prices, while at the same time they are compelled to buy in a market at prices set by protected industry. That is why a minimum price has been set on wheat to help equalize that inequitable situation. If wheat drops below the fixed price we all contribute the difference to the western farmers in general taxes. He has as much right to protection as the manufacturer, surely. Soon that principal will be extended to fish, butter and what not. Once the government starts assisting any one industry, and it started many years ago, it must be prepared to expect demands from all the rest, until ultimately it will be compelled to assume some control, then more control, until we shall reach some day a planned economy. Many people shudder at that phrase but as sure as fate it is coming and coming fast and by the time it gets here we will be so accustomed to the small doses that it will not bother us a bit. So do not worry.

The Racial Factor

Now look for a minute at racial demarkations. Two million of our people are French, most of them in a solid block, retaining jealously their own language, culture and religion, exactly as we would do ourselves. In the prairie provinces we have a large Slavic and German element which have contributed greatly in the development of that great country, but which is undoubtedly merging to form a new racial type.

Let us easterners not belittle the contribution these people have made and will make to our national life. In their blood is retained the culture of an older races. Their sturdy physiques, their initiative that impelled them half around the globe, and their adaptibility to make good in a new country and a new environment cannot but be a dominant factor in a new western Canadian type.

Will Remand Action

Perhaps that initiative will refuse to tolerate some of the conditions existing today. Perhaps it is a factor in the progressive thought of the west. They may not be represented in parliament but they will demand action.

Then of course the still dominant factor is the Anglo-Canadian whether born here or migrated. We ought to know enough about our own characteristics without describing them, but we don't. Our country is so large we have not seen how others live. A land that has only known progression becomes self-satisfied, conservative, develops a superiority complex toward other people, a holier than thou attitude, and soon refuses to see or take advantage of the ideas of others until soon it finds itself in a static state and lagging far behind. That tendancy has been noted in us and freely expressed here.

Our other factor must be noted in discussing unity or lack of unity, and that is the lack of a national spirit.

The Other Fellow

I suppose that most people would resent that statement if applied to themselves. It only applies to the other fellow. Suppose we consider it for a moment, and in doing so we shall be compelled to review a little history to give us background.

Confederation was a compromise of three provinces, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Canada, (Ontario and Quebec after act of Union 1841).

Now the only national spirit that could have existed prior to confederation was divided between the province in which one lived, and the British Empire. Each of the maritime provinces had tremendous local loyalty and were well on the way to becoming separate states. New Brunswick did not want to come into confederation but was bribed into it.

Nova Scotia with an older history clung to local tradition. Quebec was French, cut off from their mother race, living unto themselves but rooted firmly in the new land and loyal to their own province and suspicious of others. Upper Canada was primitive and loyal to the British Crown.

• Low Breeding Causes Accidents

(From the Brockville Recorder and Times)

J. P. McEVOY, noted satirist, novelist and feature writer, recently wrote a book called "Father Meets Son," published by J. B. Lippincott Co., in which a modern father, patterned after the famed Lord Chesterfield, wrote a series of letters to his son who had just entered the business world after a rather hectic college career. The letters discussed every aspect of the young man's future life—questions of employment, marriage, social responsibilities, and so on.

On one occasion the lad, who was working at the time as a private chauffeur, took his employer's car out one night without permission and "wrapped it around a lamp-post."

Father McEvoy, when he heard about the accident, sat down and wrote his son a letter containing a great deal of food for thought which should be thoroughly digested by everyone who drives a car. Here is what he wrote:

DEAR SON:

You used a lot of paper explaining how the accident was not your fault, and I can believe you. But you are going to continue to drive cars, and a few words on the subject won't do any harm. In the 25 years that I have been driving automobiles, I have never met anyone who had an accident through his own fault — it was always the car, the road, or the Other Fellow. Mostly, the Other Fellow.

The Other Fellow is worth some study. There seems to be no escaping him. To look at him, you would think he was harmless, but last year he killed a great many people, and injured many, many more. I have seen the Other Fellow, and certainly he doesn't look like a killer. Sometimes he is a young, nice-looking kid like you. Sometimes he is a mild-looking middle-aged fellow like me. Sometimes he is a gentle sweet little woman like your mother, but that only goes to show you can't judge by appearances. He's a killer, and no mistake, and something is going to be done about it—or is it?

Some time ago, the champion safety driver of one of the largest bus companies in the world was given a banquet and a medal. He had completed half a million miles without an accident. When they called on him for a speech, he rose and said: "I ain't much of a hand at making speeches. I suppose you want to know how I got away so long without an accident? I just got one rule. I drive like the other fellow was crazy."

So that seems to explain it. The Other Fellow is crazy. If you cut out of line on a two-lane road, don't expect him to let you push him into the ditch, so you can cut in again. If you pass a car on a blind curve, don't expect the fellow coming the other way to be sensible about it and get off the road and cut into the field to let you by. He's just crazy enough to run right into you because you are on his side of the road. If you speed through a main intersection, you will meet a lot of people who are crazy enough to think they have the right of way just because they are on a through street and you are coming in off a side street. If you like to pass on a hill, don't be surprised if a car comes over the crest and the driver doesn't leap over you or run under you. That would be the sane thing to do, of course—but you see, he's crazy.

Yes, he's crazy, but you are rude—and that's what makes him crazy. It doesn't matter so much if you are walking down the street and you are rude enough to push someone aside, but if you are rude enough to push him aside with a three-ton automobile going 60 miles an hour, you'll kill him. You can elbow your way through a crowd, if you are so impolite, and do no damage at all. But when you elbow your way through traffic with your bad manners stepped up to a hundred horsepower, you're bound to do a lot of damage to a lot of innocent people.

For every accident caused by high speeding, there are a thousand caused by low breeding. Is it coincidence that the continent which leads in fatalities lags in formalities? We may not be the most uncivil people on two feet, but we certainly are the prize terrors on four wheels. My boy, you may think it is sissy to be polite, but a kiss on a warm cheek is worth two on a cold brow.

Today we put a premium on agility rather than civility. Each year our manners become cruder as our gasoline becomes more refined. Wide roads won't prevent accidents, so long as they continue to fill up with narrow people. Good brakes on cars are no protection against bad breaks in behavior. The growing problem of automobile fatalities will not be solved around the drafting board but around the family table. Then we can have a monster under the hood, because there will be a gentleman at the wheel.

Affectionately,
DAD.

• Who Pays the Taxes ?

(From the Brantford Expositor)

COMMENTING on the advocacy, by a Toronto Controller, of a dollar poll tax on every tenant, to cover social services, The Financial Post, in its current issue, agrees that "whether in this form or not, a way will have to be found to provide for direct taxation of those who are not property owners in our heavily assessed over-taxed cities." Such a tax, The Post says, might do more than anything else to check civic extravagance.

The question of taxing the non-taxpayer, so-called, has been frequently to the fore, particularly in recent years. Some advocates, however, appear to make the big mistake of assuming that a person who does not pay property or income tax is tax free.

This, of course, is entirely wrong. Whether on the tax list or not, all citizens, provided they are not among those entirely supported by public funds through relief or otherwise, pay taxes and plenty of them. True, such levies, for the most part, are concealed, but they are none the less real for that. A householder who rents his house, or apartment, pays, in his rent, all of the taxes and more—unless his landlord happens to be an obscure and as yet unheralded philanthropist. Every loaf of bread carries, besides its food content, a whole list of indirect taxes. The same thing applies on everything from matches up.

The weakness and danger of this system is that the people who pay these taxes often appear and act as though they were in complete and blissful ignorance of the demand thus being made upon their purses.

In short, they are not tax conscious. How many times, during a municipal election campaign when a property-owner bylaw is to the fore, has the remark been heard: "Oh, that doesn't bother me; that's the taxpayer's headache?"

Every earner and producer in the country is a taxpayer and that those not on the assessment rolls often overlook the fact is bad business for all concerned.

Possibly the best solution would be to make everyone pay an income tax, properly graded, of course, to prevent the wage-earner in the lower brackets from being unfairly treated. Revenues derived thus could be applied to reduce some of the insidious "indirect" taxes to the general benefit of all citizens. Thus, in the long run, nobody would pay more taxes, but the unmistakable advantage would be that everyone would have forcibly impressed upon him that he was a tax payer, that he had a real "stake" in the country and in the community. Such realization should have a marked and immediate psychological effect leading to more general and intelligent interest in public affairs, something too often conspicuous by its absence.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

HAST THOU not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding. He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength. Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall: but they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.—Isa. xl, 28-31.

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not, conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. . . . Having then gifts differing according to the grace that is given to us, whether prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith; or ministry, let us wait on our ministering: or he that teacheth, on teaching; or he that exhorteth on exhortation: he that giveth, let him do it with simplicity; he that ruleth, with diligence; he that sheweth mercy, with cheerfulness.—Rom xii, 1, 2, 6-8.

✧ ✧ ✧

Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.—James, i, 17.

TOBACCO ROMANCE.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

THERE'S a lot of romance and adventure about this tobacco growing industry that has sprung up around us the past few years. A prominent grower in the St. Lawrence district was telling us about the ups and downs of this year's crop. Some of it came along fast, without a hitch and turned out well. Then there were the misfortunes of frost, wind and finally hail that caused extensive damage further east. But the most surprising thing of all happened to fields that a couple of weeks ago looked as if they would be almost a total loss.

Timely rains, warm days and close dewy nights, followed by that soaking rain of Sunday last changed the whole picture. Today those once-sickly looking fields are blooming with tobacco that promises, in many cases, to be the best of the year unless something happens. This just goes to show you, as this tobacco grower says, that you can't tell a thing about a crop of tobacco until it's in the barn.

FOR THREE CENTS.

(Detroit Free Press)

"COSTS of production cannot be forced above a certain point without making it impossible for a newspaper to live on its revenue from circulation and advertising — and when that hapens, a newspaper is forced either to merge with some other paper or go out of business.

"The man in the street, who pays three cents for a newspaper that gives him the news of the entire world while it is still hot, seldom realizes how many thousands of dollars a day it costs to collect that news, to edit it, to put it into type, to run it off the presses, to distribute it on the streets and in the homes of tens of thousands of subscribers."

BETTER FACE IT.

(Niagara Falls Review)

LEAVING the scene of an accident is proving a costly pastime throughout the province. In Windsor alone, in nine days, nine men have been arrested for this offence and those sentenced have been committed to jail for thirty days, fined fifty dollars or another thirty days and have had driving licenses suspended. Maybe others who are careless will take note and recognise it is better to remain at the scene and accept responsibility for such accidents at the time.

SMASHES WINDOWS, GARDENS SETS CHURCH DOORS ABLAZE

Village Terrorized by Man With Flower in Buttonhole

SEIZED BY POLICE

Maidstone, Kent—A man carrying a brief case and wearing a buttonhole of white flowers set fire to the church at Detling, two miles from Maidstone, and terrorized the village's 300 inhabitants until he was captured by the police.

The man, about 50, walked into the village, banged on the door of a cottage and demanded tea.

The occupant, Miss Clements, said "No." So the man rooted up every plant in her front garden.

He walked on, rolled a dozen empty tar barrels against a gate leading to the church and tried to set fire to them. They would not burn.

He then ripped off the church gates, threw them into the road, and smashed the glass frames of notice boards. In the church porch he tore down notices, put a match to them, and set light to the church doors.

On leaving the church he pushed over the tombstone of a former vicar and broke a marble cross into three pieces.

After a rest of 10 minutes in a telephone kiosk he broke a window in a garage.

The man next seized an accumulator and broke every remaining window in the garage. Then he wound the cord of an electric iron round his neck, filled his pockets with bicycle bells and repair outfits, and decorated his arms and legs with 12 pairs of colored cycling clips.

He went to another cottage, banged on the door, demanded breakfast. When the woman who answered the door fainted, he broke every window in the house.

Police arrived and the man was taken to county police headquarters.

ETON SCHOOLBOY GETS $3,500,000 BY WILL

Aunt Fears Mates May Toss Him in River to Cool Off

A 15-year-old schoolboy now at Eton is to succeed to control of a wealthy company of stevedores, who from 22 offices dotted along the banks of the Thames handle shipping and cargo from all parts of the world.

The boy's father, Furse Fairfax Vidal Scrutton, of Nutfield, Surrey, who died recently, has left him all but 50 of his shares in Scrutton's, Ltd.

The son, Philip, who also receives $500,000 in trust for life and the residue of his father's $3,500,000 estate, is shortly leaving Eton, but his future is not yet decided. His aunt, Mrs. Humphrey Pelly, said: "It is our hope and intention that he will act as head of the family business when he is old enough to take charge.

"If a lot of fuss is made about him now he'll probably get ragged by the other boys at Eton, perhaps thrown in the river to cool off."

ARAB BANDITS FIRE IRAK OIL PIPELINES

Palestine Authorities Worried at Latest Form of Mischief-Making

Jerusalem—The now frequent firing of the Irak petroleum pipeline, which conveys the crude oil across the Syrian desert for 620 miles, is causing increasing concern to the Palestine authorities.

This has become the most common act of destruction committed by the Arab bandits.

As 900 tons are pumped through the 12-inch pipes an hour, and as it takes over half an hour for the alarm to reach the pumping station, the quantity wasted often runs into thousands of tons.

After much practice the bandits have greatly increased the destructive effect of this form of mischief-making and have reduced the cost and danger to themselves.

PIKE PLACED IN ROLE OF SWAN SWALLOWER

25-Pounders Said to Have Carried Off Birds

Wimborne, Dorset.—A giant swan-eating fish is believed to be conducting a submarine terrorism campaign in the River Stour, near here.

Anglers and naturalists have noticed that families of cygnets recently hatched out are being steadily reduced.

The parent swans are so fierce that it is thought unlikely that dogs, rats or weasels are responsible.

But anglers have seen more than one young bird disappear suddenly into deep water—presumably fast in the jaws of a pike, of which specimens three feet long and weighing 25 pounds have been caught locally.

"You belong to an ancient and honorable profession, and it is a solicitor's duty to maintain the dignity of the calling to which he belongs."

When proceedings were resumed, the solicitor appeared in a navy blue suit.

SHANNON'S AIR BASE LINKED TO DOMINION

Planes to Land There in Winter—700 Men Now at Work

Rineanna, Co. Clare.—Good progress is being made on the Shannon airport base, which is being constructed here as a permanent terminal for the transatlantic air route. Until this is ready Foynes will have to be used as a temporary station.

About 700 men are converting 700 acres of farmland into an airfield for the giant landplanes which will be employed on the winter service to Newfoundland, Canada, and America when the flying-boat bases are frozen over.

There are to be four runways, each a mile long and 400 yards wide. The base will be available next winter, when the first passenger service may be opened, though it will not have administrative buildings, control tower or the offices of a modern airport until 1940.

FIND COINS IN BASE OF WATERLOO BRIDGE

Original Stone Discovered—Sealed Container Behind Plate Dated 1811

London.—The original foundation stone of Waterloo bridge — sought ever since the new scheme for the new bridge was decided upon—was found during excavations near the the south abutment.

Below the bed of the river, hidden amid a mass of piles, the stone was discovered by a ganger.

It still bore the leaden plate which was placed in position in 1811, and the inscription was easily discernible.

Behind the plate on the foundation stone was a glass container hermetically sealed. Hidden in it were 13 coins, mostly of gold and silver.

GETS DIVORCE AT 85 AND MARRIES AGAIN

Deputy Lieutenant for Surrey Given Decree Because Wife Insane

London. — Notice was given recently at a register office of the forthcoming marriage of Henry Oberlin Serpell, whose decree nisi under the new Matrimonial Act was made absolute recently.

Mr. Serpell, who is described as of "full age," is 85. He is a deputy lieutenant for Surrey and is associated with the Reading biscuit manufacturing firm of Serpell and Co., Ltd. He was granted a decree nisi on the ground of the incurable insanity of his wife, whom he married in 1877.

His bride-to-be is Miss Fanny Oliver, "also full age," living at West Croft Park, Chobham, Surrey.

BRIDE LATE IN WEDDING SCORED BY BRITISH VICAR

Officers of Church Should Be Given Consideration, He Declares

GROOMS PUNCTUAL

Burnley. — "Rude, bad-mannered brides" who are late for the wedding were criticized by Rev. H. D. Curtis, jovial vicar of St. John's.

"I have not yet heard of a bride who missed her honeymoon train, but recently I have had to complain several times of the lateness of brides for their marriage service," said Mr. Curtis. "It is about time these young ladies understood that the officers of the church deserve a little consideration. The bridegrooms are nearly always in good time."

Mr. Curtis said offenders were usually people whose connection with the church was slender. Regular churchgoers were usually considerate and good timekeepers.

Some people might think he was being annoyed by trifles.

"But frequently brides will arrive at church 20 minutes to half an hour late," he explained. "Some of them have been even later.

"I am always prepared to allow a bride a few minutes' grace in the flurry and excitement of her great day, but those responsible are showing scant consideration for the congregation, for the bridegroom, for church officials and for the priest.

"To be quite frank, it is rude and bad manners to be late for your wedding without a genuinely good excuse," said Mr. Curtis emphatically.

GETS TIPS FROM STARS

Col. Lawrence bought the cottage when serving as a private at Bovington in 1924, and retired there permanently when he left the Royal Air Force.

VETERAN'S LAST DRIVE COSTS HIM ONE RIB

Boasted Record of 28 Years Blameless Handling

London.—John Evison of Hemingford Grey, Huntingdonshire, has struck an unlucky patch in this his 94th year. Here is his chapter of misfortune:

After 28 years of blameless driving, he turned his car right at a traffic island, mounted the pavement, missed a lamp-post by inches, cut in between a lorry and the parapet of a narrow bridge, and narrowly missed a bicyclist.

After paying a $25 fine, he promised never to drive a car again.

Mr. Evison was allowed one last drive — from the police court at Tamworth to his home. And on the way, turning a sharp bend he ran into a hole in the road. He was thrown forward violently, breaking a rib.

BIT ADOPTED BABE WHEN CHILD CRIED

Sussex Woman Admits Beating Girl With Wooden Spoon

Battle, Sussex.—A woman admitted in court here recently that she bit her 18-month-old adopted daughter on the arm because the child cried. She also agreed that she beat the child with a wooden spoon because she lost her temper.

The woman, Mrs. Florence Wood, summoned by the N.S.P.C.C. for ill-treating a child of whom she had charge, was bound over for two years under the supervision of a probation officer.

Rose Mary Crouch, Westfield, said that on many occasions she had heard blows and the screams of the child.

Mrs. Elizabeth Marsh, of Westfield, said she saw Mrs. Wood thrashing the baby, and described how part of its body was black with bruises.

The child is detained at a poor law institution.

GIANT HIPPO DEAD

Billie Would "Play Dead" at Bottom of Pool

London—Billie, the giant hippo at the London zoo, whose favorite trick was to feign death by sinking and staying at the bottom of his pool for several minutes, is dead.

He arrived at the zoo in 1932 as a baby and was reared on the bottle. When he grew larger he used to stand against the railings of his den and visitors would play noughts and crosses on his back. He was very tame and could be visited in his den by the smallest child.

ADVOCATE OF AMBITION

Brighton, Eng.—Post-office workers who refuse promotion because they do not want to "get the better of their fellow-workers" were sternly reproved by Sir George Lee at the post-office engineering union conference.

LOWER TIME FOR BIG GUNS FROM YEAR TO 4 MONTHS

Quick-Firing Anti-Aircraft Ordnance Has Inner Sleeve

RENEWED IN FIELD

London—The 3.7-inch anti-aircraft gun is now leaving the ordnance factories in numbers not thought to be possible a few months ago.

The time taken to manufacture this type of gun, with its complicated control mechanism to allow for high-angle fire, was recently estimated at about a year.

Now, at a factory "somewhere in the Midlands," the gun is being produced from an 8-foot column of solid steel in less than four months.

This new government factory is concentrating solely on producing the larger types of anti-aircraft guns.

Highly skilled organization, a scientific distribution of work, trained and disciplined workers, and the most efficient machinery procurable have made it possible, within a reasonable time, satisfactorily to meet the abnormal demand.

The process of drawing-out or extending the tube to the required length of about 18 feet from the column of solid steel is done by hammering.

The red-hot column is taken from the furnace and brought under a pressure of 1,500 tons to the square inch. Under this operation the steel becomes malleable.

It shudders, wriggles and lengthens, and gradually the formless mass of steel takes on the sinister look of a piece of ordnance.

After boring, the tube is placed in a vertical electrical furnace for tempering. Having reached the required heat the tube is plunged into an oil bath where it remains for three-quarters of an hour.

Other processes have to be gone through before the gun is ready to be placed on its mounting and sent for proof. This is an indispensable requirement before issue to units.

The 3.7-inch gun, when issued to the service, is accompanied by a "liner" or inner rifled tube which replaces the one inside the jacket when its "life" is said to have ended. The operation takes approximately 45 minutes and can be done in the field.

KING UNABLE TO COME BUT PLAQUE REMAINS

Birmingham. — Thirteen years' work was crowned here when the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester opened the $5,000,000 health centre built at Edgbaston out of the voluntary contributions of the people.

The announcement that the King could not open the centre left no time to change the bronze plaque which faced the duke as he entered.

"These buildings were opened by H.M. King George VI, accompanied by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth," it said.

BIRMINGHAM'S UGLY FACE

Birmingham.—"We have learned to love her ugly old face," declared Neville Chamberlain at a banquet to celebrate the centenary of Birmingham's incorporation.

JEALOUS MOTHER LION KILLS BOTH HER CUBS

Father Wanted to Have Them —Keeper Knocked Down in Fight

Belfast.—Jealousy over their six-weeks-old cubs led to a fight between two lions in their cage at Belle Vue zoo, Belfast, in which the two cubs were killed and the keeper, who went to try to rescue them, was severely clawed.

The keeper, Dick Foster, ran into the cage and snatched the cubs from the snarling parents, Wallace and Victoria.

Suddenly Victoria left her mate and knocked down Mr. Foster. The infuriated mother killed the cubs before his eyes, then returned to the fight.

Mr. Foster said afterwards: "The lions are the best of friends; just like an ordinary married couple, but they have been crazy about the cubs.

"The mother wanted the cubs with her, and the father objected. The noise of the fighting startled the other animals, and there was bedlam in the cage when I arrived."

BUDDHA FOR MUSEUM CLAIMS MANY LIVES

Kills Those Who Try to Move It — Weighs 20 Tons

London. — The 20-ton Maitreya Buddha the most imposing exhibit at the Royal Academy exhibition of Chinese art in 1935, has been presented to the British museum by the Chinese government.

"The Buddha has been stored in the academy yard since 1935," an official said. "I do not know how it will be taken to the museum. The expense of transport will be enormous."

Many lives have been lost in handling it.

Two cranes, used to lift it, were broken, and at Burlington House in 1935 the floor beneath it had to be propped with steel scaffolding.

The Buddha, standing over 20 feet high, was carved in pure white stone at Ting Chou in A.D. 585.

VICAR NOT PERTURBED AFTER 20 WALK OUT

Arranges Sermon at End of Service—Takes Pity on Choir Boys

London.—Just before Rev. A. Wellesley Orr, vicar of St. Paul's church, Kingston Hill, began his sermon the other morning, 20 members of the congregation walked out, followed by the choir boys.

It was a retreat in good order and according to plan.

The vicar has rearranged the order of service and put the sermon at the end, after the benediction, so that those who wish to leave early may do so.

"Putting the sermon after the ordinary service enables those who are pressed for time or have an objection to sermons to attend church without hesitation," Mr. Orr explains. "I am against choir boys having to sit through more than one sermon a day. I am glad people were not afraid to walk out."

PEER HAD BIG ESTATE BUT NOT MUCH CASH

London.—Lord Gisborough, who owned an historic mansion, a 24,000-acre estate, and ironstone mines in North Yorkshire, left unsettled estate of the gross value of barely more than $10,000.

He let his hall and shooting rights every season to pay his way, and lived in a cottage on his estate.

The 81-year-old peer was very fond of horses, but could not afford to keep them. He had no motor car.

A close friend said: "He lived very frugally. He was saddled with this big estate which did not pay."

NEWS AND VIEWS FROM ALL CORNERS OF THE WORLD

DREAM RESTORES HIS SON MISSING FOR 24 YEARS

German Father Identifies Wife and Children He Never Saw

LIVING IN FRANCE

Stuttgart.—In March, 1914, the 14-year-old son of an inhabitant of Saarbruecken left home, crossed the French frontier and was never heard of again.

The father made ceaseless inquiries. "Missing person" notices were sent by the German police all over the world and the German embassy in Paris made inquiries in the Foreign Legion.

All attempts to trace the boy failed.

The war interrupted the investigations, but the father never gave up hope that he would eventually find his son alive.

After the armistice inquiries were resumed. Many clues were followed, and now, 24 years after the son's disappearance, a dream has led to the discovery of his whereabouts.

A few weeks ago the father, now living in Heidenheim, dreamed that he saw his son stepping from the Paris express on to the platform at Stuttgart, accompanied by his wife and two children. Having joyfully greeted his son the man awoke.

The memory of the dream remained. "If my son is married," he argued to himself, "he must have obtained the necessary birth certificate and other papers from the authorities of his birthplace, Schiltigheim (in Alsace)."

He wrote at once to the mayor of Schiltigheim and a few days later received the news that in 1925 the papers had been sent to his son at the village of Bizots, in the department of Soane-et-Loire.

The father sent another letter to the mayor of Bizots from whom he learned that his son had moved to the village of Monceaux-les-Mines.

AUSTRIA'S BETRAYER REWARDED BY HITLER

Dr. Guido Schmidt Heads Great Ammunition Works

Vienna.—Dr. Guido Schmidt, Dr. Schuschnigg's last foreign secretary, who tricked the Austrian chancellor into his fatal trip to Berchtesgaden to meet Hitler, has received his reward from the Fuehrer.

For he has been given a job which is the plum of all industrial posts in Austria—general manager of the Hirtenberger Patronen-Fabrik, the greatest Austrian ammunition factory, which, was formerly controlled by Herr Fritz Mandl.

Herr Mandl's income was more than $200,0000 a year, which made him the biggest taxpayer in Austria.

The importance attached by the Nazi government to the Hirtenberg factory makes it likely that the new general manager's income will not be much less than the old one's.

COMMITTEE SAVES NUDES

Glasgow.—The three nude figures, emblematic of fitness, which were removed from the National Fitness Council pavilion at the Empire exhibition, Glasgow, are not to be destroyed after all.

C. H. Dand, public relations officer of the council, stated that the pavilion sub-committee would decide what position inside the pavilion the figures would occupy for the remainder of the exhibition.

Salem, India.—With coming of prohibition in this district, it was suggested that former drink addicts could find recreation by listening to evening radio programs.

FRENCH PORTIA HELD AS HUSBAND'S SLAYER

Wanted To Make Gesture of Reconciliation, She Says

Paris.—Suzanne Delaris, 34 years old, a lawyer, has been accused at Perpignan of murdering her husband, from whom she was parted.

It was alleged that she went to his house, hid there, and shot him while he was asleep.

She told the judge: "I wanted to make a gesture of reconciliation. I entered my husband's room, expecting he would arrive at 11 o'clock and would read for a time before he fell asleep.

"He arrived sooner than I expected and was accompanied by a woman. For three hours I heard all that passed. Finally, the woman departed."

It was then, it was said, that Mme. Delaris shot her husband.

GROUNDED IN JUNGLE WOMAN FLIER UNHURT

Joan Parsons Spends Week With Natives Before Continuing Flight

Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika.—Miss Joan Parsons, the Leamington airwoman who was forced down in the jungle on a Cape-London flight, gave a dramatic story of her adventures on arrival here.

"I completely lost my bearings," she confessed. "As it was getting dark, I knew I must come down before sunset.

"So I searched for the flattest ground available and spotted a large clear piece near a village. Landing in some long grass, I thought for a moment that the machine would overturn, but luckily it did not.

"I amused myself by shooting off the heads of the long grass-stalks with my revolver in case I had to spend the night in the machine in a country infested with wild animals.

After 20 minutes natives arrived, and I showed them by signs that I wanted to sleep.

"They understood and took me to Uga, a village an hour's walk away. There I found an empty mission station which had a bed but no mosquito net. I slept on rush matting, and my supper consisted entirely of bananas."

It was more than a week before she could continue her flight to Nairobi.

TO PRODUCE MILK LAW

London.—When asked at a joint committee of the Lords and Commons dealing with the Food and Drugs Bill, if the Government intended to bring in a milk bill this year, Robert Bernays, under-secretary, ministry of health, said he thought they could proceed on the assumption that the government was going to produce a bill.

AUSTRALIAN PENSIONS PLAN COVERS ALL CONTINGENCIES

Premier Lyons' Legislation In Effect After Five Weeks' Debate

AFFECTS 1,850,000

Canberra.—A vigorous struggle by Prime Minister Joseph Lyons' government has assured 1,850,000 of Australia's population of almost immediate sickness and disability insurance, old age, widows' and orphans' pensions, whether they want them or not.

The national health and pensions insurance bill and the national health and pensions (contributions) bill under which the plans will be given effect passed through both houses of parliament after five weeks of vigorous debate.

The scheme is compulsory and applies to all persons in the commonwealth over 14 and employed under a contract of service, except persons employed otherwise than in manual labor at more than £365 ($1,442) annually and certain other special classes to whom the scheme is unnecessary or unsuitable.

These benefits are provided under the insurance part of the bills: Free medical attention and treatment, including medicine and certain medical and surgical appliances, sickness benefit of 20 shillings ($3.95) a week for a man and 15 shillings ($2.95) for a woman, plus an allowance of 3s 6d (67 cents) a week for each dependent child less than 15 years old; disablement benefit of 15 shillings ($2.95) for a man and 12s 6d ($2.38) for a woman plus allowance for children. The disablement benefit would go to men and women no longer eligible for medical or sickness benefits owing to more permanent nature of their disability.

Under the pensions scheme, old age pensions of 20 shillings a week for men and 15 shillings for women are provided. Ages of eligibility are 65 for men, 60 for women. In each case the usual allowance for dependent children will be made. Old age pensioners will be entitled to medical attention and treatment, including medicines, for the rest of their lives.

Initially weekly payments will be three shillings (57 cents) for men, two shillings (38 cents) for women. The worker and the employer each will pay half. Doctors would get 11 shillings ($2.09) a year for each of 1,500 patients, giving them an income from that source of £825 ($3,258) a year.

HORSE NAMED HITLER AROUSES NAZI WRATH

Owner Gravely Informed Title Must Be Changed

Manila.—When the German consul in the Philippine Islands learned that one of the horses at the government-owned stock farm had been named Hitler he lodged an official protest.

The government gravely instructed the director of the farm to change the horse's name, and it has been rechristened Hedjaz.

Hedjaz is a small kingdom near the Red sea which has no consul in Manila.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN THREATENED BLACK MIKE AT DETROIT

Job Dismissal May Be Blessing For Manager Mickey Cochrane

Black Mike Verging Nervous Breakdown

(By Bill Braucher, Central Press Canadian Sports Writer)

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11—One of the Detroit baseball writers who is a good friend of Mickey Cochrane's told me recently that it would be a swell break for the Mick if he were kidnapped and held prisoner until after the world series.

"If that ball club doesn't start winning pretty soon," he said, "I wouldn't be surprised to see Cochrane come into the ball park some afternoon, pick up a ball bat and mow 'em all down. He's the world's champion worrier, and he isn't any farther than a jump and a half ahead of another nervous breakdown right now.

"It was different when the team lost while Cochrane was playing. He expended some of that stored-up energy on the diamond. He always was one of the hardest workers on the club. He hated to lose, but at least when he was playing he could work off some of the pressure of defeat. But on the bench! You'd feel sorry for the guy when the team was losing, with the Mick sitting there eating his heart out, and nothing he could do about it."

All For The Best

So, after all, what appeared to be a crowning act of ingratitude on the part of the Detroit ball club when Black Mike was dismissed, may be a blessing in disguise. Having known Cochrane, and admired his great fighting spirit since he came up to the A's 13 years ago, we'd hate to see baseball get him down, as it did once before, when he flew west in search of peace and health on a Wyoming ranch.

His summary dismissal left many of the fans guessing. Baseball is a business, of course, just like the manufacture of automobiles in Detroit, motor's capital. And when a business isn't getting anywhere, changes have to be made. Cochrane's removal, however, was so sudden and unexpected that the baseball world was dazed.

A $45,000-a-year manager tossed aside with no more emotion than a motorist shows in the act of discarding a cracked spark plug!

It was not surprising that many of Cochrane's friends, notably Lefty Grove of the Red Sox, exclaimed that the Mick was being given a dirty deal.

But I think Cochrane himself will be glad this happened, even though dismissal seems unnecessarily cruel in view of the fact that the Tigers have floundered this year Cochrane never would have quit fighting. Without adequate pitching, the club seems destined to go on losing, and every defeat would bring the once greatest catcher of them all closer to physical and mental collapse.

Recently Cochrane announced he wanted to catch again. When he told reporters that Owner Briggs had given his consent, provided a physical check-up revealed no danger, Cochrane was attempting what many of his friends believed was impossible. And doing it because there was no other way out for him. He no longer was able to sit there on the bench and watch the team being beaten.

Mickey Cochrane, who in four full seasons with Detroit Tigers, led them to two American League pennants, one world's championship, and two second places, leaves his Detroit stamping grounds, Briggs Stadium, after severing his connection with the motor city organization. Mickey's summary dismissal came as a shock to the baseball world, but may have been all for the best for the once great catcher who had been worrying himself to death on the bench.

His dismissal may turn out to be a move that averted tragedy. A year ago Cochrane fought his way back from death when a fast ball fractured his skull. The Mick is 35, and should have many years ahead in which to enjoy a fortune he earned the hard way. Return to the game after an injury that came so close to being fatal would mean that he worked in constant danger.

Suppose Black Mike had taken up the mask and mitt again, and something had happened. How would the baseball world accept it? What would be the responsibility of the ball club? As an employer of men, as a business concern using ball players rather than expert mechanics, how would the Detroit Baseball company look then?

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

On August 23rd, 1910 or just about 28 years ago the British Lawn Bowlers made their first visit to the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club. At that time the greens were situated on the corner touched by Aylmer street, Brock street and Bethune street. There have been many changes in our club since then and we doubt if any one of our present members was a member at that time.

We have no record of the game that was played on that afternoon but we have, hanging up in our club house, a photo of both British and Peterborough bowlers taken during the process of the game. We were personally acquainted with all of the 16 Peterborough players who played against the visitors on that occasion. Included in the group were: Robt. Kerr, Dr. N. Greer, R. R. Sturgeon, R. M. Waddell, D. Moore, Dr. Marshall, F. Mitchell, R. Soden, J. McIntyre, T. Brightman, J. Fitzgerald, J. McKone, Dr. Halloway, W. M. (Pete) Lang, T. Pratt and D. Bellegham.

As far as we know there are only five of the group now living: Robt. Kerr, Toronto; R. Sturgeon, Pt. Stanley; J. McIntyre, Richard Hall Ltd. city; J. McKane, Peterborough Business College and W. M. Lang, Customs Collector, Peterborough.

There are many of our present day bowlers, no doubt, knew all of these men or most of them at least and can recall many pleasant games played on the old greens or on the "postage stamp" as was then the nickname for our grounds.

Y's Men's Midgets Win Lacrosse Fray

Y's Men's midget lacrossers copped an 8-1 win over Kinsmen at the George St. Arena last night. The losers had but one sub and they tired badly as the strong Y's Men's crew turned it on in a neat showing with good passing and checking. Their goalie kicked out a bunch of hot ones to keep down Kinsmen's count. All the winners looked good in this affair while several of the losers turned in a first-rate performance, and the rest tried hard.

G. Easton scored the first goal on a pass from J. Easton, the only score of the first quarter. Martin made it 2-0 in the second on McMahon's assist, and Martin got another alone shortly after. Land tallied for the winners and then B. Dundas counted on Martin's assist. Plumpton drew only penalty. In the third, Land scored from J. Easton and Martin got one by himself. Mattucci broke through for the lone Kinsmen tally. Martin shot in one more in the fourth to end it. The teams:

Y's Men: Goal, Willshaw; defence, McMahon, B. Dundas; centre, Land; wings, G. Easton; rover, Martin; subs, D. Dundas, Dunsford, Joiner.

Kinsmen: Goal, Miller; defence, Mattucci, Bloom; centre, Plumpton; wings, Welch, Rochetti; rover, Griffin; sub, Cournyea.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

LONG BRANCH lacrossers play the Petes here tonight at nine in the George St. arena. When we say that, we're doggoned if we know what else to add. Except that the Petes have a win here here over 'em and a tie in Long Branch. They are supposed to have bolstered and, if so, will be tough. But fans can judge for themselves and we have no doubt but that there will be another big crowd, weather permitting, of the many local and district followers of the fortunes of our gutted-stick gees. The locals have built up a big following and deservedly so, as the Petes are not only winning most of their home fixtures but dishing up all kinds of action. Folks realize they get their money's worth at the lacrosse stadium Friday nights—and tonight should be no exception.

• • • • •

AND TOMORROW the ballsters hold sway in the afternoon at Riverside Park. Oshawa GM-men play the Petes in the second game of the four-in-seven C.O.B.L. final serial. We trust this second chapter is better reading for home consumption than the one a week ago in Oshawa. And we have a hunch it will be. The Petes are due to blast the ears off the Motor Citizens and, by golly, let it be now! It'll be a real oldtime baseball playoff scrap with the managers and players of both sides fighting for every point. And it ought to pack in the customers like a fire sale.

• • • • • •

Pitching Will Decide It

WHILE the GM-men outhit and outfielded the Petes in the short C.O.B.L. schedule, we doubt if they outhit our gang much when you count in our exhibitions. And anyway it is the pitching that counts most in playoffs. We have an edge on 'em in hurling, that is on paper — though paper profits are nebulous things at best. We learned that word once while on a spree with a collitch professor and we use it whenever the opportunity presents! It means hazy, vague or indistinct—not counting much. If McNally throws here tomorrow, and is in his real form, we still beat the britches off the 1937 loop champs. Or if Kitch is in there hurling his usual good ball against the Motor Citizens, we should beat 'em. We dunno who will hurl for us, but it'll no doubt be Jack Turner for them.

IN A SORT of editorial writeup, the Brooklin bozo who wrote up that riotous Brooklin-Petes' lacrosse melee of a week ago said: "The Dodgers travelled to Peterborough Friday. It was warm and the boys were weary after their hard games of the week, but ready to play no matter what happened. The game started off very rough with Peterborough checking and pounding the boys from start to finish. The crowd was not like the kind of crowd found at Brooklin home games. They kept shouting for their club to put our boys down, which they made a good job of. The Peterborough club lead in every period and finished with a 13-6 score. On the 15th of August, the Peterboro' club comes to Brooklin and the boys are getting in shape to redeem their loss and win on that date." It looks like "our boys" got a tough deal down here, according to the slightly biased Brooklin chap, eh?

Roamin' In The Gloamin'

OVER AT THE BOWL last eve, a goodly gathering saw Omemee take an 8-3 win over Motorists in the first of the round-robin playoffs. Or at least they saw seven or so innings, the last few being run off in darkness. If this odd ruling, requiring a full nine frames to be played before it is a game, is maintained, it is up to the loop executive to see that games start on the dot. It's not fair to either squad to finish up in semi-darkness. The O's had one big inning and fine pitching, with neat clubbing and fielding, to earn the nod. Motorists' twirling was good, too, except for one inning. The Westclox and Motorists clash at the Bowl at seven tomorrow night.

WESTCLOX LASSES took keen delight in taking the Keene damsels in Keene last night by a 14-3 score. In the first of the five-tilt gals' softball finals. Marg Snowden hurled fair ball and had hitting help from the rest of the Delahaye squad, whilst Bea McDowell had mound trouble for Keene, D. Warner winding up on the home hilltop. Lots of hits and quite a raft of miscues in the chill of the e'en. Second struggle is at the Bowl at seven tonight and third one will be Monday here in th twilight. The Keenesters have to cop this one tonight or their chances are skinnier than a skeleton's shadow, but Ivan's outfit surprised the Clockers in sectional playoffs, and may do it again. The fray will draw fans from miles around.

What, Hockey Already Yet?

NO province-to-province puck transfers permitted by the C.A.H.A. this year after Sept. 1st, which is but three weeks away. O.H.A. transfers may be made up to Oct. 15th, unlike grid moves which end Sept. 1st, and no doubt some of the hockey gypsies are getting set these days to see a little country. Nothing new here in hockey, the grid game claiming most of the officials' attention at the moment. Godfrey at the Trenton Air Force has been promoted to Group Captain but will retain his interest in the winter pastime, and the Quinte columnist says there are several new faces seen at the Air Camp these days, including those of two Belleville players. He adds that Speedy St. Louis has become a poppa.

• • • • • •

RUGBY it gives off, too, when the days start to shorten and the night air becomes chillish. Nothing much on the Orfuns yet for a day or two, but action right shortly. They should be practicing within a week or so. Sure they should. Balmy Beaches are making plans now and will start in the near future to workout, with a mighty bolstered squad. And the Montreal Nationals, with no less than 15 of last year's Big Four Indians signed, have their first drill on Monday. They have Tommy Burns, Johnny Ferraro, Ernie Hempey and Ed Barnaby—just to give you folks an idea of the class of men they'll play! Beaches have Faust, Manorek, Curly Krug, Sirdevan, Casson, Charlie and Ab Box and others of like calibre. Sarnia Imps will get under way soon with their usual powerful aggregation. Even the Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg start training next Monday. They expect to be grouped this fall with Kingston, Belleville and Trenton. No more Lindsay or Oshawa football teams, it seems.

Louis Will Have 4 Fights In '39

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP).—Joe Louis, the heavyweight champion, has just announced he will fight four times in 1939, and it would seem some four fellows are heading for a ringfull of trouble.

Louis will box next in Madison Square Garden in January, according to Jacobs' plans. Max Baer—"The new Baer"—is expected to be the opposition on the Pacific coast in April, with June and September bouts outdoors in New York.

Mike Jacobs, who thinks slightly more of Joe than he does of his right eye, said yesterday the champion would not fight again this year. "Joe is willing but his managers ain't" commented Michael, "they're afraid the income tax people will take most of his dough."

St. Catharines Tops Mimico By 10-8 Count

MIMICO, Ont., Aug. 12 (CP).—Clever passing plays and team spirit have brought St. Catharines Athletics to within a few steps of defeating last year's Dominion Senior Lacrosse finalists, Orillia Terriers, in their own league schedule.

Athletics increased their lead in the Ontario Lacrosse Association race to four points over the 2nd place Terriers last night by defeating Mimico Mountaineers here 10-8. A victory over the Terriers at Orillia Saturday would almost assure St. Catharines of the top at the schedule's end.

Last year Mimico finished ahead of Orillia, but the Terriers won in the playoffs and advanced to the Dominion finals. Athletics are determined the feat will not be repeated and a win at Orillia would convince them they are ready to spill any club playoffs.

The extent to which the Athletic's game has developed was demonstrated in last night's win. Met by terrific checking, they still made passes count when they had to come from behind in the late minutes. Al McLean's fourth-quarter goal brought Mimico level at 7-7, but the A's poured down on the home club's goal with an attack that set the Mountaineers far back on their heels.

St. Catharines' team has been developed from runner-up to league leader by the addition this season of Billy Wilson, Joe Cheevers and Wandy McMahon, all experienced players from other Ontario centres. With their coming, the play of youngsters who were with the A's last year has improved and the club has taken on a new will to win.

Secondary only to the first-place fight is the scrap for fourth position, which will be renewed tonight. Fergus Thistles will invade Brampton to play the Excelsiors who lead them for fourth spot by four points.

Tigers Chalk Up Junior Ball Win

Tigers hung up another Junior Baseball League win at the Ex. last night, getting a 9-6 nod over Cubs. Fine flinging by Sanderson, as he struck out 15, and scattered eight hits, gave Tigers a second-place tie with Pirates—the Tigers-Pirates' winner to play off with P.C.I. for the league title, probably next week. Cubs used some of Ralph's team with Todd on the slab fanning nine. The winners bunched hits in two frames to win. McDermott and W. Shea hit triples, while Mortimer, Wade and Morley led the Tigers with two hits each. Hollingsworth topped the Cubs with two. The teams:

Cubs.—Weir, 2b; Thomas, rf, 1b; Hollingsworth, lf; Todd, p; Northcott, c; Kirby, ss; Condon, 3b; Armstrong, rf; Castle, 1b; McCormick, cf.

Tigers.—W. Shea, ss; Mortimer, 2b; Wade, 3b; B. Shea, cf; Barnes, lf; Smith, 1b; Sanderson, p; Morley, rf; McDermott, c.

The Editor Swings

Former marine world's heavyweight boxing champion, student of Shakespeare, and now a member of the working press, Gene Tuney takes a lusty cut at the ball in a charity game played by the staff of the Connecticut Nutmeg, of which Gene is a columnist in good standing. After watching him cavort on the diamond, experts were unanimous in the opinion that the manly marine chose wisely when he chose the ring.

CLEVELAND'S MOUND STAFF COLLAPSE DAMPENS TITLE HOPES

New York Yankees Are Riding 6 1-2 Games In Front Of A.L. Tribe Falls To Browns In Duo

Boston Sox Muff Chances To Gain Second Position

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (CP).—Taking it by and large, those Cleveland pitchers certainly picked a fine time to fold up.

New York Yankees, now 6½ games in front of the American League pack, will tell you the tribe elbowers couldn't have chosen a better spot to collapse like so much wildcat oil stock and just about toss their way out of the pennant picture.

First it was young Bobby Feller who began getting kicked around, and lost a "crooshal" one to the Yankees. Next Johnny Allen's sore arm couldn't take it any longer. Then Mel Harder's comeback went back into the mothballs.

And finally, Oscar Vitt, who wasn't used to that sort of thing—especially not after the pleasant experience of piloting Newark's "wonder team" to an International League pennant by 25½ games last season—sent young Al Milnar and old Willis Hudlin to the wars yesterday against the staggering St. Louis Browns, and the same thing happened to them.

Take Double Fall

Buck Newsom, opposing Milnar, tossed a five-hitter, and the Brownies nipped the Tribe 8-7. Then Les Tietje, whose last well-pitched game was beyond the memory of the oldest inhabitant, hurled a six-hitter, and Gabby Street's lads clicked for an 8-2 decision.

Since the Yankees were virtually handed a 9-6 victory by Washington Senators, this twin setback dropped the Tribe a game and a half farther back in the race. The Yanks collected only five hits off three Senators' pitchers, but bases on balls, enemy errors a-field, and Joe DiMaggio's three-run homer were enough to give them the decision without much trouble.

Sox Muff Chances

While the Brownies belted the Indians, Boston Red Sox, who might have climbed into second place as a result, dropped a set to the lowly Athletics. Lefty Grove started against Connie Mack's infants yesterday and not only lost a 5-3 decision, but learned that the arm, which he thought had recovered, is once again "dead."

With such developments as these, together with Monte Stratton's four-hitter that gave Chicago White Sox a 13-1 triumph over Detroit Tigers, there wasn't much action left for the National League yesterday.

Only one game got by an old man weather, Cincinnati Reds nipped Chicago Cubs 8-7 in that one when Ernie Lombardi whacked a homer in the 14th inning to break up the ball game. By the setback, the Cubs lost a chance to move into second place tie with the idle New York Giants.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press)

Ernie Lombardi, Reds — His homer in 14th inning beat Cubs 8-7.

Joe DiMaggio, Yankees — Hit homer and single, driving in four runs in 9-6 win over Senators.

Bob Johnson, Athletics — His homer with two on featured winning rally in beating Red Sox 5-3.

Big Punch Of the Pirates

For years and years Pittsburg Pirates have been blessed with good outfielders, good both in the field and at the plate, but not by any stretch of the imagination sluggers. At last they seem to have acquired some one who can knock the ball lop-sided and look where they are! The young man in question is Johnny Rizzo, ABOVE, purchased from Columbus and the St. Louis Chain Gang for a reported price of $40,000... and worth it! Johnny is currently leading the team in home runs and runs-batted-in and is one of the season's outstanding rookies.

Motorists Lose To Omemee, 8-3

Omemee men softballers last night took an 8-3 decision over the Motorists at the Bowl to win the first game of the round-robin playoff series. A big crowd saw a lively scrap, full of arguments, with the last inning being run off in the darkness. Nine innings must be played in these tilt sor the game does not count. Next fixture is Saturday night in the Bowl between Westclox and Motorists at seven.

Lefty Stephenson pitched five-hit ball for the O's in a neat slab showing, fanning six and walking three. Dave Wilson of Motorists hurled excellent ball, except for a bad fourth frame when five runs scored. He gave up nine hits and three walks, striking out seven. The Omemee flinger had better support. Defensive features were supplied by Pogue, C. Weir, Playford, Montgomery and A. Weir. Brooks and Pogue led Omemee at bat with two hits each, as Williamson and Parsons hit doubles. For Motorists, Smith led with two safeties, and Playford banged out a three-bagger. The teams:

Bisons Swamp Newark 8-1

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—(CP).—The Buffalo Bisons can take a hint. Arriving home yesterday they found they were consigned with the six other clubs to a new International League with Newark off in a class and a league of its own.

This has been the general opinion around the league for some time but not until the Bisons looked in "the Buffalo Times" yesterday did they find it in print. There they were in a seven team league.

They took the hint—and how. Last night they belted three Newark hurlers 8-1 to open a five-game series before a crowd of 5,500.

But elsewhere in the league no one made much headway toward overhauling the flying Bruins. Syracuse whipped Montreal in both ends of a double bill, 4-3 and 6-3. Jersey City lost the opener to Toronto 5-3 and then came back to win 8-2 and old Nubs Kleinke shut out Baltimore for the Rochester Red Wings 2-0.

Ken Ash pitched a brilliant game for the Bisons, limiting the Bears to five hits while his mates were ganging the starter, Atley Donald, and two other Newark hurlers for nine hits. Eddie Boland and Mike Tresh did most of the damage. Boland drove in four runs with a double and a single and Tresh collected a two-bagger and two singles.

Brinton Gains League Points C.C.F. Expense

The lack of finishing in front of the goal cost the C.C.F. two league points last night, when the Brinton defeated them by the score of three to one, on King Edward Park, before a fair attendance of spectators.

Lacked Scoring Punch

Exchanges were of an even character, in the early stages, with C.C.F. being more aggressive on the attack to find Adams, Brinton goalie responding with a smart exhibition between the goal posts. Once Thorn went right through to deliver a rocket drive past the upright. A little later, McLeod took advantage of the Politicians being too far up the field and sent a pass right up the centre where Clark gathered up the ball quickly to pick the inside of the upright with a right footer. The C.C.F. went right back to harass the Brinton defence inside their own half but their parting shots were wide of the mark or they tried to carry the ball through towards goal. They relaxed a little to permit the Carpet boys to reorganize their lineup with the addition of Leether and Castle to complete their quota. A break away by the Brinton forwards terminated in a shot hitting the inside of the upright into the hands of the custodian. Just before the interval, Clark rattled a shot against the far post which resulted in Evan scoring from the rebound. Brinton 2, C.C.F. 0.

Muff Opportunities

On resuming, Jones took up the centre half position, thereby making the Brinton at full strength. The breaks went against the C.C.F. in two ways when the Brinton goalie allowed the ball to go through his hands. The Politicians claimed a goal but the refree adjudged otherwise. On the next raid, Thorn registered the best goal of the season from twenty yards out. Their success was not long because Clark registered a similar goal at the other end, when Dinesin stopped the ball but there was too much force behind it. Within the next minute, a penalty kick was awarded the Politicians. Eddie Jobe was trusted with the spot kick but it struck the far corner of the upright to go past. Brinton Athletic 3, C.C.F. 0.

Goal scorers—Clark (2) and Evans.

The teams:

C.C.F.—W. Dinesin, goal; W. Beggs and G. McDonald, full backs; H. Latham, F. Dyer and J. Dinesin, halves; E. Jobe, S. Henwood, A. O'Halloran, P. Thorn and R. Smelt, forwards; sub, F. Lawrence.

Brinton—J. Adams, goal; Asa Downer and Art Downer, full backs; N. Downer, E. Jones and J. McLeod, halves; D. Leether, D. Evans, S. Clark, H. Castle and G. Downer, forwards.

Referee, T. Foster; linesmen, J. Parry and J. Flynn.

Long Branch Here To Play Lacrosse

Provided they retain the Mimico senior star, McWhinney, the Long Branch lacrossers stand an excellent chance of knocking off the Petes here tonight in their O.L.A. senior "B" fixture. The O.L.A. awarded McWhinney, who had played five senior games, to Long Branch but lately the East York squad has laid claim to this player. Long Branch, after losing to the Petes here early in the summer, held the locals to a draw at home and gave Brooklin a hard battle recently in Brooklin, losing by two goals. Hence, they are likely to put up a stiff fight Friday here against the classy Petes. It is a scheduled fixture and both squads are battling to keep up in the hunt in this grouping.

Another huge crowd of fans is expected out tonight to see the lacrosse fixture. The last two contests have been real battles and have kept big followings of the gutted-stick game excited and entertained at the keen action. Tonight's tussle should be no exception and another fray packed with action may be anticipated. Preceding the senior scrap a midget game will be run off in the arena at 8.15 o'clock between the Y's Men's team and Kiwanis.

Here are two of the winners, Jessie Stott, of Hamilton Olympic Club, who clipped 1-10 second from the old record as she won the 60 metre junior hurdles in 9:6 and Mary Haydon of Toronto Laurels, victor in the senior high jump, in which she finished ahead of Ruth Maclaier, of Montreal. Four feet 11 1-4 was her mark.

Norwood Beats Havelock 8-4

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Aug. 12.—Norwood's softball squad visiting the "Wreckers" at the Havelock Park last evening, handed the latter a 8-4 setback in eight innings of play. The local boys, without any games for over a week, did not display their usual form, except for the fifth and sixth innings, when they collected all four runs. Both teams had several errors in fielding the ball.

Brunton for Havelock and Webb on the Norwood mound both went the full route, the former collecting seven strikeouts, and the latter five. Brunton was touched for 13 safeties and five walks, while Webb allowed 12 safeties and only one pass.

Norwood took the lead in the first stanza and maintained this throughout the game. The Wreckers, five runs down in the fifth, got into stride, collecting two counters and adding another pair in the sixth. The visitors held them scoreless however, in the next two innings, themselves collecting three more runs.

Gordie Puffer, Norwood's catcher, took the batting honors with a triple and three singles in five times up. The teams:

Havelock.—McMullen, cf; Ketchen, c; McCutcheon, 2b; Kennedy, lf; Peters, ss; Moore, 3b; Bedford, rf; Puffer, 1b; Brunton, p.

Ball Playoffs Here Tomorrow

The C.O.B.L. playoffs resume tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at three o'clock when the Oshawa GM-men play the Petes in the second game in the four out of seven final series. The Motor City crew won the first and a victory for them here Saturday will give them a big margin and a fine chance of retaining their Central League title and going into the O.B.A. senior playdowns once more. But a local win wil litle up the series tight, the third tilt being in Oshawa the next Saturday. This game here tomorrow should draw the biggest crowd of fans of the season, both local and district followers of baseball.

Jack Turner, lanky righthand hurler from Toronto, will most likely pitch against the Petes Saturday and he has generally been quite effective against Eddie Murphy's crew. However, the locals will be in there battling this time and hitting the ball as they have been doing in recent games. It is uncertain yet who will draw the mound assignment for the homesters but Lefty McNally is considered the probable choice, the ace southpaw of the Petes having a bad game a week ago—but still being rated good enough to knock over the GM-men. It wil lbe an exciting playoff fixture with plenty at stake and both squads fighting for every run.

Salvadore will produce nearly 1,000,000 bags of coffee in the next 12 months.

Japan-Australia Open Sets Today

MONTREAL, Aug. 12—(CP). Weather permitting, Australia and Japan will begin play to-day for a place in the Davis Cup interzone finals. The winner will meet Germany for the right to challenge United States for the cup.

Heavy rains yesterday forced postponement of the first two singles matches. It cleared in the afternoon after a 12-hour downpour, but the grass courts at Mount Royal Tennis Club were slippery and officials decided to set the series back a day.

Barring another sudden shower, Adrian Quist, veteran of international competition, and Funiteru Nakano, impassive little Japanese, will start the ball across the net this afternoon. They will be followed by 19-year-old Jack Bromwich, the boy who holds his racquet with both hands, and stocky Jiro Yamagishi, one of the world's finest players.

Demark is using rigorous measures to stamp out the hoof-and-mouth disease.

Income Tax Act and increases in the Gift Tax Act.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King had acknowledged Ontario's move, Mr. Hepburn said. "Mr. King attempted to explain his government's action," he added. "But it was an affront to the provinces and to the commission. It was understood there would be no tax changes while the commission was sitting."

The federal amendment to the Income Tax Act was said by Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines, to place an additional tax on mining profits. Mr. Hepburn said the gift-tax amendments affected the Ontario Succession Duty Act as it was aimed at wealthy persons who escaped income and succession taxes by giving away their wealth to their families during their lifetime.

It was not the first time Premier Hepburn had criticized the Dominion government. At the Toronto sittings of the Rowell Commission he stressed what he said was the necessity of decentralizing government functions in Canada if freedom was to prevail. The Central government already had "departed from the well-thumbed practices of parliamentary institutions."

He suggested to the Commission the Federal government withdraw from the income-tax field as Ontario and Quebec no longer could be "milch cows" for the rest of the Dominion. He bamed the prairie provinces for their own and others' misfortunes through over-production of wheat and crop specialization.

Month of Tension

The procedure was in line with that agreed upon on Wednesday by the Russian foreign minister, Maxim Litvinoff, and the Japanese Ambassador to Moscow, Mamoru Shigemitsu.

The diplomats, by an accord for a joint commission to define the border, ended exactly one month of warlike tension—which began July 11 by Soviet fortifications of Changkufeng, a subsequent Japanese protest and Soviet rejection, and severe fighting.

The foreign spokesman said appointment of the border commission would be announced shortly and the disputed Changkufeng area would be the first to be dealt with, after which the commission might survey the boundary.

It was announced Japanese lost 300 dead and 600 wounded in the Changkufeng battle. Soviet casualties were said to be 3,000 killed and wounded.

Urge Standardized Weekly Ad Rates

VANCOUVER, Aug. 12—(CP)— L. J. Bennett of The Leader of Carman, Man., told delegates to the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association Convention here that advertising rates vary too much and urged a standardization.

"We publishers of weekly papers have long failed to give careful, intelligent consideration to the matter of what is a proper charge for advertising," Mr. Bennett said yesterday.

Many Weeklies sell space at ridiculously low rates, he said.

"They are still publishing, but how I don't know. Some sell space for as low as 10 cents and 15 cents an inch."

General rates were much higher, a relic of the days when publishers regarded outside advertising as taking business from the local merchants.

Under the present schedule of low rates, agencies found it unprofitable to place accounts with some papers. Thus advertiser, agency and publishers lose.

He urged that local and general rates be brought to a more equal basis and suggested adoption of the following schedule of standardization:

Papers 1,000 circulation and under, 28 cents an inch; 1,000 to 2,500 circulation, 35 cents an inch; and 2,500 to 4,000 circulation, 42 cents an inch.

Police Probe

Honor added. "The Chief himself told us that."

Mr. Carley said that an impediment to the department was the lack of accommodation for the police work that had increased to a large extent in recent years. "If your Honor were around the police court and the station generally, as I am, and see the conditions the Chief and his men have to work under, I think you might have a different impression than by hearing about it."

Afternoon Session

A report by Joseph Wheeler as constable April 9, 1937, of confiscation of 22 quarts of beer and 2 bottles of 26-ounce rye whiskey at the home of Ross Dixon, Douglas avenue, who was convicted of illegal selling was read. Mr. Puffer said the liquor and beer were produced as evidence and forfeited to the Crown. Witness said he did not know what became of it after that.

At that stage Mr. Frost called E. A. Outram, assistant city clerk, and police court clerk. He produced books containing the magistrate's court records. One entry indicated that Dixon was acquitted of selling to a minor and another showed he was convicted of illegal selling and sentenced to jail for three months.

Mr. Frost—"Have you in the court book any record that the Dixon liquor was confiscated by the magistrate?"

"I can only say I didn't receive it. It would come to me only as an exhibit if there was an appeal," Mr. Outram replied. "It didn't come into my hands, nor to the magistrate."

"Did any confiscated liquor ever come into your possession?"

"Only three cases of beer seiezd in the Max Vincent case, and once in an appeal case.

Mr. Puffer, recalled, was asked if he could shed any light on what happened to the Dixon liquor.

"I cannot. I remember that they were marked as exhibits, but I don't know anything about them after that. They were used as evidence, the case was disposed, but where they went after that I can't say.

Improvement Needed

Judge Deroche commented that the system of handling and recording confiscated liquor should be improved.

"We all agree with that," Mr. Carley agreed.

Witness explained that neither S. R. Armstrong, city clerk, or Mr. Outram, sat in police court as clerk of that court. He detailed his manifold duties as constable, police stenographer, Justice of the Peace, with the drafting of all informations, charges, and so on.

Mr. Carley—"Have you satisfied yourself beyond all doubt that the records are in existence?"

"Well, I have gone through my files."

"Do you agree with Mr. Outram that only one order for confiscation of beer has been made by the Magistrate?"

"I think that is correct."

Judge Deroche—"In other words you confiscate but don't report."

Mr. Puffer added—"There is seized liquor in the court room right now."

Mr. Carley—"Are cases of empty bottles put in as exhibits, initialled by constables, for purposes of the court?"

"Some times they are."

Mr. Puffer said he occasionally bought vegetables on the market nearby and took them home in empty beer cartons.

Asked about facilities for safeguarding liquor under seizure, Mr. Puffer said there was a tiny cupboard in the chief's office; sometimes bottles are put under a table in that office. At the present time some bottles are there, and accommodation, such as it was, seemed inadequate. The chief's office was open during the day and was almost a thoroughfare.

Recalled by Mr. Frost for examination, Chief Newhall was asked about Wheeler's statement he had seen the chief carrying a carton of beer out of the police station.

"What do you say as to that?"

"I say he is an infernal liar."

Judge Deroche—"You shouldn't do that chief. It is for me to decide that."

Chief Newhall—"I don't touch beer. The filthy stuff never touched my lips. No one ever saw me handling beer."

Asked about what happened to the Vincent liquor the Chief said he didn't know anything about it. Disposal of beer and liquor was left to Puffer, and the chief stated that Mr. Puffer was the hardest worked member of the force, and might occasionally get behind in his work.

"What are you orders regarding seized liquor?"

"The men are told to put them in the court room, and if the city doesn't provide better facilities what are we to do?"

Asked about the disposal of the Vincent beer, Chief Newhall said, "the amount of that beer was only like a drop of water compared with what those two fellows who were here this morning have sold."

Judge Deroche commented that the Chief shouldn't make a statement like that because it seemed too broad and suggested he might be favorable to Vincent.

"I'm no more favorable to Vincent that to anyone else."

"I don't think you are. But people might think you were from the sound of it."

"The people know I don't give any quarter to bootleggers."

Chief Newhall declared he couldn't throw any light on the disposal of the Vincent, Carter and Dixon beer.

Proud Of Police Force

Mr. Frost—"Are you proud of your administration as disclosed by these three cases."

"Yes I am. There is no better force anywhere since Wheeler and Dennard went. We've had peace ever since. They were both dismissed, and both thrust back on us. How can you keep discipline in conditions like that."

"Now, I'll give you another chance."

"I don't want any other chance from you."

Mr. Frost remarked the chief was impertinent in that statement.

"You are satisfied with your administration as revealed by the lack of record of disposal of beer in those three cases?"

"Well, I'm not proud of a little laxity that has appeared, but I am proud of the men. Do you know Your Honor that eight or nine of them don't touch liquor in any form, and, if 5 or 6 do, they use discretion We never have any liquor troubles now.

As to the element of laxity about disposal of liquor or recording it, the Chief said in extenuation that Puffer was kept too busy and the accommodation of the police station was inadequate.

Mr. Frost—"Can you throw any light on the Vincent, Carter and Dixon beer seizures that there is no record of them?"

"No. I think Puffer sent in the reports all right, and I think Mr. Fleming can throw light on that. I've told you all I know."

Mr. Frost pointed out that Wheeler made the seizures in the cases mentioned on Thursday.

"Wheeler would be among the men who made the arrests. I tell you Wheeler was an excellent officer till he got in with those bootleggers. I had him in plain clothes to clean up things and I told him not to mind the little fellows. Get the big ones. When we got rid of Wheeler and Deannard we got the others. He had a special chance from 6 at night till 6 in the morning to do nothing else but get after bootleggers and gamblers."

To Mr. Carley, the chief said there was still on the police premises quantities of beer not disposed of.

"If I had my way I'd have the bottles taken out to the market and broken there," the chief said.

"But of course that isn't the proper way," Judge Deroche commented.

The chief declared he had never carried a case of beer from the station as alleged by Mr. Wheeler, and also that any person in the guard room could not see another person going up or down the stairs at the station.

Mr. Carley—"Have you any remedy now as to how the seized liquor might be kept?"

"I've recommended to Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the City Trust Commission, that a storeroom be built where we could keep things in proper shape, but there's no spare room around the building."

The chief said he had paid out of his own pocket for a filing system.

David Fleming

David Fleming, local vendor under the L.C.A., said he had received one lot of beer from the police on February 5, 1937. That was one of the Vincent beer seizures, Mr. Fros commented.

"Did you ever receive any beer since that time?"

"No."

"Did you get any from the Crown Attorney or any one else?"

"There was one receipt of beer from Mr. Outram, the assistant city clerk."

W. T. Hall, manager of the brewery warehouse, testified no beer had been received there last year from the police, but there had been empty cases turned in.

SMALL CHILD IS RESCUED FROM THE JACKSON PARK CREEK

Passing Cyclist Saves Tot From Drowning

Two and a half year old Ernest Brown, 140 Park Street narrowly missed death by drowning in the muddy waters of Jackson Park creek at the Townsend street bridge Thursday afternoon. The child had wandered from his home and was noticed falling into the creek by Bob Todd, well known junior baseball player who jumped from his bicycle and rescued the infant.

Todd phoned police and Constables Piercey and Clarke who responded wrapped the child in Piercey's jacket and hurried to the Children's Shelter where Mrs. Gerald McMillan gave the child a warm bath, wrapped it in warm woollen clothing and after feeding him some hot soup and food put him to bed. The child seemed none the worse for his dip, but when brought to the shelter was soaked from head to foot and chilled.

Less than an hour after the child had been found, his mother telephoned police. She had been certain the little fellow had walked the two blocks north to her sister's home, as he had been his custom. She had made enquiries as soon as she missed him and spent a frantic half hour searching the neighborhood before phoning the police when she discovered he was not at her sister's home.

When Mrs. Brown arrived at the Shelter, the little fellow was comfortably tucked in a cot and sound asleep.

Michigan Firm Will Cut Kaladar Timber

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Aug. 12.—It was announced this week that the Sawyer-Stoll Lumber Company of Escanaba, Michigan, has acquired 56 square miles of timber limits which comprises practically all of the Township of Effingham, north and west of Mazinaw Lake. The area, a crown timber reserve, has, heretofore, been under the direct supervision of District Forester, H. W. Crosbie.

Mr. Wallace Johnston, manager of the Company, who will reside in Tweed, states that the area contains of this week, was wrecked when the he has ever seen, much of it virgin timber. The company have sufficient limits to keep help employed for several years. At certain seasons of the year, one hundred and fifty men will be engaged. The logs will be trucked to Kaladar for shipment. Local labor will be employed on the limits.

A car driven by William Mouck of Arden, proceeding easterly on No. 7 Highway on Wednesday morning of this week, wasw recked when the driver failed to negotiate a sharp turn four miles east of Actinolite. The car was owned by Gerald Tye of Arden, who was also a passenger. Neither of the occupants were injured although the car was badly wrecked. Charges are pending according to Chief Clair Hayes, who investigated.

David A. Wright, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wright, West Huntingdon, was drowned in the waters of Rawdon Creek near his home in Rawdon Township. The teen-aged Wright lad was enjoying a cool bath in the creek, accompanied by two younger playmates, Billie Donnan and Frank Yateman, when he apparently slipped into the deep water. He could not swim, it was divulged by Chief County Coroner, Dr. J. J. Robertson, who was summoned to the scene of the fatality and later announced no inquest would be necessary.

Ernest Freeman of Lavant, was quite badly injured when the car which he was driving went out of control on Highway No. 7 near Kaladar, plunging into a rock cut. The car was almost a complete wreck. Freeman who was travelling westerly was alone at the time. Charges may be laid according to investigating officer, Chief Clair Hayes.

A 1936 Ford coach, bearing a Quebec license, is being held by Chief Clair Hayes, until ownership has definitely been established. It is understood that it is the property of a resident of LaPrairie, Que. It is alleged that the car was stolen and abandoned on the Highway east of Actinolite. The suspected thief abandoned the car when two tires collapsed, and then hired a farmer's son to drive him to Ottawa. On his arrival in the capital, the passenger made a pretence of going into a bank to secure the money, but he never returned.

Twenty-five per cent. of the vegetables now marketed in Canada were unknown 10 years ago.

TOURIST TOWN

Peterborough took on the appearance of a real tourist town today with almost a predominance of visitor's license plates on cars parked on George street in the heart of the city's business section. An Examiner reporter saw plates from New York, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Manitoba, California, on cars paker between Charlotte and Hunter streets.

MACHINE GUN PRACTICE

The Prince of Wales Rangers will hold machine gun practice at the Rifle ranges on Saturday afternoon. Every member of the regiment who can possibly be present is asked to attend. Transportation will be furnished leaving the armouries at 1.30 and refreshments will be served at the ranges.

SWALLOWS FLYING SOUTH.

Exhibitions of mass flights are to be seen in Peterborough any night by persons curious enough to visit the north end of Rogers street between six and seven o'clock in the evening. Thousands upon thousands of swallows darken the sky as they fly over the street to the river. Arrived there they all plummet to the ground as though by one accord.

NEW TYPE OF NOZZLE.

The Peterborough Fire Department has purchased a new type nozzle for hose for use particularly in fighting oil fires. Of radical design, it can be attached in ordinary fashion and be turned on to throw either a foam or stream of water. Chief Gimblett is planning a demonstration for interested business men late this month. A foam stream is necessary in extinguishing oil fires, since water merely spreads the blaze.

VIOLATING BYLAW

Shingelling of roofs without first placing layer of asbestos over the roofs, is going on in the city at the present time according to Fire Chief Gimblett. He said that both he and Captain A. McDonald, fire hazard inspector, had located several such violations of the city by-law this week, and warned that builders will be forced to tear down entire roofs that are found without the necessary insulation. City Engineer R. H. Parsons is out of the city just now and action will be taken immediately after his return, Chief Gimblett said.

ERECTING APARTMENT

Erection of a new apartment building on Charlotte street, is beginning to take on serious proportions now. A bridge is being erected at the rear of the property to permit passage of trucks to the groceteria whose present rear entrance will probably be blocked by the new building. Workmen have diverted the path of Jackson Park creek, over which the new building will be erected, preparatory to laying foundations, and this morning frame work was built at the Charlotte street end. Signs that have long faced passers-by have all been removed.

QUEBEC.—H.M.C.S. Gaspe, one of four mine-sweepers built on order of the Federal Government, was launched here today. While Justice Minister Lapointe, civic and marine officials watched, Mrs. Lapointe crashed the traditional bottle of champagne against the vessel's sturdy steel hull.

Cripple Stages Lie-Down Strike

Ten years ago, Joseph Unterreiner, 28, of Pittsburg, Pa., fell into a manhole, paralyzing both legs. He was granted a $17,500 verdict, which was set aside because he was trespassing at the time of the accident. Now, Joseph, shown with his sister, Betty, and brother, William, has started a "lie-down" strike in the Turtle Creek borough (Pittsburg) council chambers. He says he'll stick around until proper medical attention is provided.

Policyholder For 72 Years

Before his recent death in Peterborough, Ontario, William Harper held the oldest policy in force with Canada's oldest life insurance company. Born two years before the Company was founded in 1847, Mr. Harper took out a $1,000 policy with the Canada Life in December, 1866.

The contract, signed by John Ferrie as Vice-President, A. G. Ramsay as Manager and Secretary, and Robert Macaulay (father of the retired President of the Sun Life) was placed by George A. Cox, later a president of the company and a Senator, who was at that time local agent at Peterborough.

The contract permitted residence only east of the Rocky Mountains and in parts where local municipal governments had been perfected. To hedge against the rash acts of "hot heads" it also stated that the policy would be void if the assured died by suicide, duelling, or by the hands of justice.

Swamped On Ontario Six Have Close Call

NIAGARA-ON-TH-LAKE, Ont., Aug. 12—(CP).—Six Niagara Falls, N.Y., men had a narrow escape from drowning in Lake Ontario off Niagara-on-the-Lake last night when their motor boat was swamped by heavy seas which churned the lake. The men were rescued by the United States Coastguard who reported today that they sped to the assistance of the party when the lookout sighted one man being swept from the 25-foot long open boat.

When the coastguard reached the boat it was practically submerged by the mountainous waves, driven by a northeast wind. The man who had been carried overboard had been pulled back into the boat.

Walker Forsythe of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was the owner of the boat. Names of his five companions were not available.

The accident occurred about one mile off shore, and the rescue was witnessed from the shore by many Niagara residents.

Eye From Dead Woman Restores Sight

Rev. U. E. Harding, of Portland, Oregon, is shown as he appeared shortly before the operation which gave him his sight. A member of his congregation, Mrs. Margaret Carr, aged 80, bequeathed him the cornea of her eye after Harding had pleaded in vain to condemned prisoners at San Quentin prison for a healthy one. Shortly after Mrs. Carr died the cornea was removed and used to replace Harding's useless cornea. When the bandages were taken off, the patient was able to distinguish colors and count figures and the operation was pronounced a success.

Ontario Skies Dotted With Shooting Stars

Ontario's skies were dotted with showers of shooting meteors last night as the annual three-day display of the Perseids group of small comets got under way.

According to astronomers at the David Dunlap Observatory, Richmond Hill, last night's display was more in the nature of a full-dress rehearsal for the more spectacular performances Friday and Saturday nights.

"The best times to watch the meteors is between 3 and 4 in the morning, as the constellations will be at their brightest then," said Dr. P. M. Millman, of the observatory staff.

Dr. Milan suggested that persons watching the display with the naked eye should face the north and look up into the ksy in an eastwardly direction.

"Unfortunately the moon is now full, and many of the lesser meteors will be invisible to the naked eye, but if the watcher will turn his back on the moon, he is bound to see quite a show," the scientist said.

Seek Amateur's Help

Dr. Millman has sent out instructions to fifteen amateur astronomers in the province, requesting them to forward their observations to the Dunlap Observatory, but he said the staff would welcome any additional information that amateur star-gazers cared to send in.

"We have asked amateurs to measure in seconds the length of time the tail of the meteor remains in the sky, after the meteor itself has disappeared, and also the shape and any side-motion of the tail," he said.

Dr. Millman said the Perseids group (pronounced Perseeds) is likely the fragments of Tuttle's Comet, discovered first in 1863. The group is the most prolific shower of meteors that can be counted upon to appear annually. The shooting stars are seen late in July and through the first half of August, and have been extensively observed for the past hundred years. Their maximum comes on Aug. 11, 12 and 13, when as many as 120 per hour may be counted.

Soon Burn Out

"While a single observer may see as many as 100 meteors, I usually count on sixty an hour," said Dr. Millman. The scientist said the shooting stars appeared to meet at the end of their arcs, but this illusion was given through the earth's perspective.

"The meteors really travel in parallel orbits," he said.

Dr. Millman estimated the speed of the meteors at about 35 miles a second, or 126,000 miles an hour.

"There is not the slightest chance that any of them will fall on the earth, as due to their small size, and their terrific speed, they burn up travelling through the earth's atmosphere," he declared.

The scientist said the trails left by the meteors were about 65 miles high in the sky.

"There are apparently cyclonic gales at that great height as the trails travel at more than 200 miles an hour," he said.

Lone Senator Wins

"Lucky? You bet!" says Hattie W. Caraway, only woman member of the United States senate, as she flashes a winner's smile on her lucky rabbit's foot after the Democratic senatorial primary in Jonesboro, Arkansas, in which she was renominated by a wide margin. The U.S. Senate apparently retains its lone feminine member.

Kiwanis Club Honors "Peck" Barber

Kiwanians bade farewell today to E. P. Barber, superintendent of the Auburn mills, who is leaving Peterborough to work with the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Company in Hespeler, following the semi-shutdown here.

A member of Kiwanis since he came to the Peterborough plant from the United States a few years ago, "Peck" was presented with two pipes to take the place of his old one which J. A. McKone, making the presentation, said had offended the noses of club members for too long. One pipe was a corn cob, the other was of better make. "This will be my Sunday pipe," Mr. Barber said of the better one. He thanked members for their kindness to him during his sojourn here, said Peterborough would long retain pleasant memories for him.

Speaker for the day was Kiwanian Jacob Low, who spoke to the club on the advantages of forming themselves into an incorporated company. By such a step each member would be responsible financially only to the amount of back dues he owed, in case of litigation.

He urged the club executive to consider seriously the advantages of becoming incorporated, cited names of other Ontario and Quebec clubs that have taken such steps. "I hope that the name of the Peterborough club will be added to that list," he said.

Judd Priest of Stratford was guest artist at the luncheon meeting. He played violin solo of "Sylvia" and "Mighty Lak a Rose," was enthusiastically applauded.

Pigeon Never Forgets

PITTSBURG, Aug. 12.—(AP).—A woman who nursed "Peter," a pigeon, back to health cited proof today that a bird, like an elephant, never forgets. Mrs. Nellie Mitchell looked out her window about a year ago and saw a featherless, helpless pigeon fall to the sidewalk from its nest. She took him home and fed him from an eye dropper. Finally he regained strength and flew away. The next day "Peter" was back, and every day since, a-pecking at her window for his bath and dinner.

West's Hospitality Outdoes the East Girl Hitch-Hiker Decides After Trip

Vancouver, Aug. 12 (CP)

NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD Gwen Evans of Montreal, who hitch-hiked across Canada on $30, is going to make her home in the west "where people are more hospitable."

Three weeks ago Gwen, clerk in a dress shop, left Montreal with $30 and a desire to see Vancouver. Today, with 25 cents left, she has reached her goal.

Gwen said she had a few adventures on the way, including seven proposals of marriage, a ride through a tunnel on the top of a box car and a narrow escape from being hit by an automobile.

"I've never met so many nice people in all my life," she told interviewers. "The farther west you come the more hospitable they are. I want to stay in Vancouver, so I'll do anything—even housework," she declared.

TWO WORLDS

BY MAUD McCURDY WELCH

READ THIS FIRST:

Determined to show Dr. Julian Paige, the man she is in love with, that she can make her own way in the world, Noel Shayne, wealthy society girl, burns her bridges behind her, moves to a rooming house, and for lack of anything better, obtains a job as a taxi dancer at the Peacock, run by Nick Luigi. She is living with girl named Laurie Evans, whom she met in the park, and who is a cashier at the restaurant which Julian patronizes. Noel Feels she has a dangerous rival in Ruth Chester, Julian's pretty nurse. During an outing in the country, Julian tells Noel he wants to kiss her but doesn't think he should.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 14

"Yes, I'm still trying," Noel admitted. "But whether or not I'm succeeding—", she stopped with a shrug.

"And if you should succeed?" Julian asked after a pause.

"Then—you can get me off your conscience," Noel returned, resorting to flippancy to hide a sudden feeling of confusion.

A few minutes later, Julian announced that it was time for lunch, and rowed to the sand bar.

Noel spread a red-checked table cloth, and Julian mysteriously produced a thermos bottle. "Give you three guesses."

"You're not even warm," Julian pretended disgust.

"Coffee then. And I hope it's warm at least."

"Cocktails," Julian said, "'Pink ladies' to be exact. You see, in my present state of near-intoxication, I daren't risk anything stronger." He filled two paper cups, handed her one, then said: "Here's to our next picnic. May it be soon."

"May it be—sooner," Noel rejoined.

Julian finished his drink, tossed the cup away. After which, he said abruptly. "Noel, I want dreadfully to kiss you, but I'm quite certain for my own peace of mind that I shouldn't. What do you think?"

IT WAS A MINUTE before Noel completely recovered her aplomb when Julian suddenly asked her what she thought about his kissing her. "Two people have been known to kiss before, and no international crisis has ensued," she said at last lightly.

"But they wern't you and I, may dear," Julian answered, his voice low and serious. "For I know good and well," he continued, "if I kiss you once, I shall certainly do it again, always provided your objections are not too strenuous—and if I kiss you again, I most certainly shall—but why go on?"

He stopped then, took her in his arms and held her very close, then pressed his lips against hers.

It was only a moment, and yet it was eternity before he released her. And then he turned and walked a little way from her and stood with his face turned toward the smiling sun, which was now high in the noon-day sky.

Noel sat quickly on the sand, her blood racing tumultuously through her veins.

Julian turned at last and came back, his face quite composed. He would not kiss her again, Noel knew. He was a man who had his emotions well under control. But he had held her in his arms once, he had pressed his lips with hunger against hers! Noel knew she would always have this one exquisite memory to hug to her heart.

Too soon the rest of the day passed. They ate the nice lunch from the De Luxe, walked about the sand bar, even penetrated into the thickness of the woods, where the violets grew in lovely profusion. Noel did not know that wild flowers could be so pretty. But she did not want to gather any of them. "Better to let them remain in their native soil, and they will live longer," she said.

"You're a wise girl," Julian commented. "Wild flowers are like hothouse flowers. They soon die if they're gathered or transplanted. And if they live by any chance after being removed from their natural environment, they lose their fragrance." There was a world of meaning in Julian's voice.

"That isn't altogether true," Noel retorted.

Then they were back at the De Luxe, had a light dinner, and Julian had to go. He had studying to do, he told her, and Noel had no reason in the world to doubt his word, but womanlike, her thoughts went instantly to Ruth Chester.

She waited until Laurie was ready to go home, and they walked back together and were soon in bed.

Noel dreamed that Julian kissed her again, and the dream-kiss was fraught with almost as much magic as the real one had been. But in the dream, when Julian released her from his arms, she had lifted her eyes to see Ruth Chester standing there, a mocking smile on her face. And she had said in that beautiful rich voice of hers, "Julian kisses quite beautifully, doesn't he, my dear?" And then Noel had awakened.

She told herself happily that the part in her dream about Ruth Chester belonged only to the unreality of dreams. But Julian's kiss had been real. Its memory was still vividly so.

"Oh, my dear, my dear," she murmured to herself, "I love you with all my silly, dreaming heart."

And then it was morning, time to dispense with dreams and face the problems of the day.

Now that Laurie was at work, finances were much easier. Laurie, in her earnest way, had insisted that Noel accept at least a small part of the money she had loaned her. Now for the first time since she had started on the adventure, Noel had a few dollars in her purse that didn't have to be spent for immediate needs. It gave her a good feeling, a new optimism. Tomorrow surely, if not today, she'd find another place and could leave Luigi's forever.

There was always the chance of meeting someone she knew, even though she didn't have very many friends in this flourishing southern city, because she had spent such little time here since her childhood.

But tonight the very thing she had feared happened. Looking over the shoulder of her partner, Noel saw Dick Graham and Sally Chenowith, with a party. By rights they should both be in Europe. But she decided they were probably on their way to Miami and stopped over here for a day and a night. They lived in New York City.

Noel had to think fast, for Sally's eyes were sweeping the room with a sort of avid yet scornful curiosity. They would cal lthemselves slumming, of course.

There wasn't a chance in the world that they wouldn't recognize her, if they should see her. So Noel hurried to the dressing room, determined to stay there until she was sure Dick and Sally had gone.

She picked up her powder puff and idly ran it over her small nose. Then she sat down and let 10 or 15 minutes go by.

Suddenly a voice spoke from the door. "What's the matter? Did you see a ghost?" It was Nick. He was standing there staring at her, a light in his pale eyes.

"No, of course not." Noel retorted. She picked up the powder puff again and dusted her face.

Luigi came in, closing the door softly behind him. "Something happened. I could tell it by your face."

"I tell you it—wasn't anything. I just needed some powder," Noel insisted.

"Anybody try to get fresh?" he demanded, his voice making a little hissing sound through his tight lips.

"No—no," Noel hastened to say.

Luigi edged closer. If anyone does, you're to tell me at once." He was so close, Noel could see that there was a flush on his rather swarthy face.

Suddenly he took another step nearer, then the next thing his arms closed around her and he had her in a close embrace. Noel struggled furiously, twisting her head first one way, then the other, beating against him with her small hands. By a superhuman effort she managed to avoid meeting his lips. They merely brushed against her face. At last with a mighty wrench of her body, she fred herself.

Then she flung up her hand and slapped him with all her concentrated strength and fury.

Luigi was taken back for a moment. He put up his hand to his cheek. "You little wild-cat—I ought to—"

"If you dare touch me again, I'll—I'll kill you," Noel exclaimed, her face white with fury. She was shaking all over. She felt that she would have died if his hateful lips had touched hers. Still seething with anger, she cried, "Get out of here, I'm going to get out of this dress. I'm leaving—for good!"

Luigi looked startled, then contrite. "Listen, Noel, I apologize," he began humbly. "I didn't know you'd feel that way about just a—a kiss. Now don't be foolish and give up this job. You need it, or else you wouldn't be living in that tumbled down old house on Court street."

"So you know where I live, do you? You had one of your men follow me to find out, didn't you?" Noel demanded hotly.

Luigi smiled, or at least his lips parted in a near semblance to a smile. "Yes, I did," he admitted. "Not only once, but twice. You see, I thought the first time you might have pulled a fast one on me. But I'm satisfied now that you do live there—except I can't understand why—a pretty girl like you ...!"

The angry color again rose to Noel's face "With every word you say, you grow more insulting. I'm asking you again to get out of here. I want to get dressed."

"But you're not going to walk out on me, are you, Noel?" Nick was almost on his knees now, begging, pleading. "Listen, I'll do anything—anything on earth if you'll only stay." Noel reflected. She hadn't another job as yet. She seemed to be caught in a long dreary lane, endless, with never a turn. "I'll stay on one condition," she said coldly. "That you let me absolutely alone."

Luigi promised eargerly. But the next day Noel got a job.

DOROTHY DIX

To What Part of Her Husband's Income Is a Wife Entitled—Vienna Court Fixes Her Share at 8 Per Cent.—How Much Do You Get?

JUST how much of her husband's income the wife is entitled to is a topic of daily debate in millions of homes and provokes far more family rows than any other one thing in marriage. For, unfortunately, married people seldom are able to see eye to eye in this matter; the party of the first part holding strong views as to the man being the purse-bearer, while the party of the second part is just as firmly convinced that the woman has an equal right to tote it.

Hence it is interesting to learn that this cause of so many domestic wars has been officially settled by a Viennese court, which has ruled that a wife has a right to 8 per cent. of all of her husband's earnings and emoluments.

Perhaps this may seem a thin cut to the American Mrs. Grabemheims who have unanimuosly elected themselves the family treasurers, who seize their husbands' pay envelopes before the poor creatures ever have a look at them and dole out a pittance for carfare and cigarettes. But, after all, and taking the mill-run of marriages into consideration, one wonders how many wives do get 8 per cent. of their husbands' income for their own personal behoof and benefit.

Not many, for by the time the landlord and the butcher and the baker and the candlestick-maker have been paid, little Mary's teeth straightened, little Johnny's adenoids removed, the children provided with sweaters with letters on them, the roller skates and the bicycles that they have to have because the other children have them, and the school hold-ups have been met, there is virtually little percentage left for Wife and none at all for Husband.

But it is a funny business any way you look at it, this matter of the division of the family income. Its humor begins with the oath that every bridegroom takes with his tongue in his cheek to endow his wife with all his worldly goods. That's a laugh, because, in the first place, he seldom possesses any worldly goods except his other shirt. And, in the second place, if he does have anything in his pocketbook his astonished bride finds that it has a Yale lock on it that she cannot pick. Nothing else so infuriates a wife as for her husband to refuse her a new hat, which he tells her that everything he has is hers.

Another of marriage's little ironies is that which makes a man speak of supporting his wife, when she performs the labor of half a dozen servants and toils fourteen hours a day looking after his health, his comfort and his finances. A woman who works in a store or an office is regarded as earning her own living. Not so the domestic woman, though she works harder in the home than a woman ever does out of it. Her husband considers himself Big-Hearted Charlie to give her her board and clothes for her services. A man never realizes that the wife he "supported" held down one of the hardest jobs in the world until she dies and he finds out that he has to hire three or four women to take her place. Then he marries again.

Then there is the queer attitude that men take toward giving their wives an allowance on which to run the house and for their own use. Most husbands are violently opposed to this, though why they wouldn't rather give their wives a lump sum once a month and be done with it instead of being nagged about it every morning at breakfast nobody knows.

Also, they must know that a woman can manage her home better and more economically if she knows how much she has to spend than she can if she doesn't know whether she can afford filet mignon for dinner or red beans and rice. Likewise, a man must know that it humiliates a woman just as much as it does a man to have to beg for every penny she gets, and that in her heart she hates the husband who makes her do it.

Nevertheless, there are plenty of husbands who trust their wives with their honor, their children, their stomachs and their happiness, but who do not trust them with their pocketbooks. They give their wives fine houses to live in, fine clothes to wear, fine cars to ride in, but never a dollar that they can spend as they please. They make them mendicants who have to grovel before them to get even the grocery money and thieves who have to steal and falsify accounts to get a cent of the money they have helped make.

So it is no wonder that the financial question is one that husbands and wives fight over as bitterly in the home as they do in Washington or on Wall Street.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

KNARF, STANDING on the roof of the empty birdhouse at the back of the garden, whistled for several minutes. "Peep-peep-peep!" he went. Finally, he smiled. Then he called down to his sister, Hanid, who was sitting by the open door of the birdhouse with her legs hanging down.

"Those swallows will be here in a minute," Knarf said to her in a happy voice.

"Are you sure, Knarf? You know the last time you called two chickens came instead of swallows."

"Yes," said Knarf, "but swallows

"Go home!" he shouted to them.

are coming this time. I didn't whistle loud enough last time. Look! Here they come now, right over the garden wall.

Hanid looked. "Why," she exclaimed, gazing sharply at the top of the garden wall, "they're certainly curious-looking swallows! They've got fur instead of feathers, and four legs instead of two, and long straight ears instead of no ears at all. And instead of flying, they bounce along . . . bounce, bounce, bounce!"

They're Rabbits

"Pshaw! They're rabbits," Knarf said. "Go home!" he shouted down to them. They were looking up at the birdhouse now from the bottom of the pole. "This house isn't for you. It's a swallow house, not a rabbit house."

So the rabbits nodded good morning and bounced back over the garden wall again.

"I guess it isn't going to be so easy to get swallows to move into this house," Hanid said after they were gone. "I don't think they understand your whistling. Perhaps you ought to write them a letter."

"Swallows don't read letters. They can't read anything. They never go to school, so they can't read."

"Then how are you going to let them know about the house?"

"I don't know."

Hanid smiled. "I know a way," she said.

"You do! What is it, Hanid?"

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, August 13

THE PLANETARY auspices for this day are entirely subtle and intriguing, with much bewilderment, and guesswork as to just what might happen. Mysterious, crafty, illicit, captivating and nefarious events loom.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of highly-uncertain, peculiar and subtle influences, with intrigue, secrecy, subterfuge or the mysterious, shaping the affairs. Travel in such behind-the-scenes interests is probable, but be most discreet, relying on the sound advice or co-operation of a trusted elder.

A child born on this day may make a name for itself in some highly-mysterious or singular career, as it may be fond of the unique, hidden, peculiar. It may be highly imaginative and emotional.

T. J. CAVANAGH OPENS NEW ELECTRICAL APPLIANCE STORE

All The Lines Carried Canadian Made

Customer service is the motto of the staff at the new "Frigidaire Store" on George street, where N. Febbo formerly operated a fruit shop opposite McBride and Franks, and the business is in the capable hands of Thomas Cavanagh, a native son of Peterborough and a veteran in the selling and servicing of electrical appliances.

The store readily spotted by its smart black and white front has a modern Neon sign in front, and the products have a double appeal to patriotic buyers in so much as every line is manufactured in Canada by Canadians and all are nationally advertised and leaders in their field.

Mr. Cavanagh, the manager, is well known to Peterborough buyers. He was associated for some time with the Beatty Washer Company and in 1935 handled Frigidaire and radios in McBride and Franks' furniture store, until this year when he started the independent shop.

More Room Needed.

Volume of sales necessitating a large stock and ample room to display the various lines, and do the necessary service work prompted the change, and the new store pleases the housewives who can admire the electrical products in clean looking colors of white and ivory on display in the window and on the floor.

Mr. Cavanagh carries the Frigidaire line of refrigerators exclusively. He has added to this Findlay stoves, which include all types for domestic use, electric, gas, cool and wood. Connor Washers and appliances are in stock and to complete the merchandise there are two lines of radios, Philco and Stromberg-Carlson, two leaders in the field and recognized as the finest toned machines that money can buy.

Commercial refrigeration for stores, butcher shops, restaurants is part of the business and to give rapid and satisfactory service on refrigeration repairs and problems, Harold Marshall, refrigeration engineer and expert repair man, has been added to the staff. Mr. Marshall has been trained by General Motors and is fully qualified to find and correct any refrigerator trouble.

Members of Staff.

Other members on the staff are George Daley of Peterborough, formerly with the Goodyear Tire Co., Arthur Belleghem, well known salesman and merchant who has supervision over sales, Reginald McLavey, also a native son of Peterborough, and Miss Theresa Fitzgerald, stenographer. A contract has been made with Brown's Radio Service operated by George Brown to handle all radio repair work and to give service to radio customers in a prompt and expert manner consistent with the policy of the business.

Dame Fashion Calls For Peasant Costume

Fashion works in various ways its wonders to perform. When knighthood was in full bloom, the humble peasant maid dreamed of flowing robes as worn by the queenly Guinevere. Probably the very scullery maids in King ARrthur's kitchens wore adaptations of gowns sported by the Queen's ladies-in-waiting.

But—Time Marches On, "The old order changeth yielding place to the new" as one illustrious English poet has said, and Fashion expresses itself in many ways.

Our good neighbor Franklin D. Roosevelt from his fireside roots for the farmer and the fisherman, the while his good Eleanor adopts the "shag" of the plantation workers. And the fashionists suddenly decide that "the peasant trend" is the thing for true democrats.

So today we have, the clog shoes of Holland the "babushka" kerchief of the Russian tiller of the soil—and best and most recent; the Austrian milkmaiden's Dirndl.

Even the men are amazed at the beauty of these simple frocks that pass before their eyes by the hundreds each day, each with that close fitting waistband that distinguishes the dirndl. Maidens and matrons alike have become dirndl conscious and many a low paid factory worker blesses the stylist whose nimble find created this midsummer item of apparel.

Actually dirndls are available in hundreds of different patterns and the price is such that they are within reach of everyone. A glance at a girl clad in a neat frock of this type and one immediately has visions of a middle European peasant girl with a kerchief tied around her hair and a milk pail on her arm, a song on her lips and the beauty of an Alpine range in the background.

Suffice to say dirndls are here to stay and are enjoying a wave of popularity perhaps unprecedented in the lower price dress field.

Literal translation of the word in the South German or Austrian Alpine dialect is "girl" but to Canadians, dirndl means a girl's summer dress with a tight fitting gathered waistline.

Miss Margaret Ann Cavanagh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cavanagh of Otonabee township was married to John Joseph McManus, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McManus, of Douro at St. Joseph's Church, Douro on Tuesday morning. Rev. Father J. J. McCarthy solemnized the marriage and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Victor Kennedy who also sang several hymns during the progress of the Nuptial Mass and Gounod's Ave Maria during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a lovely gown of pink lace and net over satin, and matching slippers. Her halo hat and her only ornament was a single rope of pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of Rapture roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Margaret McManus, sister of the groom was frocked in pale blue satin, with picture hat in matching tone. She carried snapdragons and gladiolus. Mr. Thomas Cavanagh, brother of the bride attended as best man.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the farm home of the bride's parents to 30 guests which included Rev. Father J. J. McCarthy and Rev. Father E. J. Welsh. The wedding cake on the bride's table was flanked by pink candles in silver holders and vases of summer flowers and rosebuds fitted in a decorative scheme in pink and white.

Later Mr. and Mrs. McManus left on a honeymoon trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls and on their return will live on Lansdowne street in this city. The bride travelled in a dress of navy sheer with jacket trimmed in white, blue felt hat and matching accessories.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Let Commons Be The "Consumers," Senate "Producers," Says Pastor

LAKE COUCHICHING, Ontario, Aug. 12 (CP).—Elections in Canada should be "along the lines of a corporative state," Rev. C. E. Silcox, secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada, believes.

During discussion on the Dominion's political problems at a forum of the Canadian Institute of Economics and Politics here yesterday, Mr. Silcox suggested that Canada's parliament should be reorganized, the House of Commons to represent consumers and the senate the producers.

M. J. Coldwell, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member of parliament for Rosetown-Biggar, agreed with Mr. Silcox. But the parliamentarian wondered if Mr. Silcox really believed "the senatorial veto should be exercised over the house representing the great mass of the people by interests representing only a part of them, and often selfish and sinister forces."

In answer, the Social Service Council secretary said he believed both houses should have the right of veto. Legislation then might be originated by either house "but the approval of both houses would be necessary."

Economic Problem

The essence of today's problem in Canada is economic, not political or constitutional, and an economic solution must be found, in the opinion of Frank H. Underhill, professor of history at the University of Toronto.

"Political medicine would be useless," Prof. Underhill said. "Beside all political difficulties lie the fundamental problems of establishing a decent standard of living for our populace."

Similarly, the differences between French and English-speaking Canadians were materialistic and not philosophic. This was due mainly to the common desire for more power. "Periods of racial disharmony in Canada always have coincided with periods of economic distress," he said.

The root of Canada's difficulties was not cultural. All wanted the material things of life. Canadians should be "a little more cynical" and admit they all "were after Ottawa jobs" instead of always insisting on their "noble ideals."

Nationalism To The Fore.

Prof. Underhill thought Canada was on the bank of an era of intense nationalism. "Everybody is beginning to talk the language of nationalism again," he said. "The next Dominion general election campaign will be one of rival nationalist platforms. Canadians soon will sink their feeling of despair at the prospect of Canada's disunity in a fresh nationalistic outburst."

He claimed those parts of the Dominion in which provincial loyalty was strongest were dominated by "big business" interests. The business men stimulated this loyalty because they were afraid of the check on their activities a completely centralized government would effect.

Most Canadians believed wrongly they had a "mystic bond or inherent relationship" with their native province which was lacking with regard to the Dominion. "The average individual does not really feel his provincial government is more democratic—represents him more closely—than the Dominion government," he said.

Prof. Underhill asked the audience if they felt any "mystic communion with provincial bureaucrats." "When I deal with a Dominion official he's always polite," he added. "When I deal with a Provincial official Im surprised if he is polite. I doubt the whole thesis of so-called democrats who claim the Provincial government is nearer the people."

Balancing Power

"Concentration of power at the centre of Canada means danger for democratic liberties," the history professor continued. "We can guard against this danger in part by balancing province against province, creating an internal balance of power. This would not work long because whatever form of government we have it will soon become strongly central and another kind of safeguard for our liberties would be sought.

"Organization of the consumer and the producer to force the processor—the middle man—to the fulcrum of a new sort of social balance would offer a solution. Determination of the individual to be free, the surest guarantee of individual liberty, might effect this protective balance of power."

Prof. Underhill said the press in Canada expressed "not that vague thing called public opinion but the opinions of the men who own it." Almost anybody could be a newspaperman "if he had the money," he said, adding:

"Whether they are liberal or reactionary it's dangerous to have so much power in the hands of a few irresponsible men. We can only get a satisfactory press in the Dominion when that press is operated by practical newspapermen who have been through the mill."

Country Calls Girl Workers To Heavy Jobs

LONDON, Aug. 12—(CP)—Feeding the cows and raking the hay is becoming women's work in England. Women farmers are on the increase according to officials of the Royal Agricultural Society.

Usual modern method is for two women in partnership to run the farm. They are not new at the job however. Many receive their training on large estates and work their apprenticeship in exchange for food and lodging. Others attend agricultural colleges.

Country jobs that have particular feminine appeal are dairy work, butter-making, cheese-making, stock work and milking. Women gardeners are wanted for private gardens and for the gardens of large institutions. To be head gardener at a girls' school or women's college is considered quite a woman's job and many trained women are employed to assist in horticultural nursery work. According to the Women's Farm and Garden Association, the demand for experienced women in varoius branches of outdoor work far exceeds the supply.

Would Try Housework

Perhaps as encouragement to women to stay in the kitchen and not wander outdoors, the Dowager Marchioness of Reading told of her repressed desire to be a housemaid. She was speaking at a meeting of the Society for Overseas Settlement of British Women.

She is the only woman on the board of this Society with 10 men. In her short address she said definitely that if she were young again she would most certainly emigrate to one of the Dominions and what is more she would not mind what kind of a job she had to take to begin with. "I wouldn't try to be a cook, because I can't cook," she said, "but I would make an excellent housemaid."

Miss Edith Thompson, chairman of the executive committee, told of a constant demand for qualified teachers, hospital nurses, governesses and children's nurses in both Australia and South Africa, where the settlement scheme under the guardianship of this association is well underway. A limited number of secretaries, hotel receptionists, hairdressers and dressmakers are promised jobs on arrival.

Married Want Chance

With emigration offering such inducements, a deputation representing 20 women's organizations called at the London County Council headquarters and asked that the marriage bar for women employees be abolished. The reason given for this request was that depriving a woman of her job merely because she marries is anti-social and has a tendency towards later marriages and smaller families.

One of the claims made was that it is in the interests of the community that women should be allowed to do work for which they are trained, regardless of whether they are married or not.

The idea behind the deputation was that the L.C.C. should set an example in this way to the Government. Recently they made a ruling allowing married nurses to retain their positions owing to the shortage of hospital staff.

YACHT TO HOUSE DELEGATES

Because Newcastle, England, has insufficient hotel accommodations for delegates to the Conservative Party convention in October, the 5,000-ton cruising motor yacht Stella Polaris may be moored alongside the Town Hal land be used as a hotel.

Gray and Blue

You see before you that most useful article in a woman's wardrobe, the tweed topcoat. Useful for the woman of any age, and any calling, from society girl to college freshman or senior.

This trim, belted model is in an imported gray and blue tweed with the very latest lines, sleeves wide near the top, small roll-over collar, neatly belted waist, spanned by a leather belt.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"The quality of mercy is not strained,
It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
Upon the place beneath; it is tiwce blessed;
It blesseth him that gives, and him that takes."

—Shakespeare.

Dear Friends:

How little mercy we show to one another, friend to friend, worker to employer and vice versa, children to parents, and very often parents to children, truly we have not learned to know the sweet quality which lies in mercy.

And all of us need it shown to us at various times in our lives, for do as we like we fall down in many ways. Yet, how we hedge and blame and withhold it from some other poor sinner.

It is so easy to condemn and find fault, but it takes a little understanding and sympathy to give mercy. Maybe if we looked more closely at our own shortcomings we should be so aware of the need for some in ourselves that we would hasten to show it to others, so that when our turn came it would not be withheld from us.

There is not one of us that does not fall far short of the glory of God, and when He can show it to us, surely we can pas sit on to another in need.

The funny thing about our lack of mercy is, that often the thing that was done, was not in the remotest degree done to us. Yet we set ourselves aloft on a pedestal of righteousness and sit in judgment on our neighbors.

Ian MacLaren tells us this: "In every man there are two selves, seek for the higher in your neighbor, and help him to overcome the lower." And in the doing of that you will also reap the benefit for you can never do good without sharing a part of it yourself.

Don't forget either, that if there is a higher and a lower self in others, the same thing applies to you, and maybe you will be glad if someone seeks the higher self in you and helps you to overcome the lower.

And that is how mercy is shown, in fellowship and comradeship, knowing we are all fallible, and if it is your neighbor's turn to fall today, your foot may slip tomorrow. Our Lord told us that when He embodied in the Lord's Prayer, "Forgive us our trespasses, AS WE FORGIVE THOSE THAT TRESPASS AGAINST US."

If we don't or won't forgive, how then can we look for it ourselves? Who are we to set ourselves above others saying in effect that we deserve mercy but the other fellow does not? Yet how often we do just that.

Sometimes when we are very merciful, someone will call us a softie, but we should care if we are helping another to get on his or her feet again. Then again, there are those who show mercy to everyone but themselves.

It will help you to show some of it to yourself as much as it does when you show it to others, for if you are too merciles stowards your self you will not be able to do your best work. Of course that does not mean to be foolishly indulgent with your own bad habits, but just giving yourself a little leeway too.

Sometimes you know, we go on for days and weeks and months, doing our best, working hard with not much fun or pleasure, having a lot of little irritations to put up with, and then suddenly we get so "fed-up," so disgusted with things as they are, that we kick over the traces and do something we ought not to do.

And so I think that all we have done should weigh some when mercy has to be shown; so remember "it blesseth him that gives and him that takes."

Your Friend, ROBERTA.

OATS GROW IN MOSS

REGINA—(CP).—C. K. Murchison returned here recently from a trip that carried him 350 miles north of The Pas, Northern Manitoba mining town, with proof of what is believed to be the strangest crop in Western Canada. In an area covered with short, thick moss, Murchison found a field of oats, which on examination here, proved headed and filling.

MODEL ENGINE OF SCRAP

REGINA—(CP).—One of the attractions of a display at the Provincial Exhibition here was a model locomotive made entirely of scrap metal. Fred Straub of Brownlee, 100 miles southwest of here designed the model which operates under its own power from steam generated in a tube boiler.

Ton Stolen Gold Recovered, 14 Men Jailed

KEWAGAMA, Que., Aug 12.—One of the most sensational gold robberies in Canadian mining history, involving the theft of over a ton of gold ore valued at between $40,000 and $50,000, is believed to have been solved with the arrest of fourteen men, including three alleged "master minds", who are said by police to have carried out a skilfully planned scheme to rob Kewagama Mines.

Most of the gold ore has been recovered, and the authorities are confident the remainder will be found shortly. The gang, most of them hailing from Ontario points, even had arranged for relays of cars to transport the ore from Quebec to Ontario, according to the police.

Yesterday police arrested Laurence Surinier of Timmins on a charge of car theft. It is alleged he told of having been approached to transport the stolen ore into Ontario, and that he had taken about $2,000 worth of ore across the Provincial boundary. He was jailed at North Bay.

Burglary July 31

On the night of July 31 the strong room of Kewagama Gold Mines was broken into and seventeen powder boxes, filled with the high-grade ore, were removed. J. E. Hedge, special mines investigator at Noranda, and his assistant, Marc Lanthier, with Constable Normandeau of the Lamaque patrol, and Chief of Police Charles Ross of O'Brien, at once set to work.

In the tiny outlaw town of Little Canada, the investigators raided a tent where they found a man engaged in rough extraction of the gold. A search revealed a cache a short distance from the tent.

A second cache of gold ore was found a half-mile from the tent and a third quantity of ore was discovered hidden in the bush a mile away. Police are looking for another man, said to be one of the central figures in the robbery.

Those Under Arrest

Those under arrest are: Paul Whelan, Joseph Scharf, Tom Haughin, Charles Kellat, Charlie Johnson, Charlie Peterson, Larry Labreque, Alfred Eryeluistrsen, Louis Polson, Stewart McDonald, Walter Poirier, James O'Brien, Nick Falum and Henri Charlebois. Only one of the arrested men has had actual mining experience.

Investigator Hedge said that for some months past the authorities have been on the alert for trouble, having been tipped off that a clever gang was planning to rob a mine. The difficulty was that there are so many mines in the area, it was impossible to watch them all at the same time.

"It was a well-laid plot", said Mr. Hedge. "The men behind it left little to chance. But we knew something was in the wind and had a pretty good idea of where to go to recover the loot and find the men."

"Prohibited Areas" Guard Germany

Creation of new "prohibited areas" blanketing the eastern frontiers and the northern costs of Germany leads to the assumption that a vast ring of land and sea defences protecting Germany on all sides is nearing completion. The map above shows how Germany is protecting itself in this manner. As in the west, all foreign military attaches were ordered to leave the new "prohibited" zones immediately or be subject to prosecution, and tourist traffic will be closely supervised. Placing of emphasis on the Czechoslovakian frontier came on the eve of Lord Runciman's arrival in Czechoslovakia from London to try to mediate the Sudeten German controversy.

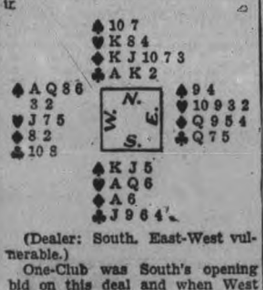
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

A BACKWARD FINESSE

LEADING toward the longer string of cards is usually considered the normal way when a finesse is possible in either direction. A backward finesse can be the crucial play, however, in an occasional hand. Sometimes it is best to lead toward even a doubleton; if the missing honor is marked by a previous play or bid, if there are insufficient entries to risk it in the other direction, or if you can afford to chance one defender getting the lead but don't dare let his partner it.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

One-Club was South's opening bid on this deal and when West passed North responded with 1-Diamond. South's next call was 1-No Trump, which North jumped to 3-No Trump.

Against this bid West led the spade 6 and the 10 from dummy held the trick. When East could not cover, it became apparent that he should be kept out of the lead to prevent his being able to come through the spades K-J, which would then be worthless.

Declarer therefore decided to try the diamond finesse to West and led the J. When this held, it was followed by a diamond to the A. A heart was played to the K and the diamond K cashed. It then became apparent that East had the winning diamond. South therefore gave up that suit and cashed his remaining winners, making game.

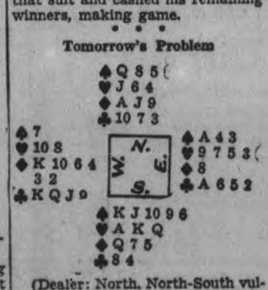
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the correct defense against South's 4-Spade contract, the opening lead having been the club K?

France Shuts Frontier Into Italy

Size of Nazi Army Manoeuvres Worries Neighbors

LONDON, Aug 13 (AP).—Diplomats in European capitals today strove to make a coherent picture of the international situation from developments and disclosures in the past 36 hours, such as the following:

France clamped down regulations virtually forbidding French citizens to go to Italy, the French foreign office announced special visas and special reasons must be had before citizens can visit Italy. This was in retaliation for an unexplained Italian refusal or reluctance to give Italians papers needed for travelling in France.

Germany hastened preparations for large-scale manoeuvres next month of the regular army, reserve units which have not participated in such exercises with the army since the Great War, and, possibly, war veterans between 35 and 45 years.

The Nazi government decreed the requisitioning of grain storage rooms for the bumper German crop.

Officials announced anyone disclosing industrial secrets to foreigners would be imprisoned.

Under a law of July 18 horses, trucks and buses and Nazi buildings were requisitioned.

Residents of the area on both sides of the German-Czechoslovak frontier were worried over the German preparations for the manoeuvres. Some said 1,000,000 men would participate.

Gold Mirrors Tension.

In London the continuing demand for gold mirrored European tension as buyers tried to secure a greater measure of security for their property. The price of gold soared.

The Czechoslovak government tried to prevent publication of a declaration by the Czechoslovak army officers' society that there could be "no retreat" in keeping Czechoslovakia's integrity. The manifesto, an apparent warning to Nazi-supported, autonomy-seeking Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia, was officially said to have been issued without the government's approval.

Members of the Little Entent, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia, were uneasy. Balkan diplomats believed the trio would offer Hungary non-aggression pacts, military equality and perhaps other favors in efforts to reduce growing

Business Regime Suggested For Alberta

HIGH RIVER, Alta., Aug. 13. —(CP).— Formation of a business government in Alberta to carry on a program of reconstruction and restore public confidence was advocated by E. L. Gray, provincial Liberal leader, when he addressed a rally here.

He told his audience last night there would be a Liberal candidate or an ally, with a definite program, in every constituency at the next provincial election. Liberal candidates would be pledged to a reduction of the Alberta Legislature membership from 63 to 48 members.

He said there is no "old Liberal party in Alberta to-day." The or-

Marines Nip Cocky Japs In Shanghai

Incident Very Grave Says Jap Heads In Tense Metropolis

SHANGHAI, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Widespread disorders, including an encounter between three Japanese and United States marines, swept Shanghai today on the first anniversary of the outbreak of fighting in the metropolis.

Japanese authorities described the marines incident as "very grave" and refused to permit news of the encounter to be disseminated in China or Japan.

At least three Chinese were killed and 17 injured in terrorist bombings and other disorders. Arrests during the first few hours of the day totalled several score.

Shortly after daylight heavy machine-gun and rifle fire was heard in Pootung, industrial area across the Whangpoo River from Shanghai. This appeared to bear out recent Chinese reports the guerillas in that area would stage an anniversary attack.

Most of the incidents, however, occurred in the international settlement, despite precautions of 15,000 police and international patrols.

Settlement authorities charged the Japanese army was behind an organized effort to use the anniversary as a means of involving the foreign areas in the conflict.

Japs Threatening Chinese.

The encounter between the United States marines and the Japanese occurred when Gunnery Sergeant Milton Marvin of San Diego, Calif., came upon a defence force automobile halted in a side street in the United States defence sector.

Three Japanese, brandishing pistols, stood in the automobile, demanding Chinese of the neighborhood lower the Chinese Nationalist flag, hoisted in observance of the war anniversary.

Marvin reported he drew his own gun and ordered the Japanese to sit down, but they refused, training their weapon on him. Then a marine sentry appeared with an automatic rifle and the Japanese turned over their guns.

The United States Marines turned two of the men over to a representative of the Japanese army. The third was taken to a hospital as a result of a crack on the head when he refused to alight from the car.

Japanese authorities said the men were attached to the special service section of the Japanese army.

Colonel Charles Price, Marine commander, gave the Japanese reports on the incident, requesting disciplinary action be taken and the United States Marines informed of the punishment.

He said the men were charged with "threatening the peace and order of the American sector" and threatening United States Marines with arms.

Barbecuing Steak

When Joe Elmhirst and his wife, former California ranchers, who have fed as many as 1,500 people at one sitting on their 5,500-acre ranch near Los Alamos, start out to feed people, they don't fool about it. At a family reunion Spanish dinner Mrs. Elmhirst cooked 25 pounds of steak for eighteen people, nine of them women. It was barbecued on this open fire in a special way; all day long beech wood had been burned in the grate and the steaks were placed on top of the grill over the red hot coals from the wood. The grease dripped through to the embers and gave the meat a delicious flavor.

Czech Airliner Crashes In Germany Killing 11, Injuring 5 Badly

REPORTS reaching here today said a Czechoslovak plane crashed 16 miles east of Kehl, in Germany, killing 11 persons and seriously injuring five. The plane left Praha at 7 a.m. for Strassbourg and Paris.

First reports said the plane hit a 2,000-foot high mountain in a fog near the town of Oberkirch.

Heavy fog enveloped the Rhineland and a plane of the German Lufthansa Airline on the Cologne to Frankfort route was reported down. Details, however, were lacking.

Franco's Answer On Volunteers Ready Shortly

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(CP Cable.)—General Franco of the Spanish insurgents has assured the British foreign office it may expect a reply to the plant for withdrawing foreign volunteers from Spain "in a very few days."

At the same time it was announced Franco has agreed to pay compensation for British ships sunk by insurgent warplanes in cases where it was proven the attack was deliberate.

A commission of one British and one Spanish insurgent naval officer is being sent up to investigate the bombing of ships flying the Union Jack. In cases where the commission is unable to agree whether or not the attack was deliberate, a referee will be called in for consultation. If the latter decides in favor of British contentions, compensation will be paid.

The question of compensation for British ships lost in Spanish waters has been a topic of heated argument for several days. The foreign office said ship owners had not fully understood the plan, originally announced by Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons July 27 and since under discussion with insurgent officials.

Franco's promise of an early decision on the British plan for withdrawal of foreign fighters from war-wracked Spain was warmly received in government circles. There had been growing concern over the insurgent general's long silence regarding the plan.

The Spanish government accepted the scheme July 26, but Franco considered the scheme for more than five weeks without forwarding a reply.

Britain Wears Overcoats As Freak Snow Storm Does $7,500,000 Damage

Lightning, Fire, Floods, Snow And Hail Cut Crazy Path Over Country Wrecking Property, Killing At Least 3

LONDON, Aug. 13 (CP).—Children in winter overcoats fought with snowballs in Yorkshire today after terrifying, freak storms descended on the British Isles, taking at least three lives and causing $7,500,000 property damage.

Lightning, fires, floods, transportation tie-ups, snow, hail and rain all were elements in the two days of the storm's fury.

East Yorkshire was one of the hardest hit areas, as the storm cut a crazy path across the country, striking London, Leicestershire and the southern counties.

At Wold Newton, near Bridlington, the village was in a state of terror yesterday and many women were on the verge of hysteria as lightning crackled and thunder crashed.

Screaming children fled from the mission tent on Lacey Green near Princes Risborough as lightning struck the pole and burned the preacher.

At Shoreditch, 40 passengers leaped from a blazing tramcar when floodwaters short-circuited a conduit.

Thousands of telephones were put out of action and hundreds of houses were struck by lightning.

A clap of thunder "exploded like a bomb" in Piccadilly near Bond Street during the storm and sent crowds scurrying for shelter. Hailstones the size of hazelnuts struck northern London, mashing windows, knocking bowlers from men's heads, striking children with uch force that they cried with pain.

Relays of laborers worked throughout the night to clear tons of debris blocking the main London, Midland and Scottish rail route between Lancashire and Yorkshire at Todmorden.

Snow 2 Feet Deep

Snow was reported two feet deep in some parts of Yorkshire and Norfolk.

Bridges in some districts were swept away and crops were flattened. Automobiles were marooned and many roads were flooded.

Lightning struck a silk mill at Macclesfield, Cheshire, starting a fire. One woman, trapped in the building, lost her life and 300 others escaped. Two youths were killed by lightning. Livestock also suffered and two horses were killed by a bolt at Middleham in Yorkshire.

Many streets in Hendon, Golders Green and Peckham were flooded.

A wide section of Croydon was under water. Store basements in the centre of the town, and second floors of houses on the outskirts were flooded.

Many persons suffered minor injuries, such as bruises and concussions.

Ex-Lover Sends Girls' Father Down For Life

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 13 (AP).—A guilty verdict returned after five and a half hours' deliberation sent Francis Carroll to state prison for life today, to a cell under the same roof with his chief accuser, Paul Dwyer, 19, who swore he accepted a life sentence for a murder Carroll committed because he feared Carroll's "vengeance."

The 43-year-old former deputy sheriff, a war veteran and father of five children, was convicted by an all-male jury last night of the strangulation murder of Dr. James Littlefield, 67. Carroll protested he was innocent.

It was the same courtroom in which Dwyer pleaded guilty and received a life sentence last December for the same crime. Dwyer repudiated previous "confessions" at Carroll's trial and swore he saw the deputy throttle the doctor in Dwyer's home last October 13.

When, and whether, an attempt would be made to get an executive pardon for Dwyer—his only hope of freedom—remained in doubt, said Walker Abbott, who represented him last December; "When the proper time comes, I'll take care of Paul Dwyer."

Daughter at Movie

Barbara Carroll, 18, eldest of Carroll's children and one-time sweetheart of Dwyer, did not hear the verdict. She was at a movie.

When she learned the news she left immediately, bursting into tears and crying, "I don't see how the verdict could have been that. I want to go home to my mother."

Mrs. Ruby Carroll, constantly loyal to her husband since he was arrested originally in May, charged with incest involving Barbara, sobbed at the verdict, then rushed to her husband's side.

Arms around each other, they went down to the adjoining jail. After a few moments of privacy, Mrs. Carroll emerged, defiantly telling waiting photographers, "go ahead, take my picture."

Chicago Killers Execute Victim Against Wall

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The gang style execution of Joseph LaPorte, 34, shot five times through the head, forged another link today in the grisly chain of death that has claimed eight victims in seven weeks.

In a manner reminiscent of the sensational St. Valentine's Day massacre of nine years ago, three gunmen stood LaPorte against the brick wall of a garage on the west side last night and fired a volley of bullets into his head.

Policeman John Racek said LaPorte was once a member of the old "42" gang, which ruled a portion of the southwest side in prohibition days and this year he had taken an active interest in politics.

La Porte's execution followed by four days the assassination of James Duncan, 35, business agent for the painters and decorators union. He was slain by three gunmen in front of his home Monday.

Boys Snatch 3 From Death In Rapids At Midnight

OTTAWA, Aug. 13 (CP)—Three boys in a home-made canoe made a daring midnight voyage into the head of Deschenes Rapids in the Ottawa River and rescued two men and a woman whose canoe had upset.

The rescued trio, Jack Skelly, Jack Morris and Mrs. C. Patterson, sister of Morris, were crossing from Deschenes on the Quebec side of the river to Britannia, just west of Ottawa, when their canoe was pulled into the rapids and upset. They found footing on a large rock and their shouts attracted the attention of the boys who were camping on a nearby island.

The lads were Edward and Baby Rocque, brothers, and Charles Tongue. They effected the rescue.

Skelly, Morris and Mrs. Patterson spent the night in a hotel at Deschenes and were returning to their cottage on the Ontario side when the mishap occurred. They believed they had paddled far enough up the river to escape the pull of the rapids but apparently misjudged the distance in the dark.

When more than half way across the current seized their canoe and swept it quickly downstream into the rapids where it upset. After drifting about 100 yards, hanging on to the upturned canoe they found a rock on which they were able to stand, shoulder deep in water, and brace themselves against the current.

The lads first took Mrs. Patterson to the island and then returned for the two men. They then ferried all three to the Britannia Boating Club on the mainland.

Youths Go Bathing On Brink Of Falls Give Officers Scare

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 13.

BATHING in the brink of the Horseshoe Falls may be great sport, but the Niagara State Reservation police in Niagara Falls, N.Y., have no intention of encouraging the dangerous pastime. Last night they surprised seven Buffalo, N.Y., youths, ranging from 15 to 18 years old, wading in the swift moving waters off Terrapin Point so close to the brink of the Horseshoe that the officers were petrified with fear they would be swept over the Cataracts. The youths, barefoot and very wet, were ordered ashore, and taken to Reservation Police Headquarters where they were given a stern lecture and warned not to repeat the stunt.

A Walking Tour

ACTON, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP).—Two ambitious walkers arrived in Acton this week. Rev. Herman Eldriedge and Mrs. Eldriedge were missionaries in China until 1935. Unable to return to their field, they started on a walking tour of the world, to last until conditions in China permit their return. They plan to spend the summer in Ontario and go to South Africa this winter.

Russians, Japs Pledge Peace

TOKYO, Aug. 13.— (AP).—The War Office announced to-day that Soviet Russian and Japanese military representatives had signed a memorandum pledging themselves to avoid further incidents over the disputed area on the Siberian-Korean frontier.

A communique said both sides had retired approximately 90 yards from the crest of Changkufeng Hill, which puts the hill between them and ends the condition where the troops actually were facing each other.

The agreement guaranteed both sides would avoid actions likely to break the truce.

Reports on the situation, including the positions of troops and all other details, were communicated to the two governments, the communique said, adding that a map marking troops positions at the time of the truce probably would be signed to-day.

The War Office also said commanders of both sides had conferred regarding the removal of bodies of the casualties from the disputed area.

Provinces Require More Autonomy Agree Hepburn, Duplessis

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Aug. 13.—(CP).—The Premiers of Ontario and Quebec, a happy day of pitching oat sheaves and grading onions on Bannockburn farm's 1,100 acres at an end, were agreed today the Dominion Government should assume the burden of relief costs.

But Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario and Maurice Duplessis, head of Quebec's Union Nationale Government, also were of the opinion, expressed by Mr. Duplessis, that the provinces must have "more autonomy or there cannot be unity in Canada." The Quebec Premier said yesterday: "The individual members of a nation must be given their rights or there can be no nation."

The occasion was Premier Hepburn's 42nd birthday celebration. From Quebec, New York and other points came a score of Mr. Hepburn's intimates for an informal get-together which, it was announced, had no political significance. It was "just a birthday party" with no conferences.

Whether or not Premiers Hepburn and Duplessis talked politics, they took time out from driving about the Yarmouth Township farm to express in informal interviews similar points of view on several questions. Both said they endorsed the attitude of Hon. R. J. Manion, National Conservative leader, who said recently he believed the Federal Government should relieve the municipalities of the burden of relief.

Mr. Hepburn said his foremost hope for Canada was the development of a "true national spirit." He trusted Canadians "will be able to create a true national spirit, with the preservation of our democratic institutions, and that Canada will be able to accomplish the betterments Canadians are seeking."

Loyalists Hanging Grimly To Mines

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish frontier), Aug. 13 (AP)—A violent battle raged in southwestern Spain today around Cabeza Del Buey, strategic communications centre and key to the government's rich Almaden mercury mines.

Insurgent dispatches insisted Cabeza Del Buey had been captured, but government advices asserted the militiamen still were holding out, effectively blocking the advance of General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano.

Cabeza Del Buey is about 20 miles west of Almaden, mining centre of Ciudad-real province and immediate Insurgent objective on the Estremadura front.

Bulletins from Barcelona and Valencia admitted the Insurgents had gained control of heights surrounding the beleaguered village after heavy bombardment by 40 warplanes.

Fresh government reinforcements were said to have arrived from the Madrid front to try to halt a wide flanking movement that has been developing for two days north of Cabeza Del Buey.

A Close Call

Fred Shewen of Mount Julian had a very narrow escape from serious injury Friday night when his car left Highway 28 a mile north of Lakefield ran along the ditch for some distance and then turned over, completely demolishing the top of the machine. Mr. Shewen who was alone, got off without injury. The closeness of the call can be appreciated from the fact that the car top was pierced by a huge boulder. The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton.

25 Pounds Of Thick Barbecued Beef Required For 8 Men and 8 Women

There are at least five people in Peterborough to whom butchers will not sell steak for a few weeks. They are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cummer, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Garner, and an Examiner reporter.

When the quintet went to Bass Lake, near Orillia, to be guests at a Spanish dinner of Joseph Elmhirst, noted Californian rancher, and former resident of Keene, they little suspected they were on their way to a feast that would make history.

For when Joe Elmhirst was in California he had fed as many as 1,500 hungry men at one sitting, and he apparently finds difficulty in preparing smaller banquets. At Bass Lake 18 people, nine of them women, sat down before 25 pounds of inch-thick barbecued beef, potatoes, Spanish beans cooked with pork, a Spanish meat sauces whose chief ingredients were hot peppers of one kind and other. That's as far as most of the diners got, but someone said there were other courses.

"If there is such a thing as a satisfied banker, then that's me," sighed Charlie Cummer as he staggered to his feet. He was in disgrace at the time because he had merely nibbled about two pounds from the edges of his thick steak, left the majority of it on his plate.

It was an easy thing for Joe Elmhirst and his wife to prepare dinner for 18 people after their California training. At his annual sales on Elmhirst Rancho near Los Alamos, Joe Elmhirst has fed as many as 1,500 people. To do it, he used to barbecue three steers, total dressed weight of which would be a little more than a ton of meat. With it were 400 pounds of beans, 500 loaves of bread. He couldn't recall how much butter was used, but knew the coffee was made in a 500-gallon pot.

On the 5,500-acre ranch he had more than a thousand knives, forks, spoons, cups. The meals were served cafeteria style; meat cut from turning halves of beef. "When you got through the shoot you'd be ready to eat," he said.

Pastor Ordered To Soft-Pedal Services So Neighbors Can Sleep

Detroit, Aug. 13 (CP)

BECAUSE neighbors cannot sleep and have complained of noise by persons attending the Bethel Christian Assembly in a store building here, Austin C. Collins and his flock must soft-pedal their services not later than 11 p.m. henceforth, according to an order by Judge George T. Murphy.

"The noise is something awful," Mrs. Bert Wade, leader of the complaints said. Mrs. Wade said when the service closes early, the congregation moves to the sidewalk just outside the place of worship and continues the demonstration.

Judge Murphy adjourned the complaint case without date to see if the Rev. Mr. Collins' brood can confine its worship to specified hours.

Relief In June Drops 23 p.c. Over Canada

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—(CP)—Marked decreases in the number of persons in urban centres receiving relief were shown in the June figures, as compared with June, 1937, more than offsetting the increases in farming communities where last years drought continued to swell th totals. The figures, based on the Labor Department's national registration, were released Friday by Labor Minister Rogers.

Registration figures showed that 13?,000 fully employable persons were receiving non-agricultural material aid in June, 1938. This was a decrease of over 23 per cent from June, 1937, when the number was 181,689. In comparison with the total for May, 1938, a decrease of 9.7 per cent was indicated.

Totaf Over Half Million.

Seventy-two per cent of the total of fully employable persons on aid were reported from the fifty-one cities of over 10,000 population distributing aid.

When totals of al lthose in receipt of non-agricultural material aid in June were compared with the corresponding month of 1937, a decrease of nearly 10 per cent was shown. The total number (including totally unemployable, partially employable and fully employable, together with all dependents of family heads) was estimated to be 524,000 in June, 1938. This was a decrease of 9 per cent from May, 1938.

A total of 82,000 farmers (resident farm operators), who, together with their dependents; accounted for a farm population of 368,000 across the country, was reported as receiving agricultural material aid for subsistence. This figure was a decrease of 3.3 per cent from May, 1938, but an increase of over 39 per cent over June, 1937.

Drought Still Reflected.

Of this Dominion total, 321,000 were in Saskatchewan, still reflecting the effects of the drought situation in 1937. While the Saskatchewan total showed a drop of 2.3 per cent from the previous month, it still showed an increase of nearly 86.7 per cent from June, 1937.

The grand total of all classes of persons on material and agricultural aid in June this year was 892,000 (preliminary figure), a decrease of 6.7 er cent from May and a decrease of 1 per centf rom June of the year before, although, as stated, persons on agricultural aid included in this grand total had increased by over 39 per cent in the year. The drop of 6.7 per cent in the grand total from May to June was thus about the same relatively as the decrease from Apri lto May, when the figures declined by 6.6 per cent.

CAMPBELLFORD

Farmer Pays Fine For Road Damage

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 13. — Charged that he did unlawfully operate a tractor engine having flanges on the wheels, Oscar Laver, 50, Percy Township farmer, pleaded guilty and was assessed $14.20. Although he testified before Magistrate O. A. Langley that he had no other way of reaching a field of grain which he intended to cut than by traversing 35 rods of the County road the Magistrate stated that there was no other alternative but to levy a fine. County Road Superintendant A. S. Miller who laid the complaint told the court that holes three quarters of an inch deep had been cut in the macadam surface of the road. These he explained would fill with water and during the winter would freeze causing still greater damage.

Elwood Brenton of Norham was fined $13.00 for driving with defective brakes while two other motorists were assessed $2.00 and costs for entering a through highway without bringing their cars to a full stop. Pleas of guilty were entered on their behalf by Constable George Hardy who laid the information. Driving his car on the highway with defective lights cost on Seymour township resident $5.50.

Boy Killed In Duel

BUDAPEST, Aug. 13 (AP).—Ten-year-old Paul Varga was killed today in a make-believe duel at Szombathely, near the Austrian border.

He was struck by a bullet from a duelling pistol in the hands of a nine-year-old companion. The boys had pretended they were angry and playfully decided to settle their difference in the best Hungarian tradition on the field of honor. They found pistols in their homes.

2 Cars Collide Kill Woman Upon Sidewalk

CORNWALL, Aug. 13. — Mrs. Joseph Dupius, 32, was crushed to death at a busy intersection here late Friday afternoon, when two automobiles collided and one mounted the curb to pinch the woman against a telephone post. She died in hospital a half hour later. Parick Dumond, passenger in one of the automobiles, suffered severe cuts and bruises.

Police questioned in detail William Jackson, 23, of Caroline Avenue, Ottawa, driver of one of the cars. They found no actual eyewitnesses of the tragedy.

Jackson's automobile was travelling south on Bedford street, and was in collision with a car driven by Leonard Tyo, 23, of Sixth street, West Cornwall, proceding west on Third street. Tyo's light sedan was turned completely around and rammed against the curb where the woman was standing, about to cross the street. She was crushed between the car and telephone pole with such force the body of the machine was crushed in and a projecting step on the pole was driven into the woman's head. Herbert Roberts and W. B. Smith carried the woman into the home of Lambert Roberts. She was later taken to hospital, where she died. Her skull was fractured and both arms were broken. An autopsy was performed last night and an inquest is probable.

Jackson, foreman of a labor gang working on Cornwall's new armory, has been in Cornwall for the past five weeks. Tyo and Dumond are employed in a local cotton mill.

It was only the second fatal street accident in Cornwall proper in six years. Mrs. Dupuis had been married fourteen years and is survived by her husband. There were no children.

Try Helping Threshers.

Then the premiers tried their hand at threshing. Both grabbed forks and fed the thresher for a few minutes. The crops on the Hepburn Bannockburn farm are good this year. Oats and barley threshed yesterday ran about 47 bushels to the acre and wheat threshed some time ago was 40 bushels an acre.

The onion grader was operated for the benefit of the Quebec premier who was making his first visit to western Ontario. Mr. Hepburn said the gradew as good, the best in years, and estimated his onion crop at about 30,000 bushels.

The party spent the evening at Laurier lodge, Mr Hepburns cabin beside Laurier Lake in the centre of the home farm. Harry McLean, head of the Dominion Construction Company of Canada, and Bernard (Sell 'Em Ben) Smith of New York left early by airplane.

But other guests stayed for the night. Among them were J. P. Bickell, Toronto mining financier; Sir James Dunn, president of Algoma Steel corporation, Limited; members of the Quebec and Ontario governments; Mr. Hepburn's mother and prominent members of the Ontario Liberal party.

The private, informal party was in contrast to huge public celebrations of Mr. Hepburn's birthday of the past 11 years. Congratulatory messages and floral tributes poured into the Hepburn home throughout the day.

German Transatlantic Fliers Reach New York

Their flight a secret until U.S. air bases were contacted by radio for weather information, the giant German land airplane, Brandenburg, is shown (TOP), as it passed over Long Island, N.Y., completing its nonstop flight from Berlin to Floyd Bennett field, outside New York, 25 hours after its take-off from the German capital. Capt. Alfred Henke, commander of the ship, was given a rousing reception on arrival at the airport, as seen in the lower photo. The experimental flight may be preparatory to North Atlantic air transport services planned by German air authorities.

Ontario Wheat Crop Best In Last 10 Years

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—Ontario's yield of fall wheat will amount to about 20,036,000 bushels, the largest crop since 1926, it is estimated in the monthly crop report issued yesterday by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The average yield for the whole Province is set at 27 bushels per acre, as compared with 26 bushels in 1937, and a preceding 15-year average of 25.1 bushels per acre. The harvested acreage of 742,062 acres is the highest since 1927, and compares with 718,813 acres last year.

While in Eastern, Central and Western Ontario, the yield per acre has been reduced and the quality considerably lowered by leaf and stem rust, the yield in Southern Ontario, which comprises the two rows of counties bordering Lake Erie, and where half the acreage is located, with almost five bushels higher than in 1937. This more than offset the decline in other sections.

S. H. H. Symons, Department statistician, reports that prices of farm products have declined recently, and are now generally below the level of a year ago.

Meantime, France heard many disquieting rumors, growing out of the German plans for manoeuvres, among them that 1,000,000 or more German reservists would be called to the colors and that Germany was hastening fortifications on French and Polish borders.

Premier Chamberlain, meanwhile, remained here. Government sources reported he would return to Scotland to continue his vacation whenever doctors, treating him for catarrh, said it was not "absolutely necessary" for him to remain in Southern England.

The Prime Minister conferred with Sir Kingsley Wood, secretary of state for air, who is trying to inject new life into Great Britain's air arm. Other cabinet ministers remained within call.

ganization is rapidly being manned by new men and women. "We are going right ahead, preparing a new program. We are not fighting anyone who is sincerely working for good government in this province. On the contrary we want to work with them."

There is "a so-called unity party" trying to organize at the present time. "We have yet to be convinced that the party is necessary," Mr. Gray said.

The Social Credit government of Premier Aberhart had "blundered" through its three years of office. In its three years of office the governmetn had increased the provincial debt by $14,000,000 to a total of $154,000,000. "Yet despite this enormous expenditure want still exists."

2 Oshawans Travel 75 Miles For Pants

ORILLIA, Aug. 13.—Two Oshawa men got their pants back yesterday and were glad about the whole thing.

The two men, Herbert Piatti, 154 Mary street, and Roy Wellman, 86 Simcoe street, both employees of General Motors, Oshawa, came to Orillia, August 3, to go swimming at Couchiching Beach Park, and while they were doing just that, their pants, shoes, and stockings disappeared from the bathing house.

Embarrassed and facing a financial loss of about $50, the bathers informed the police. Chief William Carson and Constable High Johnson went to work, and that night had the pants and everything else, discovered hidden away in under the bath-house, as well as two culprits, who admitted in court here Friday that they were the ones who had done the awful thing.

The two youths who appeared in court were Jack Sardich, 20, and a juvenile, both from Nelson, B. C., they pleaded guilty to three charges of theft and were tried unsuccessfully on breaking and entering the Orillia Chinese Restaurant, August 1, where $31 was stolen.

Magistrate Jeffs gave Sardich two months, and the juvenile who has already a police record, one month in the Barrie County Jail, on the theft counts.

It took the Oshawa men one hour and a half to come 75 miles to Orillia to claim their pants, which had been kept for evidence.

WHAT DO I KNOW OF THE BIBLE?

ISAIAH—VISION OF A DOOMED CIVILIZATION.

"In the year that King Uzziah died I saw the Lord." Isa 6; 1.

Isaiah was the greatest of the Jewish saints. He was a man of unusual ability, high social standing and well educated. We have thought of Amos, the herdman, whom God used to reveal His righteousness; and Hosea, the farmer, that God is love. Yet God does not despise education and scholarship. Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians and thus equipped he was able to lead his barbarian countrymen, bond slaves, out of Egypt into the wilderness and into a wider knowledge of Jehovah. In the same way God used Isaiah to be the greatest of the Old Testament prophets.

It is a popular saying that it does not need a college bred man to preach the simple Gospel— a half truth. Our Lords Apostles were plain, everyday men able to meet ordinary people. But the Apostle who, by the grace of God, was called to take the Gospel into a highly developed and intellectual civilization had to be Saul of Tarsus, born of a learned rabinnical family and educated at the feet of Gamaliel, the most famous teacher of his day. When a man has great intellectual ability and lays this treasure at the feet of the Lord Christ and cries: "Here am I, send me", such a one will do great work for his generation and for those who follow.

"In the year that King Uzziah died" throws light upon his thoughts. Uzziah reigned many years and there was much prosperity in the land. He died a leper. The boom burst. Isaiah loved his country and people. He was a nationalist. As a statesman he saw dire ruin facing his people. They were between the two great nations, Assyria in the East and Egypt in the south, each striving for world domination. Death and misery for untold multitudes followed in the train of their armies. How modern.

As a devout Jew Isaiah takes his burden into the temple and lays it before God. Then came the vision. "I saw the Lord sitting upon His throne high and lifted up". God above all and over-ruling all things. This he knew as an educated Jew. Yet he was to be guided into a greater truth. "Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord God Almighty" cry the heavenly seraphim with veiled faces. Jehovah is holy, not merely separated, as the Hebrew word implies, but pure in character. Isaiah could understand the separate God, high and lifted up, but a pure God is a new revelation. "God is pure, holy", cry the seraphim.

The eyes of Isaiah are opened to see something of the beauty of holiness. Then he looks into his own heart and utters the bitter cry: "Unclean, unclean". He is a respectable, honorable young man of untarnished character and the awful words of Uzziah fall from his lips because he has seen himself in the light of God's holiness and purity. He sees the inward leprosy of sin. His lips are cleansed by the touch of the live coal from off the altar.

But that is not enough for him. He is truly fitted for the high calling of a prophet. He thinks of his people. Can they also be cleansed?

His patriotic heart responds to the Divine appeal: "Who will go for us?" "Here am I, send me", is the sacrificial cry of the young man.

Will he succeed? No, is the awful answer. His people will not repent; their hearts are far from God. His civilization will collapse because it is not built upon God.

What a lesson for our age? Another war spells collapse for our civilization. Is our civilization worth saving? Think of the enormous wealth, the greed, the cruelty, the misery and the thin veneer of Christianty.

It may be that like ancient Israel a small remnant will be spared to rebuild the world.

"The Holy Seed Shall be the Substance Thereof."

The Golden Text

Proverbs 20: 1—"Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."

Relation of Temperance to Character

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 14 is Proverbs 4:10-23; I Thessalonians 5:6-8, the Golden Text being Proverbs 20:1, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is ragging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

THE WISE MAN, in our Golden Text, likens strong drink to a raging giant, by his deception leading foolish people to their destruction.

Two Paths.

Speaking as a father to his son, Solomon passes on the sound counsel his own father, King David, had given to him, pointing out to him two possible paths of life for him to follow, one wise and safe, the other foolish and destructive: "Hear, O my son, and receive my sayings; and the years of thy life shall be many. I have taught thee in the way of wisdom; I have led thee in paths of uprightness. When thou goest thy steps shall not be straightened; and if thou runnest, thou shalt not stumble. Take fast hold for instruction; let her not go: Keep her for she is thy life." Why should not parents tafe enough interest in their children to give such counsel on right ways of living? Are we so dumb as not to realize that it is far more important we leave great children to carry on our business after us than that we leave a great business for them to carry on? Why leave the character building of our children to agencies outside the home—Sunday school, public school, Scouts and the like? None can give this instruction so early, so frequently, so appropriately or so effectively as those who alone are entitled to prepare the instruction with those intimate terms, "My son", "My daughter". We are in special need of highway markers, if the way we travel is new to us. Life is like that to youth. Therefore, those who have traveled the way should give helpful guidance to those to whom the way is new and untraveled.

Warning Signs.

"Enter not into the path of the wicked, and walk not in the way of evil men. Avoid it, pass not by it; turn from it and pass on. For they sleep not, except they do evil; and their sleep is taken away, unless they cause some to fall. For they eat the bread of wickedness, and drink the wine of violence." Street walkers, panderers and prostitutes infest our streets to accost our youth, and lead them to debauchery, disease and death. Why should parents join a conspiracy of silence regarding the moral hazards of our highways and erect no warning signs concerning the deadly perils of drunkenness, adultery, gambling and the like? By radio, billboard and magazine advertisements our youth are enticed to indulge in the use of intoxicants as never before. It is the more necessary that by precept and example they be taught in the home the perils of what this lesson calls "drinking the wine of violence".

The Safe Road.

The safe road is commended thus: "The path of the righteus is as the dawning light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. The way of the wicked is as darkness: they know not at what they stumble. My son, attend to my words . . . Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of Life." The same counsel to self-discipline that Solomon gave was repeated a thousands years later by St. Paul, saying, "Let us watch and be sober. . . . They that are drunken are drunken in the night. But let us, since we are of the day, be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for a helmet, the hope of salvation."

"Simplicity"

"Nothing is more simple than greatness; indeed, to be simple is to be great." —Emerson.

"The teachings of Jesus were simple; and yet he found it difficult to make the rulers understand, because of their great lack of spirituality." —Mary Baker Eddy.

"The greatest truths are the simplest; and so are the greatest men." —Hare.

"There is a majesty in simplicity which is far above the quaintness of wit." —Pope.

"Upright simplicity is the deepest wisdom, and perverse craft the merest shallowness." —Barrow.

"A childlike mind, in its simplicity, practices that science of good to which the wise may be blind." —Schiller.

Cathedral Musings

One of the hardest things for the non-mystic to grasp is the importance of that aphorism of the ancient wisdom which bids us "kill out desire." It is one of these things that seems plain foolishness to those who know nothing of the true reality and it is difficult to explain, except in terms that seem equally incomprehensible. Yet, if we reflect, it is easy to see that desire is based on self. Leaving aside such obvious things as desire for material gain, welfare, etc., even such laudable things as desire to be well spoken of, desire for one's own personal 'salvation' and, alas, all too often, desire to do good, are all based on self. At the risk of wearisome repetition, we must emphasise, that self is a hydra-headed monster, protean in form and that there is no room for God and self both, in the human heart. Self interest is the cancerous result of the ignorance that on the one hand looks upon God as being infinitely remote from man and conversely, considers man as being other than the child of the eternal. In God we move and live and have our being is in danger of becoming a forgotten truth. In Him there is no 'me', 'I' 'you' 'yours', or 'mine'. Neither can desire exist in those who, living in Him, have found the Great Peace, for even as self is slain, so also, is desire. They rest in Him and are content, just as the flowers of the field turn their faces towards the sun and rest in its radiance, simply content, just to 'be'. This killing out of desire is on all fours with its companion aphorism, to "kill out ambition, but to work as those work who are ambitious." That is, to do the thing at hand, not with the reward in mind, but as the artist does, for the pure joy of the work. The fuss and fever over material and spiritual things is almost incomprehensible to those who have entered into the peace. If one does what is pleasing to God, unselfishly, and in love, surely one can leave the future in His hands. Not to do so is to mistrust His love. If we mistrust Him, then it is plain, we know nothing of Him whatever. Blame not Him, for fate or circumstance, for these things have their roots within ourselves. "Diving and finding no pearls in the sea, blame not the ocean, the fault is in thee." Lactantius III.

A National Message

By the late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard,

The Heathen for thine inheritance.—Psalm 11.

First, the word translated "heathen" is not here used as a term of reproach, or of inferiority: not even to denote non-worshippers of God. But it is used to denote non-Israel peoples. "The people" are Israel: the "heathen" are the "Gentile" nations.

Among those who would be classed as "heathen" or non-Israel peoples at the time when the Psalm was written would be the Babylonians and the Egyptians, two of the most civilized peoples of the world.

At the time of Christ Rome would be counted among the "heathen."

In the present day, to which the Prophecy reaches, "the People" would be "All the House of Israel wholly" wherever found; and the "heathen" would take in the descendants of the ancient Babylonians and Assyrians; and all the other non-Israel races of the earth.

Let us now turn, first, to the proclamation; and then to the two promises.

"Yet have I set my king upon my holy hill of Zion. I WILL DECLARE THE DECREE."

Accordingly the decree is given in the following words:

"The Lord hath said unto me: Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee."

This is spoken of in the past tense. It is an ac which has been performed.

God's King—"My king"—is set on Zion. The throne has been established for ever under Him. He is ruling over the House of Israel. This is the throne of the Son of God.

The establishing of this throne was ordained from before the foundations of the earth. The throne came into being as an historic fact three thousand years ago.

The rights of that throne have been, and are, as wide as the realms of Israel. Part of that realm has been withheld from the rule of the House of David. But the right has never been affected by the event. The throne actually functions throughout the Empire, embracing six nations: The Empire of India, and so on, around the world. So much for the proclaimed kingdom over Israel.

Orangeville Girl Dies Of Infection

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Aug 13 (CP)—Eva Ellis, aged five, died last night in Lord Dufferin Hospital when she failed to respond to treatment for an acute streptococcus infection. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ellis, Stoney Creek, the girl had been visiting with her parents near Dundalk.

Two blood transfusions given by the girl's mother and a new drug, sulphanilamide, failed to prove effective. Sulphanilamide has worked in other cases her physician, Dr. S. T. White said.

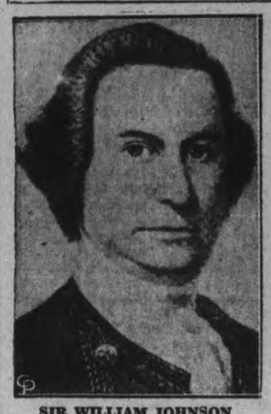
It was unknown how the girl contacted the disease. Dr. White said he found no cuts but the infectious disease might have entered through the throat or nose.

Provincial health laboratories at Toronto, described the blood as containing "blood destroying haemolyticus." A sample of the girl's blood was rushed there early in the week.

Dr. White received numerous offers of blood transfusions, but he declined them, explaining they would be of no avail.

The Human Side of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL



SIR WILLIAM JOHNSON
". . . largely responsible for making North America an English speaking continent."

JOSEPH BRANT
The marks of his tomahawk are still on the stair-rail of Johnson Hall.

Up in the beautiful Mohawk valley of New York state they are celebrating the 200th anniversary of the arrival in this country of a young Irishman who was largely responsible for making North America an English-speaking continent. He was Sir William Johnson of Johnson Hall, "Johnson of the Mohawks," and no man ever lived a more picturesque and romantic career.

Sir William's deeds loomed large in British North America. He exerted a strange and mighty influence with and over the Iroquois —the finest fighting men this continent ever saw. If you stood today in the great entrance door of Johnson Hall, you would see the solid mahogany stair-rail of the spacious old mansion — the stair-rail which bears to this day and hour the gashes made by the hatchet of Joseph Brant, Chief Thayendenaga, as an order to his Mohawks and all other tribes of the Six Nations that Sir William's home must not be molested, even though Sir William was there in his grave and half the confederation were fighting for the British.

His Home a Social Centre

Down that noble stairway had tripped Sir William's lovely Indian wife, Molly Brant, on the arm of bluff, burly Sir William himself. Half the gentry of New York had walked those halls. For Johnson Hall, as the seat of His Majesty's superintendent of the northern Indians, was as important, if not more so, than Albany or the town of New York down at the lower end of the Hudson.

The whole Mohawk valley and great regions to the north and south were the hunting grounds of the Six Nations, the most warlike and formidable red men of the continent. Sensitive and savage, as undependable as the winds, they were held in check and in British alliance almost entirely by the genius and personal gifts of Sir William Johnson. Had it not been for this remarkable man, the French, lavish with their gifts, almost surely would have won them over, and Canada and the American colonies almost certainly have been French.

Fur Trade War

Two hundred years ago France and England were still fighting out their long battle for the fur trade and incidentally for the richest slice of the continent. Encircling posts and missions of the French stretched from the Gulf of Mexico to the St. Lawrence, with the logical purpose of confining the English to their narrow stretch of sea coast. But between them, stretching from Niagara to the Hudson, was the country of the Iroquois—that powerful confederacy of Senecas, Cayugas, Onondagas, Oneidas, Tuscaroas, and Mohawks, which had long been at odds with the French. This was the "long-house" of the Six Nations. And as the Senecas were its western guardians, the Mohawks were keepers of its eastern gate.

Won Iroquois to English

Sir William controlled the Six Nations of the Iroquois, won them to the English side in the final struggle between French and English and held all but one of the tribes neutral in the bloodiest of the Indian wars. He was, as the bicentennial program says, "largely responsible for making North America an English-speaking continent."

Sir William's mansion, Johnson Hall, remains today little changed from what it was when the council fires of the Six Nations flared on its spacious acres, and Sir William smoked the pipe of peace with the great Hendrik, war chief of the Mohawks.

He was a long, lean flaming-haired Irish lad of 23 when he came over as the protege of his uncle, the famous Sir Peter Warren, British admiral, for whom Warren St., in New York, is named, and who once owned about all the Hudson river waterfront below 14th St., along with most of Greenwich Village.

Uncle Gave Johnson Start

His rich uncle "set him up" in life by lending the greater part of the money, with which he purchased 100,000 acres of land in the beautiful Mohawk valley around what is now Johnstown. All his life he added to that land. For his remarkable services with the Indians the British parliament made him a grant of 5,000 pounds. He defeated the French in a critical battle, and the king made him a baronet and Indian superintendent.

His last years of life saw the American revolution impending and the grim prospect saddened him. He was torn terribly between his life-long habits of loyalty to the British crown and his innate sense of justice and the spirit of freedom which had grown out of his work and contacts—out of the air itself.

Which way would the gallant old soldier have turned had he lived? No one can say, but I have always believed he would have cast his lot with the colonies, and kept his Indians neutral. He died in 1774, at the age of 59.

The term "cowboys" first was applied in America to cattle thieves who operated in New York state.

Gas Mask Parade Not Unusual

Many types of gas-masks are on sale in all parts of England these days and parading youths wearing such equipment are often seen. A group is shown ABOVE, while in the lower illustration an example of the home type of gas-proof cellar is shown. Such concrete chambers are heavily insulated and will have lockers for reserve food, fire-fighting tools, and other such necessities.

Church Leaders Planning Rally

WHITBY, Aug. 13.—Over the Labor Day week-end the Whitby district is slated to be the scene of three church group conventions. In session will be the fifth annual W.M.S. School for leaders of the Bay of Quinte conference of the United Church, including workers in mission circles and children's groups.

Laymen of the five central conferences of the United Church meet for a week-end caucus. The Westminster - Central United Church workers also meet to prepare their program for the ensuing year at the same time.

The geenral budget of the United Church is to be reviewed at a conference of Missionary and Maintenance Committee Chairmen following the laymen's meet, when representatives from presbyteries in five conferences convene.

All groups are to meet at the historic Ontario Ladies' College, site of most church gatherings in the county.

Temperance and Character — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Proverbs 4:10-23; I Thes. 5:6-8.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

King Solomon wrote many proverbs for the guidance of youth in wholesome living and the building of a good characted. "Enter not into the path of the wicked, and walk not in the way of evil men."

He warned against intemperance and those that "eat the bread of wickedness and drink the wine of violence....My son, keep they heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life."

St. Paul, a thousand years after Solomon wrote to the Thessalonians: "Let us watch and be sober....Let us, since we are of the day, be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love."

Both Solomon and Paul likened intemperance to a way of darkness." But the path of the righteous is as the dawning light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."(GOLDEN TEXT—Proverbs 20:1.)

SATURDAY, AUGUST 13, 1938

Thoughtless Folk:

Writes a woman reader of The Examiner: "I was wondering if you would publish a warning about broken glass on the beaches and in the water. There have been many injured this summer. My little boy is laid up now with a cut foot from glass which was on the beach at Chemong. I shall feel bad if it keeps him from going to the fair."

It seems to us that our correspondent has covered the matter very thoroughly in her request which incidentally confirms complaints along the same line that have been received from other sources recently.

It all goes to show something that really did not need to be shown and that is this world possesses a lot of careless and thoughtless people and that not a few of them live in our own district.

As this woman says, there have been many bathers hurt this season just because somebody who should have known better, has been careless enough to leave a broken bottle or cup on a bathing beach or reckless of the welfare of others enough to get rid of an empty tin by tossing it into the water.

Some half a dozen children have been injured in this way in the canal this summer and there have been other victims at other bathing places in the city and surrounding district.

Few of these accidents needed to have happened and probably would not had some person given the slightest thought to what he was doing. Unfortunately there are many folk who cannot seem to realize that the world was not created for them alone, who do whatever is most convenient for them without stopping for a moment to realize that some one else may suffer as a consequence. To such people a river or lake is not a potential bathing place where barefooted swimmers may go to grief; it is merely a handy sewer into which they can dump their broken glass and sharp-edged tins, and a picnic spot is merely a spot to be used by them and then made a trap for others by reason of the glass and other debris they leave behind.

Where It Would Help

Hon. Dr. Manion's statement that the Federal government should assume the whole cost of relief is the most interesting and important statement made by a Canadian political leader in some time and it has, naturally, caused a lot of ripples to run across the political pond. The suggestion has met with a mixed reception. It has won the unanimous approval of municipal heads, which was to be expected, and also the endorsation of Premier Hepburn, which perhaps is not as unexpected as it should be and it has drawn hostile fire from such papers as the Globe and Mail and the Montreal Star. From the Single Tax Association it has elicited an inquiry as to where Mr. Manion would get the funds needed to carry out his proposal.

However, perhaps the most significant feature of the Manion policy has been overlooked and that is that it would divert some of the burden of taxation off the shoulders of a class that has been staggering under a heavy load throughout the whole depression period—that is the owners of property.

It must be remembered when municipalities are left to meet the whole cost of relief that they have only one source of revenue—a levy on property. There is no other place for them to secure money and the result is that one class in the community is left to pull the whole load.

As a consequence property has in many cases become a liability rather than an asset. Sir Thomas White expressed the whole thing in a sentence not long ago when he said "There are many parcels of real estate that no one in his senses would take as a gift and become personally responsible for the payment of taxes annually charged against them."

That is admittedly true and the situation in this respect is so bad home-owning desires are stifled and the building industry, a vital source of employment for thousands is hampered. Mr. Manion's suggestion at least offers some respite from this condition and that is why it has been received with approval, even in quarters not usually friendly in a political sense.

Safer Bicycling

It is obvious that bicycling, despite the hazards represented by heavy motor traffic, is enjoying a marked revival of popularity. There are more cyclists on city streets and on the highways this summer than there have been since the palmy days when the bicycle came into its own three decades ago.

With this increase in the number of bicycles comes the necessity of developing a safety technique that will reduce to a minimum the chance of accidents. At present there are few signs of such a technique, for it is apparent careless practices have developed and as a result motorists look upon the bicycle rider as being Public Enemy No. 1.

Recently a Bicycle Safety League was organized in Manitoba, and for the guidance of the members a code of ten rules was drawn up. The Examiner believes that every bicycle rider in Peterborough would do well to study and follow these rules, which are as follows:

1. Learn to ride in some safe place. Stay off the streets until you can ride well.
2. Have your bicycle equipped with proper brakes, light and reflector. Keep it adjusted to fit you and in good condition. Check the brakes frequently.
3. When riding keep to the right, close to the curb. Groups of two or more should ride in single file.
4. Obey all traffic rules and regulations. Use hand signals when you are going to stop or turn.
5. Ride without wobbling and avoid sharp turns. Weaving through traffic is dangerous. Avoid fast driving over slippery or rough roads.
6. Never carry a passenger; it is dangerous. It is also illegal.
7. Never hold on to a moving vehicle.
8. When riding at night carry a light in front and a reflector in the rear. The law demands this. Light-colored clothing also helps motorists to see you.
9. Do not try to carry an object in one hand or ride in the street with hands off the handlebars. If parcels must be carried they should be placed in a carrier or strapped to the bicycle.
10. Choose your route carefully. Avoid crowded streets and highways if possible.

Will Break Record

If there was the least shadow of doubt about the success of the agricultural side of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition next week it will be chased away by the announcement from Exhibition headquarters that so numerous are the entries in horses and cattle that all available accommodation at the grounds has been swamped and shelter elsewhere will have to be found.

In other words the Exhibition of 1938 is already assured of a record entry list. Moreover, it is safe to predict that the quality of the stock to be shown will keep pace with the quantity and that the finest exhibits in the history of the Exhibition can be expected.

Along with this most gratifying expansion in the agricultural departments comes a similar widening out of other features and the result should be the best-balanced and most interesting fair in the long history of the event. There will be a wealth of entertainment features, including a huge Midway, the grandstand attractions have been chosen for their variety of interest as well as their merit, there will be much to see and much to hear and a great deal to talk about and we have an idea that, with any kind of a break in the way of favorable weather, one of the things that will be talked about for a long time after the Exhibition has started to drift into the past will be the size of the crowds in attendance. The quotas from the surrounding countryside for fifty miles around promise to be the largest that have ever attended Peterborough's big fair.

Barber Makes History ✓

Ontario barbers and the public generally should be interested in the story of Philip Barbaro, proprietor of a one-man barber shop in Providence, who has been making history in Rhode Island recently.

It seems the Legislature of that state in 1935 passed a law, similar to that now in force in Ontario, in which the hours during which barbers might work were set forth and penalties were prescribed for tonsorial artists who failed to live up to the regulations.

Mr. Barbaro came to the conclusion that the legislation was unfair. His idea of personal freedom was that individuals had a right to live their own lives without undue legislative interference, and applying that theory to his own case he had no trouble in convincing himself that as the proprietor of a one-man neighborhood barber shop, he should have the privilege of keeping his place open in the evening if he saw fit to do so.

The Rhode Island law declared that barbers should not work before 8 a.m. and after 7 p.m. on five days of the week and after 9 o'clock on Saturdays.

Accordingly the Providence barber advertised that his shop would be open at an illegal time, then he waited on a customer, had himself arrested and stood trial.

His stand has now been vindicated for the Rhode Island Supreme Court has held that the act of 1935 regulating the hours of barber shops is "unreasonable interference with a useful and lawful business" and "palpably in excess of legislative power."

This judgment is interesting in view of the fact that Ontario's law is much the same as the Rhode Island legislation and its fairness has been attacked by a number of proprietors of one-man barber shops. In fact several court cases developed here as the result of such a protest by local barbers. In his case the legality of the legislation was not questioned, however.

A Good Citizen

Provincial police are reported as loud in their praises of the action of a Toronto motorist who made possible the arrest of a hit-and-run driver, and their eulogies would seem to have been well earned. The Toronto man saw a car strike a bicycle in front of him, knock the rider off and then dash away from the scene of the accident. He at once started in pursuit of the hit-and-run motorist and after a chase of two miles succeeded in bringing him to a stop.

That, of course, was the conduct of a good citizen, who did exactly what every good citizen should do when faced with a similar set of circumstances. But strangely enough many folk who regard themselves as good citizens would not have moved a wheel to bring to justice a man who obviously had broken the law. The usual attitude of a lot of these good citizens is to make themselves scarce from the scene of an accident so that they may avoid the inconvenience of being called to give evidence. They see a man stagger into an automobile, say to themselves "That fellow is in no shape to drive a car" and let it go at that. If the thought ever enters their mind that it is their duty as good citizens to protect the public by telling the police what they have seen and making sure that the drunken driver is taken off the road before he kills somebody, they seem to be able to chase the idea out again without any trouble. At least they rarely do anything about it or about any other dangerous driving practice that they might help to eliminate.

That is why this Toronto motorist is entitled to a special bouquet. He saw a glaring infraction of the traffic laws and he was not satisfied with merely shrugging his shoulders and remarking "That driver should be jailed." He did the one thing that was necessary to bring about the arrest of a man who had committed a serious offence against the traffic laws. If more citizens were as prompt to act in such cases, driving conditions might be a lot safer.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Montreal's sea serpent has turned out to be a line of hose. Most of the others reported are not as substantial as that.

Toronto has been staging a jam-eating contest and we presume the losers got the raspberry.

When Dr. Manion advocates the lifting of the relief burden from the municipalities he is making sure of a lot of vocal support all over the country.

It is said there is one school teacher in Saskatchewan whose salary is less than $100 a year. The high cost of education has nothing to do with that case.

More than a million dollars of new farm machinery has been sold this year at Lethbridge. The west is snapping out of it this year with a vengeance.

A Mr. Winter has been slamming daylight saving. But what can a man with a name like that know about summer time?

For thousands of Canadians the war is not yet over. A Stratford ex-serviceman has just died from injuries received in France twenty years ago.

Samuel Insull, whose fortune was once estimated at $100,000,000, left an estate of $1,000. With him it was indeed a case of easy come, easy go.

Philadelphia dentist is to use a handsaw and a chisel on an elephant. It would be interesting to know how much local anaesthetic the job will take.

Great Britain and the United States have agreed on the joint use of two islands in mid-Pacific. That is a much saner course than to keep on arguing about the matter.

Oshawa is threatened with being overrun by a plague of the insect known as gryllus domesticus. That, however, is not as bad as it sounds, being merely the technical name of the ordinary cricket.

Advisory defence committees have been named by the Ottawa government but some one has slipped. Eddie Shore, Canada's greatest defence man, is nowhere on the list.

An electrified fence may be placed around the Guelph reformatory. If conditions keep on improving in such institutions it may be the fence will be erected to keep folk from breaking in.

MOONLIGHT MAGIC

Where the gently sloping woodland
Meets the clear and glassy lake,
And the shore is mirrored, double,
As the birches gently shake,
There the moon is climbing slowly
'Midst the clouds, a-peeping through;
And the trees are silhouetted
'Gainst the sky and water too.

See all nature robed in silver
As the moonbeams, soft and grey
Add a lustre to the midnight,
Changing darkness into day!
While the bullfrogs in the marshes
And the trebles in the pool
Add their tones to break the magic
Of the air so still and cool.

Let me linger till the breezes
Fill my soul with vigor so—
And the spirit seems to wander
Where the mortal dare not go—
Ah; the lapping of the water
Seems like music on the sand,
While the magic of the moonlight
Changes all to fairyland!

Ontario's Place Under Discussion

(Rev. Dr. R. W. Frank)

GENEVA PARK, Couchiching, Aug. 13.—We have had three men here speaking on the Rowell Commission. Two had been with it throughout, and one had given evidence. Some interesting information was revealed which you may or may not know.

Some 400 witnesses were interviewed including societies, industries, individuals, and governments.

Now in view of the great and prolonged distress of the country and the alarming need for national consolidation and wellbeing it is interesting to know that three of the provincial governments refused to co-operate. Albert spent $10,000 preparing a brief, but at the last minute refused to turn it over because its government had been obstructed in its program by the Dominion. But it has it ready. The world was advised promptly that Alberta refused co-operation. When it came to Quebec they were tendered a champaign dinner and dismissed summarily. Again Quebec was a threat to unity. How we love to judge others. But what about ourselves? Mr. Hepburn gave them a two hour interview and dismissed them; and it was asserted his evidence was worthless.

Ontario's Position

I asked the speaker if the commission considered the acts of these gentlemen represented the will of the people they represented. The answer was "No, except in the provinces of Alberta and Quebec." Well that only leaves one government and that is our own. He said the overwhelming evidence of organizations and individuals in Ontario was for co-operation to the fullest extent.

Now why would Mr. Hepburn not co-operate with the commission; and why align himself with the Quebec Premier? Do we owe allegiance to the province of Ontario or to the Dominion of Canada? Are we Ontarioians or are we Canadians? That is the question we must ask ourselves. When it is shown by overwhelming evidence as it can be shown, that we have the most expensive government in the world, with overlapping departments and duplication of patronage and graft, what advantage is there to you and to me who pay the taxes that Mr. Hepburn should guard so jealously existing provincial rights. We face only two alternatives. Governments must be made to govern for good of the governed, and not for their own benefits, or we face retrogression. We cannot continue to maintain one man in every five to run the country for us.

Provincial Rights

This attitude of provincial rights brings us to the consideration of the cause of provincialism in Canada and one has not far to look. The dual allegiance which I spoke of yesterday to Britain and to Canada is I think the cause. We have never had a national spirit. Have not one yet, although we are slowly acquiring it. Thus without a national spirit, provincialism is accentuated out of proportion. In Quebec it is supreme. With distances so great few people in Canada know anything about any province but the one in which they live, and have little interest in the rest. That seems almost natural. British Columbia is farther from Nova Scotia than is England, is much more expensive to reach, and their products are never seen in each others markets.

An Amusing Story

An amusing story was told by Mr. McGeochy who followed the commission. He said by no process could they get any of the government departments to admit that there was any overlapping in administration. However they found that in British Columbia the fish that were caught on or near the surface of the water were under the protection and control of the province, while the ones at the bottom come under the federal department. And, he said if a cantaloupe got a chill, was slightly sick but would recover, it was under the care of the province, but if it were malignant and the disease likely to spread to other cantaloupes it was the duty of Ottawa to tend to it. Highly illustrative if amusing.

Western Claims

One interesting feature brought out was the claims of the western provinces to federal grants and this is a point not appreciated by the central provinces.

As you know we are a highly industrialized country but nearly all the industries are concentrated in the two central provinces. You know also that we have bonused these industries for years by tariffs. That is to say we agreed to pay Canadian industry more for their products than we should have had to pay elsewhere in order that they could provide employment.

Well the employment was all provided in the east and the money spent in the east, but the west contributed by a like percentage on everything they bought, which percentage poured into the east to build up our province. All of which is true. Now when the west demand and get not only grants, but loans which they can never pay back they are perfectly justified in assuming that it is only a very small portion of their own money that was filched out of them over the last 40 years. What would you think if you lived in the west?

The Cost of Tariffs

As a proof of this contention it was stated this morning that Mr. Rogers, our Minister of Labour, computed (I presume before joining the government) that the tariffs cost the western provinces in the one year of 1931 the tidy sum of 56 million.

Would you be a radical if you lived in the west, or would you like that. We must be fair, surely.

What is more the Dominion Gov't. kept control of western crown lands until 1925, gave them away, and opened for settlement tracts of land that Indians, ranchers, and even climatologists warned them should not be ploughed. The result is the drought areas which have impoverished the provinces and threatens to impoverish us. Who is to blame? Then who should pay. If I lived in the west I should undoubtedly answer the question.

Well "there have been more things done twixt heaven and hell than this world dreams of" and most of them still have to be paid for. And that's our problem.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

PASTEURIZATION

To Editor Examiner:

Sir,—There has been a lot of jumping to conclusions over the milk question and the idea of putting that attractive guardian of the Quints up to give evidence in favour of pasteurization only added to the delusion that quickly formed conclusions are necessarily the best. All he could assert was that the Quints never had a drop of raw milk. And now they are in the limelight again with some infection which they got from somewhere or some thing, and their tonsils are out of order. Is it not just possible that proper milk, human, goats' or even cows' milk, either, in its natural condition might have benefitted those children and saved them from their present troubles?

Anyhow we are not all quints, and the farmers produce milk for normal consumers. It is time that common sense had more say in the matter of the way to deal with it. It has been proved in this district that milk showing a much lower bacteria count is easily produced without fancy expenditure on equipment on barns or plant, than any dairyman expects to get after pasteurizing milk. In the end nature is going to win against science if science is not subordinated to nature. Among other recent discoveries is that milk exposed to sunlight or even broad daylight rapidly loses all its content of vitamin B. Glass bottles containing milk should therefore be kept in the dark until opened.

That surely explains or justifies the old way of delivering milk as doing less harm than modern careful handling does. We have much to learn and it will take a lot more time to learn it if we are bound with restrictions based on too restricted study—looking at only one side of the question.

So I am glad that the Stamford small retailers of raw milk have passed the enclosed Resolution, and sincerely hope that many other bodies of honest men will follow their example. And that everybody will study the question more seriously and not be satisfied until full justice has been done to even the little man.

And I am Sir
Yours very truly,
FRED JUNKISON.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 9, 1938.

The resolution reads:—This meeting of Stamford Natural Milk Producers and Consumers strongly condemns the proposed extension of the area in which the sale of Milk in its Natural Condition is prohibited, as wholly unnecessary in the interests of the health of the public, contrary to the freedom of the subject and only justified as a sectional measure for the sole convenience and profit of those distributors who wish to have their methods of dealing with milk placed beyond attack by Statute. Electors were not consulted in the matter and gave the government no mandate for compulsory pasteurization which is a process not properly understood with all that it involves either by the great majority of the people or by the members of the government, if the Deputy Minister of Health is right, for his statement that "ample opportunity will present itself in the next few years for the securing of accurate data in the matter of the possible disadvantages of a measure of this kind," undoubtedly means that the government does not possess any.

We ask for repeal of the Order in Council extending the limits of compulsory pasteurization, and an open enquiry into the whole matter with the view of removing detrimental restrictions under which the sale of milk has been regulated.

A COUPLE OF COMPLAINTS

Editor of Examiner:

Sir,—If you will be kind enough to spare me a little space in your A-1 paper I've a couple of things on my mind I would like to tell you about. First is why don't the police do something about the parking problem on Brock street. To drive a car up or down Brock street any week night when a dance is in progress is some job as they park any way they take the notion, mostly its about three or four feet out from the curb and on both sides at that. I think it's about time something was done about it.

The other item on my list is the Sunday midnite shows. Do we really need them as bad as all that and I wonder if it even pays the shows to play then. The only one that it gives a break to is some of the city's petty criminals who can roam around the streets till three-thirty or four if they are stopped by a policeman and asked where they are going or doing, it's, oh officer I'm just going home from the midnite show. I wonder are they? Hoping to hear more on the subject, I am

Yours truly,
A SOUTH-ENDER.

• Score One Hit for Mussolini

(From the Chatham News)

READERS of comment in these columns will have difficulty in recalling extended praise to Mussolini and his system of Fascism. A man of Il Duce's ideals and ideas would have a hard time securing a foothold in the government of this country, where people insist upon thinking for themselves and of enjoying a large measure of freedom of both thought and action.

But that doesn't mean that Mussolini is bereft of all semblance of bright ideas. An announcement which came from Italy a few days ago shows that occasionally a wise suggestion is born. An Italian newspaper announced recently that the collar and tie must go in Italy. They are non-Italian; more than that they constrict the neck, they check "cerebral circulation," cause poor eyesight, and keep the brain from getting proper nourishment. Abolish them altogether, and clear thinking and cool heads will be much more prevalent.

Strictly interpreted, this theory ought to mean that sailors, cowboys and practically all females are among the smartest and most coolheaded members of the human race—which, for all we know, may be quite true. But whether it is the collar and tie which are at fault or just plain human perversity, it is at least gratifying to see an authoritative Italian voice raised in favor of more and better brain work.

We are all for Mussolini in his campaign to abolish the collar and tie—especially in the hot summer weather. Whether it will produce any better brain work, is a secondary consideration; for it certainly would remove a lot of the brain worry in stuffy offices and stores, and at least give the brain a chance to do the best work it can.

WORKS BOTH WAYS.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

WE THOUGHT it would come to this—Toronto and other places, after using daylight saving for several years, now begin to talk about trying to make it uniform throughout Ontario. But will these places let uniformity go hang if the rest of Ontario votes against the earlier time?

CIVIC HOLIDAY.

(Brantford Expositor)

CIVIC HOLIDAY, the first Monday in August, has become an established institution in most cities in Ontario. The Guelph Mercury complains that it is rather a "meaningless" holiday and asks if someone can suggest some tangible form "that will justify us in continuing its observation." The Peterborough Examiner disagrees entirely with the view of The Mercury, and suggests that the Guelph paper "is growing needlessly fussy about some things that no one else seems to be worrying about in the least."

The Expositor is inclined to agree with The Peterborough Examiner. It is not very difficult to justify the setting aside of the first Monday in August for Civic Holiday. It supplies a long week-end holiday early in August which is usually, according to the weahter reports, a time of excessive heat and humidity. Under such conditions there is no business, so why not have a holiday?

ALL IN THE MIND.

(Detroit Free Press)

SINCE everybody else seems to be talking about propriety in dress, here goes.

Whether it is decent to wear few clothes in summer seems to us to depend chiefly upon the mind of the wearer.

If a person strips to the limit for exhibitionist purposes, the question of decent taste unquestionably is involved.

For while exhibitionism may not necessarily be immoral, it is vulgar and consequently cheap.

But if a person minimizes clothes in order to be comfortable, good tempered amid heat, and happy in spite of enervating weather, he (or she) is indecent only if he thinks he is. It's in the point of view.

After all, when God made us he didn't provide us with any clothes at all.

Of course, in selecting summer costumes, questions of good judgment, environment and prudence enter, but they are different matters.

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

NOW Naaman, captain of the host of the king of Syria, was a great man with his master, and honourable, because by him the Lord had given deliverance unto Syria: he was also a mighty man in valour, but he was a leper. And the Syrians had gone out by companies, and had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maid; and she waited on Naaman's wife. And she said unto her mistress, Would God my lord were the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would recover him from his leprosy....And the king of Syria said, Go to, go, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel.... And it came to pass when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and said, Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man from his leprosy? wherefore consider, I pray you, and see how he seeketh to quarrel with me. And it was so, when Elisha the man of God had heard that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent to the king saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel. So Naaman came with his horses and his chariot, and stood at the door of the house of Elisha. And Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying, Go and wash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again to thee, and thou shalt be clean. But Naaman was wroth and went away, and said, Behold, I thought, He will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of the Lord his God, and strike his hand over the place, and recover the leper. Are not Abana an Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? May I not wash in them and be clean? So he turned and went away in a rage. And his servants came near, and spake unto him, and said, My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldst thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith unto thee, Wash, and be clean? Then went he down, and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God: and his flesh came again, like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean.—II Kings v, 1-3, 5, 7-15.

SOAKING THE POOR.

(Detroit Free Press)

AFTER PAYING all other taxes required of them as citizens, automobile users in this country were required to pay last year more than one and a half billion dollars in special taxes for the privilege of owning and operating their cars.

Virtually every part that goes into the making of a car is taxed before it reaches the assembly line and these taxes are pyramided into the cost of the car.

The purchaser then has to pay a sales tax on the fished car and a license fee to operate it on the highways.

And finally he has to pay taxes on the oil and gasoline to run it.

The worst part of this outrageous taxation of automobile users is that it falls largely on people of little means.

The farmer who uses his car to get to and from town, and the wage-earner who drives to and from the factory, are the ones who feel the burden of it most.

The rich can take care of themselves.

The poor should get the breaks.

And yet in the excessive taxation of motor vehicles it is they who today have to take the rap.

TWO WORLDS

BY MAUD McCURDY WELCH

READ THIS FIRST:

Determined to show Dr. Julian Paige, the man she is in love with, that she can make her own way in the world, Noel Shayne, wealthy society girl, burns her bridges behind her, moves to a rooming house, and, for lack of anything better, obtains a job as a taxi dancer at the Peacock, run by Nick Luigi. She is living with a girl named Laurie Evans, whom she met in the park, and who is a cashier at the restaurant which Julian patronizes. Noel feels she has a dangerous rival in Ruth Chester, Julian's pretty nurse. During an outing in the country, Julian tells Noel he wants to kiss her but doesn't think he should. One evening at the Peacock, Luigi tries to kiss Noel. She slaps his face and threatens to quit.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 15

NOEL AWAKENED early the next morning. The scene with Nick Luigi was still fresh in her mind. How she had loathed the touch of his arms and how thankful she was that she had managed to keep him from actually kissing her lips.

Last night when she had come home, she had washed her face in the bowl of cold water, and then she had washed it again in a sort of cold fury. Laurie had sleepily opened one eye, and seemed to be wondering what it was all about. But she was evidently too sleepy to ask.

Noel sat up in bed and saw that Laurie was dressed in her neat but faded pink slip, ready to put on her skirt and blouse. She looked at Noel, and asked, "Nick kissed you last night, didn't he?"

"He almost did," Noel admitted ruefully. "Ugh! HoHw I hate him."

"I was afraid of that," Laurie said seriously.

"He won't try it again," Noel said confidently. "Besides, I just feel it in my bones that I'm going to get a job today."

"I hope you do, honey," Laurie said warmly. Then she asked if Noel wanted some coffee before she left for work. A smile of anticipation crossed Noel's face. Then she jumped up. "I'll make it. You're always waiting on me. And I can do it as well as you can now—almost."

"Yea—almost," Laurie teased. She gave Noel a little push, made her sit down in the wooden rocker and, in a few minutes, she had the coffee ready. Then she gave Noel her robe, made of striped towel cloth, and had her put it on over her thin pajamas.

A minute later she brought the coffee in the chipped cup with the unmatched saucer. "I call this service," Noel said with a smile. Then she added seriously, "Honestly, Laurie, I didn't know there were girls like you, so unselfish and so—so darn sweet." There was a little break in Noel's voice.

"You wouldn't kid me, would you, honey?" Laurie asked with a flush. "And I didn't know there were girls like you either," she continued. "You have to work for every dime you have, and yet you put on airs like a duchess. Not that I mind," she hastened to say, "only it seems a little queer."

"Do you think it is noticeable to—other people?" Noel asked.

"No," Laurie answered thoughtfully. "And you're geting over it a lot now. I suppose you had money once and lost it. And it takes time to get—used to a thing like that."

Noel was silent for a moment. Then she smiled. "You're a good guesser, Laurie. It was—something like that. And I want to learn how to do everything, you know, just in case—", but Noel couldn't finish.

"Just in case you marry a poor man," Laurie supplied for her. Noel let it go at that.

Presently she said, "We've been together quite a little while now, Laurie, and I don't know a thing about you, except that I couldn't possibly help liking you even if I tried."

"Well, that's something," Laurie tried to laugh. "There's nothing to tell about me, really. I'm just like hundreds of other girls in the city. There isn't much to look forward to."

"How about love? Don't you expect to have that some day?"

Laurie took the cup and saucer from Noel and placed it on the washstand. "No," she said. Noel saw that her lower lip trembled a little as she spoke. But she went on, "That's out for me. I am—I mean, I was in love, but nothing could—can ever come of it. And I'm old-fashioned enough to believe that you can't ever really love more than once."

"I'm afraid that's the way I believe, too," Noel admitted. "It seems strange to believe that way when people nowadays are so—so frivolous about love."

"You're in love with Doctor Paige, aren't you?" Laurie said abruptly.

Noel started and flushed. "Have I given myself away so completely as that?" she asked with a self-conscious laugh.

Laurie nodded. "With every look and every word you say to him. Of course he wouldn't see it, but most woman would, it's so—so plain."

Noel, still flushed, was thinking rapidly. "Do you think Julian—Doctor Paige—suspects it at all?"

There was a moment of suspense while Laurie considered the question. She said thoughtfully, "Men are very queer, you know. They never see the things women do. I don't believe he has the slightest idea."

Noel drew a long breath. "You see," she went on at last, "sometimes I'm not even sure that he likes me at all, except casually. And sometimes I almost fool myself into believing that—he does."

Laurie answered in her sweet serious way. "But I do really believe he likes you. You see, he's a very busy man, and wrapped up in his work. He may care for you in a serious way and not even know it himself. It would be wonderful if he did, for not many girls like us ever have a chance to marry a man like Doctor Paige."

Noel said a little unhappily to herself, "And girls not like us don't have a chance, either, it seems."

Then Noel saw that Laurie was looking at her, as if wondering whether she should say something else. Then she decided to go on. "Listen, Noel, I suppose you know you have a serious rival in that Ruth Chester. She follows Dr. Paige around all the time. She's actually bossy with him, and listen, if there's any earthly way for her to get him, she's going to do it."

"I know that," Noel admitted in a low voice.

"Don't let her have him," Laurie insisted. "You're just as pretty as she is, even prettier, I think. Of course beauty isn't everything, but it counts a lot with a man."

"Brains count a lot more," Noel said sadly. "And Ruth Chester has them. As for me, I'm beginning to believe I haven't a brain in my head."

"You little sap, don't be ridiculous!" Laurie exclaimed tenderly.

In the afternoon Noel got the job. It was in a laundry, of all places, where for the sum of $8 a week she was to sit on a high stool, answer telephones and take down addresses of places to call for soiled clothes, and wrap up neat piles of fresh laundry as it was brought to her, after listing the items on a printed form.

Laurie had advised her not to quit Luigi's until she was sure she was making good on the new job, which proved to be splendid advice. For three days after she obtained the laundry job she was fired from it. The young manager explained regretfully that she wasn't fast enough.

So Noel was back right where she started.

At noon on the day she was fired she went to the De Luxe. They made the best sandwiches in town there, she told herself, and laughed a little hollowly at the subterfuge. She hadn't seen or heard from Julian since Sunday. And of course she was going to the De Luxe in the hope of seeing him. Why were women in love such fools?

But when Noel had finished her milk and sandwich, Julian hadn't shown up. She went up to the register to pay her small check and stood there for a moment talking to Laurie. And then she saw Julian coming out of the medical arts. Her heart gave a little jump and thudded against her side.

Julian stopped, lighted a cigaret, and for a moment it looked as if he would cross the street to the De Luxe. Then the revolving doors whirled again and Ruth Chester came out. She took his arm, and they went on down the street.

Laurie soft brown eyes were alight with sympathy. "Don't mind so much, honey," she said. "He didn't know you were here."

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, August 14

Sunday's horoscope is a rather routine one, according to the lunar transits. There may be short journeys, trivial changes of plans, a little social indulgence (or over-indulgence) that might start strife or unpleasantness, perhaps in gambling or other modes of chance. Be wary with strangers.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which a great deal depends on their own good sense in hazarding or investing their funds, as there are possibilities of loss through speculation, gambling, the chicanery of strange persons or tricky propositions. Guard against social indulgences and extravagances in the wrong places.

A child born on this day may have a rather friendly nature. People may take advantage of it, but it may be roused to quarrels and vindictiveness when it realizes its "easiness". Its early training should be toward stability.

For Monday, August 15

Monday's astrological forecast is for exceedingly active and enterprising operations both in the private and business lives. There is much to be done in launching new propositions or stimulating lagging affairs. The support of influential friends or those in high places may prove helpful. There may be a little friction in employment. In social, domestic and emotional affairs, stimulating conditions should reign.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of much enterprise and initiative, especially in putting over new plans and fresh objectives. This may be done with the co-operation of interested friends or influential persons in power. In the private life there also may be much stimulating activity.

A child born on this day may have much initiative and constructive talent, attracting important persons by its efficiency, energy and pleasant personality. It should have a very successful and happy life.

Help For Sable Island

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

"Well," SAID Knarf to his sister, Hanid, as he sat down disconsolately in front of the empty birdhouse, "if you know how to call the swallows to come to live in this house, why don't you go ahead and do it? I've tried my best to talk bird language to them by whistling. But they don't hear me."

Hanid smiled. "They hear you all right," she answered. "Only they don't understand you. All you whistled was peep-peep-peep. That doesn't mean anything in bird language."

"It ought to," Knarf sighed. "But how are you going to call them any better way?"

She Has Plan.

"You'll see in a minute."

"Now watch me carefully"

With that she climbed down the pole on which the birdhouse was standing and searched under the nearby maple tree until she had gathered half a dozen very dry leaves. The next minute Hanid climbed back up the pole with the leaves. She arranged the leaves one after the other, and held them all by the steams. "Now watch me very carefully," she said to Knarf. "This is the way to call the swallows when you would like them to come and live in your birdhouse."

Then she shook the leaves. They rattled and crackled. Now you wouldn't think that swallows would be able to make any sense out of the rattling and crackling of some dry leaves. But they did, indeed. For do you know what the dry leaves seemed to say to them? They said:

House for rent!
House for rent!
A great big roomy
House for rent!

And two swallows came flying over the wall. They flew round and round the birdhouse, and looked at it carefully from all sides. Then they answered back: "We'll take it! We'll take it*"

"All right!" Hanid said, shaking the leaves harder than ever. "Come right in! The house is yours!"

And they flew right in.

And if they haven't flown out again, I'm sure you'll still find them there.

Does YOUR System Make Excess Acid?

Acid Indigestion, Colds, Headaches, Bilious Attacks, Constipation OFTEN START THIS WAY

Some people are what are known as acid-makers. They can't help it—and often they don't know it. The results of an excess of acid may seem just like ordinary stomach trouble — but they can't be put right by ordinary stomach remedies! Excess acid may be the reason why you wake up flat, sour, bleary-eyed, bilious — and the reason why fierce purgatives only leave you in the grip of a weakening habit and the same old symptoms.

But there's one thing that acid can't face. That's the neutralizing power of Vange Salts, the alkaline remedy with the natural mineral spa action. A teaspoonful in warm water surges through your system just like the medicinal spring water far away in England where Vange Salts come from. Excess acid is neutralized quickly, painlessly. Your blood is purified of poisons. Your sore stomach walls are soothed. And that mass of hard, poisonous waste matter lying in your intestines is softened gently, naturally, and passed out of your body. Then do you feel good! It's marvellous! But the most marvellous thing is that Vange Salts are only 60 cents a tin! At your druggist now—but if you're wise, on your bathroom shelf tonight!

The bride wore a lovely gown of pale blue sheer with white picture model mohair hat, white accessories and a corsage of white roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by Miss Eileen Third as bridesmaid who was attired in navy sheer with matching accessories and wore a corsage of Butterfly roses and cornflowers. Mr. Irving Wigg, brother of the bride, attended as best man.

Following the ceremony a dainty lunch was served to the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents and the young couple left later on a motor honeymoon trip to London and Buffalo. For travelling the bride chose a frock of navy crepe with white accessories. They will live at 159 Hunter Street East.

Sing Their Worst In Mother Tongue

MONTREAL, July 13.—(CP). — Budding opera stars, pay heed to Rose Bampton of the Metropolitan, and then choose your language.

For the matter of languages is the straw that might make or break an aspiring operatic career. It all ties up, says Miss Bampton, with the fact English-speaking singers pay more attention to foreign language study than to their English.

"Most English speaking artists sing their worst in English because they never give any thought to it," said the opera star, known in private life as Mrs. Wilfrid Pelletier, wife of the French-Canadian maestro who became the Met's assistant conductor.

But on the other hand, added Miss Bampton, "we English singers do much better in foreign languages than foreigners do in English."

The couple passed through Montreal en route to Europe, Pelletier to visit Paris while his wife will go to Milan to study—of all things—singing.

Few Men Who Marry Young Go Far in Business Because They Are Not Free to Devote Their Formative Years to Learning All the Intricacies of Their Jobs

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young man of 21, very much in love with a girl of 20. I am also very ambitious and want to be a success in life. Now here is my problem:

When I finished college I secured a small position that doesn't pay much now, but it is with a very progressive firm in which I have quite a future. As I go up in the business I will be shifted around the country from one town to another and I will get along much faster if I am single than if I marry. I have noticed that the men in the company who married early are stuck because of the responsibilities of a family, and many well-wishers have been dinning in my ears the advice to stay single, yet I do so want to marry. Do you think that we should marry and take our chances, or should we wait? Personally, I am of the opinion that marriage will settle me down, give me a real home and be a big factor toward a successful life. Are you of the same opinion? F. M. D.

ANSWER:

I am sorry that I can't say "Bless you, my children. Run along to the parson and live happily ever afterward." Also, I would like to tell you that a wife would be a help and that with her to work for you would perform prodigies of salesmanship that would land you at the head of your company in a few years.

But truth is truth and I cannot deceive you with any such fairy tale. I am bound to tell you that a poor boy who marries a poor girl before he is in a position to support a family handicaps himself so heavily that he never wins out in the race of life unless he has phenomenal strength and ability. The unmarried man is free to go wherever his firm wants to send him. Often it is to places where it would not be feasible to take a woman. He can make many valuable social contacts that the man who is tied to a wife can't. The bachelor is welcomed in many places where he would not be if he had to drag a wife along with him. He can stay out on a job until it is finished instead of having to hurry home to a wife who writes how lonesome she is without him. His mind is not distracted by home problems. He can save his money, if it is in him to make good, so that he can take advantage of any opportunity that opens, whereas the married man is lucky if he can break even at the end of the month.

In your youth and inexperience you have no idea of the responsibilities of marriage. You don't realize what it will mean having to skimp and pinch every penny just to live, and live poorly at that. You don't know the agony that will tear your soul to see the wife you love sick and lacking the food and medicine and attention you cannot give her; or how awful it is to dread the coming of a baby because you do not know how you can feed another mouth. You do not know the complications that can arise when a wife makes enemies for her husband instead of friends; when she is peevish and complaining; when she reproaches him for the hardships of her lot.

These things take every bit of ambition, courage and initiative out of a man. They doom him to failure. When you say that a wife "settles" a young man you use the right word. She generally settles him for good and all.

Of course, there are cases when young people marry on a shoestring and make good, but they are the exception and not the rule. Most of the poor boys who marry at 21 are sunk. The weight of a family around their necks drags them down. Don't try it. Wait until you are older, until you are better established with your firm and until you know more of what sort of a wife you are going to want. There is no truer saying than that the "young man married is the young man marred."

• • • • • •

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My fiance contends that a man should be at liberty to come and go as he pleases after marriage, without consulting his wife or specifying where he is going or when he is returning. He says that what a man does is none of his wife's business; that a man is foolish to tell his wife everything and that there are things that a man should keep from his wife. He further believes that a wife should not open and read any mail addressed to her husband, or tell him what to wear at any time. The only thing he is strongly in favor of is for the wife to work after marriage in spite of the fact that he is able to support one very comfortably. I disagree with all of these ideas. I think a wife's place is at home after marriage and that her husband should make her his confidant. Shall I stop seeing this man until his ideas change regarding marriage or go on and marry him hoping he will change his views?

UNDECIDED.

ANSWER:

A man with that ideal of marriage doesn't want a wife. He is looking for a slave and one to whom he will not have to give even her board and clothes, because he expects her to go on supporting herself after marriage.

You are extremely lucky that he has given you a picture of the kind of life you would lead if you married him while you are still on the safe side of the altar, because it gives you a chance to save yourself and look about for some other man for a husband whose ideas of how to treat a wife do not belong to the Dark Ages.

A nice time you would have working all day in an office and then scurrying to buy with the money you have earned the food for dinner and then going home to cook it. Then you could look forward to a pleasant evening sitting up by yourself while he chased around to night clubs and came home at heaven knows what time in the morning and getting bawled out if you even asked him where he had been and if he had a good time. You've had your warning. Heed it.

• • • • • •

DEAR MISS DIX—I think children should love their mothers more than they do their fathers because their mothers do more for them. My husband is crazy about our little boy and loves to play with him and take him around with him, but that's all. It is I who have to get up in the night and give him a drink, nurse him when he is sick, wash his face and keep him clean. Fathers like to amuse themselves with their children. It is the mothers who have to slave for them. What do you think? MOTHER.

ANSWER:

I think parenthood is about a fifty-fifty job. For if the mother gives the child her personal attention, the father toils to support it and denies himself many pleasures that he would like to have to indulge his youngster.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

Your path may be surrounded by difficulties, but if the difficulties be not in yourself, they may generally be overcome.—Joubert.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever wonder why I give you a quotation every day, and did you ever wonder again why these things are compiled and reprinted time and again in newspapers and books?

It is because someone had a thought that helped and clarified things for them, so they put them in as few words as they possibly could so that we may more easily remember them. Just like "a stitch in time saves nine," and "it never rains but it pours," and none of you need these explained.

The same thing applies with most of our difficulties. If they are not within ourselves we can overcome them. One word I hate and loathe and that is "I can't."

You hear so many say I can't, when they truly mean they do not want to make the effort, or they will not lower their pride, or they might soil their hands or tire their back. Can't? You mean you won't.

Many's the morning when I wake up, I wonder how on earth I will get through the day, for I am tired before I start. But give me time to come up for air and then I'll show you I am not beaten yet.

And I am not any more energetic than you, I have the same feeling of indolence, of wanting to take it easy and find a soft spot to recline on. I could find just as many excuses for not doing the hard things, like not feeling so good, or not as young as I was, or that old, old favorite, my heart.

Well, I have learned that if my heart leaves me alone I will do the same with it, and so it goes on about it's business and I go about mine. When it needs attention I give it a little pill and it gets the kinks out of it and ticks away again.

So, when you raise up difficulties within yourself as to why you can't do this or that, give yourself a little pill of determination that you won't let yourself be beaten, straighten out the kinks in your will-power so that your hands and brain will obey it.

There are so many things we can do if we only let ourselves believe we can. If the trees said "look at me all stripped and bare how does anyone expect me to put on fresh leaves again, I can't."

If the birds said "how can anyone expect me to build a nest when I have no hands? If I can't. If the grass said "How can I push my way up through this hard ground? I can't." What a sorry world we would have.

But you might retort, "Roberta, nature takes care of all these things." All right. Have you no human nature within yourself? I think you have and you know you have. So what? So use it to the best of your ability.

Stop raising up difficulties inside of yourself. There are enough and to spare on the outside of you to keep you busy the rest of your life, but when you have them within and without, you are in a very bad way.

Forget all about that holderback "I can't," and catch hold of the helpers "I can try" and "I will not be beaten." Tackle one thing at a time, when you are through with that, go on to the next. And I think you will find your own inertia and indolence the hardest thing to overcome, and you certainly know that lies within you.

How do you know you can't do this or that if you never try? Just as you would like others to give you a chance, give yourself one and see the difference.

Your Friend
ROBERTA.

Changed Bible With His Wife

MELBOURNE, Italy, Aug 12.—(CP)—The fact that Henry VIII had just changed his wife was partly the reason why he changed his mind about William Tindale's translation of the Greek Bible which he had previously rejected. So declared Archbishop Head when presiding at a united Protestant thanksgiving demonstration concluding the commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the placing of the English version of the Bible in the churches.

Speaking on "The Bible Before 1538," the Archbishop said that 10 years after he translated the Greek testaments Tindale was burned at stake as a heretic. Two years later Henry VIII, who had previously rejected Tindale's version, changed his mind, partly because he had also changed his wife and had become the husband of Anne Boleyn, instead of Catherine of Aragon and partly because of his desire to oppose Rome.

MADRAS, India, July 13.—(CP).—The gold-buttoned silken coats and multi-colored, jewelled turbans of the provincial legislature have been supplanted by plain loincloths, caps and sandals—ending the feast of color and brilliance which marked the assemblies of the past.

The Speaker of the legislature in the Madras provincial government, Bulusu Sambamurthy, an ardent Nationalist, introduced the new style by turning up in the Speaker's rostrum clad only in a piece of homespun cotton.

Old Otonabee Boy Became Greatest Cattleman Of Western United States

Joe Elmhirst Returns To Land Of His Birth After Successful Career

This is a success story: the story of a boy who went west and had an ambition to own a big herd of cattle.

He ended up by owning a 5,500-acre ranch in California and had pastured on it as many as 1,400 head of registered Hereford cattle, largest herd west of the Rocky mountains, as well as from 4,000 to 8,000 commercial cattle. At one of his annual sales, known all through the west, he sold $72,000 worth of cattle in one day.

And now, retired from his tremendous business activities, he is back in this district, land of his birth, enjoying a well earned rest. He is Joseph Elmhirst, born on a 64-acre farm near Keene, son of one of the district's most prominent pioneer families. For the past week he has been host at a reunion of his family on the shores of Bass Lake, a mile from Orillia.

Sales Talk of California.

Joe Elmhirst's rancho near Los Alamos, California, was known to cattlemen all through the United States, and Joe himself is known to thousands as one of the most spectacular showmen ever to enter the cattle business. His annual sales were the talk of even Californians, past masters themselves in the art of showmanship. The gigantic scale on which they were carried out—he fed all comers, as many as 1,500 in a single day the flair for show which he exhibited—loud speakers carried the auctioneer's voice to 1,500 people in a grandstand on the ranch, bands played; the enormous volume of business transacted in one day—he sold as many as 760 head of registered cattle in one day, leave one's imagination stunned. His sale in 1926 was the largest ever held in all North America.

They are happy days that Joe Elmhirst is recalling this week for his mother, Mrs. Jane Elmhirst of Peterborough, and the other members of his family. They are the hard-worked days of a young man growing to middle age and accumulating wealth and prestige in a strange land far away from his friends and relatives. And they are being told by a man who has the best years of his life ahead of him, who has a physique many a young man would envy. He has won his fortune without it costing him so much he cannot enjoy it.

Starts Another Career.

He is a big man both physically and mentally, is Joe Elmhirst. He gives you the impression that now that his business life is over, he is starting out on another career, aim of which is to learn to play and to have happiness on the same scale he once had cattle. With his wife and child he has travelled for the past year through the United States and eastern Canada, in a luxurious car that hauls the most modern trailer money could buy. He isn't satisfied with the trailer, though, and an example of just how big the man's ideas are, is in the fact that he plans a motorized trailer that will haul the car behind it. It is ridiculous to have a car trailing a big house, he claims, far better the house should trail the car, which could be used for city travel, in much the way a small power boat accompanies a yacht.

Right now he has two cottages on the shore of Bass Lake leased for himself and his family. For the past week he has been host to his mother, Mrs. Jane Elmhirst of Peterboorugh, now 83, his uncle, Arthur Elmhirst of Indian River, his sisters, Mrs. Annie Fowler of Peterborough, Mrs. Robert A. Dobbin of Peterborough, Mrs. C. Lawrason of Toronto, Mrs. T. J. Taylor of Keene, and his nephew, Ronald Lawrason of Toronto. He served an immense Spanish dinner reminiscent of his ranching days—he had 25 pounds of inch-thick, barbecued steak for 18 people—on Thursday evening for them and other guests.

Present from Peterborough were C. H. Cummer of the Bank of Montreal, and Mrs. Cummer; H. L. Garner of The Peterborough Examiner, and Mrs. Garner, and an Examiner reporter.

Born in Otonabee.

It was on that day that Joe Elmhirst unfolded the saga of his life. He was born near Keene, member of one of the district's most distinguished families. The story of removal of the Elmhirst family to this country is a romantic one. Phillip James Elmhirst, a younger son of a titled family, became an officer in the British army and fought for his country in the Napoleonic wars. A hero at Trafalgar, he was given, besides a large pension, a concession of a tract of land, 1,000 acres in extent, on the north shore of Rice Lake. He with his servants, horses, and dogs, landed in Port Hope and later built their new home near Keene. From Canada members of the family went to the United States to reside, while others still reside in the Peterborough district, and are among the most highly respected and prosperous of the county's citizens.

Joe Elmhirst, with that background, went west when he was 19 years old, "with all my luggage on my back." He had had only one winter's schooling, and in his pockets was a toal of thirty-five cents. In Oregon he worked for six months milking twenty head of cattle at $20 a month. Then he worked for a mortgage and loan company and began to buy cattle for himself. He moved to California, bought a small ranch and began his spectacular rise to fame and fortune.

Had 14,500 Acres.

By 1926, his biggest year, he owned 5,500 acres of land and was leasing another 9,000 acres, all of it fenced, with water piped from one end to the other. And on that land were grazing thousands upon thousands of cattle, one section of them known all over the country. They sold from as low as $150 a head to a high of more than $2,000. He had an annual turnover in addition of anywhere between 4,000 and 8,000 head of commercial cattle for beef purposes. He employed as many as 70 men the year around.

For several years he sold his registered Herefords separately to incoming buyers. But he realized that to tramp over those thousands of acres showing the beasts to individual prospective buyers was a waste of time and money. So he began his huge auction sales. He built a grandstand that would hold 2,000 people and before it he placed an auctioneer's stand, behind which were ranged dozens upon dozens of corrals for his animals. He bought as many as eight pages at a time in newspapers to advertise his sale, and he had printed an entire magazine listing the animals he was placing for sale.

When the day of the sale arrived there were bands to play, there was a loud speaker system to carry the auctioneer's voice, there were trumbeters in uniform to sound the approach of each new animal, and the auctioneer himself was brought from a thousand miles away, the most noted in all America. And every one of the more than 700 beasts that he offered for sale had to be sold before sundown: there was not a reserve bid placed during the entire day. When the sun sank into the Pacific Ocean every last animal had changed ownership, and after his biggest sale Joe Elmhirst had receipts totalling $72,000, all in cash or cheques.

It took him twenty-five years to reach that pinnacle and then in 1928 he started to liquidate his holdings. In 1936 he sold the ranch itself to Dr. Frank F. Barham, publisher of the Los Angeles Herald-Express, a Hearst paper, for $140,000. He is proud of his record of never having had a dissatisfied customer, never knowingly having told a lie in his entire business career.

He married a California girl, a ranch neighbor who once held the crown of champion cow girl of California. She was his business partner not by courtesy but in actual fact, even participating in the huge annual sales. They have one daughter, Jane Elmhirst, named after his mother. Footloose now, they are travelling in easy stages about Canada and the United States, and have few definite plans for the future.

Elmhirst Family Holds Re-union Near Orillia

For the past week Bass Lake, near Orillia, has been the scene of a large family reunion presided over by Joseph Elmhirst, noted California rancher and old Otonabee boy. Once owner of a tremendous ranch near Los Alamos, he is now retired and leading a leizurely life. He has two cottages on Bass Lake, is entertaining a large crowd, and having the best time of his life. In this picture are his family, all of them natives of this district, many still residing here. In the Front Row, seated at the LEFT, is his mother, Mrs. Jane Elmhirst of Peterborough, and on the RIGHT, seated, is his uncle, Arthur Elmhirst of Indian River. Between them is his daughter, Jane Elmhirst. In the Back Row, from LEFT to RIGHT, are Ronald Lawrason of Toronto, a nephew; Mrs. Annie Fowler of Peterborough, a sister; Mrs. Robert A. Dobbin of North Monaghan, a sister; Joe Elmhirst himself and his wife; Mrs. C. Lawrason of Toronto, a sister; Mrs. T. J. Taylor of Keene, a sister. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Garage Is Again Looted At Sunderland

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Aug. 13.—Whiting's garage at Sunderland, which was burglarized about a fortnight ago, was again visited on Wednesday night, and the thieves did a good job of it. One hundred dollars worth of candy, cigarettes, etc., was taken from the store annex, four new batteries and a large quantity of oil taken from the garage. The thieves made their entry by breaking a glass in the door of the garage. They used chamois so that they would leave no finger prints. Provincial Police in Lindsay and district are investigating the robbery.

The charge against J. Lonergan, of the Mansion House, Fenelon Falls, of an infraction of the Liquor Control Act was adjourned Friday by Magistrate Gee until the first week in September despite the protest of the Crown.

After October 1 all milk sold in Lindsay must be pasteurized, according to a communication of the Ontario Department of the Board of Health received by the local Board of Health. At the present time four of the dairies serving Lindsay sell pasteurized milk, while three of them have been selling raw milk.

The Lindsay Board of Health has forwarded a vigorous protest to the Ontario Department of Health regarding the unfavorable water reports of May last. A department report stated that the water used for domestic purposes was Grade D, and later an official from that Department informed the local board after investigation that there was never really anything wrong with the towns water supply.

A Haliburton resident was fined $100 and costs Friday on a charge of illegal possession of liquor. The accused was discovered by Provincial Constable Taylor with 12 bottles of rye in his possession, and did not have a permit to cover the supply. He informed the court that a man drove past his place and handed him a basket which contained the bottles.

FREE ADMISSION TICKETS.

The Peterborough Exhibition board is supply free tickets for their big show next week to all children from six to 14 years inclusive whose parents are receiving city relief. Art Metheral said the tickets will be given to parents calling for them from Tuesday morning on throughout the week, and asked that all parents be informed.

Threshing Machine Destroyed

Fire at William Craighead's farm, 3 miles east of Campbellford, caused a flurry of excitement this week when 100 volunteer firemen were used to form a bucket brigade. The fire, which was started when the dry straw became ignited from a spark during threshing operations, completely destroyed the threshing machine and part of the newly threshed crop. The demolished thresher is shown above in the centre of the field where it stood after being pulled away from the barn by the steam engine. (Examiner Correspondent's Photo.)

Organist Is Honored By Choir Members

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 13.—Over eighty friends and members of the choir of St. Andrew's Church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hay for a farewell party in honour of Charles Allan who has recently announced his intention of taking a position as organist in Leamington. Mr. Allan, who has been in Campbellford for the past three years has been guest of honor at a number of parties given by his friends when it became known that he was about to leave this town. For the party on Tuesday the house was beautifully decorated with gladioli and foliage and the evening was spent in community singing, games and dancing after which lunch was served.

During the evening an address was read by J. F. R. Douglas and Ed. Henson presented Mr. Allan with a travelling bag and purse of money on behalf of the choir and other friends. Charlie, replied in his usual witty manned and following the good byes and good wishes the evening was brought to a close.

Farmers' Market Most Attractive

"I never saw anything like it," was one man's tribute to this morning's market, an exceptionally attractive display of fruit and vegetables and also flowers that exceeded in quantity at least most of the sectional fall fairs of the district.

A striking booth was a fine showing of gladioli by Herb Cardwell of Wallace Point, including a mammoth sheaf of the white "Albatross". Any of them sold at 35 cents a dozen.

Apples had grown considerably during the week, notably the Red Astrakans and Duchess, which were more plentiful than at any other time this season. Tomatoes were the standout feature of the market, some of the baskets selling at 15 cents. And corn was all over the place.

Too Much Fanning

WALKERTON, Ont., Aug 13 (CP) —Fanning a swarm of hornets is like fanning a fire. So Charles Tanner, Brant township, found out yesterday when he ran into a hornets' nest while ploughing. Trying to beat the pests off with his hat, Tanner angered them and they stung all the more and he was rendered unconscious.

15 MEN AT RELIEF CAMP.

Peterborough's relief wood camp, north of Apsley is entering its fourth month today, with 15 men steadily employed cutting down timber. The number is as high as it has been at any time, work is progressing satisfactorily. Relief workers started to cut the wood early in May and it will be supplied to families on relief during the winter.

363 FAMILIES REGISTERED.

There is no sign of economic recovery as reflected in the number of people listed on Peterborough's relief rolls. Art Metheral said this morning that 363 families are now registered, a total of 1,641 individuals, as compared with 209 families or 843 individuals at the same time last year. Costs for July of this year jumped more than $3,200 over last year. The outlook was not made more bright by the lay-off at the Auburn mill, although its effect has not yet been felt.

ELEVEN CONVICTIONS.

Referring to Chief Newhall's mention of him as "an excellent officer until, etc. . . . . " Joseph Wheeler, whose complaints brought about the police enquiry, said this morning he should be entitled to having part of his record of duty set forth to the effect that he was instrumental in bringing about the Vincent, Dixon and Carter seizures, but that they were included in 11 cases, he said, in which convictions were brought about during a period of four months. Mr. Wheeler admitted Chief Newhall's point that other officers were associated with him in this work: However, he felt he was entitled to having it brought out more prominently than it may have seemed.

Judging Of Horses Early In Evening New Feature Planned

The final directors'-meeting prior to the Peterborough Exhibition which opens next Wednesday received the grateful information from Fred J. A. Hall, secretary, that the list of entries is greater than ever with the likelihood of setting up a new record.

President Tom Brown reported that the grounds never looked better with a generous investment in paint against the background of expansive green lawns that have flourished this summer from the copious rain, and every other feature of the Exhibition within the management of the directors has been attended to.

Fine weather and big crowds are all that remains to project the Exhibition to a new level of success and importance.

Frank Paterson, representative of the Department of Agriculture, who has charge of the junior farmers' section, gave out the information that this department is going to be bigger than ever with every assurance that the number of young men and women from the farms of a wide district will reach 275 and may come close to 300. Mr. Paterson told the Examiner the Gordon S. Matthews is again giving a dinner for the junior farmers, and the only doubtful detail is how the 275 young folks are going to be accommodated in the dining rooms of the Empress Hotel. It was suggested that additional tables could be set in the rotunda.

Directors were enquiring last night about accommodation for livestock if the exhibits are as numerous as the entries indicate. Roland Denne remarked that for once he hoped temporary cover would have to be provided if for no other reason than to impress upon the Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture, the need of assistance from the Ontario Government in erecting the type of building the directors have been considering for some years in spite of the handicap of not yet having emerged from a financial deficit. Their present hopes is that they will be able to clear off their indebtedness after next week, and undertake the larger program which they regard as the next stage in the progress of Peterborough's Exhibition.

Grandstand facilities, including ing seats, will be expanded this year especially in enabling the public in obtaining seats. R. M. Glover reported that the directors may feel confident that the vaudeville program will be one of the most entertaining that has ever been presented to local Exhibition crowds. Conklin Brothers' midway shows will provide additional amusement, and the whole set up is being recommended to the people of the city and district as being worthy of their support and also their approval as means of building up a new attendance record.

It was announced last night that between 7 and 8 o'clock on two evenings several of the classes of horses will be judged in front of the grandstand as a means of stimulating interest in this section of the Exhibition. Three classes to be judged Thursday evening are carriage horses 15¼ hands and under; saddle horses 15¼ hands and under; and roadster pairs, farmers' special.

Friday night the classes will be; saddle horses over 15¼ hands; single roadsters over 15¼ hands; and a special class for farmers' carriage pairs.

MARANVILLE RESIGNS POST AS THE MONTREAL ROYALS' PILOT

Name Alex Hook New Manager Of Weak Royals

MONTREAL, Aug. 13 (CP). — Montreal Royals, a step from the International League cellar, take the field today against Jersey City under the direction of a new pilot, 30-year-old Alex Hooks, brought up last season from Atlanta of the Southern Association.

In a move that was not unexpected, Walter Maranville, the peppery little "rabbit" and baseball immortal who has guided Royals through almost two seasons of spotted ball, dropped the reins last night.

The rabbit handed his resignation to club officials after Royals split a floodlight doubleheader with the Giants.

Whether this dramatic figure of the baseball world would put away his togs for good was the question on the lips of fans today. Few believed he would, but where he would go from the Royal dugout none was prepared to say.

Made Comeback Trail

The bright-eyed little pilot of 47 who helped Royals move into second place last year was one of the few sportsmen who have filled the comeback trail with glory.

Moved to the sidelines by the big league way back in 1926, the Rabbit wasn't always in the headlines for the next few years, but suddenly 10 years ago Maranville struck the long trail back in a big way.

A good year with Rochester in the International turned the trick and 1928 found him with a regular berth with St. Louis Cardinals. He performed for them in the world series that year. He had hit baseball's major spectacle again after serving with the Miracle Braves of Boston in 1914.

A broken leg checked his comeback in 1934 but that mended and he was off again and 1935 found him with the Braves. The going was tough so the rabbit took it easy the next year.

He jumped back into prominence again last year when Royals signed him as manager. He did a good job but this year when the going for Royals wasn't so good the fans yelled for his scalp. The rabbit didn't say anything but kept plugging. Walter James did his best but the team just couldn't get there.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Unlike other open tournaments held on our greens this summer, the one staged by the ladies Friday was played under ideal bowling conditions. Twenty-one rinks, same entry as last year, from the district made up the draw and three 12-end games were played.

First place went to Mrs. J. Arnold of this city, and incidentally this rink has had a marked degree of success this summer. They won the ladies' open tournament held here last month, the Port Hope ladies' tourney, won their group in local schedule, copped the high single in Belleville on Thursday and then took the premier prize in Friday's contest.

The draw was in the capable hands of two capable Jocks, John Fitzpatrick and John Sedgewick and the games were all over at 10.30.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

A FEW NIGHTS AGO, Bun Morganson of the Tely ran the rules of the six-man rugby game—a sport that is becoming increasingly popular with the young fry. And will be with fans, being an open game with no huddles. Six to a side with four subs, the field being 80 yards long, 40 across with the deadline back 15. Four 12-minute quarters, five in between, and the ball is started in the third frame where is rested as the second ended. Three gees of the side in possession must be on the line of scrimmage when the ball is snapped, and interference by attackers is oke for three yards in advance of scrimmage line. On carrying plays, the guy who gets the ball from the snap must pass it ere he crosses the line, an onside aerial pass. Ball can be snapped to the kicker or forward passer, and all players may take a forward pass, provided they get their mitts on the flying pigskin.

* * * * * * *

BUT IF a forward heave is tried on the third down, the penalty is loss of ball to the opponents. A forward pass into touch is incomplete. All distance penalties are five yards except for rough play or 'no yards' on a kick, penalties then being 10. Scores are: Rouge, 1 point; kicked goal, 3 points; touchdown, 3 points; kick after touchdown, 1 point; safety touch will be ruled a rouge. Players must wear gym or tennis shoes, or canvas softball shoes with soft rubber cleats. These are the main rules, otherwise C.R.U. laws prevail. It should make an interesting game to watch.

The Broad-Shouldered Boys

PREXY H. A. CRANFIELD of the local Orfuns expects the club will start practices in Riverside Park sometime next week, and will run nearly nightly once the drills commence. He tells us no coach has been appointed so far and that the club will have maybe seven or eight star newcomers, gees who have recently been in Big Four, Intercollegiate or Senior O.R.F.U. company. Names will be made public shortly. A number of the better 1937 Orfuns, Ontario intermediate "A" finalists, will see action again, and the grid club president feels confident the Orfuns will make a good showing in their first year against Sarnia, Balmy Beach and Montreal in the senior grouping. Won't be long now, folks, till all the dope is available.

* * * * * * *

SARNIA IMPERIALS start workouts under Coach Art Massucci Aug. 22nd. Alex Hayes has retired but most of the squad of a year ago is expected to be available, including a number of youngsters—a couple of 'em Windsor gridiron gladiators. The Imps no doubt will be as tough as ever to knock over once they hit their true steamroller style. They claim the revision of the forward pass rule respecting scoring passes over the goal line will help the Sarnia squad. Arny McWatters is the only quarterback on the club now and another signal-caller will have to be unearthed in the practices. Many local football followers have been rooting for Sarnia for years but have never seen 'em in action; they will see them here this fall.

Here Come The Hay-Burners

SIX HARNESS horse races have been lined up for the Ex. here next week by Stan Lowe and his committee. Races will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday, two each day with the start about two o'clock. A total of $1200 in prizes and a big entry from a wide area expected. On Thursday, the 2.29 and 2.14 paces will be staged; on Friday, the 2.24 and 2.18 events; and on the windup day, the 2.20 and the free-for-all. Entries, at five bucks each, close the day before the first heat. The three-heat plan with mile runs, every heat a race, and four prizes to a heat. New stalls provide the best of accomodation, and the hay and straw are free. So you gents who ride the bikes behind the bang-tails shouldn't pass up this three-day meet.

SECRETARY BILL SNYDER of the O.B.A. has issued playoff dates for senior ball clubs. Winners in the Niagara district and the Hamilton sector clash Aug. 27th, but the T.A.B.A. winnah and the C.O.B.L. champions don't meet till Sept. 17th in semi-finals. Windsor district victor will play the Intercounty Loop champs on Sept. 5th. The Nickel Belt Assoc. team draws a bye into all-Ontario finals. In intermediate "B", the Bay of Quinte squad tackles the Lakeshore League victor on Aug. 27th, possibly Port Hope and Belleville, though both will have to hustle plenty in their respective league playoffs which are now going on. The C.O.B.L. playoffs, now being run off, may last to Sept. 10th—if the series runs the full seven games.

Lively Lacrosse Tilt

IN KEEPING with recent thrilling lacrosse tussles here, the Petes last night staged another nifty to grab off a 16-14 nod over Long Branch before a thousand customers. The checking was closer than a police probe but the players kept a firm grip on their goats—and comparatively few penalties were drawn. After an edge in the first half, the locals had to battle like all getout to emerge on top, the Long Branchers turning on the heat in a torrid third stanza to look better. But Frank Randle's men had enough left in the fourth to ankle home in front. Swell playing by Shorty Reid, Rowan Chute, Norm Worthy, Ned Vitarelli and Don Crowe mainly, with the rest of the squad almost as effective. Dallin nearly lost his underpads once, Pammett had a two-stitch embroidered cut and some of the fans had hoarse throats as a result. A neat number. This Haney proved the losers' spark-plug and he is a pip. The Petes have a tough week-end, in Brampton tonight and in Brooklin Monday, a lot of fans making the trip to Brooklin. No game here next week, owing to the Exhibition.

WESTCLOX GALS won their second straight softball playoff last p.m. at the Bowl from Keene by a 9-2 score. Good twirling by Barb Blade, neat support afield by her teammates and some potent hitting 'gainst Bea McDowell tells the tale. Ivan hasn't enough hurlers, and his main flinger is overworked. The Armour Hill maidens need but one more victory in the next three tussles to take the title again and head into P.W.S.U. playdowns, meeting Ottawa in the first round. Keene and Westclox clash again at the Bowl on Monday in the gloaming at seven bells.

Fight To Finish Predicted As Davis Cup Players Tie Opening Matches

MONTREAL, Aug. 13.—(CP). — A fight to the finish to decide the North American zone champions was foreseen to-day as Australia and Japan renewed Davis Cup rivalry in a doubles encounter.

Held to a stalemate in yesterday's opening single matches, the Aussies were favored to take a 2-1 lead. Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist, unbeaten in two years, were scheduled to meet the durable Orient pair of Jiro Yamagishi and Fumiteru Nakano.

The round to decide an opponent for Germany in the interzone finals and a probable challenger to the United States Cup holders, will end to-morrow when Yamagishi plays Quist and Bromwich takes on Nakano.

Yamagishi, a lesson in perpetual motion, whipped Bromwich 6-0, 3-6, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4 yesterday, establishing himself as a favorite in his match against Quist who gave the Aussies an even break by trouncing Nakano 6-3, 4-6, 9-7, 6-1.

According to the draw, Yamagishi and Quist will meet in the first of the last day's singles so if form holds true and the Aussies' doubles team wins to-day and Yamagishi wins to-morrow the round score will be 2-2 when Bromwich and Nakano take the court for the concluding match.

Duke Off For Africa

LONDON, Aug. 13 (CP-Havas).—The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester left Hendon airport in a special plane today for a holiday in Kenya Colony, East Africa. They were accompanied by Captain Geoffery Hawkins, brother-in-law of the Duchess. Wing Commander E. H. Fielden, Captain of the King's Flight, was at the controls.

Murder-Suicide?

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Aug. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Sophia Mondyk, 50-year-old widow and owner of a farm, and John Babuska, 55, her hired man, were found dead yesterday under circumstances which Coroner John Quinnell said indicated he had become enraged when she spurned his offer of marriage.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, by the time this gets under the eye of the customers, if any, the 2nd game in the playoff serious with the Oshawa GM-men will be history and I hope the result when the shades of eve fall Sat. nite will show us all even. Last Sat. Mac, although the boys bumped Mister Biddle for 13 hits and a mess of runs we took 1 on the chin, largely because the enemy scored twice as many markers off of the offerings of our Mister McNally and our Mister Kitchen.

Poor Strategy

They aint much use shedding tears over split lacteal fluid—milk to you lowbrows—but I can't help saying our board of strategy didn't do theirselfs justice when they selected Mister McNally as the starting gunner. Ordinarily that woulda been a excellent selection but with the eminent southpaw under the weather and 3 other pitchers in good shape sitting around asking to be shot in there it looked like screwy judgment to shoot in an off-color heaver. As it turned out that ball game should oughta been in the bag because any time you nick 5 runs off the efficient Mister Biddle that oughta be enough to grab the decision.

Waste Good Lead

As it turned out the Petes started in with a opening frame of 3 runs and that oughta about put them on easy street if the accomplished Mister McNally had of had his usual stuff out there. He didn't and before they got him off tne mound he had been responsible for 6 enemy runs and Oshawa had the lead on the serious. It looked like a great chance to get the jump on the two-year champs was kicked away by the Petes.

Rugby On The Way

Well Mac, with the ball serious now nicely under way and the lacrossers doing nicely it won't be long before old John B. Rugby will be flaunting his stuff out there on the gridiron. I aint got a line on the material the local management is going to reinforce the home guard with but we can only hope they got a few real aces in the bag. The going in that senior loop ain't going to be no bed of roses, what with Sarnia in there with most of their stars still going strong and the Balmy Beachers tossing in a few more expert footballers into the strong squad they had left over from last year. Of course they aint nobody nuts enough to say the local entry is going to cop the silverware the 1st time out. The fans will be satisfied with a fighting team that will make things interesting.

The Yanks Going Away

In the big show, Mac, it looks more and more like the Yanks was going to pull away from the field and win the American league going away. The Indians has faded, the Red Sox aint got no pitchers and none of the resta the outfit is a threat. In the National Pittsburgh still has a good lead but the Pirates aint been winning more than ½ their games and the only reason they been staying out in front is because the Giants aint been going no better. Whichever team snaps out of the present slump and starts a respectable winning gait will cop the tinware. I still think it will be the Giants, in spite of their woozy showing lately.

Well it's about time for the oolong so I'll fade.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

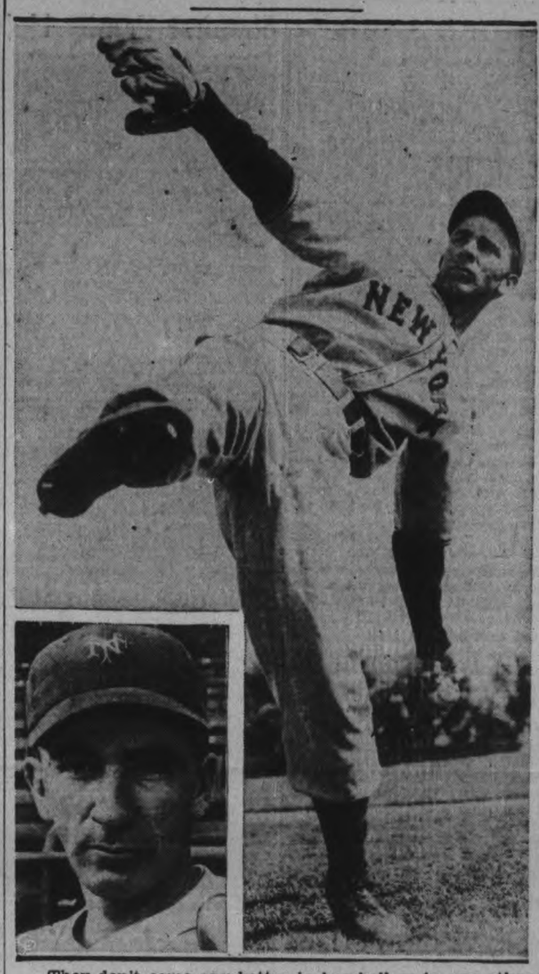
Giants Owe More To King Carl Than The Records Ever Show



They don't come any better in baseball or in any other sport than Carl Hubbell, ace of the New York Giants' mound staff and one of pitching's all-time greats by any standard of measurement. King Carl has hurled over 200 victories in his 10 years with the Terrymen and when it comes to a clutch he's the man of the hour. A grand ball player!

(By Lawton Carver, Central Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—If the New York Giants go ahead and win the National pennant as they probably will not do, their success so obviously will be traceable to one man that you wonder what will happen next year when he is a little older and a little less able and the year after that when he will be still nearer the finish of his career.

I refer, of course, to Carl Hubbell, the pitcher in the long pants.

You can't estimate his value to the team, for he is one of those individuals who not only is a winner in his own right, but the bearer of some kind of inspirational spark that lifts to the peak the performances of everybody around him when he is in the game. Moreover, in his kindly, imperturable and quite gallant spirit is that ability, to be at his best when things generally are breaking at their worst.

In There In the Clutch

More briefly, the angular Oklahoman is a clutch guy, the kind who, when all others fail, you fall back on with the feeling that everything is going to be all right. And it usually is. He is one of the truly great figures in the history of baseball, not alone because of his sheer ability as a pitcher and his mastery of the subtleties of the screwball, but also because of his character.

However, you don't hear so much about the fineness of the man because that never wins ball games, and every one is prone to dwell at greater length on his skill, which is all right, too. In fact, it's a little better than all right. They recognize that without him the Giants wouldn't have won the pennant in 1936 and again last year and wouldn't even be in the first division this season.

And in saying that I'm not trying to take anything away from Our Will Terry, who is the paradoxical combination of most unpopular and probably most able manager in the major leagues. Whether you like Our Will or not, he can and does run a baseball club for all its worth. His record shows that.

Handy Helper, Though

But he was fortunate in having around such a fellow as Hubbell, who has come to be known as the Meal Ticket, and if anybody ever deserved a title containing such praise it is he, and what the Giants had better do is find another Meal Ticket. I didn't say another Hubbell, because there isn't any more.

When he finally is through he will be missed like few men who have flashed across the metropolitan sports scene before him. When he will come to the finish is problematical, but he is 35 and, therefore not exactly a stripling any more He may begin perceptibly to toboggan next year or the year after. He isn't as good now as he has been.

However, he may go on somewhat longer than we expect at that, because he never has dissipated any to speak of and he is a tough-hewed skinny guy of the type which wears very well. As early as ten years ago the screwball was supposed to ruin him eventually because of the strain it imposes in delivery, and Ty Cobb then managing Detroit, sent him back to the minors thinking he didn't have enough other stuff to go along with the specialty.

But he's still around, still going good and still the man they holler for when things get too tough. He may go on for another four or five years, but gradually he will lose his effectiveness. When that time finally comes, whether it be next season or five hence, the Giants are going to sit helplessly many a time through period of dejection pining for Old Long Pants and that screwball while he is down in Oklahoma minding his pecan grove.

The fans will miss him, too. They virtually love him.

Cricket Results

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(CP Cable.)—Leaders in the English county cricket championship held their places Thursday although Yorkshire's margin over the second-place Middlesex eleven was reduced. Yorkshire took first-innings points from Warwickshire and Middlesex gained the maximum 12 points with an innings and 18-run victory over Kent.

Somerset improved its position with a 10-wickets triumph over the fast slipping Lancashire team and the Gloucestershire - Nottinghamshire match was abandoned owing to rain. This match, rained out all three days, is not included in the standings.

In other matches concluded today Sussex defeated Leicestershire by an innings and 32 runs; Essex won on first innings from Northamptonshire. Although ahead on the first innings, Hampshire lost to Glamorgan by 148 runs.

The Australians-Surrey fixture ended in a draw when rain interfered with to-day's play. The Aussies compiled a first-innings score of 297 and Surrey had scored 105 runs for seven wickets when the contest was called.

The scores:

Warwickshire 263 and 14 runs for one wicket; Yorkshire 324; at Leeds.

Kent 107 and 87 (Gray five for 40, Smith five for 41); Middlesex 212 for nine declared (Hulme 53, Human 50, Todd five for 71); at Lord's.

Lancashire 160 and 139 (Iddon 55, Wellard six for 61); Somerset 233 and 67 runs for no wickets (Gimblett 50 not out; at Weston.

Leicestershire 186 and 379 (Prentice 138, Berry 86; Sussex 597 for seven declared (John Langridge 170, James Parks 146); at Hove.

Northamptonshire 214 and 176 for eight (Timms 54); Essex 216 for six declared; at Westcliff.

Glamorgan 239 and 280 for nine declared (Mart 86, Herman four for 94); Hampshire 280 and 91 (Matthews four for 17), Clay four for 41); at Portsmouth.

Australians 297 (Barnes 63); Surrey 105 for seven (O'Reilly four for 25; at the Oval.

Odds Against Greenburg To Set Record

HAMPTON BEACH, N.H., Aug. 13 —(CP)—Jack Doyle, who has become wealthy through a nice ability to weigh chances of this or that happening in the field of sport, figures the odds are 2 to 1 against Detroit's Hank Greenberg breaking the record of 60 home runs Babe Ruth set in 1927.

The sage New York betting commissioner today told the Canadian Press he considered Greenberg "A wonderful player and a grand fellow" and wished he didn't have to feel so pessimistic about his chances of lifting one of baseball's most coveted crowns.

However, he foresaw too many hurdles to believe the Tigers' big Jewish first baseman could surpass the mark the Bambino established when he was chief assassin of New York Yankees's "Murderer's Row".

While rabid Detroit fans pointed out Hank has 38 homers in 102 games while the Ruthian bat needed 111 games to run up that total, Doyle basked in the sunshine at this resort centre and experted

"You can't go too much on those figures. The Babe's greatest effort was in September, when most of his games were played in New York and he was bombing at the short 295-foot right-field fence at Yankee Stadium. The Tigers have a long September run coming up at their home park but its 367 feet to the right field fence and 339 feet to the left barrier.

"From now on opposing pitchers, knowing Greenberg is trying for the record, will throw him plenty of bad balls — and Hank, anxious to hit, will swing at a lot of those duds.

"Since Babe went on that fence-bust spree in '27 I've seen several players step ahead of his mark at different times of the season but they only threatened. There has always been that mental hazard and that's why Hank doesn't like to talk about his chances."

PETES PULL OUT CLOSE WIN OVER LONG BRANCH LACROSSERS

Tight Tussle Dished Up For Big Crowd

In one of the liveliest and exciting lacross games of the season, the Petes pulled out a 16-14 decision over Long Branch here last night before a thousand noisy fans in an O.L.A. senior "B" fixture. Staging a thrilling third-period rally that brought them to within a goal of a tie, the visitors pressed the Petes plenty during the last half and were just nosed out in the fourth frame.

It was a speedy, hard-hitting affair with both sides keeping their tempers well in the stiff checking and fast going. Only nine penalties were drawn, four by the locals, mostly for minor offences. Good and bad lacrosse was dished up to applauding fans, but the speed, hard battling and closeness of the count kept it at an exciting pitch right to the end. The Petes had a 3-2 edge in the first and built it up to an 8-3 margin at halftime. They were outscored 8 to 4 in the third but managed to grab off a 4-3 lead in the final heat.

Shorty Goes Good

All the locals looked good, with Reid, Worthy, Chute, Crowe and Vitarelli outstanding. Haney (No. 15) starred with a grand showing for the losers, while Legge, Caldwell and Gilletti also turned in an excellent performance. Some nifty goals were scored and a bunch of fine tries stopped by the rival netguardians.

The teams:

Montreal's New Senior Team Gets Down To Work

August may be the golf, tennis or baseball season for most people, but for some it's time to get out the cleats and moleskins and get down to the serious business of getting into shape for the rugby season. Montreal is the scene of unusual activity this year as the gridiron stalwarts gather around the banner of Nationals, new entry in the Ontario Rugby Football Union with most of the players from what used to be the Indians of the Big Four turning out for practice. What the latter team will do for players this year remains to be seen. Fifteen Indians have signed with the O.R.F.U. squad already. Here are some of the double and triple threat men who will face Balmy Beach, Sarnia, and Peterborough in what looks like the best season in years for the DeGruchy loop. Standing at the LEFT is Tommy Burns, versatile wing, halfback or what have you. Top CENTRE, is Big Chief Johnny Ferraro, much-maligned quarterback with last year's Indians and a star in any company. Ed. Barnaby from Queen's is the young fellow ready to throw a forward pass, and charging out at the RIGHT is Ernie Hempey, middle wing. All but Barnaby were in the Indians' line-up last year.

Power Bats Keeping Senators In First Division of A.L.

Yanks Hold Lead With Split Twin

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(CP)—The unconditional release of Wesley (Prima Donna) Ferrell shouldn't make much difference to Washington's walloping Senators. They've been getting by pretty well this season without pitchers anyway.

Of course, you'll argue that Dutch Leonard has been doing some classy elbow work for the Nats, winning 11 games, including that seven-hit 13-1 decision he took over Boston Red Sox yesterday. But those who remember Dutch doddering along with the Dodgers a few years back recall he showed no signs then of ever becoming a ball of fire.

In brief then, the Nats have relied just about exclusively on their apple-knocking ability to keep them in the first division. There isn't a lineup like it in the big leagues today. Of the 10 regulars doing most of the work, only three are under the .300 mark, and Al Simmons, at 2.93, isn't so far away that a base hit or two won't change him. At the same time, Zeke Bonura, despite an unusually low .269 average, has driven in 8 runs in 90 games.

Yanks Retain Lead

Of course, the Nats don't figure to get any higher than their present fourth place this year. The Yankees' powerhouse is rolling now, as witness the six homers murderers' row sprayed among the paying customers yesterday in splitting a doubleheader with the Athletics, to remain ½ games in front. The A's took the opener, 5-4 on Bob Johnson's ninth-inning round-tripper, but the Yanks came back with 16 hits in the nightcap, paced by George Selkirk's two four-baggers and eight runs batted in, for a 16-3 triumph.

Cleveland's Indians managed only an even break with the White Sox, taking the opener 12-9, on a three-run rally in the 10th and dropping the afterpiece, 6-5, in the ninth inning. The Tigers and Browns were idle.

Giants Nip Phillies

For the first time in two weeks, Bill Terry found a pitcher able to go the route, so the Giants nipped the Phillies, 1-0, behind Harry Gumbert's three-hit flinging. Since Pittsgurgh Pirates absorbed a 9-3 beating at the hands of the Chicago Cubs, the victory boosted the Giants to within 5½ games of the Bucs' National league pace.

Jim Turner's seven-hit job led Boston Bees to a 2-1 victory over the Dodgers. Cincinnati Reds topped the Cardinals, 312, in a night engagement.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press)

Harry Gumbert, Giants—Blanked Phillies 1-0 with three hits.

Bob Johnson, Athletics, and George Selkirk, Yankees —Johnson's ninth inning homer beat Yanks 5-4 in opener; Selkirk hit two homers, drove in eight runs, in nightcap.

Dutch Leonard and Zeke Bonura, Senators—Leonard hurled seven-hitter and Bonura hit homer, double, single, driving in five runs in 13-1 win over Red Sox.

Westclox Girls Defeat Keene

Westclox girls made it two in a row last night at the Bowl before a big crowd when they copped a 9-2 decision over Keene for their second playoff victory in the three-in-five series. Barb Blade held the visitors to six hits in a neat performance as she fanned three and walked two, getting fair support. Bea McDowell was nicked for 14 bingles and four walks while striking out eight. Her support was shaky in spots. M. Allison was hurt at second early in a collision but stayed in the game. R. Wood had a bad hand and suffered a tough evening for Keene, finally shifting over to second. Third game will be Monday at the Bowl.

M. Hawthorne led Westclox at bat with three safeties, while M. Allison hit a homer and single, Dot Merrett a four-bagger and single, J. Corley a triple, and B. Blade and A. Sturgeon two singles. For Keene, H. Nelson got a double and single, B. McDowell two singles, and M. Belle and G. Nelson one hit each. Fielding features were supplied G. Nelson, D. Warner, M. Miller, B. McDowell of Keene; and J. Corley, M. Allison and D. Merrett of Westclox.

The teams:

Keene: H. Nelson, ss; D. Warner, 2b, 3b; R. Wood, 3b, 2b; D. Cocks, c; T. Mills, rf, lf; G. Nelson, cf; B. McDowell, p; M. Miller, rf; M. Belle, 1b.

Hamilton Star Leads Lacrossers

TORONTO, August 13—(CP).—Sunk deep in sixth place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior standing, Hamilton - Burlington Combines still have the group's leading scorer in Bill Isaacs.

The Indian star has replaced Roy (Punk) Morton of St. Catharines with a total of 87 points in 19 games, made up of 66 goals and 21 assists. Bucko McDonald, defence star with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League and playing coach of Orillia's lacrosse club, is in second spot in the scoring standings with 61 goals and 18 assists for a total of 779. Morton is pacing St. Catharines in first place in the team standings with 52 goals and 23 assists, for a 75 total.

Royals Split Double Bill With Jerseys

MONTREAL, Aug. 13 (CP). — Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, the little guy with the big heart who has been trying without success to make the Montreal Royals go somewhere this season, finally has given up the task.

Maranville, under fire some time while his club was just managing to keep out of the cellar, resigned last night, the fourth managerial casualty of the season in the International League.

The rabbit follows Toronto's Dan Howley, Jim Bottomley of Syracuse Chiefs and Travis Jackson of Jersey City Giants into exile.

Maranville's successor, first baseman Alex Hooks, who came to the Royals from Atlanta this season, took the job only after he was assured it was just to finish the season and he wouldn't have the task next year.

Maranville handed in his resignation after the Royals divided a doubleheader with Jersey City, winning the first game, 2-0, when Harry Smythe, outpitched Watkins although his mates provided only three hits. The Jerseys took the second clash, 6-0.

The three topmost clubs in the standing won the other games on last night's card. Newark's league-leaders edged Buffalo Bisons deeper into fourth place by beating them 11-10. The Bears outslugged their rivals by two five-run innings to one. The real climax came in the ninth when Buffalo's Ollie Carnegie, after hitting his 33rd and 34th homers, fanned with the bases full.

Rochester had to go 14 innings to beat Baltimore Orioles, 5-4.

Mike Meola's wildness enabled Syracuse Chiefs to take a 7-3 decision from Toronto.

Y's Men's Midgets Take Lacrosse Tilt

Y's Men's midget lacrossers chalked up another win last night before a big crowd at the George St. arena when they grabbed off an 8-4 victory over Kiwanis in a good game. An early lead proved sufficient, but the losers made it a battle the last part. Land scored one and Martin three to give the winners a 4-0 edge in the first period. Martin added another in the second with B. Dundas tallying one more on Joiner's pass. Maudsley got a goal for Kiwanis. Gillespie and Joiner drew penalties. In the third, Carter collected two for Kiwanis and Hallihan one from Doughty, as Joiner took McMahon's pass for the Y's Men's goal. Gillespie and Land drew penalties. The final frame saw Land score the only marked. The teams:

Y's men's: Goal, Wilshaw; defence, McMahon, E. Dundas; centre, Land wings, G. Easton, J. Easton; rover, Martin; subs, Dunsford, D. Dundas, Joiner.

Kiwanis: Goal, Lehman; defence, Gillespie, Murphy; centre, Caravaggie; wings, Doughty, Dyer; rover, Hallihan; subs, Carter, Stewart, Flynn, Berardi, Maudsley.

Clever Timmins Forward Is Goal Ace In Dome Mines' 3-1 Soccer Victory

WINNIPEG, Aug. 13.—(CP)— A chunky little man with unruly hair today stands between North Shore United and the Dominion football championship.

George Chambers, brilliant centre-forward of Timmins Dome Mines, staged a one-man show here last night in leading the eastern champions to a 3-1 victory over Vancouver North Shore. If he's not stopped in the third game today, the unnamed trophy presented in 1926 to the Dominion by the English Football Association, will travel east.

Chambers figured in his team's three goals last night, scoring one and passing to Henry Lone and Willie Whyte for the others.

George, himself, is firmly convinced the series is far from won. "That's the best team we've ever played," he said after the game. "They're in wonderful condition. About the only difference I could see in tonight's game was that we got three goals and they got one

Telegrapher Moved

A member of the telegraphic staff at the local C.P.R. station for the past twenty-five years, J. H. Moore, has been transferred to Hanover, where he has already taken over his duties as station agent at that point. His family expect to join him there shortly.

Mr. Moore at the time of his transfer was enjoying his second term as president of the Havelock C.P.R. Recreation Club in which he has been a very active member since its inauguration eleven years ago. He was secretary of the organization for a period of five years.

The presentation of a very beautiful silver tea servce was made to Mrs. Moore by ladies of "Our Lady of Mount Carmel" Catholic church at a tea in her honor at the home of Mrs. Arthur Crooke.

The table was very prettily set with lace cloth, pink candles, and a bowl of larkspur. Tea was poured by Mrs. Frank Voyer, who was assisted by Mrs. D. R. Brennan, and Miss Monica Crooke.

The address was read by Mrs. A. Crooke, and the presentation made by Mrs. Peter McCann. Father C. J. Carrol, parish priest, of Norwood was present during the afternoon.

11th C.P.R. Picnic

Eleventh annual picnic of the Havelock C.P.R. Recreation Club will be held next Wednesday, Aug. 17, to Riverdale Park, Toronto. A reunion of all pensioned and veteran employees of the C.P.R. connected with this point is expected to be a feature of the day.

The picnic for the past two years had been held at Bobcaygeon, but through the courtesy of high railway officials, Riverdale Park was selected as the spot to hold the popular event this summer.

The special train will leave Havelock at 7 a.m. making all intermediate stops and arrive at Toronto at 10.05 a.m., standard time. Returning train will leave park at 6.30 p.m. E.S.T.

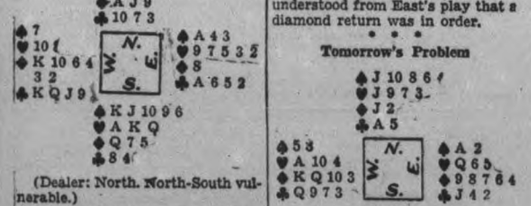
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO FOR ONE CHEAP

THERE ARE times when it is cheap insurance to have your side use up two good cards on a trick. One of these comes when you overtake your partner's high lead in order to launch a defensive plan which is clearly visible to you but out of sight of him. Among such plans are those whereby you can set up a defensive ruff for yourself by leading a singleton back to him.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

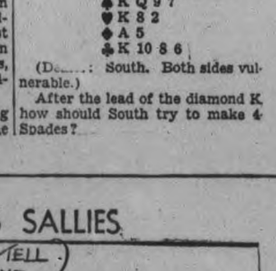
Both North and East passed on this deal and South started the bidding with 1-Spade, which West overcalled with 2-Diamonds. When North put in a bid of 2-Spades, South took the contract to 4-Spades.

The club K was West's opening attack and when the trick held he followed with two more rounds of the suit, the last of which South ruffed. The trump A was next knocked out and declarer was able to take the remainder of the tricks.

A little foresight by East could have set the contract. He held the trump A and was bound to get in early. He should have overtaken West's original lead with his A and laid down his singleton diamond. Then when the first spade was led, he could have gone in with the A and put West in the lead with a club. West would certainly have understood from East's play that a diamond return was in order.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After the lead of the diamond K, how should South try to make 4-Spades?

Limits Are Fixed For Fall Duck Shooting

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—(CP).—Districts throughout Canada have been assigned varying dates this year for the shooting of migratory birds, in regulations issued yesterday by Resources Minister T. A. Crerar. The number of birds that may be bagged are designated, and certain other regulations are continued.

In all districts the daily limit for wild ducks is 12, and for geese 5; but the season's total is variable. In some places this is fixed at 100 ducks and 25 geese, in others at 150 ducks and 20 geese.

In the five Eastern Provinces — Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edawrd Island — the shooting of Black Brants is prohibited.

Everywhere the prohibition upon using bait and live decoys continues.

In general, the regulations follow the principles adopted two years ago, which were made more restrictive than formerly in order to meet serious depletion of waterfoul occasioned by the drought in Western Canada, as well as by overshooting.

A summary of the regulations governing Ontario follows:

North and west of a line commencing at the southwest angle of Bruce County; thence in a general easterly direction along the southerly boundaries of Bruce and Grey Counties to the southwest angle of Nottawasaga Township in the County of Simcoe, along the south boundaries of Nottawasaga, Sunnidale, Vespra Townships to the line of mean high water of Lake Simcoe, along the said line of mean high water on the south side of Lake Simcoe to the northwest angle of Brock Township in the County of Ontario, and along the north boundary of Brock Township to the centre of King's Hghway No. 12; thence southerly along the centre line of the said highway to the centre line of the right-of-way of the C.P.R. in the vicinity of Myrtle; thence in a general easterly direction along the said centre line to Peterborough, along the centre line of King's Highway No. 7 to the west boundary of Lanark County to the line of mean high water on the north side of Rideau Lake, and along the line of mean high water on the north side of Rideau Lake and Rideau River to a point opposite the northeast angle of Grenville County; thence southerly along the east boundary of Grenville County to the northwest angle of Dundas County; thence easterly along the northerly boundaries of Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry Counties to the Interprovincial boundary; the open season for ducks, geese (other than Brant), and Wilson's Snipe, will be from Sept. 15 to Nov. 15.

South of Line Oct. 1

In that part of the Province of Ontario lying south of the line defined in the preceding paragraph, the open season for ducks, geese and Wilson's Snipe will be from Oct. 1 to Nov. 30, except that in Essex, Kent and Elgin the open season for geese (other than Brant) shall be from Oct. 15 to Dec. 15, both dates inclusive.

The open season for woodcock will be from Sept. 15 to Nov. 30.

Bag limits:

Ducks (exclusive of Mergansers), 12 in any day; geese, (other than Brant), 5 in any day; Rails, Coots and Gallinules, 25 in any day in the aggregate; Wilson's or Jacksnipe, 25 in any day; woodcock, 8 in any day; and not more than 125 woodcock and 150 ducks (exclusive of Mergansers) and 50 geese (other than Brant) in one season.

In all provinces the use of automatic (auto-loading) swivel, or machine guns, or battery, or any gun larger than No. 10 gauge of silencers is prohibited, and the use of any airplane, power-boat, sailboat, sunken punt, live birds as decoys, night light and shooting from any vehicle drawn by a draught animal or motor vehicle is forbidden. The hunting of migratory game birds on areas baited with grain or other artificial food is prohibited.

The shooting of migratory game birds earlier than one hour before sunrise or later than one hour after sunset is prohibited.

The penalty for violation of the migratory bird laws is a fine of not more than $300 and not less than $10, or imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or both fine and imprisonment.

Canadian Army Practises For War Gam es At Camp Borden

War games, favorite pastime of most European nations, finally reach Canada with units from every section of the Dominion gathered at Camp Borden to demonstrate the progress that has been made in equipping the country's fighting forces. There is no suggestion that the manoeuvres will match anything that more militant nations put on—in fact most of the equipment with which the units are supplied is admittedly near-obsolete. In the meantime the troops go through their practice routine; the tanks go up and the trees go down, LEFT. Typical of the small, light and gunless tanks predominant at the camp is the one at RIGHT which shows, nevertheless, it can negotiate rough ground. First aid is not forgotten and the unit below demonstrates field rescue on the "war-scarred" Camp Borden terrain. The actual exercises begin on August 29.

Centreville W.M.S. 'Travels' To Formosa

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTREVILLE, Aug. 13. — On Wednesday night Mrs. Clifford Hall was hostess to the Women's Missionary Society of Centreville Presbyterian church. There was a good attendance. The vice-president, Mrs. George Bonner, presided. Following the hymn and prayer by Rev. D. A. McKenzie, Mrs. Roy Greer read the Scripture lesson.

The society decided to hold the Thank offering meeting in September, and to extend an invitation to W.M.S. of Grace church, Millbrook, and also to Bensfort United church society to attend.

A delightful duet was rendered by Misses Allie Berry and Gwen Hutchinson.

A special feature of the meeting was an interesting and instructive missoinary address by Mrs. (Rev.) D. T. Marshall, who was engaged in missionary work in the island of Formosa for nineteen years. She gave a very illuminating account of the conditions there and the progress of the gospel.

Her two children, a boy and girl, attired in Japanees costume, sang three hymns in the Chinese language. A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Marshall and also to the hostess.

Refreshments were served and all enjoyed a pleasant social hour.

The First House?

AYLMER, Ont., Aug. 13—(CP).—Royal Ontario museum archeologists studied a find today on the John Pound farm north-east of Aylmer convinced they had discovered the earliest house built in Ontario.

The searchers believe they have found a long-house of the Iroquoian type, constructed of saplings and bark with a timber floor. They said no other house has been found in Ontario built before 1600.

The only indication so far of the find, black marks in the soil were found about a foot below the surface and are about 40 feet long and at least 80 feet wide.

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP)—William Thomson, Mono township was remanded in custody for a week for sentence by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe when he was found guilty on a charge of assault occasioning bodily narm to his wife.

Mrs. Thompson testified her husband had come home intoxicated and struck her for letting their son go to a neighbor's. Mrs. Henry Gadke testified that Mrs. Thompson had bruises on her arms and lumps on the back of her head the following day.

Thompson said he only set his wife down in a chair when she flew into a rage. He denied his wife's charges that he hadn't been supporting their family of four children.

A vest-pocket edition of the storied Swiss family Robinson, 35-year-old Dr. F. Fraser Darling, noted biologist, his wife and their son will remain on the island until Christmas, studying bird migration. Then, they hope, a ship will be able to reach them to take them off.

Zippered Hot Dogs

Zippered weiners are the latest milestone on the march of progress. As demonstrated by this young lady at Cleveland, Ohio, the new arrangement enables "hot-dog" lovers to enjoy the succulent interior without having to gnaw through skin envelopes. The zipper, when pulled down, strips off the skin of the weiner. Now if zippers can only be attached to bananas, everyone will be happy—maybe!

Shelley Favors Vote Issue Of Padlock Law

TORONTO, Aug. 13 (CP).—New Toronto's so-called padlock by-law was before the people of that suburban municipality today as a possible election issue after Councillor J. V. Shelley challenged his fellow-councillors to resign and face an election on the question.

Shelley who framed the bylaw, flung his challenge when invited to speak last night at a meeting called by the West York branch of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation to oppose the by-law. The C.C.F. had planned to test legality of the bylaw with the meeting, but a stormy session of New Toronto council Thursday granted the C.C.F. a permit.

M. J. Coldwell, national chairman of the C.C.F. and C.C.F. member from Rosetown-Biggar, Sask. was one of seven C.C.F. or trades union speakers who attacked the by-law as restricting freedom of speech and fredom of the press.

"I am always ready to transgress the laws that transgress the laws of the people," said John Mitchell, president of the Ontario section of the C.C.F.

Mr. Shelley, when he spoke at the invitation of the chairman, said other members of the council who had voted against giving the C.C.F. a permit "got cold feet" but he was not prepared to throw up the sponge.

Challenges Council

He said he had offered his resignation to Mayor Jackson yesterday when the meeting permit was finally granted and challenged Mayor Jackson and the rest of the council "to go to the people on that issue."

"If the people of New Toronto want the bylaw, all right," Shelley said. "If they don't let them kick us to hell out of council."

Shelley said he supported the by-law, which bans public meetings unless a permit has been granted, because "certain people tried to stir up industrial strife in New Toronto."

Attorney-General Gordon Conant yesterday said he "was not entirely sure the bylaw is entirely legal and proper within the Municipal Act." He advised he did not think a drastic enforcement of the by-law should be attempted until the bylaw had been tested in the courts.

Isley To Call Mine Men Into Parley

Seeks To Iron Out All Troubles Over Income Tax

OTTAWA, Aug. 15 (C.P.).—Representatives of the mining industry will be invited to confer with C. Fraser Elliott, Commissioner of Income Tax, prior to the promulgation of official rulings under last session's amendments to the Income Tax Act.

In this way, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of National Revenue, and Acting Minister of Finance, hopes to remove misunderstandings he believes exist regarding the possible application of the new provisions to the financing of mining companies.

In a statement issued last night the Minister replied to criticism levelled against the changes by Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario. He denied they involved any added taxation, any impost of capital gains, any discrimination against mining, and he described the suggestion they constituted an affront to the Rowell Commission as beyond his comprehension.

The purpose of the amendments was not to impose new levies, but to protect the revenues of the Dominion from tax evasion.

Although the minister's statement did not mention Premier Hepburn's name it dealt in detail with the criticism he recently levelled against two amendments, one dealing with the gift tax and another with the distribution of the assets of companies being wound up. The gift tax, Mr. Ilsley said, was originally imposed, not to obtain revenue directly, but to deter wealthy people from turning over large sums to their relatives in order to lower their income tax payments.

Because it had been argued the tax was operating to prevent legitimate gifts, not made for tax-evasion purposes, an amendment was made last session exempting gifts which did not exceed one-half of the taxpayer's income for the previous year after deducting the income tax paid.

Stiffer Penalties

In view of this concession it was felt the penalty on gifts made, for the purpose of tax evasion should be stiffened and so the tax on non-exempt gifts was raised. The net effect was to increase the exemption and raise the rate.

"It is abundantly clear the

Hepburn Insists New Income Tax An Evasion

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Aug. 15 —(CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn today called two amendments to the Income Tax Act passed at the last Session of Parliament in respect to gifts and stock trading companies. "A further invasion of the Provincial field of taxation and a further handicap in the development of our mining industry."

Replying to a statement of Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of National Revenue and acting Finance Minister, that the amendments were for the purpose of checking tax evasion, the Ontario Premier said:

"No matter what Mr. Ilsley may say in an attempt to defend the action of the Federal Government in imposing these new taxes, they constitute an infringement of revenues in the direct taxation field of the Provinces."

Mr. Hepburn last week notified Prime Minister King that the Ontario Government will not take part in further Rowell Commission deliberations. He gave as his reason for withdrawal the two amendments to the Income Tax Act, and said it had been agreed that no new taxes would be imposed by the Federal Government during commission sittings.

Nazis Centre War Games Along Border

Czech-French Line To See Most Of Fall 'Exercises'

BERLIN, Aug. 15 (AP) — Germany's army reserve units began fall manoeuvres today in what appeared to be a gigantic demonstration to test the speed and facility of motorized army transport.

Preparations for the two weeks of reserve training were noted chiefly in southern Germany close to Czechoslovakia and to France but they extended also to the districts around the capital.

There were no official figures on the men participating, but military observers estimated the number at 500,000 to a possible 1,000,000.

Although other countries, notably Great Briain and France, gave evidence of grave concern at the magnitude of the manoeuvres an effort was made here to calm what were termed "exaggerated and disturbing reports."

Berlin citizens planning weekends in the country found placards at suburban bus stations announcing regular postal department bus lines, connecting stations with lakes and other vacation spots, has been discontinued "temporarily."

Rumors current among the rural population said the busses were requisitioned by the military authorities for the fall games. Reports from Munich told of automobiles and trucks being requisitioned.

It was believed the army planned to depend chiefly upon motor vehicles as its means of transportation, trying to avoid commandeering of railways and to permit movement on a war-time basis in unfamiliar territory.

Europe Fears Incident

(Europe's concern was that the manoeuvres were to be close to the frontier and that some incident might provoke a conflict with Czechoslovakia. Relations of the two nations already are strained by Nazis sympathy for the autonomy demands of the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia.)

Today's manoeuvres were preliminary to so-called district war games, which will be held in practically every section of the country starting Sept. 1. The reserves are getting the two weeks' earlier training to acquaint them with new type weapons.

In the district games there will be not more than two divisions in any one section, each of which will go through a series of sham battles.

The Boersenzeitung, an authority on German military technique, has explained this type of war games was chosen in preference to one mass array "to test the efficacy of forces fighting in wartime formations and of the services behind the lines."

Persecuted Purported to be taken in Vienna and smuggled out of Germany at great risk by a victim of the Nazi purge, this picture allegedly shows Jews scrubbing one of the main streets of that city while a crowd watches. While the Nazi purge of Jews in Austria since its annexation by Hitler has been no secret, a strict censorship has been enforced and photographs illustrative of the purge have rarely slipped out of the country. The Jewish victims, as can be seen, are mostly elderly.

Monkeys Leave Montrealers 'Up a Tree' As Apple-Pinchers Defy Pursuit

Montreal, Aug. 15.

SIX monkeys that escaped last week from Belmont Park and their would-be captors filled the trees in the garden of Daniel Plouffe at neighboring Cartierville during the week-end, but when the chase was over the monkeys remained in the branches and the hunters figuratively still were up a tree.

Offered thef ugitives if they could effect a capture, McGill University Instructors failed to appear over the week-end. Lovers of animals protested the monkeys would be used for experiments, and park officials were prevailed upon to attempt the captures.

Since their escape the sextette have made life miserable for the Plouffe family by stripping half a dozen apple trees, breaking into a chicken house, dropping refuse on the lawn and generally chattering continuously.

Japs' Attitude Threatens Border Peace

MOSCOW, Aug. 15 (A.P.).—The Soviet Government indicated to-day the carrying out of the Changkufeng armistice agreement had been delayed by new border difficulties which almost resulted in an armed clash shortly after the truce went into effect on August 11.

The difficulties first were disclosed in a Soviet communique last night stating that a new outbreak of fighting on the disputed Siberian-Korean frontier had been narrowly averted when Japanese troops moved into advanced positions after the truce.

The troops were withdrawn, the announcement said, after Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff warned the Japanese Ambassador, Mamoru Shigemitsu, that "the U.S.S.R. will consider the armistice violated" if they were permitted to hold their new positions.

Russia Dissatisfied.

While Japanese compliance with Litvinoff's demand removed dangers of an immediate clash, the Soviet Government was said still to be dissatisfied with the attitude of Japanese military representatives at Changkufeng.

The latter, according to the communique, refused to sign the armistice agreement and a map indicating the respective positions of troops, explaining that they "awaited instructions from the higher command."

(A Japanese War Office announcement on Saturday said military representatives of both sides had signed a memorandum pledging themselves to avoid further incidents in the area and that a map marking troop positions at the time the truce was declared was expected to be signed on Saturday.)

Scepticism as to Japanese intentions was expressed by the Soviet navy newspaper, "Red Navy," which asserted Japan had been preparing an attack on the Soviet Union for seven years.

More Dugouts

TOKYO, Aug 15—(CP).—Domei, Japanese news agency, said today Soviet Russian troops had violated the Changkufeng truce by constructing dugouts within the neutral strip of land agreed upon when the border fighting was ended Aug. 11.

The news agency said the Japanese had protested to General Shutern, Chief of Staff of the Far Eastern Red Army, and he had promised to enforce observance of the truce, but that Soviet troops continued to build dugouts in the 180 yard wide zone separating the Japanese and Russians along the four-mile front.

All Japanese troops had withdrawn the agreed 90 yards from the crest of Changkufeng Hill, Domei said.

A war office communique said the main body of the Japanese border force now was concentrated near the southern bank of the Tumen River where it would remain until evacuation of the Changkufeng area was completed.

Toronto Mother Joins Hunt For 3-Year-Old Son Lost In Minden Wilds

Over 100 Men Answer Call For Aid After Tot Wanders Off Into Dense Bush, Lake Country

MINDEN, Ont., Aug. 15 (CP).—More than 100 searchers combed wild bush and lake country near here today for three-year-old Peter Elstone of Toronto, lost since early last night. Minden is in Haliburton County, about 40 miles north of Lindsay.

Youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Elston of Toronto, the lad wandered away from the farm home of his grandparents early in the evening and was not missed for about an hour. The area in which he is lost is one of dense bush, dotted with small lakes. Principal fear of the searchers was that the lad may have fallen into one of the lakes. The bush in which he is lost comes to the border of the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Ball, his grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Elston participated in the search for their son, clad in a light white suit. The boy's mother, waiting at first on the farm home for word of her son, was unable to stand the suspense and searched in the area about the farm.

Marmoran Dies After Crash Upon Highway

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Aug. 15.—Two car accidents, one attended with fatal results, occurred on No. 7 Highway east of Marmora on Saturday afternoon and evening.

Stanley Jackson, 47, of Marmora, was engaged about seven miles east of the village, throwing rock off the highway following grading, when about 4 p.m. a car driven by Leo Cleary of Hastings skidded into Jackson, knocking him down and passing partly over his body to occasion serious injuries.

Dr. H. Crawford, Marmora, was summoned to the scene and after the injured man had been conveyed to his home, advised his removal to St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, where about 8 p.m., he succumbed.

Also in the Cleary car were Mr. and Mrs. V. Keogan of Hastings and another lady passenger. Provincial Officer Art Dymond of Madoc investigated and Constable P. Gray was also in attendance. Mr. Jackson leaves a widow and six young children to mourn his passing, besides two brothers, Thomas Cobalt and William, Marmora; and one sister, Mrs. Clayton Graham, Cordova.

Coroner Dr. H. Young of Peterborough will conduct an inquest at Havelock, it is expected, on Wednesday evening.

The funeral of the late Stanley Jackson will be held on Tuesday afternoon and will be conducted by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell.

Three Hurt in Collision.

Three persons are in Belleville Hospital as a result of the head-on collision between cars driven by Pete Dukan and Murice Barlow, both of Deloro, which occurred at Quinlan's Hill, two miles east of Marmora village at 11.30 p.m. on Saturday.

The injured are Charles Polson, fractured jaw and facial lacerations; H. C. Barlow, fractured leg and laceration to face and head; Mrs. H. C. Barlow, abrasions to leg.

Polson was a passenger in the Dukan car; other occupants of the car being Mr. and Mrs. Pete Dukan and children Majo and Jimmie. In the Barlow car were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Barlow and son Maurice, who was driving, and received lacerations to his forehead; John, Margaret Ann, and Mary, other children of the Barlows, and Mildred Melvaer of Toronto, guest of the family. The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer J. Hatch.

Queen Mary Sets Eastern Record

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 15 (AP).—Three days, 20 hours and 42 minutes is the new speed record for eastward crossing of the Atlantic by steamship.

The liner Queen Mary of the Cunard White Star Line made it in that time from Ambrose Light off New York to Bishops Rock, Scilly Islands, where she arrived at 1:42 p.m. Sunday to capture the Atlantic blue ribbon from the French Line's Normandie.

The average speed was 31.69 knots for 2,938 miles. The average to Cherbourg (3,094 miles from New York) was a bit better, 31.72 knots and Captain R. B. Irving felt this should stand as the liner's record. The time to Cherbourg was four days, two hours, 37 minutes. (Cunard White Star officials announced the Bishops Rock record).

"You see, Cherbourg is our first normal port of call in Europe," Capt. Irving said. "And the greater average speed to Cherbourg must naturally embrace a slightly lesser average speed to the rock."

Beats Normandie Over Hour

Her time to the rock clipped one hour and 25 minutes from the Normandie's best time. The Queen Mary also had bettered by one hour and 14 minutes the westward record of the Normandie, her pennant rival of the past two years, with a 30.99 average for three days, 21 hours and 48 minutes to Ambrose Light.

Shipping circles understood secret improvements were made to the giant liner while she was in drydock before the record-breaking journey, but no details were disclosed. Her performance was closely watched by construction engineers who will decide what modifications, if any, need to be made in plans for engines of the sistership Queen Elizabeth.

U.S.-Canadian Border 'Treat' After 12 Years In Europe

EDITOR'S NOTE: Andrue Berding, who wrote the following story, is a member of the Washington staff of the Associated Press. He returned to the United States last winter after spending 12 years in Europe, part of that time as chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Rome, Italy.

GANANOQUS, Ont., Aug. 15.—(AP)—When Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt dedicate the new international bridge across the St. Lawrence River at the Thousand Islands on Aug. 18, they will add another stone to one of the most amazing structures in history—the Canadian-United States border.

The writer has just travelled along hundreds of miles of this border while studying the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway project which long has been under consideration by the two countries.

After 12 years spent in Europe, it was an almost unbelievable experience. Gone were passport formalities, customs formalities, currency formalities, the usual half-hour wait beneath the prying eyes and fingers of guards and officials.

The writer had and declared a portable typewriter, a candid camera and a pair of field glasses—all objects of suspicion in Europe. There was no trouble.

9 Die In Rio Harbor

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 15 (AP).—Nine persons were killed when an airliner fell into the Rio de Janeiro Harbor today shortly after taking off on a flight to Northern Brazil.

Five of the victims were passengers and four were members of the crew. Their identities were not immediately available. The transport, operated by the Condon Syndicate, crashed near Ilha do Governador, an island in Rio de Janeiro Bay. Cause of the crash was not known. Heavy fog had delayed the takeoff two hours.

Canadian Income Tax Returns Soar

OTTAWA, Aug. 15 (CP).—Either Canadians paid their income tax more promptly or they are getting larger taxable incomes this year than last, revenue statistics showed today.

Collections for the first four months of the current fiscal year, April to July inclusive, were $19,714,794 greater than for the same period in 1937.

Total collections for the four months were $106,170,181 as compared with $86,455,387 last year.

Charlottetown, Quebec and Saskatoon were the only districts to show collections in lower volume than a year ago. Toronto collections were up $7,000,000.

Jap Discourtesy Angers Britons

SHANGHAI, Aug. 15.—(AP)—New Anglo-Japanese friction arose today as British naval officials accused Japanese of discourtesy to the Union Jack and molesting a British tugboat captain.

Japanese officials said the incident caused the British to dispatch the gunboat Scarab to investigate the occurrence near Tungchow, at the mouth of the Yangste River.

The British tugboat Victoria, under charter to a Japanese firm, was said by British officials to have been boarded by Japanese navy men, her captain trussed with a rope, and the vessel's Union Jack lowered unceremoniously.

A Japanese flag was run up in its stead.

The Scarab was believed to be in the vicinity still investigating.

Germans Rescue 14 Off French Ship Sunk By Mine Or Torpedo

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 15 (AP).—A German ship today landed 14 crew members from the French steamship Artois which sank in the Western Mediterranean last night apparently after striking a mine.

Officers of the French vessel refused to make any statement and went into conference with British authorities upon landing from the German steamship Theresia L. M. Russ.

Members of the crew said they believed the 439-ton Artois struck a mine although they admitted the possibility she might have ben struck by a torpedo. The Artois was enroute with a general cargo from Marseille to Casablanca, French Morocco, when an explosion rocked her near midnight and she began to sink.

In two boats the crew rowed until 8 a.m. when they were picked up by the German ship which was enroute from Hamburg to Algiers.

(Lloyd's register of shipping lists the Artois as operated by the French Societe De Navigation Cotiere. Its home port is Douen.)

Hamilton Trio Hurt In Argyle Crash

LINDSAY, Ont., Aug. 15 (CP). — Dr. Dweight S. Coons, his wife and a small daughter, Beverley, Hamilton, were brought to hospital here after an auto smash yesterday on Highway 46 in the village of Argyle. Hospital authorities said the extent of the injuries to the three persons were not determined.

The car, driven by Dr. Coons, collided with a car driven by Edward Gregory, Toronto.

Provincial Constable David Adair, Lindsay, said that Dr. Coons was proceeding south on the highway and that the Gregory car was being driven onto the highway from the west when the collision occurred.

The Coons car was turned over on the side of the road and ended up in the ditch, badly smashed.

Sawyer Arrested For Stealing Boat

GORE BAY, Ont., Aug. 15 (C.P.).—Police to-day held a man giving his name as Arthur De Rousche of Penetanguishene, Ont., on a charge of theft of a motor boat, found pounding against the rocks on the East Bluff near Gore Bay last Thursday night. The 32-foot launch is believed owned by James MacDonald of Blind River, Ont.

The man's wife and two children also were taken to Gore Bay.

Police said the woman told them the four had set out in the boat from Blind River for their home at Penetanguishene after De Rousche lost his job in a sawmill at Blind River. They ran out of gasoline and used an improvised sail to reach shore in the launch. The woman and children remained near the boat while the man went to Gore Bay. He was arrested in front of the post office here.

King Visits Morgan

ABERDEEN, Aug. 15 (A.P.). — The King left Balmoral Castle today to spend a few days' grouse shooting as the guest of J. P. Morgan, at the banker's Gannochy Lodge, Angus. The Queen, staying with her father, was to join the King later.

Mr. Morgan for years has been a neighbor of the Earl of Strathmore, the Queen's father. The King, since his marriage, regularly has opened the shooting season as a guest of Morgan.

'Cop-Hater' Wars Upon 250 Downs 5 Before Falling

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP).—Police delved into obscure phases of simple psychiatry today attempting to determine what started Charles San Filippo on the "cop-hating" career that ended in his death as the climax of a two-gun attack on 250 policemen at a Central Park memorial service.

Thousands of horrified strollers saw the madman, about 40, precipitate a brief pitched battle in which five persons—two of them policemen—were wounded

"I was going to try to kill as many cops as I could," he muttered as he lay dying with at least 20 police bullet wounds in the head

He came upon the outdoor memorial almost unnoticed yesterday afternoon, packing a rifle and a shotgun, and wearing crude, bullet proof breast plates. A speaker had finished his eulogy after a reading of the roll of the dead, answered by "absent" as each name was called; a light flickered out, too, at the name of each dead policeman. Then—shots from a double-barrel shotgun shattered the solemnity and in a wink

TWELVE CARS of merrymakers holding a corn roast in the Hiawatha district, near Port Credit, early Sunday morning were sent on their way by Port Credit police. Chief Wilson, with Constable Harry Block, investigated and asked the offenders to leave. No arrests were made.

Charge Lord Rothermere Encouraging Germany To Attack Czechs

By Pat Ussher
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Aug. 15 (CP Cable).—A charge that Lord Rothermere is encouraging Germany to attack Czechoslovakia was one of the highlights of an exchange of correspondence made public today between the newspaper-peer and Wickham Steel, former editor of the Times.

Mr. Steel fired the first shot in a letter dated July 18, asserting that an article by Lord Rothermere in his Daily Mail of the same date was "based on misleading information and may help to bring on an European war into which Great Britain would be drawn willy-nilly."

Lord Rothermere, replying, called Czechoslovakia a "monstrosity of a country" and contended that some of the Dominions would declare neutrality if Britain went to war over the Central European issue.

The Rothermere article had warned that if the Czech minorities question was not settled to the complete satisfaction of Germany by the end of September, no astute observer of European affairs "will consider Czech independence to be worth three months' purchase.'"

Mr. Steel in his letter remarked: "Why you should wish to weaken the defence of this country by encouraging Germany to attack and if possible obliterate Czechoslovakia is a mystery to me."

The Empire Next?

Chancellor Hitler would require at least 1,000 airplanes and 3,000,000 men to crush Czechoslovakia quickly, Mr. Steed went on. Warning that German domination of central and southeastern Europe was "an indispensable preliminary to a final German reckoning with the British Empire," Mr. Steed declared: "These airplanes and these men would be available against Great Britain and France were Czechoslovakia overthrown."

Youth Needs Transfusion After His Car Hurls 7-Ton Truck 45 Feet

St. Thomas, Ont., Aug. 15.

GEORGE H. LANGFORD, 21, (79 Bruce Street, London) was taken to Memorial Hospital here in critical condition, after an accident on No. 3 highway west of Shedden today. He drove his car under the rear of a truck standing with two flat tires on the pavement. His wounds include scalp wound, chest and internal injuries, compound fractures of left arm, badly smashed knee cap, and right elbow. He suffered also loss of blood and transfusions were necessary. His sister, Jean, was the first donor. The truck was owned by J. A. Stevens of Port Dalhousie and driven by Edward Haslam, (55 Cord Street), St. Catharines. The machine was loaded with vegetables and weighed about seven tons. Despite this the force of the impact drove it ahead 45 feet.

Jobless Balk At Work Upon Farms

Riverside To Take Families Away And Lay Charges

RIVERSIDE, Ont., Aug. 15 (CP)—Because unemployed family heads in this suburban Windsor town will not accept farm work, an investigation into relief conditions here will be made today by Walter Weese, provincial welfare inspector. Weese said he had 10 jobs open for Riverside men, of which two were accepted. One of the men who accepted quit work shortly after starting Saturday.

Weese said it might be necessary to place the families of employable heads in care of the Children's Aid Society. He added a vagrancy charge will probably be laid against Frank Foucault, father of five, who left the farm to which he reported for work Friday.

Forty-six heads of families signed declarations here Saturday stating their families had no food for the week-end. Each was given $2 which they must work out at labor prescribed by the department of works.

Phantom Of The Bronx?

San Filippo slumped to the ground and gasped his hatred of police, a hatred evidenced in two traffic summonses found in his possession, and in clippings at the family apartment in the Bronx. Some of the clippings told of the exploits of a "phantom of the Bronx" who killed two patrolmen and has fired on others in recent months. Others detailed the deaths of other policemen. Pencil marks encircled the officers' names and derogatory remarks about them were written in the margins.

At his home police learned, too, that the dead madman's father died of a stroke late Saturday, after 11 days of illness, just a few hours before San Filippo left home, the guns unnoticed, saying he was going to mail a letter. The shotgun belonged to the father, who used it on hunting expeditions.

Police said San Filippo's relatives told of his repeated wishes to die ever since he was injured by a motor car some 15 years ago. He formerly had been a cab driver.

Another "Duff" Case

"It's just another case of Lady Duff protesting her innocence too much," Mr. Hepburn said after he read press despatches of Mr. Ilsley's statement that the amendments in respect to gifts and stock trading companies were for the sole purpose of checking tax evasion and constitute no increase in taxation, no taxation of capital gains and no discrimination against the mining industry.

Premier Hepburn insisted the recent amendments do constitute new taxation and "another invasion" of the provincial avenues of revenue.

"While Ontario ostensibly owns its mines, the Dominion collects $3 for every dollar of revenue Ontario collects from the mining industry," said Premier Hepburn. "Despite all the statements that Mr. Ilsley and members of his staff may issue the fact remains that these two taxes that are being imposed under amendment of the Income tax act are a further invasion of the provincial field of taxation and a further handicap in the development of our mining industry."

Autos and Drownings Split 8 Deaths Falls, Train Add Three In Ontario Weekend Toll Of 11

TORONTO, Aug. 15 (CP)—Eleven persons were killed in Ontario during the week-end, four by automobile accidents, four by drowning and three from other causes.

Each of the four persons killed by automobiles were pedestrians. John Letters, 17, of Detroit was killed when hit by a car along a suburban Toronto highway. An inquest opens today into the death of Albert Hilles, 89, of Brampton who was killed as he tried to cross a road at Port Hope.

Stanley Jackson suffered fatal injuries when hit by a car at Marmora and Billy Bowden, five, was killed by a car at Deseronto.

Eddie Burnett, 20, of Detroit, was drowned in the Detroit River while swimming on the Windsor side, and James Cherry, 10, of Leamington, drowned in Lake Erie. Hyman Eckler, 46, drowned in the Rouge River, 20 miles east of Toronto.

Robert Earl Sweet, 17, ward of the Victoria County Children's Aid Society, left Haliburton for Lindsay seeking a job. He went in swimming in the Scugog River Saturday and drowned. His body was recovered after three hours search.

Twenty miles north of Lindsay, in Carden township, William I. Day fell from a wagon and suffered fatal injuries.

Lad's Lung Pierced

Five-year-old Donald Docker of Melbourne, Ont., is in hospital today in serious condition after removal of a splinter of glass from his lung. He is one of 15 persons injured in traffic accidents in the London district during the weekend.

The Docker boy was in a car driven by his mother, Mrs. Marjorie Docker which collided with a car driven by Miss Pridancy Kowalski of Milwaukee, Wis. Miss Kowalski suffered bruises and shock and her companions Miss Marion Huddy and Miss Isobel Ponsignat of Oconto, Wis., suffered lacerations and shock.

Dr. L. W. M. Freele of Glencoe performed an emergency operation on the Docker boy in Strathroy hospital. Glass from a broken windshield pierced his breast and entered the lung. Mrs. Docker suffered facial injuries and shock.

Jack Ellis, Kitchener, Ont., suffered head cuts when his car turned over in the ditch in London township after a collision. A trailer load of pigs in charge of Robert Warwick, Bluevale, was scattered over the roadway in the collision.

Kenneth Evans, Sarnia, was shaken up when his bicycle was struck near Hickory Corners. G. Jamieson, Strathroy, driver of the car which hit him, was apprehended by a touring United States policeman when he allegedly drove away after the mishap. Traffic officer Lemond charged him with drunken driving.

Motorcyclists Collide With Auto In Funeral Procession

Tony Ronco, 478 Rubidge street and Miss Kay Burrows also of this city narrowly missed death Sunday afternoon when the motorcycle they were riding went out of control on No. 7 highway near Omemee and crashed into the side of a car in a funeral which was travelling from Peterborough to Omemee Cemetery.

Ronco was travelling in the opposite direction to the funeral and as he approached the C.N.R. crossing looked down the track as a safety measure. As his eyes left the road the machine hit the tracks and zoomed out of control, plowing into the side of a car driven by Stewart Blake of Marmora. Both Ronco and Miss Burrows sailed through the air from the impact but escaped with minor body bruises, while the motorbike after striking the car went into the ditch.

Provincial Constable Gordon Broughton was escorting the funeral and riding at the end of the line. He saw the accident and immediately routed the funeral traffic around the damaged car, then gave first aid to the slightly injured pair. There was no traffic jam and the motorcycle was brought to this city for repairs.

Can't Join Husband Wife Writes Because She's Dead

Edmonton, Aug. 15 (CP)

A RESIDENT of Bonnyville, Alta., wants to take out his naturalization papers, but because his wife is living in Poland, he is having considerable trouble in obtaining them, court officials revealed Saturday.

He tried three times to have her come to Canada, but at the last moment each time she refused to leave her native Poland. The fourth time he tried, she wrote a letter in her own handwriting, that she was dead.

Here is the letter he wrote to the Court House asking for naturalization papers:

"I made the papers for my wife and children about three times because she said she wanted to come to Canada, but when I made the last papers and it was ready that she could go, she is dead, so that shows that she does not want to come."

Quints' Future Home Being Decided Today

TORONTO, Aug. 15 —(CP)— The Toronto Globe and Mail says today in a copyright story from North Bay that Oliva Dionne, father of the quintuplets, would be willing to give up his business of selling souvenirs and to submit himself and the rest of his family to the same restrictions imposed on the Quints if he were allowed to live in a new home with his famous daughters.

The Quints' guardians meet in North Bay today to decide whether Annette, Cecile, Marie, Yvonne and Emilie will within the next year leave their present home, Dafoe hospital, across the road from the Dionne farm home, for a new one in an enlarged park area somewhere in the parish of Corbeil or in a new home with their parents.

"We would like to have the children in some larger area in a permanent place on the shore of a lake," said Judge J. A. Valin, one of the guardians. "However, we may not be able to come to an agreement on that."

(Following a conference of the guardians last May, it was reported it had been decided to build a new home for the four-year-old girls in which they would be reunited with their family. It was indicated yesterday the decisions taken last May had not been definite.)

Dionne, who frequently has criticized the guardians' stewardship, said he definitely is opposed to the building of a new home anywhere except on his homestead where he and his 12 children were born.

New Building Essential.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe, physician to the quintuplets since their birth, said some arrangement must be made for the children in larger quarters. "We must have a new building," he said. "When those buildings were put up they were only temporary.

"We were not sure at that time that the children would live. They are overcrowded. Why all five are sleeping in one room. That cannot go on forever."

It is understood Dr. Dafoe is anxious that the Quints have a large park area, on a lake, for a home, but is opposed to their being taken away from the Callander district.

"Where else could they be better?" he said in answer to a question. "They were born here; it is a healthy country. Their parents are here."

Hurled Over Fence

BARRIE, Ont., Aug. 15 (C.P.).—Catapulted out of the left door of the car she was driving and hurled over a fence, Miss E. Smith, Niagara Falls, N.Y., escaped yesterday with abrasions.

According to Provincial Constable Frank R. Dobson of Barrie, Miss Smith was injured when her car collided with a car allegedly driven by Donald McKenzie of Russell Hill Road, Toronto. McKenzie and a passenger, Mrs. F. H. Wilkes, was uninjured, while Hazel Smith, in the other car, suffered bruises to the left knee and thigh.

When Mulligans Forgave Corrigans

Punishing him for his unlicensed ocean trip, Irishman Mulligan grounded Irishman Corrigan for five days—while the latter was aboard ship, bound for New York from Ireland.

Profession and Reception Is Held At Mount St. Joseph

Impressive was the ceremony of Religious Profession and Reception which was held in the chapel at Mount St. Joseph this morning. Many relatives and friends of the Sisters were present.

Holy Mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock by His Excellency Most Rev. Denis O'Connor, D.D., LL.D., assisted by Rev. W. Corkery, Deacon, and Rev. E. J. Welsh, subdeacon. Rev. V. J. Masterson, D.D., was master of ceremonies. In the sanctuary were Rev. J. Kehoe, C.SsR., London, Ont.; Right Rev. Monsignor McColl, V.G., P.P., Lindsay; Very Rev. F J O'Sullivan, V.F., P.P., Immaculate Conception Church, Peterborough; Rev J. J. O'Brien, P.P. Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough; Rev. J. Ferguson, P.P., Warkworth; Rev. J. V. McAuley, P.P., Campbellford; Rev. V Gillogly, P.P., Ennismore; Rev. G. Maher, Rev. C. Moloney, Rev. C. Begley, Peterborough; and Rev. J. Killen, Cobourg and Rev. J. J. McCarthy, P.P., Douro.

The sermon preached by Rev. John Kehoe, C.Ss.R., Director of the Retreat, brought out in very striking way that Religious Life is woman's best response to the two great Commandments which God gave us as the fulfilment of the Law—love of God and love of the neighbour. Sacrifice is the supreme test of love, and the sacrifice which Religious make in offering themselves is most complete. Love of the neighbor is fulfilled perfectly by the zeal practised in all the work which religious communities undertake.

The beautiful Gregorian chants and hymns sung by the Sisters' Choir were truly inspiring. Particularly appealing in sweetness and purity of tone were the "Kyrie and Sanctus" from the Missa Orbis Factor arranged by Rossini.

The following sisters made perpetual vows: Sister M. Bernadette, Porth Arthur; Sister M. Rosanna, Fort William; Sister M. Lenore, Fort William; Sister M. Rosamond, Peterborough; Sister M. St. Frederick, Peterborough; Sister M. Emerilda, Markstay, Ontario; Sister M. Vincentia, Port Hope; Sister Stella Marie, Peterborough; Sister Mary Jean, Douro; Sister M. St. Wilfrid, Ennismore; Sister M. Gervase, Almonte.

St. Agnes; Miss Beatrice Lalande, Cobourg, will be known in Religion as Sister M. Clotilde; Miss Mary Fitzgerald, Peterborough, will be known in Religion as Sister M. Loretta.

Heart Removed And Replaced Again

"I can feel my heart beat for the first time in years," declared Alick Mortimer Watkins, 27-year-old shipping broker of Melbourne, Australia, as he rested at San Francisco, Calif., after travelling there from Rochester, Minn., where he had gone for treatment after his doctors at Melbourne had told him a stone layer was forming around his heart and that he had just six months to live. Dr. Stuart Harrington, Rochester surgeon, in a delicate operation requiring five hours, took out Watkins' beating heart and cut away the stone-like formation. Here the near-victim and his wife examine an X-ray of Aleck's heart region.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15 — (CP). — Possibility of the United States Government subsidizing wheat exports provided the Winnipeg Grain Market with a major bearish factor to-day.

At the close, prices were 2⅛ to 2⅛ lower with October at 67¼, November 67¼a, December 75⅞ to 76, and May 78⅞ cents.

Offsetting this factor were precipitation in Western Canada that would delay harvesting and uneasiness in the Far East.

The session was featured by nervousness on the part of traders although it was generally dull.

America Could Well Pattern on English Divorce Law, Which Prevents Couples Being Legally Separated For Three Years After the Marriage Date

THE new English divorce law contains one feature that we might well copy, and that is that it absolutely bars divorce for any cause whatever for three years after marriage.

Three years may not seem a long time to put up with a husband or wife for whom one has lost one's taste as compared with the thirty or forty years that the mismated had to undergo in the days when a marriage was a until-death-do-us-part proposition but it will go a long ways toward discouraging those repeaters who change their mates as often as they do their automobiles. Also it will cramp the style of those blithe spirits who marry for adventure and because they will try anything once, or because everybody else is doing it and they know if they don't like it they won't have to stick to it. They can step around to the divorce court and get their freedom back and encore the wedding march as often as they like.

One of the things that makes every thinking person sick at heart is the number of divorces among young people. Every day we see fine young boys and girls getting married with every prospect of living happily ever afterward—as the fairybook stories say—and yet it seems to us that we have hardly got home and taken off our wedding-guest garments until we hear that they have parted and are getting a divorce.

What's the matter, we ask in a horrified whisper. Has John been philandering or turned brute and beaten Mary? Has Mary committed the unpardonable sin? Oh, no, is the reply. Not at all. John is a splendid fellow and Mary is the sweetest girl in the world, and they haven't even quarreled. They are still the best of friends, but they found out that they didn't thrill each other after marriage as they did before, that John liked to play golf while Mary loathed it, and that Mary was all for symphony concerts while John couldn't stand anything but jazz, and so they just thought it best to part.

So the world is full of young men and women in their twenties who have already had two or three or more husbands and wives apiece and who will doubtless go on adding to their collection of ex-mates until they hobble to the altar on crutches. If their experiments in marriage had taught these youngsters any wisdom; if they had acquired any intuition in the selecting of their mates; if at last they had found husbands and wives nearer to their heart's desire than the ones they have discarded, something might be said in favor of cafeteria divorce, but such is not the case.

Almost without exception you will find these much-divorced young people, disillusioned, dissatisfied, no better suited with their last husband or wife than they were with their first, finding that in swapping partners they have only changed one set of faults for another, no easier to be borne.

No one can doubt that many and many a marriage that goes into the discard would be saved if the disgruntled boy and girl who throw the whole thing up because they have discovered that they are married to ordinary human beings instead of pin-feathered angels and that marriage means work and responsibility instead of a petting party were bound together by a three-year contract that neither could break.

That would give them time to think over the situation and to discover each other's good qualities as well as their bad, and to find out that if marriage brings burdens it also brings great rewards. That would give them time to adjust themselves to each other and to settle down to the real business of life. And that would give them time to become a habit to each other which is, after all, the strongest tie that binds a man and woman to each other.

The truth is that marriage is like every other business or profession. There is no quick success in it. It takes time, patience, hard work and sacrifice to learn how to be a good husband or wife just as it does to learn how to be a good banker or doctor or lawyer.

Every business man has a dozen failures before he makes a fortune. Every writer could paper his room with his rejection slips before he becomes a best seller. It takes doctors and lawyers years and years to get to the head of their professions. To make marriage a success requires just the same courage and ability to take it.

And that's why the law requiring husbands and wives to give marriage an honest three-year trial is going to save many a divorce.

Do You Know?

A pan of salt under the shelf of the oven on which a cake is maked will prevent the cake from burning?

❖ ❖ ❖

A little lard or butter rubbed on a spot made by motor oil, and then washed with soap and rinsed well, will remove the stain?

❖ ❖ ❖

Foods will not stick to new tinware if the utensil is rubbed over with lard and heated in the oven until quite hot? Wipe thoroughly with paper table napkin or tissue and the pan is ready for use.

❖ ❖ ❖

That a shallow pan filled with water and placed in the oven when baking cakes which require long, slow cooking will keep the cakes moist and give a glaze to their surface?

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"It is a great art on the Christian life to learn to be silent. Under oppositions, rebukes, injuries, still be silent....By remaining silent the mind is able to collect itself and to call upon God in secret aspirations of prayer."—T. C. Upham.

Dear Friends:

It is a great art also in daily life to learn to be silent. I used to get all in a dither if someone did anything to hurt or annoy me. Not so long ago a friend asked if I were going to let something go, if I were not to get up on my ear and tell them a thing or two.

And I replied quite tranquilly that it would be taken care of. She could not understand my attitude at all. She said, "I always remembered you as a fighter, one that would not take anything lying down." I replied again, that it would be taken care of, and that I was not lying down in any respect.

So, we threshed the matter out. I told her when I got all worked up about little things it made me rather ill, my nerves bothered me, and so I had learned to be still, and while I was still I noticed that if I did not deserve what had come, the other always came out the loser, and generally tried to be friends again.

So she asked if I had any idea how this came about, and I told her that for years I could not understand the part in the bible where it said, "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord; I will repay."

It did not seem logical to me that someone could come along and deliberately hurt me, and I had to sit back and do nothing about it. Yet I noticed when I did do something, I hurt myself more than I hurt the other, and it became too much bother.

So, I shut up, I said nothing at all. And after awhile, to my amazement, I found the ones who had hurt me so much were being hurt themselves, and in my wildest moments I could not have humbled them as they were being humbled.

It's a grand feeling to let that load of resentment slip off you, to feel that you need not lift your voice nor your hand, that all the hurts or slights, all the unfairness will be taken care of without any effort of mine.

The old Scotchman had it down fine when he told a friend who was angry at another, "Say naething Sandy. Dinna utter a word. It's mair Christian, an' besides it'll mak' them mair mad than onything ye can say."

I find it works too, when you are bothered with those who talk too much, (and we all have spells of that). Let them talk on, just nod or say yes or no, and in a short time they will run down. Have you never talked to someone who acted like that, and came away feeling you had opened your mouth too much? It's a raw feeling.

We need each other, we must not let ourselves get so tightly wound up that we are liable to break our main spring, but we don't need to talk and talk. Remember too, that if you deserve a thing, take your medicine, give your apology, make things right as far as you can.

"Silence is golden, and speech is silvern," but this does not apply all the time. There are times when silence is cowardice, and speech is great courage, especially when some principal is involved, like telling the truth about another when lies are being told.

If you will not speak of the help God has given you, how can you expect to go back for more? And if you are too much of a coward to speak up for your friend, how can you look for them to do it for you? And your day will come.

But, instead of going around with a chip on your shoulder, just remember things will be taken care of if you leave them to God.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

A Real Boy Likes A Shipshape Room

Without knowing exactly what he wants, a real boy likes to find himself in a rather workmanlike room, with a stout floor covering, and practical shelves for books and toys; a table desk, too, where he can draw his first cartoons, and a bed that looks like one a man might sleep in.

A recent model room shows us the way to his heart. It has custom-built furniture of sand-colored bleached walnut, with a cut-out design of dolphins.

Built along practically sturdy lines each piece is scaled to child's size. The nautical setting of red, white and blue has a dash or two of black for variety's sake, and a black linoleum floor.

We Wish Them Luck

The second annual convention of the Rural Mail Carriers' Association of Canada is to be held in Whitby early next month and it is announced that the main topic of discussion will be a request for the present contract system of delivering rural mail. We can only wish the Association luck. Their request is a topic upon which The Examiner has written frequently, earnestly and without the slightest result so far as changing the system was concerned.

For some reason or other, although the newspapers have repeatedly attacked the unfairness of the contract system and the public when interviewed on the subject seemed unanimously in favor of a more satisfactory method of paying for delivering rural mail, the Federal government—and it has not mattered in the least what party happened to be in power—has steadfastly refused to alter the system. The usual explanation has been that the contract plan is the cheaper and the matter has been allowed to go at that.

We do not believe that answer is satisfactory. Granted that it might cost more to pay rural mail carriers a regular salary for their work on a mileage basis as is done in the United States we refuse to think that the people of Canada want Canadians to work in the government service under such unsatisfactory conditions as pertain in the rural mail section of the post office department. Under the prevailing plan there is no guarantee of permanency. A rural mail carrier may give the best of service during his term of office and then find himself ousted by some competitor who has the mistaken idea that delivering rural mail is a matter of easy money and accordingly offers to do the job for less remuneration.

That he usually finds he is mistaken is not much satisfaction for the contractor who has been gently oozed out of his position as a rural mail carrier.

The Association will have no difficulty in preparing a strong brief in their behalf but we are sorry that we do not feel justified in predicting that the appeal to Ottawa will accomplish a great deal. Previous efforts failed dismally and there has been nothing to indicate a change of heart at the Capital

A Fitting Gesture

In deciding to tender a dinner to Hon. P. W. Dewan, Ontario's minister of agriculture, during his visit to Peterborough this week, and to have the county council present as guests, the city council is making a hospitable gesture that will be endorsed by the community.

It is only proper that civic recognition should be taken of Mr. Dewan's visit.

In the first place he is a new member of the Ontario cabinet and this is his first official visit to Peterborough, so on that account alone the council would be doing the fitting thing to welcome him officially.

And then the civic dinner is justified as a recognition of the fact that the minister of agriculture is giving very generously of his time this week to an institution that is dear to the people of this community, namely, the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition.

Not only has he cheerfully consented to open the Exhibition officially on Thursday but he has so arranged things that he will be here on the opening day of the fair, Wednesday, and show his appreciation of the work that is being done for and by the farm boys and girls of Central Ontario, by attending the junior farmers' dinner that night and his presence will be appreciated by both hosts and guests at that always successful and enjoyable function.

Hon. Mr. Dewan has made a favorable impression upon the public during the comparatively short time he has been in office and has succeeded in conveying the impression that he is genuinely interested in the problems of the farmer and anxious to make agriculture more profitable and more pleasant for those who follow it as a profession. Many folk in this district are looking forward to his coming because of the good things they have heard about him since he was appointed to his important position as "boss" of Ontario's department of agriculture.

Where Do They Go?

We have been hearing a little locally about what became of a certain number of beer bottles and somewhat on the same line but covering a far more extensive field is the problem of what becomes of all the milk bottles that disappear from the scheme of things and are seen no more so far as the dairy companies are concerned.

The question comes to the fore by reason of the fact that the United States Department of Agriculture has been doing a little delving into this homely but interesting matter and it has, as a result of its investigations, issued the official statement that the average span of existence for a milk bottle in the United States is thirty-five trips to the dairy.

The lifetime of a bottle varies considerably. Some dairies pay much more attention to their bottles than others, and make a particular effort to have them returned, and in their case it has been found that the average is fifty-one trips. Other milk concerns are more or less haphazard in their methods and with such dairies the average is twenty-two trips. We are told that a few sturdy old-time bottles were discovered during the official survey which achieved the somewhat remarkable record of surviving ninety-one trips which is par for the course.

As to what becomes of the bottles the investigation has not succeeded in producing any great amount of information. Breakages of course are inevitable but do not begin to account for the disappearance of bottles. Peterborough's dairies have endeavored to solve the mystery because this cost of glass containers for the lacteal fluid is one of the biggest single items of expense in the milk business, but their research work has not produced much more data than Uncle Sam's investigations. There is, however, a strong suspicion that a good many of the bottles that were originally purchased for the purpose of delivering milk eventually find themselves tucked away in some cellar storehouse, containing a toothsome showing of canned peaches or exhibiting the lively hues that go to make up the color scheme of chili sauce.

In other words the home budget benefits while that of the dairy companies takes a beating.

An Editor Takes a Chance

Newspapermen generally will feel like extending congratulations to George W. James, editor of the Bowmanville Statesman, first upon the ingenuity he has shown in having his work done during his absence on a holiday trip, and secondly upon the courage he is displaying in leaving his valuable newspaper in the hands of the municipal council and the service clubs of the town.

The editor of the Statesman is at present in Vancouver presiding over the sessions of the convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, of which he is president, and when that gathering has dispersed he will spend some time visiting Western cities.

During his absence his editorial duties are being assumed for one week by the members of the town council, the Lions' Club will provide the editorials during the second week and for the third issue the members of the Rotary Club will either "point with pride" or view with alarm" as the circumstances warrant.

The town fathers have already had their innings and it is recorded in the Statesman that council members took a very active interest in the project, "the special committee meeting and discussing the editorials for several hours."

The result of their efforts appears in the current issue and Mr. James' confidence has been vindicated for the councillor-editors have turned out a very commendable page in which they have succeeded in furnishing a lot of helpful and interesting information as to the duties of the elected and appointed officials of a municipality as well as discussing two timely topics, the reappointment of a public health nurse and the assessing upon the ratepayers of a sum sufficient to provide an extension to the High School.

The Bowmanville editor took somewhat of a chance but the experiment has justified itself. The municipal rulers, forgetful of any criticism their actions and policies might have had to endure in past issues of the paper, passed up an opportunity of flaying Ye Editor while he was far from the scene.

We do not know whether or not we would like to run a similar risk in connection with The Examiner. The Peterborough aldermen might not have such short memories or such forgiving natures.

Kingston's Frankness

Of course the Brockville Recorder and Times has always been inclined to look at Kingston through green spectacles. Nevertheless when the R. and T. records the fact that during the recent visit of Premier Mackenzie King to the Limestone city he was informed by the spokesman for Kingston that if his government continued to spend money in Kingston "we will continue to express our appreciation" it is opening up an interesting topic.

If the Kingston folk really put the thing as baldly as that we imagine that sets a new record for political frankness. There is absolutely no finesse about telling a political leader that the whole municipality can be bought if the price is high enough.

The game of politics should not be played as crudely as that; after all there has to be a certain amount of subtlety in all such things and it is distressing to say the least to have a municipal spokesman come right out in open meeting and say to the Prime Minister of the country, "Use us right in the matter of public money and we'll deliver the goods at election time."

Surely there must be some one in Kingston with sufficient tact at his disposal to enable him to put over the same idea without having to come out nakedly with the statement that the place is for sale politically if the price is right.

Possibly that may be the Kingston idea of rugged honesty but at all events it is not a sample of first-grade political technique. Barkis may be willing but there is no need of publishing the fact from the housetops; the news that he is willing will get around to the right quarter without any broadcasting.

Red Tape Is Cruel

Nice things—and true things—are said at every international gathering about the thousands of miles of unprotected border between the United States and Canada. Speakers ring the changes on the fact that for over a century and a quarter there have been no guns or forts along that long border line and audiences from both sides of the boundary applaud enthusiastically.

It is a gratifying condition and the expressions of friendship thus voiced are unquestionably sincere and yet there is a boundary between the two countries and it has a habit of asserting itself at times in a manner that is cruel, almost inhuman.

The story of Mr. and Mrs. Maxime Richard and their family explains what we mean.

The Richards are Canadians, but for some time have been living in Gardner, Mass., where they have been on relief. Recently the United States authorities discovered that their entry into that country had been illegal and they were ordered deported to their native land. There is not so much to find fault with in that. The cruelty of the thing becomes obvious, however, when it is added that when the Richards began their plans to return to Canada they found that they would have to leave their eleven-year-old son Gerard in the United States for the reason that he had been born in that country and the Canadian officials refused to allow him to enter Canada until the father can guarantee his support.

Just when that will be no one can say. The family has been on relief in the United States and it will not be an easy matter to get on its feet again. In the meantime the boy is an orphan, living on the charity of another country which on the other hand has helped to bring about his plight by exiling his parents. And Canada while opening her doors to the parents slams them in the face of the son, because the father and mother, although Canadians, happened to be living across the line when he was born.

Red tape in both countries dominates over human relationships and the result is a divided family and distress for all concerned. We have no guns along the boundary, and sometimes it would seem as if we lacked common-sense there too.

NOTE AND COMMENT

So far as Ontario is concerned Premier King must have an idea about this time that it is all Opposition.

Premier Hepburn has been celebrating his 42nd birthday but there were few messages of congratulation from the Federal government.

A movement is on foot to repatriate as many North American negroes as want to settle in Africa. We can think of a couple of colored swing bands that we hope will be interested in the project.

There is one thing about showers of meteors. The fact they are seen at their best at between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning affords an excuse for being out late.

A Montreal man was fined $10 for being drunk in charge of a horse. A good lawyer might have convinced the court that the horse really had charge of the man.

Ontario has withdrawn completely from the deliberations of the Rowell Commission. More and more this province seems to be arriving at a state of splendid isolation.

A British Columbia woman led a field of 150 sharpshooters into the final round of the Governor-General's competition at the D.R.A. meet. Perhaps Kipling was right about the female of the species being deadlier than the male.

CATS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ A bob-tail cat lives up by me, as homely as a cat could be, it has no color scheme; some parts are black and brown and white, it yowls and hunts around at night, its eyes are pale and green.

¶ The bob-tail cat has ways and plans, knows how to search the garbage cans, knows how to dodge a brick; knows stuff that's good for it to take, how long to sleep and when to wake; in fact it's never sick.

¶ A fancy cat lives near there too, its hours of liberty are few, it's seldom out to play; they brush it careful as they can, it knows not of the garbage can, well fed it is each day.

¶ It knows not that the world is hard, it never ventures from its yard, its tail is very great; it never bares its claws to fight, nor does it wander forth at night, and sing its hymn of hate.

¶ But when the fancy cat comes out, just when the bob-tail cat's about, and if they're there alone; the fancy cat will turn and run, just like the firing of a gun, and it will make for home.

¶ Dogs leave the bob-tail cat alone, he's tough as any bits of stone, he fears no child or man; no person feeds the bob-tail cat, alone he goes and settles that—lives on the garbage can.

Canadian Unity Is Under Study

(By DR. R. W. FRANK)

GENEVA PARK, Lake Couchiching Aug. 15. The problems in Canadian unity which have been under study and discussion here for four days have done nothing if not impress the listeners with the seriousness of the conditions that surround u.

The failure of the Canadian public, perhaps no different from the public of many other countries, to see, or want to see, anything beyond their immediate vision does not help the situation. It is true the suffering of the last eight years has done wonders in breaking down class distintions, political alliances, and outworn theories, but much has yet to be accomplished by way of creating an enlightened public opinion on our common problems.

Such institutions as this Congress are doing marvellous work. May I note also the university extension lectures held each year in our local Y. M. C. A. and the frequent lectures held in the Y. W. C. A. attended though they are by a mere handful of our citizens, their work is of untold value. I must also mention the George St. forum as a fine effort in this direction, but it is not patronized to anything like the extent of its work. Keep this in mind for this winter.

Scores The Press

The regret has been expressed here of the absence of a Canadian periodical press, we being dependent almost entirely on the United States, and Professor Underhill was most scathing although he asked the press to report him lightly, in censuring the daily press on its failure to recognize its responsibility to its Canadian readers. Our newspapers are no longer local enterprises it was said, but mammoth organizations running into millions, exercising a vertual monopoly, and voicing the opinions only of those favoured few who own them.

Incidentally the opinions of millionaire owners may not exactly coincide with the millions who own nothing.

But serious though all our Canadian problems are I do not think the country is going to disintegrate just yet. In 1891 Sir Wilfred Laurier wrote to Edward Blake expressing the belief that Canadian Unity could not prevail. (He had just lost the election of that year). Goldwin Smith said the same; But here we are, forty years older and five times as big.

That last sentence introduces however a dangerous, and all too common tendency that is to say, the attitude that we pulled through it before and we will pull through it again, trusting to blind chance or some unseen force to accomplish what we ourselves are too lethargic to tackle.

No Inexorable Force

Then are no natural or inexorable forces in either economics or politics. Our conditions are the result of man made laws, and if an enlightened public opinion does not make them as they want them made then we will have to put up with them as they are. They were made to please or benefit someone, and if that someone happens to be a very small minority of the population that is just our own fault and don't blame it on anyone else.

Now one hopeful sign in the midst of all this gloom is that public opinion is evolving though slowly, to a realization that governments are for the benefit of the governed. One might have to look hard to find that opinion but it is latent, and ere long will find common expression in a demand for action for the common good. The spectacle of national governments setting for eight years through the most inexcusable and devastating depression the country has known without expecting a single fundamental improvement, is a spectacle that soon will no longer be tolerated.

Our Worst Enemies

Precedents and tradition are our worst enemies but they are deeply intrenched. No progress has ever been made except through deviation from existing paths and the daring exploration of the unknown. We perpetrate the achievements of our pioneers, in song and story but we forget the debt we owe to the example of those indomitable men and women in conquering new conditions.

If ever there was a time when we needed pioneers it is today, not with axe and hoe but with thought and pen. The obstacle of public lethargy is as great as even the forests of an earlier day, the vision just as grand.

The work of our forefathers laid the basis for the production of wealth we cannot conceive, and nature provided us with the materials to make it with. Our scientists gave us the process and our culture gives us the demand. Their remains only the means by which this wealth can be distributed. Therein lies our field for pioneering. If we need no longer bend our backs in arduous toil, we must needs knit our brows in sober thought. Precedent will not provide a plan, nor intolerance make the task easier.

Only One Guide

There is one guide and one guide only, and that is the vision of what we want to achieve. Do we want to waste our lives quibbling about what political party rules us or do we want a better world to live in? The answer aught to be easy and the task can be done. It requires only the force of public opinion to make the demand.

After seeing this conference in session for the last four days and setting in almost reverential wonder at the intellectual capabilities, the unquestionable sincerity, the altruistic ideals and the fearless courage of this wonderful body of men and women one realizes that we have the pioneers we need, and if not in abundance then numbers will grow, for these men and women can nought but inspire others to emulate their exalted sense of public duty. In that hope and in its accomplished fact lies the solution of our problems.

• When the Iroquois Ruled

(By J. W. Curran at The Sault Star Writing From Montreal River)

KENNETH G. ROSS, who is always on the bush end of the job for Lang and Ross probably gets more out of life than most men. He loves the bush, and Indians and his Algoma gang, of which he is inordinately proud. Hand picked, great workers and most of them have been with him for years and years. Ken was with the engineers in France during the Great War and Sam Chappice, a Cree from Moose Factory, now on the Montreal River job was there too. They were old bush friends. Sam had been over in London on leave.

"Did you have a good time?" asked the engineer, and when Sam said yes, he was asked if he had got lost in the big city.

"How could I get lost when I didn't know where I was to begin with?" said Sam.

Mr. Ross has spent most of his life in northern wilds. He talks Ojibway and Cree Knows Hudson's Bay factors and is conversant with bush life and Indian ways. To him every man is "as good as the next and a darn sight better" as the Irish say. His bush experiences by trail and river give the true atmosphere of the north. He tells something new about Michipicoten.

The mouth of the Michipicoten River shifts from time to time. The old Hudson's Bay post lands covered 400 acres on the south bank, running from the Lake Superior shore back to Michipicoten Mission. This was taken over some time ago by the Great Lakes Power Co. The factor's solid stone house with great fireplaces in every home still stands, a mile up the river. At the mouth of the river is a jack pine ridge. In this has been found fine pieces of pottery identified by experts as of Iroquois make.

The Michipicoten was for ages the route to Hudson's Bay,—the Michipicoten, the Missinabie and the Moose forming a river route to "the bay." So the claim that Michipicoten derives from meche or michi (big, important, etc.) and pey-quad-in, (landing place or port,) rests on reasonable grounds.

The Iroquois were in possession of the St. Lawrence when Jacques Cartier, first of white men visited the river in 1535, proceeding as far as Montreal Island. Subsequently in 1603, Samuel Champlain found the tribes speaking the Ojibway dialects holding the river. Indian history suggests that whoever held Montreal Island likely dominated the Ottawa River route to the Great Lakes.

There is no record previous to Cartier of the story of the Canadian interior, so that the identification of much Iroquois pottery on the Michipicoten comes as a startling sidelight on the situation previous to the discovery of America. The Crees of James Bay have the same word for the Iroquois as the Ojibways, the Ottawas and many other great lakes tribes. Does this argue that all these knew the Iroquois as a common enemy? The Iroquois never came north of the Soo during the French regime, or at least the old records have no mention of such raids, outside of assaults on the Indian tribes of Lake Nipissing and Abitibi or Temiskaming.

In the light of the Michipicoten finds, a lot of our ideas about Indian history will have to be revised.

• Anyway It will Be A Long Report

(From The Montreal Star)

PREMIER HEPBURN'S decision to have nothing to do with the Rowell Commission comes a little late. The Rowell Commission has done its work. It had two jobs to put through, a major job and a minor job.

The major job was to provide the various Governments concerned with alibis for their continual neglect of the thorny problems sticking out from the "fretful porcupine" of Federal-Provincial relations. This it has done, and is doing. It is killing time to the King's taste (no particular "King" specified). Obviously, it would be bad form, not to say bad taste and bad judgment, to expect the Dominion Ministers to try to do anything important and permanent about delimiting the embattled frontier—bristling with more "incidents" than the Manchurian frontier—that divides the legislative territory of the Dominion from that of the Provinces while their own impressive and expensive Commission was out gathering data on the subject. Thus as an excuse for delay, the Commission was and is a great success; and nothing that Mr. Hepburn can say will take from it the glory of this achievement.

Its minor job was to offer an air-conditioned chamber—at the public expense—in which all the faddists, all the cranks and all the professional theorists in the country could get rid of their high-pressure surplus of "hot-air". Hard-worked Provincial officials were likewise conscripted to lend an air of reality to the proceedings, and these latter must have left a residue of facts which the Commission is now doubtless digesting.

So the work of the Commission is practically done. The printers and the tabulators will probably make quite a lot of money out of it, but Premier Hepburn's withdrawal of his sunny smile will neither interrupt nor diminish their activities. It is fair betting that we will presently have several heavy tomes of printed evidence which nobody will read, except the paid proof-readers. In fact, everything will go ahead according to schedule, even if the Ontario Premier will no longer "play" because that old "meany", Mackenzie King, has snitched a little more from the heap of gold collected by his (Hepburn's) mining friends, for the benefit of the Canadian people, the original owners.

Of course, the Commissioners must now make recommendations. That was in the contract. But unless they trim very carefully their logical deductions from the evidence to meet the "political exigencies" of the case, their recommendations are likely to go the way of all Royal Commission proposals—into the discard. The practical politicians in our ten capitals will study them with scornful eye-brows, and then adopt such quite different measures as seem practicable—and politically profitable.

• Farm Jobs and the Unemployed

(From The Windsor Star)

COUNCILLOR THOMAS LESLIE, of Toronto Township, declares that although Peel County farmers are in urgent need of harvest help, they can't get it. Able-bodied relief recipients, Mr. Leslie charges, have refused to take farm jobs, flatly informing welfare department officials that they will consider only hourly work on highway construction. Mr. Leslie adds that he advertised in vain for men for his own farm, offering $2 a day and board though the average wage paid in Toronto Township is $25 a month and board.

"There is still lots of work available in Peel County," Mr. Leslie points out, "but these fellows on relief simply won't take it. I know farming isn't the nicest job in the world, but someone has to do it, and it doesn't seem fair to leave the farmers short-handed at harvest time while these men lie around and draw relief cheques."

True enough, it doesn't seem fair. It isn't fair. And there shouldn't be relief cheques available for able-bodied men who decline to work when jobs are offered them. Why should the hard-working taxpayers of Ontario be digging up funds to pay men of this type? It's ridiculous on the face of it.

One appreciates that there are plenty of really deserving people on relief, people who can't get jobs, people who are unable to do heavy work. For them there is every sympathy, every desire to continue relief payments to the utmost of our ability. But for the able-bodied man who won't take a job because it doesn't appeal to him, or because he doesn't like the conditions or the rate of pay, there can be no sympathy at all. That man is not entitled to keep on eating at the taxpayers' expense.

We recall a conversation with one of these fellows. He asked us where he could get a job. We said we didn't know exactly, but recalled that only a day or two before a farmer had been telling us that it was difficult for him to get help. When we mentioned this to the unemployed man—he was single and strong and healthy—he promptly replied that he was a city man and that he would starve to death before he would ever take a job on a farm.

One can have no feeling of sympathy for, no further desire to help a man of this type. He simply doesn't deserve either and most certainly he deserves no help from the public treasury.

THE COST OF WAR

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

HALLET ABEND, of the New York Times, recently presented the following figures as representing leading items in the cost of the Japanese invasion of China.

1,000,000 Chinese lives lost in actual combat.

500,000 to 1,000,000 lives lost in accompanying floods and famine.

$5,000,000,000 loss in Chinese property.

$2,000,000,000 loss in trade.

In addition, there are the crippling losses suffered by Japan which some economists consider the prelude to national bankruptcy and ruination.

It's the old story. War is essentially destructive, and victors as well as vanquished are the losers in the long run.

It is now inconceivable that Japan will be the victor. The land of the Sun God will be extremely lucky if she is still in possession of her stolen Manchurian territory when China and Russia get through with her. It is a repetition of militarism grown over-confident and made to pay for its folly and crimes.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND WE KNOW that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose. For whom he did foreknow, he also did predestinate to be conformed to the image of his Son, that he might be the firstborn among many brethren. . . . What shall we then say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us? Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? . . . Nay in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us. For I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. —Rom. viii, 28, 29, 31, 35, 37-39.

Blessed is every one that feareth the Lord; that walketh in his ways. For thou shalt eat the labour of thine hands: happy shalt thou be and it shall be well with thee. . . . The Lord shall bless thee out of Zion, and shalt see the good of Jerusalem all the days of thy life.— Psalm cxxviii, 1, 2, 5.

PIONEER HISTORY

(Barrie Examiner)

COMMENTING UPON a suggestion that histories of pioneer families be published, an exchange says: "Not only are we interested in family histories but we are interested also in the history of communities and churches. The weekly newspaper is usually the historiographer of its community and we are anxious to have a record of pioneer families and pioneer days from which future generations may learn of the period during which their forebears wrested from the wilderness a living, and made clear the way for our succeeding civilization."

Something along this line might be done by the Women's Institutes of Simcoe County, which are gathering material for a history different from that already published. Geological trees are noth what is required, but interesting facts regarding the early conditions and the stages of advancement down through the years. Stories of the experiences of the loyal, courageous and industrious pioneers should hold many lessons for succeeding generations.

NOT GUILTY.

(Victoria Times)

GOLDENROD is coming into bloom over wide stretches of the country, and inevitably is being unjustly accused of causing late hay fever. This is exasperating alike to botanists and physicians. Botanists know that goldenrod pollen is too heavy and sticky to be borne by the wind to the noses of hay fever sufferers. Doctors agree with them, and wish that people would place the blame where it belongs — on the terrible masses of ragweed that also come into bloom at about this time, but are usually ignored because their flowers, though prolific of pollen, do not have the bright, attention-catching petals of the goldenrod.

TWO WORLDS

BY MAUD McCURDY WELCH

READ THIS FIRST:

Determined to show Dr. Julian Paige, the man she is in love with, that she can make her own way in the world, Noel Shayne, wealthy society girl, burns her bridges behind her, moves to a rooming house, obtains a job as a taxi dancer at the Peacock run by Nick Luigi. She is living with a girl named Laurie Evans, whom she met in the park, and who is a cashier at the restaurant which Julian patronizes. Noel feels she has a dangerous rival in Ruth Chester, Julian's pretty nurse. On an outing in the country, Julian tells Noel he wants to kiss her but doesn't think he should. One evening at the Peacock, Luigi tries to kiss Noel. She slaps his face and threatens to quit. Noel gets a job in a laundry, but loses it after three days because she doesn't work fast enough. Then she sees Dr. Paige walk down the street arm-in-arm with Ruth Chester.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 16

NOEL WENT to the peacock feeling more discouraged than she had at any time. As long as it seemed she was getting a little further along in her plan to show Julian that she did have stamina, and could stick out any situation, no matter how seemingly intolerable, she felt that everything was worthwhile. But she hadn't convinced Julian at all. He still refused to take her seriously. And she had gotten herself in a position from which it seemed she couldn't extricate herself.

It was awful—having to go back to Nick's when she had thought she had finished with the place forever. She didn't believe Nick would make himself obnoxious again, at least not soon, but he would keep his eyes on her just the same, for all the world like a black ugly spider watching for a chance to ensnare an unwary fly.

It was the oldest comparison in the world, of course, Noel knew, but nothing else would quite express the situation. Nick with his black mustache, his pale eyes and coal black hair was like nothing else quite so much as a spider. She loathed him and the entire place. If she hadn't made it impossible, she was right at the point where she would gladly quit and give up the whole idea.

But Noel knew she wouldn't do that. She had gone into this thing with her eyes open, and she wasn't beaten yet. She knew she'd have all sorts of ups-and-downs, problems to meet. And she was learning so very many things. First about herself, and just how right Julian had been. She had had more money than she knew what to do with. And she hadn't used it for any purpose except to toss around for any transient pleasure she thought might prove diverting for the moment.

She hadn't known that everywhere in the world there were girls like Laurie, gallant and brave, fighting an unequal battle against the world, craving beauty and the finer things of life, which girls in Noel's position took for granted.

Once Laurie had said with a wistful smile: "I saw an orchid today in a florist's window. It was so beautiful it made me want to cry.

Noel had thought about those words of Laurie's.

She reached the Peacock at last and hurried to change into the hateful brocade gown. When she came out ready to begin dancing, there were not many people on the floor. But she was beseiged at once by several men who claimed her first dance. It required tact to decide which one should be first, for Noel knew she could not afford to antagonize any of the men who patronized the Peacock.

One of the men asking for a first dance was a young man she hadn't seen before. Of course she danced with strange men every night, and three minutes later, she couldn't have told whether they had pink hair or green eyes. The only thing that mattered was whether or not they could dance, without stepping on her small, tired feet. If they were able to dance even half way, she was grateful.

But this young man stood out from all the others because of a certain refinement and ease of manner. He wore a tweed business suit, with a crisp white linen shirt and a black four-in-hand tie. His hair was blond, and brushed back from his forehead in a neat shining wave. Noel looked at his hiar a little critically, wondering if those regular waves had been put there by a hairdresser. But aside from his hair, there was nothing of the dandy or fop about him. He was entirely masculine, with an air of being quite capable of coping with any problem which might arise.

Dancing with him was a delight. Noel could almost wish she didn't have to dance with anyone else during the entire evening, But of course she would have to—Luigi discouraged too much dancing with the same man, and as usual his pale eyes were watching.

So Noel permitted herself one dance with the stranger, and then sat down at a table with him. He ordered cocktails instead of the usual beer. As he lifted his glass, his grayish green eyes sought hers questioningly. "What on earth is a girl like you doing in a place like this?"

Noel smiled at him over the rim of her glass. "One must do something," she answered nonchalantly. "A girl has to eat, you know."

"But why this place?" the young man persisted. "There must be a dozen others, more respectable, catering to a better clientele."

Noel shook her head. She had tried other dance places. "There seems to be a hundred girls for every job like this," she said. "It's a sort of—well, easy way to make a living."

"But not for you," the answer came pointedly. Then he leaned over the table and said earnestly, "Don't you know that your dancing is exceptional and that you yourself are very lovely?"

At that moment Nick came over with one of the men who had claimed Noel's first dance. The music was beginning. Noel rose at once, and suffered the other man to put his arms around her and off they danced. The blond young man lifted his hand in a graceful salute.

A few minutes later he cut in. Noel knew Nick wouldn't like that, but she made up her mind she wasn't going to let it worry her.

"My name is Chris Landers," the young man said. "What's yours?"

Noel told him. Then he said, "Listen, Noel, I'm going to see you again. I like you, and I'm crazy about dancing with you, and I have an idea —", but he didn't finish for just then the music stopped with an unusual abruptness. Noel knew Nick had had it stopped.

Chris led her to a chair. Then he said "Good night, Noel, and goodby until I see you again. It won't be long."

She looked after his tall graceful figure as he made his way to the entrance.

Then she was being claimed for other dances. The evening seemed endless after Chris had gone. Each partner she had afterward seemed bent on monopolizing her dances. She wasn't even allowed a breathing spell between them. But she did get back to the table where she and Chris had sat and finished the cocktail she had left there. If it hadn't been for that, she didn't know how she would have finished out the time until the Peacock was ready to close.

At last it was time to leave for home. Noel made her way tiredly to the dressing room. All the girls were chattering and laughing but they stopped when Noel came in, most of them regarding her with cold looks. They were jealous of the favors Nick tried to show Noel, even though Noel had not really accepted any favor that was not tendered the other girls as well.

Noel sank into a chair for a moment or so. Her head was beginning to ache rather dreadfully.

Maida wasn't here tonight, and Noel missed her. Maida was such a gentle, timid little thing. Noel was convinced that she was sincere in her proffered friendship, and it had seemed so pleasant to have her company on the way home.

After a few moments, most of the girls were gone and Noel rose from the chair, feeling a little better. She slipped off the brocade gown and put on her blouse and suit skirt. It was getting too warm for the coat.

The dressing room door opened and Noel looked up with a feeling of dread. So many times Nick had opened that door. But it was only Pansy, the colored maid, whose skin glistened like black satin and who was seldom around when she was needed.

She came over and said in a whisper to Noel. "Mister Nick say he wants to see you 'bout something very 'portant."

One of the girls who was still in the dressing room said with a sneer as she slipped her arm in that of another girl's, "Ain't it something to stand in with the boss?"

Noel paid no attention to her. She said to Pansy, "Tell Mr. Luigi that I'm not interested in anything he has to say."

With that she walked out.

Car Smashes Verandah Post Of House Finally Comes To Rest Inside Door

A car smashed into a verandah at the home of Eddie Reid, George Street North, Sunday night, and after breaking a verandah post continued on its way, finally coming to rest with one front wheel and the front bumper inside the front door of the Reid home.

The car was being driven east on Parkhill Road, and the driver turned right to proceed south on George Street. Apparently the steering gear locked as the car failed to straighten out but kept on turning to the right, climbing on the verandah. Damage was not extensive, although the door sill will need repairs.

The car is said to have been driven by Miss Irene Killoran, 525 George Street, and was owned by Edward H. Jones, 490 Cambridge Street. The car received only minor damages. Constable Clarke investigated.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

By MAX TRELL

"I HEARD a very sad story today," Mr. Punch was saying to Knarf and Hanid, the shadow children, the other evening.

"A sad story, Mr. Punch?" Hanid said.

"About what?" asked Knarf.

"About a lump of sugar. He lived at the bottom of the sugar bowl and he was very large. He had a name, too."

"What was his name?"

"His full name was Lump of Sweetness, but his friends at the top of the bowl generally called him Lump, for short. Now, in spite of his name, he was anything but a lump of sweetness. In fact, he was quite sour."

"You mean he was a sour lump of sugar?" Hanid said.

"Well, not exactly. He didn't taste sour. But he felt sour. You see, he was very envious of the lumps of sugar at the top of the bowl. He thought they were having a great deal more fun than he was having. He'd always keep saying to the other lumps of sugar at the top, they're a fine lot. No sooner is the lid lifted off the bowl at breakfast or lunch or tea or dinner than out they go. It isn't fair that they should go out and see the world white I, the largest lump of sugar of all, should have to remain my whole life long at the bottom of the heap."

"And what happened, Mr. Punch?"

"One fine day he made up his mind that he wasn't going to remain at the bottom of the heap any longer. Just then the sugar bowl was set out on the dinner table, and a moment later down came the sugar tongs, looking for a lump of sugar to take out. And Mr. Lump of Sweetness shouted: 'Here I am, Tongs! Take me, for I am the biggest lump of sugar of all! Take me out into the world'"

"And did the tongs take him?" the shadows asked.

"Oh yes. It did, indeed. It seized him tightly about the middle and pulled him up, right past all the other lumps of sugar. 'This is wonderful!' he cried. 'I'll never go back to that crowded sugar bowl again!'" Mr. Punch paused for a moment to sigh. "And he didn't. He fell right into a cup of hot tea and melted."

Chief Justice Latchford Dies Seriously Ill Only Few Day

TORONTO, Aug. 15.—One of Canada's most noted judicial authorities, Chief Justice Francis Robert Latchford of the Appellate Court, died at his home here Saturday. He was 84.

Chief Justice Latchford had been seriously ill for a few days before his death, and prior to that had been in ill health since completing his court sittings in June. He brought to the Ontario court a wide experience garnered from a successful career at the bar and in politics.

Prior to his elevation to the bench as a Judge of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice in 1908, Mr. Justice Latchford had been a member of the Ontario Legislature for Renfrew South from 1899 to 1905. He was a Cabinet Minister in the Legislature, being Minister of Public Works from 1899 to 1904, and Attorney-General in 1904 and 1905.

It was as Minister of Public Works that he saw the beginning of construction of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. Much credit was due him for the opening of the North's mining districts, as he was an apt student in geology and mineralogy. He retired from politics when the Ross government, of which he was a member, was defeated in 1905, thus bringing to an end 33 years of Liberal rule in Ontario.

After he retired from public life he gave much attention to mining matters and became President of the Cobalt Lake Mining Company, and of the Nipissing Central Railway, which later was acquired by the T. and N.O.

Called to the bar in 1886, Chief Justice Latchford began the practice of law in Ottawa. He was appointed King's Counsellor in 1899. Then came his appointment to the High Court of Justice in 1908. In 1923 he succeeded Sir William Mulock as Chief Justice of the Second Divisional Court of the Appellate Branch of the Supreme Court of Ontario, Sir William becoming Chief Justice of Ontario.

Mr. Justice Latchford was born on an Aylmer, Que., farm and received his education at Aylmer Academy, Ottawa University and Osgoode Hall, Toronto. His parents had come from Ireland and were among the pioneer settlers in the Hull district.

In 1890 he married Miss Frances O'Brien of Ottawa and had five sons and three daughters. A daughter is a member of the community of Doretto and a son, Rev. Stephen B. Latchford, entered the priesthood. Dr. James K. Latchford, Toronto; Austin M., Ottawa barrister, and John and Leo Latchford, also are sons.

Rev. Stephen Latchford will sing the Requiem High Mass at his father's funeral at St. Basil's Church here Tuesday.

Girl Cyclist Is Hit By Car Lakefield Road

Loose gravel is blamed for an accident on Saturday evening which sent Miss Fern Brown, 13, River Road to Nicholls Hospital with concussion and numerous body bruises. Hospital officials report today she is showing slight improvement but is still in a semi-conscious condition.

The girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Brown, River Road and had been riding her bicycle north on the Lakfield Road near the Filtration Plant carrying a parcel, shortly after seven o'clock when she noted a car coming from the same directions. She pulled over to the shoulder of the road but in so doing lost control of the bicycle in the loose gravel and fell against the right hand side of the moving car. Her head is believed to have struck the front fender well and running board and she was dragged a short distance.

Ed. Armstrong, 40 Dagmor avenue, Toronto driver of the car, stopped his car in a very short distance, telephoned for a doctor and police and gave every assistance to the victim. Provincial Constable Gordon Broughton who investigated the accident exonerated him of any blame in the accident.

The girl was taken to Nicholls Hospital where it was discovered she had concussion and remained unconscious until late Sunday afternoon when she began to rally.

Armstrong had been visiting friends in this city and at the time of the accident was taking several children on a fishing trip.

Canada Packers' Pay Increased Forty Per Cent.

LAKE COUCHICHING, Ont., Aug. 15—(CP)—Five wage increases given employees of Canada Packers, Limited, since the 1931 cut, has put wages today 40 per cent above the 1929 mark, J. S. Willis told the Canadian Institute on Economics and Politics here today. He was discussing employee representation schemes adopted by the company:

"Employee representation schemes now in operation in the company's plants are an improvement on the older conception of trade unionism and a refined evolution from it," he told the seventh annual conference.

"Our Plant Relations Committees form a link binding individual employees to the greater entity, the company," he said. "The company integrates the individuals, adds dignity and importance to their work. The company is no mere sum of 5,000 individuals but a team of 5,000 whose profits and happiness are by-products of doing its job well."

Mr. Mosher attacked the A.F. of L. for its "lack of a constructive and progressive economic philosophy" and declared it lacked "understanding of the necessity and possibility of economic and social reform." He said it consistently avoided criticism or analysis of the capitalistic system, "apparently believing this beyond its powers."

here there was nothing but courtesy. The language was the same, the people seem the same, signs were different—being in both English and French—automobiles were the same, money the same (since Canadian and United States currency had equal acceptance, the exchange being practically at par.)

Frequently you see boundary markers defining the 5,526 miles of border between the United States (including Alaska) and Canada. There are 8,060 such monuments.

On one side of the monument you see the words "United States" and "Interatioal Line" and on the other "Canada" and "International Line." Also the number of the monument and the date of the treaty governing that section of the border.

Occasionally you come across a border forest strip where a swath 20 feet wide has been cut through the woods to keep the boundary line open and the border monuments visible. Fifteen hundred miles of forest area have been so cleared.

At international highways handsome ornamental concrete shafts designate the boundary, one on each side of the road. Bridges are marked with bronze tablets. When the boundary runs through a body of water the monuments are placed on the shore.

The work of the Canadian and United States Commissioners of the International Boundaries Commission, Noel Ogilvie and Thomas Riggs, has met with high praise. Typical of the feeling across the border is the fact that the two commissioners have been warm friends from the time 35 years ago when they were young surveyors together in the Cascade Mountains.

The writer had occasion to cross back into the United States twice to visit strategic points of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project. On neither occasion was his name asked. Only the fact that he was born in Ohio, his wife in Tennessee, and his daughter in Rome, Italy. Even this last birthplace caused no comment. The border seemed more symbolic than real.

amendment will not adversely affect provincial revenues," said the minister. "On the contrary, if it accomplishes to any extent the purposes the Dominion parliament had in mind it will tend to maintain unimpaired the sources from which the provinces as well as the Dominion derive income taxes and to preserve intact the estates upon which ultimately provincial succession duties will be levied."

(Premier Hepburn had claimed the amendment would reduce provincial returns from income tax and succession duties.)

The other amendment provided that where a company was wound up and assets were distributed to the shareholders without sale or at a price below their market value, which assets, if sold, would have produced income for the company, the minister would have power to determine the value of the assets and the distribution to the shareholders would be deemed a dividend.

The amendment was prompted by a particular case of a company engaged in buying and selling securities. This company had paid income tax on its profits. It now proposed to wind up and distribute its securities to its shareholders although at current values they represented a profit to the company.

"I do not think anyone would consider this government had done its duty if such a transaction were allowed to go free of any tax either in the hands of the shareholders of the company," said the minister.

One misunderstanding which had arise was that the clause imposted on tax on capital gains. This was not the case. The tax now as before was on income and a distinction was drawn between profits made by a company in the business of buying and selling securities and increases in the value of property held by a company incidental to operations other than mere trading operations.

Mining companies were in no different position under the new law than other companies or than they were before. In that industry no tax was imposed on the individual prospector but prospecting and devolpment companies obtaining profits from buying and selling mining properties, claims or securities were taxable on profits made.

There might be marginal cases in which opinions would differ as to whether a particular syndicate or company was a development or trading enterprise. Such cases were subject to review by department officers and ultimately tax-payers had the right to appeal to the courts.

The amendment was no breach of a promise not to impose new taxes on the mining industry. The promise was that the government would not impose special or discriminatory taxes on that industry.

The government appreciated the importance of the industry and had already shown its desire to encourage it by grants for mining roads and liberal allowances for depletion under the income tax law.

The Rowell commission, said Mr. was studying financial relations between the Dominion and provincial governments with a view to reporting on ways of securing a better equilibrium between responsibilities and revenue sources of the different governing bodies.

It was hoped its study would aid in the solution of the financial difficulties some provincial governments had experienced in recent income tax could be an affront to the

Under Wreckers Storied House

MONTREAL, Aug. 15—(CP). — To most passersby Frobisher House is merely an old, five-storied building which recently housed a shoe factory and now is being torn down. But to some it reflects the glory of an older Montreal, of a virile young city where French and English adventurers more than 150 years ago swaggered along the narrow, newly-laid streets that cut sharply back from the broad St. Lawrence River.

In 1783 Benjamin Frobisher erected the building and under its high-raftered ceiling he planned the North-West Company, which less than 40 years later was amalgamated with the Hudson's Bay Company. Twenty years' ownership of the place is shrouded in mystery, but about 1846 a Mrs. A. T. Julien transformed it into an hotel.

Renovated in 1872, it became the smart rendezvous for the gay bloods of the day. Still the centre of attraction, it was visited two years later by a stranger of aristocratic bearing, who signed the register as "Charles Lormier."

While he went upstairs to his room, whispers began to circulate in the lobby. Did not the young stranger bear a marked resemblance to a certain Frenchman of royal blood? Before the whispers were answered, though, "Charles Lormier" was found on the floor of his room, a tiny pistol ball lodged in his forehead.

Driver of Death Car Charged With Criminal Negligence

A criminal negligence charge against Archie McIntyre of Otonabee arising out of an accident on the Keene road in June, as the result of which Arthur Drummond, 14, of Otonabee, who was knocked off his bicycle by McIntyre's car, died of injuries afterward, was heard before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court today.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., prosecuted in the absence on holidays of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., and Hon. G. H. Gordon, K.C., appeared for McIntyre

The Crown evidence closely followed that given at the inquest. Allan Drummond, cousin of the dead boy and Stewart Manley of Otonabee, were both riding their bicycles in company with young Drummond on the evening of the accident which occurred at the foot of the Tree hill on the Keene road, gave their impression of what had happened. They told how the three had been riding east down the hill en route to Keene for a swim with Manley and Allan Drummond in the south track and Arthur Drummond in the north track and how McIntyre drove down the hill behind them and finally struck Drummond's bicycle.

Did Not Hear Horn

Allan Drummond swore that he did not hear a car horn sound and his first intimation that an automobile was coming was when he heard it in the loose gravel. He did not see the actual crash.

Manley, describing Drummond's movements just before the accident, said that the boy had tried to move to the south side of the road, and when he found he could not make it he had swung back toward the north side when he was hit by McIntyre's car, about two feet from the side of the road. Manley said he did not hear a car horn until the automobile was close behind them.

Dr. Wright of Keene gave medical evidence as to the injury to the knee sustained by young Drummond in the accident and as to his death afterward as the result.

To Mr. Gordon, the witness said that he had talked with McIntyre in his office immediately after the accident and there was no smell of liquor from his breath.

Lou W. Parks, photographer, identified several photographs of the Keene road at the scene of the accident which were put in as exhibits.

Father Testifies.

William Drummond, father of the dead boy, testified to seeing McIntyre at the doctor's office and later at the hospital. At the hospital he said McIntyre was talking loud and using not very good language." He told witness that the "little devil had run right in front of him." A day or two after he told Mrs. Drummond in answer to a question that he had "stepped right on the gas" when he was passing the boys.

"At the hospital his breath smelled strongly of liquor," Drummond stated.

"I object most strongly to this evidence being introduced," said Mr. Gordon. "It is improper and irrelevant. One of the Crown witnesses, Dr. Wright, has already sworn that he saw McIntyre in his office soon after the accident, and there was no smell of liquor about him."

Drummond said that it was two or three hours after the accident when he saw the accused at the hospital.

To Mr. Gordon, Drummond admitted that he had been dissatisfied with the verdict given by the coroner's jury exonerating McIntyre of all blame in connection with the accident.

Questioned by Magistrate Gee, Drummond testified that when he talked to McIntyre outside the doctor's office he had not noticed anything wrong with him then. He had not smelled his breath.

Mr. Kerr started to re-examine the witnes sand there was a strenuous protest from Mr. Gordon. In a moment or two the two were engaged in a red-hot argument which ended as Magistrate Gee adjourned court for luncheon with the two lawyers standing toe-to-toe in the centre of the ring and swapping verbal lefts and rights.

Skeleton Found

The bleached bones of a skeleton have been found by boys in a shallow grave near Whitby, Ont., and according to Acting Chief Constable John Thomas, who holds the skull of the "victim," the find may explain the mysterious disappearance 19 years ago of Ambrose Small, Toronto theatrical owner, whose vanishing caused a nation-wide sensation. Toronto police, however, declare that the skull found shows dental condition which does not tally with that of Small as he disappeared.

Plan To Rip-Rap Water Front

A stretch of the water front at Lakefield is likely to be rip-rapped similar to the Crescent Street bank in the city, according to information from the village which J. J. Duffus, M.P., has verified. The work was proposed as an employment project for the reason that Lakefield had not received much assistance in that respect, and also because it was regarded as a permanent improvement to the river front in the centre of the village.

Mr. Duffus informed the Examiner Saturday that he had promised Reeve Tanner and the other members of the council that he was recommending the Lakefield job for priority over any other federal work, and he believed it would be approved by the Department. As to the extension of the rip-rap around Point St. Charles, Mr. Duffus said it would probably be undertaken to complete the work of last summer bringing the stone shield around to the George street wharf.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, August 16

A day of many advantages and surprising developments is read from the sidereal operations. Benefits in employment may be brought about by elders. These may involve change, travel or new relationships or new plans, with some unexpected angles. But beware of mistakes or misunderstadings in connection with contracts or writings.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of surprising developments in their employment or other affiliations with those in power or authority. These may be approached with assurance for favors or other tokens of esteem and appreciation. Progress and promotion may call for a definite change of environs and rearranged plans. But in writings and contracts, be sure to leave no loopholes for misunderstandings or fraud.

A child born on this day may have much efficiency and versatility to warrant its ambitions and aspirations. It may win the attention of elders and those in high places whose favors and esteem it will enjoy.

2500 Homes Been Inspected

Captain Archie McDonald at the Fire Department has inspected more than 2,500 homes in this city during the past five months in his efforts to keep fire losses low. He was placed in charge of hazard inspection by Chief George Gimblett, who inaugurated the move with the backing of the City Council.

One of the chief causes of fires in the city is defective wiring, according to Captain McDonald. "People don't worry as long as a wire will give them light," he said. He has found all manner of defective wiring, installed by home owners themselves and not inspected as the law requires.

Another place where amateur electricians are apt to cause fires is in fuse boxes. In his rounds Captain McDonald has found in place of fuses pennies, pieces of steel, saw blades, tin foil, rim bolts, cotter pins and countless other substitutes. Such practices are dangerous to an extreme, he warned.

Dirty and defective chimneys and pipes lead to many a fire because tenants often believe their landlords should clean them. "The landlord should not be expected to keep a house clean," said Captain McDonald. Ashes in wooden and cardboard boxes form another hazard.

Man Given 14 Days Stealing Vegetables

Pleading guilty to stealing groceries from a car owned by Thomas Montgomery which was parked on Charlotte street Saturday night, Fred Hamilton, 28, was sentenced by Magistrate Gee to fourteen days in jail.

The accused said he had had a few drinks when he committed the offence and Inspector Reid stated that the groceries had been restored to their rightful owner.

Hamilton admitted that he had been in trouble before and had served a month in jail for "picking up a mackinaw."

"Had you been drinking then, too?" queried the Magistrate. "Yes" declared the accused.

"It looks like as if we will have to protect society against you," remarked Magistrate Gee in imposing sentence.

Bats In Buzzers

MICHELL, Ind., Aug. 15 (A.P.).—Bats in the switchboard "buzzers"—not the belfry—interrupted telephone service here. Night Operator Vera Bass called police, who killed 21 invading bats with boards and brooms before normal service was resumed.

Successful Trip Had In North By A. L. Elliott

Alex M. Elliott, M.L.A., and D. B. Faulkner, local manager of the Bank of Commerce, sizzled like the rest of Peterborough's folks in the temperature of 94.5 this morning, but by contrast they recalled the chilly air of Manitoulin Island Saturday night when for comfort they had to get in their automobile, close the windows and turn on the heat.

Their vacation took them up to the Mississauga timber reserve, to Algonquin Park, the Timagami Reserve and westerly to the Sault. At Burnt River they met J. J. McFadden, who at 75 years of age is the head of the Blind River Lumber Company, the largest turbine lumber mill on this continent. Mr. McFadden acquired the property three years ago when the town was on relief and the outlook seemed hopeless. Mr. Elliott said the mill is producing 250,000 feet of lumber a day of 10 hours. He saw a gangsaw of 26 saws, cutting nine square logs at once, and often turning out 2,000 feet of inch lumber in one cut. There are between ten and eleven miles of paved highway through the yards, and all the operations are motorized, the local transportation on "gerlingers" and other modernized methods of speeding up piling operations being of special interest to the laymen. Last Spring's cut of timber was 120 miles up the river, but its speed delivered the logs to the mill in 48 hours.

Mr. McFadden has spent $250,000 on roads in his timber limits, and in spite of his age he is engaged in reforestation plans as though his 75 years signified nothing.

Mr. Elliott and Mr. Faulkner flew over the Timagami Reserve, and were greatly impressed by the extent of the tourist industry in all that section of the province. The Timagami has 750,000,000 feet of standing virgin pine. Some of the land is under timber license, but when that timber is cut it will likely terminate operations. One of the general regulations requires that timber be not cut beyond the first ridge from any lake. The purpose of that rule is to maintain for all time a view of standing timber from the water. The two Peterborough men attended the Taft Highway convention at the American Sault, commemorating the completion of the highway from Florida to the Sault.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

GOT AN ADJOURNMENT.

Two men, charged in police court this morning with being drunk, were given an adjournment in order to enable them to secure money to pay their fines.

ADVOCATES AWNINGS.

Awnings for the windows of the police court building were suggested as an absolute necessity by one of the lawyers, who sweltered in the Turkish bath atmosphere of the court-room this morning.

HOLIDAYS DELAYED.

Magistrate Gee, who was to have been on vacation today, was on the bench at police court this morning. His holidays have been delayed because of the illness of Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell of Port Hope.

TESTS COMPLETED

The Jersey cow, Bentleigh Inist Rose, bred and owned by F. C. H. Best & Son, Omemee, Ontario, has recently completed a 305-day, junior 3-year-old record of 6,957 pounds of milk, 345 pounds of fat with an average test of 4.96 per cent. In the same herd the junior 4-year-old cow, in 305 days, has produced 7,007 pounds of milk, 420 pounds of fat with an average test of 6.00 per cent.

PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION

A demonstration of a new type of fire nozzle of radical design, slated forf the end of the month, will be open to the general public in addition to interested merchants and garage owners for whose property it is essentially designed, according to Fire Chief George Gimblett.

"SOUL."

"Soul" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The golden text was, "Hear me speedily, O Lord:...cause me to hear thy loving kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust: cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee." (Psalms 143: 7, 8). Selections from the Bible, including the following from Deuteronomy 4: 39, "Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook included, "Soul, or Spirit, is God, unchangeable and eternal; and man coexists with and reflects soul, God, for man is God's image."

GIRL HOOKS AUBURN BASS

Esther Simmons, 14 Mill street, brings new evidence of the fishing resources of the Otonabee River within the city limits. Esther is only six year sold, one of the youngsters in the north end of the city who swim and fish in the river, the summer centre of their play. At the place where they swim, above the Auburn dam, Esther caught a 2½ pound bass with a minnow hook, a screw nail for sinker, and an improvised rod about eight inches long that might have once been part of a table tennis outfit. When even the children can catch bass of 2½ lbs. in the city's section of the river, but its speed delivered the logs self ranks with Rice Lake and Katchawanooka as well as stocked fishing grounds.

THREE MORE NEW HOMES

Three building permits covering the building of new homes within the city limits have been issued so far this month to keep the total for the year climbing. Cyril Agnew is building a house for Nathan Fine on Charlotte street west, Fred Robson has on underway for Donald Hill on Gilmour street, and Russell Henry has started a bungalow for John Smith on Downie street.

CATCHES NICE MESS OF BASS

Ed. Shortt is another fishing enthusiast who can catch plenty of fish without venturing far from the city. Saturday afternoon he caught the day's limit of bass within an hour and a half using dew worms as bait and fished in the Otonabee River between Nassau and the Waterworks. Every fish he took weighed more than a pound and eleven others he returned to the water.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Constable Leo Murphy of Parkhill Road reports that since the Examiner carried a story of his uncle, "Mede" Gagnon, catching a large lunge in the goose pond just below Murphy's home, it is hardly to safe to venture into the back yard for fear one might be snagged on a fish hook or plug bait. Many youngsters and veteran fishermen evidently follow the adage that "seeing is believing" and are now attempting to hook a lunge where the other was caught. At any rate they have invaded the river bank along the west shore and south of the bridge in great numbers, armed with casting equipment.

400 FINISHED BRICKS STOLEN.

Approximately 400 first grade red bricks were stolen this week from the Curtis Brickyard east of the Low Bridge on Parkhill Road. The thieves must have used a truck to haul out the plunder and made their trip the only night that the night watch was off duty. The owners are confident the bricks will be recovered.

FARMERS FAVOR RED BANDANNAS.

Several years ago large red and blue bandanna handkerchiefs were popular among the farmers, and all other outdoor workers, but gradual reduction in sales resulted in this merchandise almost disappearing from the store counters. A style change, however, in which the large bandannas are now popular as kerchiefs for girls to wear around their heads has brought the large handkerchiefs back, and the storekeepers find more farmers are buying the bandannas as neckerchiefs and for general use than are the girls, for whom they were originally intended.

GARDEN LOVERS LAUD DOG CATCHHER.

Many people in the city have remarked on the scarcity of stray dogs this year and will probably be interested in knowing that 86 stray dogs, unclaimed by anyone have been destroyed in a humane manner by the dog catcher during the course of his work this year. This no doubt has accounted for the scarcity of the animals which in other years, trampled flower beds, ripped grass off lawns, spilled garbage from containers and in many ways annoyed the people who take pride in the appearance of their home surroundings.

RECORD BLACK BASS CAUGHT.

Miss Jerine Doris, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Dorris, King Street, hooked the largest small-mouth black bass caught so far this year, on Saturday afternoon and successfully landed it alone. The fish weighed exactly five pounds and was a perfect specimen. Jerine had been fishing with her dad at Eastview on Buckhorn Lake, and was using a live frog as bait when the bass hit. Her father caught four others and every one topped the scales over the 2½-pound mark.

Duplessis Helps Hepburn Celebrate

Celebrating his 42nd birthday on his spacious farm near St. Thomas, Ont., Premier M. F. Hepburn of Ontario played host to a gathering including Maurice Duplessis, premier of Quebec, with whom he is shown ABOVE, as he drove him around for a look at his farm. The visit of his neighboring premier had no political significance, according to Hepburn.

The Rambling REPORTERS

FOUR SHIRTS ELECTROCUTED

A freak electrical storm at Marmora over the week-end depleted the supply of shirts owned by a prominent business man of the town.

The maid had washed the shirts and hung them out to dry, pinning them by the tails in the approved fashion on a wire clothesline when a brief but violent electrical storm hit the locality. The lightning struck the wire, zoomed along until it reached the shirts which caught fire and fell to the ground, with the rain extinguishing the flames leaving the tails of the four fine shirts badly charred. The wearing apparel was recovered and laundered once more, minus tails, and the owner decided he would still wear them. Despite the hot weather he must keep his suit coat on as the shirts have been shortened at the back to a point well above the belt line, but not high enough for a sun tan style. P. McG.

Parkhill Road Gas Station Robbed Of $29.65

A break-in at the McIntosh service station on Parkhill Road during Friday night gave thieves a total in cash of $29.65 and a cheque for $35, making the third time that the station has been successfully robbed in the past ten years.

Evidently the thieves knew where to look for the money as they ignored a safe and cash register and ransacked a first aid cabinet, which was used to conceal the money left overnight in the station, then left the station through a window at the rear. Tires, batteries and other accessories were ignored by the marauders.

Later a trucker reported to police he had noticed nickels and a cheque while driving down a lane in the business section, and recovered $1.55 in silver and the cheque along with a receipt which had also been taken. Police are confident the money had only been in the lane a short time when the truck came along as children frequent the lane during the day.

Detective Sergeant William Meagher and Acting Detective Piercey are investigating the case.

Charge Reduced By Magistrate

Robert Robinson of Fort Colounge was charged in police court this morning with illegal possession of wine, an offence that would have meant, in the event of conviction a $100 fine or three months imprisonment.

However this was a lucky morning for Robinson whose story that he had been on his way home from the Corps Reunion in Toronto and had run into some comrades in Peterborough and continued the celebration here carried some weight with the magistrate.

Accordingly the accused was allowed to plead guilty to a charge of illegal consumption and escaped with a $10 fine, with the alternative of seven days in jail.

Ohio Visitors Well Pleased With Kawarthas

Proof that the lure of the Kawarthas as a summer playground remains after many visits is given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ray and their son, Buddy of Willoughby, Ohio, who have been coming to Healey Falls to spend the summer for seven consecutive years.

"The first year we came to this district," said Mrs. Ray, "we bought a lot, and the second year we built a summer home." I count the days from the first of May until I can get back into Canada, she added.

The tourists were in the city on a shopping tour, and Mrs. Ray had just bought two dresses. They entered Playmor Sports for some tackle and needed a 3-cent stamp. The girl clerk told them where stamps might be purchased, but when she learned only one was needed the girl gave the tourists one from the store's private supply and refused to accept payment.

Mrs. Ray used this as an illustration of the refreshing courtesies which are extended American tourists everywhere.

No One Ever Grouchy.

"Canadians certainly deserve the business that comes from the tourist trade," Mrs. Ray added. "A holiday can be spoiled if one runs across a man or woman who is mean or grouchy but so far in our seven visits here, we have found it just the opposite. If we ask anyone directions, they look at our license plate, and then go out of their way to see that we get to our destination the shortest way." In conclusion, she added, they intend to keep right on visiting Canada and the Healey Falls district until retirement and then they hope to move into Canada for good.

Mr. Ray, who is a member of the Willoughby Township Police Force in Ohio, came to bat with a boost for Constable Jack Rodgers who happened along the George Street beat as the Ray car drove up. "We neeedd a few directions and asked the cop," remarked the American, and this fellow was perhaps the most pleasant officer I ever had the pleasure of meeting, fact is I have met so many sour ones that perhaps it is the comparison that made me notice it so much." He expressed approval of the blue shirts and Sam Brown belts worn by the city police as part of their summer attire. "They look smart and are comfortable," said Mr. Ray.

The visitors remarked that the cost of living in this district is far below the cost in the United States, so that Americans who budget their holiday expenses using figures from home usually find they have plenty left over to spend for luxuries. They said all of their summer shopping which is extensive is done in Campbellford and Peterborough, and Mrs. Ray was delighted at the variety of women's clothes and other merchandise.

OBITUARY

CHARLES N. PERRIN.

Older residents of South Monaghan and district will regret to learn of the sudden death of Charles N. Perrin, of London, Ontario. A member of one of the best-known pioneer families of Monaghan, Mr. Perrin has been an annual summer visitor in the city and district, and has many friends and relatives here.

Mr. Perrin, who has been living in retirement for several years, was on the staff of the London Post Office for over 37 years. At the time of his death he was local secretary of the American Federation of Musicians, and acted as chairman of the bands committee for the Old Boys' Reunion held two weeks ago. He was also local secretary of the Canadian Order of Foresters. At a concert of the London Symphony Orchestra, held in the Armouries during Old Home Week, a number, "Traumerie," was dedicated to his memory.

The funeral, under the auspices of the C.O.F., was conducted by Rev. Dr. E. W. Young. During the service members of the London Symphony Orchestra played several favorite hymns of the deceased.

Mr. Perrin is survived by his widow and one son, P. Perrin, of London; also an only daughter, Mrs. A. J. Weames, of Peterborough.

MRS. LOTTIE OLIVER.

Following an illness that lasted for two years, Lottie Stothart, widow of Alfred Oliver, died at her home on the Lakefield Highway, R.R. No. 4, Peterborough, early Sunday morning. She was in her 57th year.

Born in Smith Township, she was the daughter of the late William Stothart and Charlotte Laverty, and had lived on the Lakefield Highway for the past 10 years, coming here from Clare, Saskatchewan. She was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are one son, William Oliver, and one daughter, Mrs. Cecil Northey, both of Smith Township.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon from the family residence at 3 o'clock, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Church officiating. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

Bear in a Box

SHAKESPEARE, Ont., Aug. 15—(CP).—A box was taken from a railway baggage car here that mystified persons on the platform. It was labeled "Hands Off—Vicious." It contained a partly grown brown bear, which had been shipped from Sunnyville.

600 Black Knights Celebrate Relief of Derry In Norwood

National Registrar

DONALD A. LOUCKS

past president of the Peterborough Kinsmen club who has been elected National Registrar of the Association of Kinsmen. Mr. Loucks is the first member of the Peterborough club to ever hold a national office.

Six hundred paraded at Norwood Saturday afternoon in the annual observance of Derry Day, and lodges of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland were on hand from many Eastern Ontario centres. Ideal weather aided materially in making the day a great success, coupled with smooth working arrangements by members of the Norwood Preceptory who deserved credit for the fine reception accorded the visitors.

The parade formed at the Orange Hall, and after marching through the main streets of the village walked to the Fair Grounds, where several outstanding speakers were heard. A civic reception was accorded the celebrants by Reeve J. R. Thompson of Norwood, and speakers included Rork Ferguson, Henry Graham, Kingston, Grand Organizer for Ontario East; Major Belford of Cobourg, and M. J. O'Brien, P.G.O., from Toronto.

A girls' band from Oshawa, smartly clad in red tunics and white trousers, headed the parade, and the music of their fifes and drums delighted the hundreds who lined the parade route. Other centres which sent fife and drum bands were Kirkfield, Blackstock, Pontypool and Millbrook, Norwood, Peterborough, Campbellford, while kiltie bands were on hand from Frankford, Havelock and Marmora. Jim Pickering was band leader of the L.O.L. 80 Coronation band from Peterborough, which headed the members of Weir Preceptory No. 261.

The local committee was made up of Melville Dunlop, W.P.; Tom Sarginson, D.P.; Wm. Wilson, Registrar; George Porter, P.G.M.; Jim Pickering, band leader, and Robert Ritchie, P.G.M.

Joint Picnic Is Held To Cobourg

St. James United church and Park Street Baptist church united efforts on Saturday to hold one of the season's most unusual school picnics. Taking a special train they travelled more than two hundred strong to Cobourg, and held separate picnics on the beach.

Perfect weather awaited the picnickers and all events were run off without a hitch. It was the first time the two churches had held such a picnic, and all present expressed enthusiasm for the train ride and the sandy beach where many went swimming.

Separate staffs from each church conducted their own sports and then played an inter-church ball game, won by Park street Baptists 20-8.

Woman Injured By Fire Escape

Mrs. Alvin Stoneberg, Sherbrooke street, is in St. Joseph's hospital suffering from severe head injuries, as the result of an unusual accident sustained early this morning as she was leaving a local theatre following the midnight show. Mrs. Stoneberg accompanied by her husband left the theatre by the side door and was walking towards the street when two boys climed down the fire escape from the balcony and as they started to descend the iron ladder to the ground, it was dislodged by their weight and fell striking Mrs. Stoneberg on the head. She was knocked to the ground.

The injured woman was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where it was found she had sustained an eight-inch laceration of the scalp, a severed scalp artery and the skull bone had been injured.

Australia Vanquishes Japan And Will Meet German Stars In Davis Series At Hub City

Aussies Expect Easy Series With Germans Quist Is The Star

MONTREAL, Aug. 15.—(CP)—The Davis Cup scene shifted today from Montreal to Boston where Australia, fresh from a 3-2 victory over Japan, will meet Germany next Thursday in the first matches of the interzone tie.

Force to the limit to eliminate Japan's two-man team, the Australians expect an easier series with Germany. Another victory will place them in the challenge round against United States, the first time an Australian team has gone that far since 1924.

Adrian Quist, a veteran at 24, counted the deciding point against Japan yesterday when he broke through the defence of Jiro Yamagishi for a 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 9-7 victory. A split in the first day's singles and a doubles victory Saturday accounted for the other two points.

The closing match had no bearing on the series but it went to little Fumiteru Nakano who won by default when Harry Hopman, Aussie captain, withdrew Jack Bromwich after the 24th game of the fifth set to prevent aggravating a strained thigh. The score at the time was 6-1, 1-6, 6-4, 3-6, 12-12.

The ambidextrous youth injured his leg on the first day, accounting for the only fair showing he made in the series. Hopman said last night he expected him to be in top shape for the interzone round.

Quist, showing improvement with each match, was at his peak against Yamagishi. Playing the Japanese at his won baseline game, the Aussie refused to crack under the barrage of cross drives Yamagishi directed at his feet. In the end it was the Jap who cracked, faulting frequently as Quist returned shot after shot.

Bermuda Will See Perry And Vines

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 15.—(CP)—Fred Perry of England and Ellsworth Vines of the United States, two of the foremost professional tennis played in the world, may play a series of exhibition matches in this British colony in March or April of next year.

The English star who visited the island and gave tennis enthusiasts of the colony an opportunity to see him wield a racquet with some of the Hamilton players said he would try to come back with Vines around Easter, at the heights of Bermuda's tourist season.

Perry and Vines would play before the Annual Bermuda championships, the tourney that draws many ranking amateurs from the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France and Sweden. Perry himself won the Bermuda singles title when he was an amateur back in 1932.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

On Monday evening, August 29, our club will be represented at Oshawa by two rinks, one skipped by Benny Chesler and the other by Bob Hendry. It is the final chapter of the Central Ontario activities for this year and will determine the champion rink for this district.

These two rinks had to battle for the honor of representing our club and the elimination games were played last Friday evening. R. Hendry was pitted against G. Gimblett and B. Chesler drew J. Harrison. In the Hendry-Gimblett affair, Bob's Scotch quartet took the lead right off and increased it until the score stood in his favor 10-1 and he kept his advantage until the end finishing 5 points up, although at one time his opponents came near tieing it up.

The Chesler-Harrison game was one for the book. As in the other set Harrison's boys stepped right in front and the only time Chesler saw the chalk was when he bit a small piece to try and quieten his nerves. Jimmy's boys scored the first seven ends and then Benny got—by his own play—a great big one and his four pulled a 5 out of the bag end the score stood 8-5 for Harrison. The postman came right back and increased his lead up to 12, then Chesler got the odd one but the break came when Benny's boys on the 14th end grabbed a natural 7. But the funny part of this game came about like this: Harrison's rink scores 12 out of 18 ends and yet loses the game 22-16. As we said before if anybody can figure this game will he kindly step forward and we will gladly publish his arguments.

C. Williamson, W. Connell, Dr. Long, G. Gimblett, 15; R. French T. McArthur, G. Soulby, R. Hendry, 20.

E. Coleman, E. Smith, Dr. Allan, J. Harrison, 16; H. R. Martin, R. Burns, E. Wall, B. Chesler, 22.

Tonight (Monday) is the last date for the men's Globe and Maily Scotch doubles. Besides the men's regular schedule tonight, the ladies will commence the elimination series for Scotch doubles. It is the first time this contest has ever been staged on our greens and the results will be watched with great interest.

The open tournament committee is sponsoring an open mixed tournament to be held on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock Skips are allowed to choose their own rinks, play three 10-end games and the usual fee of $2.00.

Clerks Suffer 11-5 Setback In League Game

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Aug. 15—The Tanners moved into second place in the town softball league when they defeated the Clerks 11 to 5 in one of the two week-end softball frays. "Little Harlem" of Peterborough were defeated by the Outlaws, of the local loop, 8 to 7 in a loosely played game.

The Tanners win leaves them in a good position to finish first as they have one game left to play with the Clerks. This game was featured by Hahn's smart pitching for the Tanners. He limited the Clerks to nine well scattered hits, struck out four and walked four. Tanners collected 15 hits from the combined offerings of G. Gibson and Blackbourne. Tape with three singles led the Clerks at bat and Thompson with two doubles and a single led the Tanners.

Timmins Evens Soccer Series

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15 (CP).—Two youngsters received plaudits today for lifting Vancouver North Shore level with Timmins Dome Mines in the Dominion Soccer finals, through a 1 to 0 victory in the third game Saturday.

Basil Robinson, short and stocky, and Trevor Harvey, tall and husky, led the determined coast team in the round-levelling contest, forcing a fourth game today. The teams tied 1 to 1 in the first and Timmins won the second 3 to 1. Overtime will be played if necessary today to determine a Canadian champion.

Victims of the inspired play of Robinson and Harvey, the Easterners showed little of their second-game form. Robinson netted the only goal and Harvey did his assigned job of stopping George Chambers, brilliant Timmins centre forward, with marked success.

North Shore carried the attack in both halves. Mike McManus, Jimmy Spencer and Christie missed countless scoring opportunities, either shooting wildly or over-running the ball.

Mexico has exempted books, music, phonograph records, paintings and statuary from import and sales taxes.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

NOW THE C. O. B. L. playoffs are sewed up tighter than a miser's bankroll, the Petes' 3-1 win over Oshawa here helping local fandom to forget that first loss in the Motor City a week before. Third tilt of the lengthy serial is Saturday in Oshawa. A good-sized crowd of fans flocked to the ball orchard to see the Messrs McNally and Turner twirl the tilt and they weren't disappointed. It was a nice ball game to watch with good flinging, fine fielding and some potent punches by the batsmen in spots. Also some dumb defensive play by the GM-men, and they will never win their third straight Central Loop title with that kind of baseball! They threw the apple around in the third like the Bachelors at the insurance agents' annual outing.

* * * * * *

LEFTY McNALLY returned to gain vengeance Saturday on Oshawa for the cocky crew of the Motor City mauling him severely the previous week, banging him right to the showers in the third. It was poetic justice—or if ya don't like poetry or believe in justice, call it a play by the name of "A Southpaw's Revenge"—and the blond forksider made the most of it. He was bearing down from the start and they didn't get anything but a scratchy hit till the sixth, when they pushed over an unearned marker. It was a peach of a pitching performance, and the visitors felt beaten throughout—though they put up their usual scrappy play and fought for every point. Turner did a neat chore for Oshawa, with eight scattered hits, but couldn't do it all.

* * * * * *

Vas You Dere, Sharlie?

LET'S TELL ABOUT THE THREE runs in the third again—we like to talk about it. A single by Kearns and then a sacrifice bunt by Clark to Turner. Long Jawn acted dumb and tried to nail Kearns at second. He didn't remember that Kearns is the best base-runner in the loop, or what's left of it. Chuck was in there a mile. Then Starr bunted and darned if Bennett didn't up and try to throw out Charlie at third—Chuck sliding in safely. There was the setup with an error, out and double steal floating three markers across the platter a bit later. Good ball by the Petes—who have at times acted plenty dumb, too—and thoughtless baseball by Oshawa. Our squad stole the shirt off Buzz Bennett, and they're safe in trying it.

* * * * * *

BEFORE LEAVING THE subject of this playoff equalizer, we must mitt Al Clark for going up like a rocket to rob Foley of a hit. It was a one-hand jumping grab, plenty high, in the sixth inning and stopped a rally colder than a Lake Ontario dip. It put a definite period on the only punch the visitors were able to show in this game; there was nothing more to be said—except by Foley and he mumbled something scandalously all the way out to centre field! We don't blame him. Eddie Murphy fielded sweetly at short for us, and old Tip Miller did a man-sized job at short for them. Lot of nice fielding shown in this game, but the pitching stole the show. It'll likely be Jake Biddle and Russ Kitchen in Doc Rowden's town come Saturday.

Don't Ever Be An Umpire

TALK ABOUT BICKERING, THE Bowl was brimming with bickers on Saturday in the gloamin' as Westclox men softballers copped a 15-4 smirk over Motorists in a round-robin playoffs. With Umps Batley and Ranger on the receiving end of most of the blasts. We believe that in a playoff series especially, paid arbiters should be even more on their toes than players, and the umping hasn't been the very best lately, though both gents are capable enough—a bit careless at times, however. Hard hitting b ythe Clockmen and terrible fielding by the losers tells the tale of this tussle, the pitching being but so-so, or less. Omemee and Westclox tangle Tuesday twilight in the next number.

WITH THE WEATHER CLOSER than words in a dictionery, the local lacrossers battled to a 10-all draw in Brampton on Saturday eve. Both sides were semi-exhausted at the windup but they put on a torrid tilt. They were to meet Don Crowe in Toronto but missed him somehow, and he might possibly have made the difference in a draw or win. But the gang didn't do badly, at that. They have another mean assignment this warmish p.m., journeying to Brooklin for a hard scrap before a hostile crowd. The Petes hope to make it two in a row but will find the Brooklins on home terrain tougher than an elderly steak. Several carloads of Peterborough fans will probably make the trek, hoping to see a resumption of fistic hostilities from the fray here. The game with East York here next Friday will be postponed, owing to the Peterborough Exhibition.

The 2.30 And 2.22 Thursday

HOSS TRAILERS WILL BE rolling into town these days as the local three-day harness horse meet at the Ex. looms closer. It starts Thursday aft and continues Friday and Saturday. With $420 up in prizes each day, $210 to a race. Chairman Stan Lowe of the Racing Committee expects another big entry list, including many of the best trotters and pacers in the Ontario county fairs' circuit. With the new plan of every-heat-a-race, the hoss fans are assured of keen competition in every heat. Lots of blanket finishes but who the dickens cares about blankets in this weather? The 2.30 and 2.22 paces are on Thursday.

TENTATIVE APPROVAL of the Canadian Corps' team entry into the O. B. A. senior playdowns has been given the war veterans' outfit, and they are starting a series of stiff practises. Hoping to get in first-class condition and maybe do some real damage in Provincial playdowns. The Corps, made up of a flock of oldtime stars, supposed to have been washed up long since, have surprised everyone with a fine showing in exhibition games—including a tie with the 1937 Ontario champs. They asked the O. B. A. for permish to head into real competition this fall and they may get it, if no one objects too strenuously. We say hop to it. Queried as to his reaction on the matter by the Ontario Baseball Assoc. secretary, Max Swanston (local O. B. A. member) said: "Sure, let them play; if these oldtimers think they can make a fair showing against young teams, more power to them!"

* * * * * *

HITHER AND YAWN: Buzz Bennett, Oshawa catcher, had no putouts or assists here Saturday—which is highly unusual for a receiver. . . . Oshawa juniors took a 10-2 win over Cobourg in the Motor City on Sat'day to even up the Lakeshore Loop finals; McCabe gave four hits and fanned eight. . . . Stan Lowe corrects us on the horse races at the Ex., saying the 2.30 and 2.22 will be run Thursday, the 2.27 and 2.14 Friday and the 2.18 and 2.24 on Saturday. . . . We were given the wrong card, Stan. . . . Keene and Westclox gals have their third softball playoff tonight at the Bowl; a Westclox win will wind it up. . . . Rotary and Lions have a midget lacrosse melee at 7.30 p.m. Tuesday. . . . Lefty Lesurf twirled five-hit ball to gain a 6-0 shutout for Webbers over Kiwanis and the Western City Loop title in Toronto on Sat'day. . . . Petes play in East York on Thursday in lacrosse. . . . Owing to ball practises at Riverside and the Exhibition on this week, grid workouts may not start till early next week at the Exhibition Grounds. . . . Counted eight scribes from Oshawa, Belleville, Lindsay and Peterborough at the game here Saturday. . . . Willyum: Toss away the hammer and be a good boy. . . . Nope, Noah certainly didn't use his head when he let those two mosquitoes by!

Released By Senators, Wes Ferrell Promoted To Plug Yankee Lineup

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP)—Wesley Ferrell, released by Washington's fourth-place Senators two days ago, came up with New York Yankees—and what looks like a world series shot—today.

The temperamental right-hander, veteran of twelve years in the big time with Cleveland, Boston and Washington, was signed by the world champions to make up for the absence of Joe Vance. Vance, recently brought up from Kansas City, underwent an appendectomy Saturday night, and apparently is through for the season.

In hooking up with the Yanks, Ferrell is like the fellow who fell into a barrel of tar and came up with a diamond necklace. The New Yorkers are far in front in the pennant race, and are favored to get into their third straight world series, with its resultant cash benefits. Washington is hardly rated to rise above fourth place.

The Yankees' manager, Joe McCarthy, will play the psychology angle in giving Ferrell his debut with Gehrig and company. All signs point to Wes making his first start against Washington in the series there beginning Tuesday. Although not so consistent as in some of his past years, the 30-year-old "nuthin' ball" artist has won thirteen and lost eight.

Bolt Tears Shoes Off

BRUSSELS, Ont., Aug. 15 (C.P.).—Mrs. Jacob Fisher got a real "hot-foot" during a recent electrical strm. A lighining bolt struck her as she was sitting in her farmhouse, and tore off her shoes. Marks of the shoes' eyelets still remain imprinted on her feet by the heat of the discharge.

Hitch-Hike 2,000 Miles

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 15—Roy Hall, 20-year-old Kitchener newsboy and Elmer Umbach of Waterloo, have returned from a 2,000-mile hitch-hiking trip. They went to Montreal, the round trip taking only four days, and costing them $2.30 each.

Toronto Club Breaks Up Tie With 92-70 Win

On Saturday at the Oval, the local club played a return game with the Toronto C.C. The first, played in Toronto, had resulted in an even draw, but on Saturday the visitors won a closely-contested game of varying fortune, by 92 to 70. The game was featured by the fine all-round play of the local captain, F. Dyer, who captured 8 wickets, six clean bowled, for 36 runs and then, on going to bat, made the day's high score of 36.

P. W. Bennett also put up a great bowling show, taking 7 wickets for 12 runs for the Toronto club.

Toronto batted first, sending in F. G. Venables and D. Mills to the bowling of Dyer and Kelly, and four wickets fell for 20. Nobleston and Gunn put on 30; the former continued batting well and was finally bowled by Dyer at 91, for his side's high score of 33. In addition to Dyer's 8 for 36, Lawrence, who was making his first appearance this season, took 2 for 32.

Peterborough made a disastrous start losing Kelly, Lawrence and Langhorne for 7. Dyer and Bell stopped the rout, and put on 20. Chambers stayed in while 14 were added. Gould hit three 4's, and when he was snapped at the wicket the total was 65 for 7. Dyer, all the time was scoring freely at the other end, and it seemed possible the runs might be got, but at 69 he was out l.b.w., and the innings closed for 70. Dyer's 36 included one 6 and five 4's. Next Saturday, the club play Oshawa in Oshawa.

Bedford Resident Pays Fight Wager

BEDFORD, N.S., Aug. 15—(CP)—George Heatley of this Halifax city suburb was just another fight fan that predicted the outcome of the Louis-Schmeling heavyweight fight in the wrong manner—and how he paid for it!

With the applause of victor Jack Doyle and almost every resident of Bedford ringing in his ears Heatley was escorted by a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer on a little hike. Snowshoes strapped to his feet, clad in full winter attire even to a red toque, he tramped in a downpour of rain from the railroad crossing to Dr. Jerry LeBrun's office in the middle of the village.

And just to make sure he didn't get lost—or couldn't find his way back—he charted his course carefully with a compass and blazed a trail like a veteran—on the telegraph poles with a small hand axe. After reaching his destination, he resignedly accepted the pledge of the Band of Love from the Bedford Society of Puddle Jumpers.

Yes, and Doyle is just as glad the little scrap turned out the way it did—because he would have been forced to hitch his nose behind a peanut and push it to the top of the steepest hill in Bedford if the Brown Bomber had lost—and it's plenty high, too.

Riggs Retains Eastern Title

RYE, N.Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago retained his Eastern United States grass courts men's singles tennis championship Saturday at the Westchester Country Club when he trimmed Joe Hunt of Los Angeles in the final round match, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 10-8.

Hunt, who eliminated Frank Parker, Canadian champion, and Wilmer Allison, Canadian finalist, on his way to the finals, put up an admirable fight against Riggs, but the defending titleholder never seemed unduly worried. At the end, he was much fresher than his huskier rival, who seemed bothered by the heat.

The women's title went to Alice Marble, the blond Beverley Hills, Cal., star, top-ranked among United States feminine players. Miss Marble, warming to her task slowly but finishing in whirlwind fashion, routed Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., 7-5, 6-0.

Jawn Rizzo Is New Sparkplug Of Bucs' Hold On Top Place In National League Race

Stowaways Get 60 Days

LE HAVRE, France, Aug. 15 (A. P.). — Two United States High School boys were sentenced to-day to serve 60 days in jail for stowing away aboard the French liner Normandie. Ralph Brown of Buffalo, New York, and Chester Deuel of New York City, were arrested after they were found aboard the Normandie.

Rookie Clicks For 12 Homers So Far; Beats Chicago 2-0

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 — (CP) — While the "pep" boys, Lee Handley and Pep Young, and Mace Brown, the great rescuer of the Pittsburgh mound staff, have earned and received plenty of credit, perhaps the main reason why the Pirates are holding to the National League is because Jawn Rizzo can knock 'em out of the park.

Rizzo has proved to Pittsburgh fans that the New York Yankees theory—there's no argument like a home run—is hard to beat. Last season the Bucs hit only 47 homers all season. This year they have 42 to date with 53 games still to play. And an even dozen of them have come from rookie Rizzo's bat.

Johnny provided the big poke yesterday with that 12th homer to help beat the third-place Chicago Cubs, 2-0, after Gabby Hartnett's wrecking crew had won the first two games of the series.

Giants Cut Lead.

Despite the victory, Pittsburgh's lead was clipped to 4½ games as New York Giants romped to a double victory over the Phillies, 11-0 and 14-6. Besides their own 34 hits, the Giants got the benefit of 14 passes and 10 Philly errors.

The Yankees stretched their American League margin to 7½ games over Cleveland by turning back the Athletics twice, 4-3 and 9-2, while the Indians came through with a single 6-4 decision over the Chicago White Sox. The real feature of the American League day, however, was the one-hit game hurled by Buck Newsom of St. Louis.

Newsom, the Browns' one successful flinger, whiffed 12 Detroit batsmen and granted only one single, to George Tebbetts, in beating the Tigers, 7-1, in a doubleheader opener. Detroit came back to earn a 3-3, nine inning tie in the nightcap when Tebbetts made a pinch single behind doubles by Rudy York and Pete Fox to complete a two-run rally.

When Homers Count.

The Yanks made good use of their favorite weapon, the homer, to beat the A's. Lou Gehrig smacked one in each game and Bill Dickey in the first, and George Selkirk broke up the opener by hitting for four bases in the ninth inning.

Washington drove Boston Red Sox a little deeper into third place with a 7-1 victory, engineered by Harry Kelley, who hurled five-hit ball and drove in three tallies.

Good pitching marked a pair of divided National League bargain bills. Fred Fitzsimmons hurled a three-hitter to give Brooklyn a 2-0 decision over Boston, then Lou Fette won his eighth straight, 6-4. Paul Derringer chalked up his 15th victory for Cincinnati, 5-4 over St. Louis, but the Cards' Clyde Shoun replied with six-hit flinging and Ducky Medwick socked a homer to take the nightcap, 8-1.

Oshawa Club Wins Annual Cricket Test

On Saturday Whitakers went to Oshawa to play the first of their two annual matches with that club and lost the verdict by 100 to 41.

Oshawa batted first and lost 6 wickets for 45 of which T. Eccles who had gone in first and was sixth out, had scored 29. D. Bennett and C. Ince then made a long stand which doubled the score. The 100 was reached with the last two men in and the Oshawa captain then declared the innings closed. Wild had 6 wickets for 34.

On Whitaker's batting they fared badly having 5 wickets go down for 19, of which Smith had made 10 in singles. Haig repeated his good form of last week and scored 12, the side's high score and was not out when the innings closed for 41. Of the Oshawa bowlers Ince had 3 wickets for 4 runs, Sargent 4 for 15 and Fuller 3 for 15.

Next Saturday Whitaker's are scheduled to play St. Edmunds in Toronto.

PETES EVEN C.O.B.L. PLAYOFFS WITH A 3-1 WIN OVER OSHAWA

McNally Hurls 4-Hit Ball To Get Victory

Lefty McNally pitched the Petes to a 3-1 victory over Oshawa here Saturday before more than a thousand fans to even up the C.O.B.L. playoff series at one win apiece. Hurling four-hit ball, the local southpaw gained sweet revenge on the GM-men for his loss to them a week ago in the Motor City. Third of the four-in-seven series will be in Oshawa next Saturday.

A fine fixture was run off before an enthusiastic crowd of hometown rooters. It was in the nature of a pitcher's battle, with McNally besting Jack Turner throughout. The Petes earned the decision with a three-run splash in the third frame, being held down tightly otherwise by the lanky visiting righthander. The Petes played smart ball to win and turned in a perfect defensive display.

McNally was in rare form and bore down hard from the first, whistling his fast ball in to pick the corners and bending the odd one to cross rival batters up. He scattered four hits, one a scratchy one to first, while fanning five and walking one. His teammates backed him up nobly. On the other mound Turner kept right h's spread apart, but for two in the third heat, but he struck out none and walked one batter. There were two errors behind him.

Lead the hitters

Kearns and Clark led the local hitters with two safe blows each, while Murphy, Cadd, Burton and McNally had one apiece. The Oshawa hitters were Jubenville with two, and Dalto and Miller one each. Fielding feature of the day was a jumping one-hand stab by Clark at second in the sixth inning to rob Foley of a screaming drive into right field. Nice catches were made by Burton and Matthews, and Oshawa had a fast double play. The rival shortstops, Miller and Murphy, handled a flock of chances.

Oshawa went out in order in the first, two via the strikeout route. With one out in the Petes' half, Clark singled and moved up on an out. He got to third when Miller booted Doll's grounder, the latter pilfering second, but they died on base. Oshawa went back one-two-three in the second and Murphy died on second for the locals after a hit and sacrifice. Miller beat out a roller in the third but was forced at the keystone sack.

Won in Third

The Petes won in their third with three runs, aided by dumb fielding on the part of the visitors. Kearns singled and was safe at second when Clark's bunt was played to second, the latter pulling up at first. Both advanced when Starr's bunt was pegged to third, Kearns beating it, Starr reaching first. Wallace dropped Miller's throw on Doll's roller, first. Wallace dropped Miller's throw on Doll's roller, Kearns scoring and the bases still being clogged. Clark scored and Starr went to third on Calladine's fly to Foley. Doll and Starr engineered a double steal safely for the third run. Cadd singled later but no more damage was done.

The GM-men went down in order the next two stanzas and a hit by Kearns in the fourth and a walk to Murphy in the fifth amounted to nothing. Oshawa threatened in the sixth and scored one marker. Miller was hit by a pitched ball and got to second on a passed ball. He scored on Dalton's single to left, the latter moving up on the throw-in. He got to third on an out but Clark ended the inning by jumping high to rob Foley of a hit. In the Petes' half, McNally singled with one out but a double play finished them. Jubenville singled in the seventh, Dalton walked in the eighth and Jubenville got a hit in the ninth, but they were wasted efforts for Oshawa. Clark hit safely in the seventh and Burton singled in the eighth, nothing coming of either blow.

Westclox Squad Beat Motorists

Westclox men softballers took a 15-4 win over Motorists before a good crowd at the Bowl, Saturday night, in the second game of the round-robin playoff series. It was the first Westclox win in one start and the first loss in two for Motorists. Bunched hits made the difference. Bateman of the winners kept 14 hits fairly well scattered as he walked two and fanned four, getting good support. Strickland was nicked for 20 safe blows on the other slab, while walking four and striking one out—his support being bad most of the way.

O'Leary led Westclox at bat with five hits, while Bateman had four. Ellis hit a homer and single, his long four-bagger going down the steps in deep centre. Calladine got a double and single. Kearns led the losers with two doubles and two singles, as Starr got a two-bagger and a pair of singles, and Dorrington a double and single. Fielding features were supplied by Montgomery, Starr, and Playford of Motorists; and O'Leary, Gainey and Calladine of the winners. Umpires Batley and Ranger got a hard ride from both sides. The teams:

Jerseys Oust Toronto From Fifth Place

TORONTO, Aug. 15 (CP).—In spite of their numerous and rapid ups and downs this season, which have carried them as high as second place and as low as seventh in the International league standing, Jersey City Giants look like a pretty good bet to get into the playoffs. And if they do land there, look out for trouble for the higher-ranking class.

The little Giants haven't been doing any hitting to speak of, but they have a whale of a pitching staff. That's been enough for them to win more games than they lose against the other second division outfits and occasionally they decide to get tough and then smack over the bigger teams.

The Jerseys clambered back past Toronto into fifth place yesterday on the pitching of Rollie Stiles and John Hubbell. These two subdued the seventh-place Montreal Royals while the Giants won 6-2 and 3-2. Toronto, meantime, went down 5-1 before the pitching of the Syracuse ace, Johnny Gee.

The Royals outhit the little Giants, 7-6, in the first clash, but Jersey City bunched most of its blows to score five runs in the fifth and hapd Stiles his 13th mound victory. Then Hubbell, younger brother of New York's "King" Carl, turned in a six-hitter to gain his fourth straight triumph.

The combination of Marius Russo's flinging and Merrill May's hitting carried Newark's league leaders to any easy 8-2 win over Buffalo Bisons. Russo, winning his 16th game, granted only six hits and whiffed five.

Rochester's second-place Red Wings bowled over the cellar-dwelling Baltimore Orioles in a doubleheader, 9-7 and 9-8 after considerable second-game excitement.

CAMPBELLFORD

Tweed Takes 14-5 Softball Victory

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 15. — Scoring a 14-5 win over the Campbellford Electrics, the Tweed A.C. took an easy victory from the locals in a softball exhibition here on Friday. The game opened with the count tied 3-3 at the end of the first inning, but from then on the visitors warmed up to McComb's offerings, while the losers were held scoreless until the final inning when they added two more. The winners collected 19 hits with Elsbury swatting a homer in the fourth.

D. Holmes and D. Couch opened the scoring for the Electrics, who gathered twenty-seven hits from L. Davidson on the mound for the visitors, giving two walks and one strike out.

Adding to their score in each inning the visitors were eleven runs up when the Electrics came to bat for the final half of the last inning. It was in the sixth that the Tweed outfit went on a scoring spree which netted them five runs to make them easy winners of the game.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP)—A lot of baseball men in the know tell you Mickey Cochrane will be managing the Red Sox and Joe Cronin will be back at Washington in a year or two....And don't be surprised if Billy Rogell, who was palsy-walsy with Iron Mike, is put on the trading block by the Tigers....Al Schacht may do his clowning around the college gridirons this fall.

Tragic that one of the game's greatest batteries, Grove and Cochrane, should be saying so long to the diamond the same week.... What's this about a mass holdout of half a dozen or more of the Green Bay pro football Packers?....With a shorter schedule, they want the pay per game upped so that won't come out short.

Detroit sports writers and fans are still burned up because the Tigers fired Cochrane instead of giving him a chance to resign....Mel Ott wins the third base job over Stan Hack on that cereal company's "All-America" popularity team, for which he gets an auto as prize.

Ky Laffoon Wins Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15. (AP).—Ky Laffoon, Chicago putting master, was $3,000 richer today for winning first place in the 10,000 Cleveland open golf tournament, snatched from under the noses of Sam Snead of White Sulphur springs, W. Va., and Bill Burke of Cleveland.

Snead and Burke played together on the last round of the four-day medal scoremeet. Burke dropped a careful birdie on the last hole for 210-72—282. "Slamin' Sam" blazed out a four under par 67 on the final round for 214-67—281.

Out on the course Laffoon heard and said "It's Snead again." But steadily he came on, giving the boys a putting lesson. He sank two from over 40 feet out. A gallery of thousands saw him come up on the last green under par for 210-70—280.

Mr. and Mrs. William Webdale of Lakefield wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Winnifred Mary, to James Clifford, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hurl of Lakefield. Marriage to take place early in September.

Mrs. W. Guerin of 678 Armour Road wishes to announce the engagement of her daughter, Margaret Rita, to Joseph Caccavella, son of Michael Caccavella, of 506 Elm street, and the late Mrs. Caccavella. The marriage to take place September the first.

DIED

FORSTER, John Herbert.—On Sunday, August 14, 1938, at Nicholls Hospital, John Herbert Forster, Port Hope Highway, beloved husband of Henrietta Thomas. Funeral on Tuesday, August 16, at 3 p.m., from the late residence; Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United Church officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

OLIVER, Mrs. Lottie.—On Sunday, August 14, 1938, at her home on the Lakefield Highway, R.R. No. 4, Peterborough, Lottie Stothart, widow of the late Alfred Oliver, in her 57th year. IN MEMORIAM

FLEETWOOD.—In memory of our father, W. Fletwood, who passed away August 14, 1935.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
His weary trials and troubles past,
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

—Remembered by Family.

BEAVIS.—In ever-loving memory of Vernon Beavis, who entered his eternal rest five years ago to-day.

What would we give to clasp his hand,
His patient face to see,
To hear his voice, and see him smile
As in the days that used to be.
His life was earnest, his action kind,
A generous hand, and active mind;
Anxious to please, loathe to offend,
A loving brother and a faithful friend.

—Ever remembered and sadly missed
A Friend.

MEN WANTED!

MEN OVER 18, WHO ARE ELECTRICALLY INCLINED, WITH A FAIR EDUCATION TO BECOME RADIO OPERATORS (WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY), AND TO PREPARE THEMSELVES SO THEY CAN ADVANCE IN THE AIR TRANSPORTATION OR IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

Opportunities for good employment are the best they have been for years. The new Trans-Canada Air Line and proposed Canada-to-England Over-seas Air-Line is rapidly changing the transportation picture in Canada. Now that the West is having a good wheat crop and all appearances show a continuance of good crops for years to come, Canada will go ahead at a fast rate. That improvement is right now being reflected in the much brighter employment outlook for new radio operators. Employment for new operators next year should be very good.

The work is interesting and pays good wages. One needs a Government certificate designating he is an operator before he can secure employment. That and the special training required of an operator helps keep this field from being overcrowded.

Loyalists Break Before Bayonets

HENDAYE, France, Aug. 15—(AP).—Spanish insurgents reported to-day that Government defenders were driven at bayonet point from the Pandols Mountains south of Gandesa, endangering the Government's foothold on the west bank of the Ebro River.

Captain of the mountain broke the militiamen's stranglehold on the city at which they had directed a sudden offensive, begun three weeks ago.

Insurgent dispatches said the Government army clung to well-fortified hills on the northeastern Catalan front through repeated attacks, until one final charge over rock-strewn slopes broke their line.

The Pandols range was captured during the first night of the Government drive and formed the backbone of their Gandesa sector, just southeast of the city.

Advices from insurgent headquarters said the militiamen had built a "remarkable" system of fortifications on the crest during the three weeks they held them.

Fewer new automobiles are seen in Brizil than a year ago.

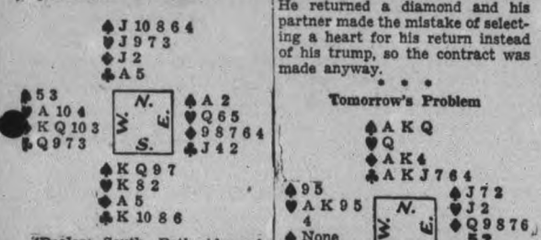
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKING IT DIFFICULT

EXPERT PLAY of some hands consists chiefly of giving the defenders as many chances as possible to make mistakes. Other things being equal, the method which offers several ways for the opponents to err has an obviously better hope of success than one which depends entirely on a particular error being perpetrated.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

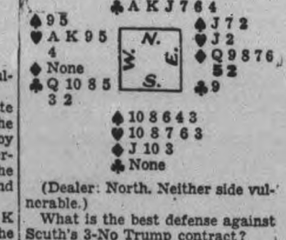
This deal arose in a duplicate tournament and at all tables the final contract was 4-Spades by South. Where the defense was perfect, the contract was set with the loss of one spade, two hearts and one diamond.

In all instances, the diamond K was led and won with the A. The clubs A and K were next cashed. One declarer then played a diamond which was won by West who erred in returning a heart, limiting South's heart losers to one.

Another player ruffed a third club before letting the opponents in and then played a spade, which East won. If East had now returned a spade, club or heart, the contract would have been assured for South. He returned a diamond and his partner made the mistake of selecting a heart for his return instead of his trump, so the contract was made anyway.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the best defense against Scuth's 3-No Trump contract?

Real "Bogey" Man"

Tighten Belts For Third Year Of War's Seige

MADRID, Aug 15—(CP). — This city, the proud, beautiful and tragic victim of Spain's civil war, faces the third year of the conflict sick to death of danger, destruction and privation, but generally convinced the dawn of peace still is far distant. The war started July 18, 1936.

Out of the chaotic disorder of the first months of the rebellion, in which many competent observers reckon that between 30,000 and 50,000 persons were murdered in the capital during a term of almost complete anarchy, the government now has strengthened its authority to a point where even petty thievery has disappeared.

Once the gayest and one of the most beautiful cities in Europe, Madrid today has reverted to the big village from which it sprang . . a lifeless, overgrown town squatting precariously on the front lines . . its obedient citizenry uncomplainingly carrying out the frequent and drastic wartime decrees of government and patiently awaiting the end.

Securely bound in the grip of secret policy authority, the citizens seem resigned to the killing of several hundred thousand more Spaniards while following out the government policy of fighting on till the death. Search where you will in Madrid today, you see no conclusive evidence yet that the people will crack or the republican cause collapse, although the conclusion that Franco's forces eventually will triumph is very widely held.

Municipal authorities already are storing food and supplies for carrying Madrid through its third winter of war.

War Discipline Accepted

Present preparations indicate that long-suffering Madrid, by tightening its belt even tighter, could just about survive next winter even if isolated. The people have learned through experience to obey blindly government authority. Discipline for the common good has become an accomplished fact among the most individualistic, authority-hating race in Europe.

With an excellent wheat and potato crop in hand and assured of a summer-long supply of vegetables from the Valencia area, Madrid will enter the winter with its food warehouses—abandoned churches—piled high with staples on which the city monotonously depends for life. Food is short in Madrid today and will be shorter through the winter. People probably will die as they did last winter, or suffer cold and privation, but prospects are none will starve.

The second anniversary of conflict finds Madrid about one-quarter destroyed, another quarter damaged by frequent heavy shellings. The city proper, after being attacked repeatedly from the air from November, 1936, to February, 1937, has not now been bombed in 15 months.

Officially only about 1,000 persons have been killed and 4,000 to 5,000 injured in Madrid proper during the first two years of war. Actually the death and casualty list is far greater. The government, to prevent the spread of alarm, has found it convenient to minimize statistical information.

It has been calculated that it takes from 15 to 20 expensive artillery shells to fill another Madrid grave. The victims are usually non-combatants, which puts the price of their killing pretty high.

Most Comforts Gone

Today Madrid is a city without fear, or hope for the future. There are no street lights, private automobiles, taxis, free newspapers, libraries, museums, night life, new construction, butter and scores of other foodstuffs, sports, visitors, diplomatic or social life, churches (except Protestant), schools (except a few), radios, dances, hotel life, hot water or heat, firewood or coal, and only rarely, and usually to the privileged few, are there eggs, fruit, sugar, flour, milk, candy, coffee, tobacco, good shoes and medicines without limitation.

Hats for women still are strictly taboo. Throughout the whole city, women's headdress never is seen—a throwback to the outbreak of conflict when women's headdress somehow came to be looked upon as anti-democratic. Men and women, however, today are better dressed generally.

A marvel of Madrid's siege is its state of health. Epidemics have been checked or held down to a minimum of deaths. Despite scarcity of medicine, absence of many food essentials and horribly unbalanced diet, the populace thrives. Children nowhere appear so rosy-cheeked and full of life as in Madrid's plazas and squares into which scattered shells occasionally drop to smear the happy children's playground with their blood.

Madrid will emerge from war a city of catacombs and underground trenches. Mile-long tunnels deep underground already exist, their radius growing daily. Present underground shelters can care for only about 25 per cent of the people.

Children who curiously play at war under the very sound not only of artillery but of rifle fire from the half-mile distant front utilize abandoned trenches and parapets to bring reality to their games.

Youth Has Gone

The municipality has absorbed thousands of workers in wartime work and industry, guarding and protecting foreign and other property, municipal services and supplies, and other essential tasks. The trenches have beckoned all the able-bodied men between 17 and 34.

War has revolutionized Spanish customs shielding and protecting womenkind. Chaperones have disappeared, and young girls who before the war were never allowed abroad without the protection and watchful eye of a relative now move about freely through Madrid.

There is no evidence now that women are still in the firing lines, but behind the lines hundreds of thousands have joined in support of the war cause, in the factory and on the farm, in transportation and hospital work.

Bread rations just have been increased about 50 per cent. Mayor Henche hopes soon to have milk for all children up to six years old—at present it's available only for infants under two. No one else in Madrid gets any milk even under doctor's orders.

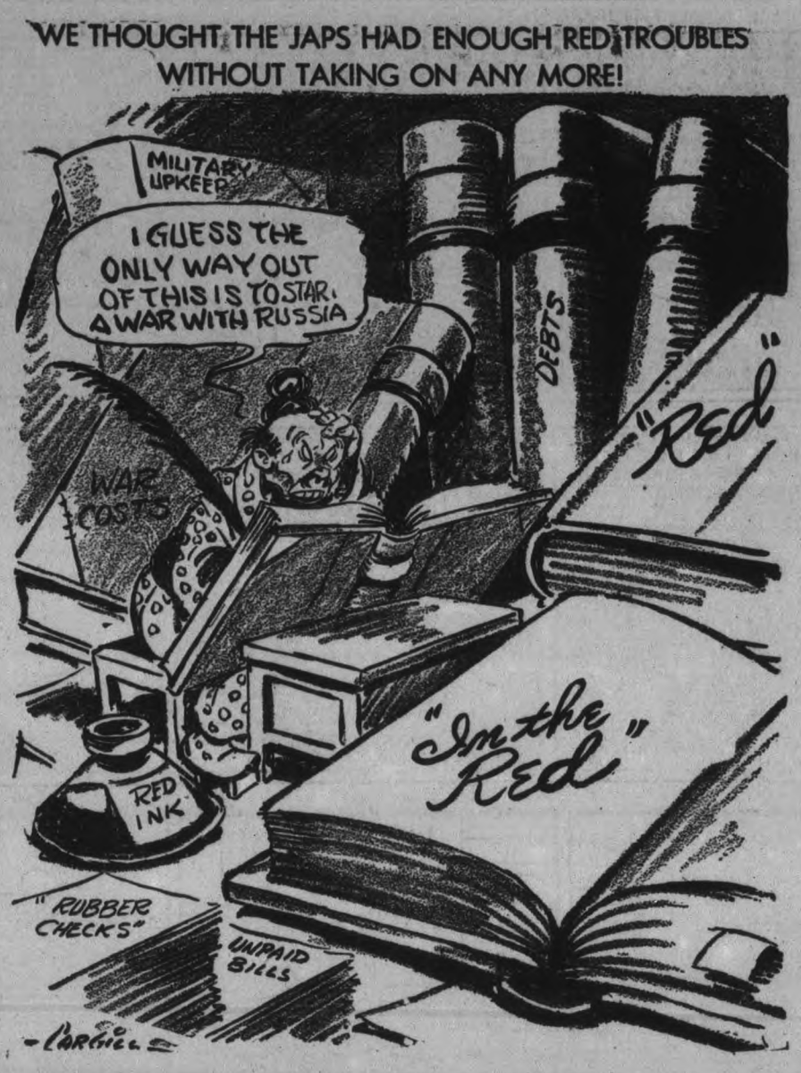
It has become illegal to discuss peace, armistice or truce, so people avoid talking about the war.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.



Tomatoes Drop To 15 Cents With Heavy Offering

The old law of supply and demand took note of the abundance of vegetables on Saturday's market and pushed the uncertain props from many of the prices. Tomatoes could hardly have been any cheaper unless the growers passed them out for nothing. Six-quart baskets brought 15 cents and the 11-quart quantities 25 cents. These prices were about half the previous week's quotations.

"They talk about tariffs against imported produce," said E. T. Minaker who was here again from the vicinity of Trenton, "but what hits us is when the Leamington growers unload the way they have been doing the last few days." And the tomatoes which he said had been dumped on the market from the Leamington district were not so fine in quality as those grown in the counties of central Ontario.

Tomatoes were cheaper on the market Saturday than they were in fruit and grocery stores along the main street, suggesting that retailers found no profit in loading up with them for the weekend.

Potatoes were again 15 cents a peck with a lighter offering than a week ago, although the supply was sufficient for the day's demand. Some of the growers quoted beets and carrots at three bunches for 10 cents, but others dropped them two bunches for five cents, and you could get beets by the basket, too, 20 cents for six quarts and 35 cents for eleven quarts. Cucumbers were various prices, some of them selling at one cent each; no profit in such low bargain prices as that; and gherkins were 50 cents for six-quart baskets.

It seems only a few Saturdays ago since the first of the berry crop reached the market, but last Saturday welcomed the first of the pears, so rapidly passes the summer, the retail shops were loaded with peaches. Clapps pears sold at 35 cents the six-quart basket. Apples were more plentiful, North Stars and Duchess crowding on the heels of the yellow transparent, all of them at 25 cents a basket, and Red Astrakans at 30 cents. The latter two varieties appear to be of better quality than usual, although that may be an illusion.

Positively the last of the red raspberries were 18 cents a box, and incidentally they looked like the tail end of their season. Huckleberries were again plentiful at eleven quarts for one dollar. As reported before, the crop has been one of the biggest for many years, and every person who wants to put in a supply has had an unusual chance to buy them. That is, assuming that there is any home preserving these days, and there probably is more than the canned goods trade reports indicate.

Corn at two dozen for 25 cents was another high light of the market; cabbage were generally five cents, and cauliflower five and ten cents according to size. Pickling onions were 10 and 15 cents a box; and clover honey sold at 20 cents in the comb. If the public generally understood the food value of honey especially at 15 cents a pound the beekeepers would be sold out every Saturday.

Eggs were again steady at 27 and 28 cents, chickens at 20 to 23 cents and butter was inclined to be weak at the 25-cent level it has held for so long. Some of the quotations were a cent or two less. Dairy men report that Canadian industry is turning out more butter than the country can consume, and with no export outlet there is a considerable accumulation at present that is tending to weaken the market. Meanwhile cheese is firm in price, but the production has fallen behind the volume of last year.

Lamps Of The Thames Light Capital

HALIFAX, Aug. 15—(CP).—Ancient wrought iron lamps that stood for a century on London's famous Waterloo Bridge now guard the entrance to old Province House in this Nova Scotia capital.

The lamps were presented to the province by Freeman Davison of Boston, a native of Windsor, N.S. He obtained the relics two years ago when the bridge was being dismantled to make way for a new structure.

The iron standards blend perfectly with the architecture of Province House.

Expert Gives Race Problem Fresh Thorns

PARIS, Aug. 15 (CP).— The racial question, particularly a German worry for the last few years and distinctly "aryan" in color, now threatens to become an international problem. France enters the field with a theory advanced by one of her ethnographical savants, Dr. Rene Martial in his new book "Race, Heredity, Folly."

Dr. Martial is one of those modest scholars of France who adds to the discoveries of the day, brightens and enriches the sciences but avoids personal glory. Doctor, artist, philosopher and sage, Dr. Martial lives very simply in one of the suburbs of Paris, surrounded by books and formidable piles of data about people in many parts of the world. When he talks his bright eyes are not without a hint of zest for controversy; his tiny white beard suggests the Orient and his slow meticulously-spoken words have a touch of tolerant irony.

His new book, "Race, Heredity, Folly" casts a disturbing stone into into the racial pool so nicely constructed to suit Nazi doctrines. There is no "mystic" in the way Dr. Martial treats the question of race. He pays no attention to such externals as aryan birth certificates, the color of a man's hair, eyes, political opinions or the flag he carries. Dr. Martial's theory is that the race must be considered from three points of view, biological, historical and psychological and the great factor in all this is the blood.

For him the blood problem primarily does not recognize nationalities nor frontiers. But the intermarriage (or crossing) of different "blood" races produces problems which he deals with. The crossing of breeds of animals has been comprehensively studied, he says, but our ignorance and lack of data about the human species is almost integral.

Question of A and B

Dr. Martial divides people into groups who have Blood A, Blood AB, Blood B, or Blood Zero. According to his theory some of these bloods mix easily without bad results. For instance, "zero" is a universal kind which will mix with any other. "A" will mix with 'A" or with "AB". But to bring bloods "A" and "B" together may be disastrous Dr. Martial attributes much insanity to this cause.

Thus the question of nationalities comes in eventually because certain countries are almost completely "A" and certain others entirely "B". Racial intermarriage and large-scale immigration may sometimes be a benefit but in other cases extremely dangerous. France, England and the Scandinavian countries, for example are almost all "A" and "AB". But eastern Europe and Asia Minor are in the majority "B". Under these circumstances if a Turk or an Arab should marry an English or Danish girl there would be a possibility children might be either geniuses or abnormal.

For this scholar such manifestations as hallucinations, obsessions, exaggerated cries and gestures; fears violence, are the result of the impact of one line of heredity with its ideas, sentiments, passions, customs and beliefs passing down through many generations against such line of heredity which is totally different. These expressions of mental and spiritual agony are as he so pertinently puts it, "the battle of the bloods." Immigration quotas will not be based upon a certain number from each country in the future, Dr. Martial confidently predicts, but uniquely upon whether or not their blood is the same as that of the majority in the country which they wish to enter.

From a Canadian point of view it is interesting to recall that an earlier book of Dr. Martial's entitled "The French Race" promised us in 75 years North America will be divided definitely into three countries—a French America, a white English-speaking America and a black America.

Some Day These Tunnels Will Irrigate 120,000 Acres

Some day enough water will pass through these 12 tunnels, connecting a pumping plant at the Grand Coulee dam, in Washington State, with a canal and reservoir in the Grand Coulee, to irrigate 120,000 acres of land. At present the tunnels are being driven only 36 feet into the granite canyon wall. When the construction of irrigation facilities is authorized, the 12 tunnels will be driven 800 feet to an open canal, from which water will flow by gravity to the largest tract of irrigable land remaining in America. The pumping plant will ultimately require 650,000 horsepower to operate it. All of this will be generated from the summer flood-waters of the Columbia River.

Reports March Of New Russia

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (CP).—Improving economic conditions in Russia, employment for all able-bodied men and women and happy faces everywhere were some of the things reported by Corliss Lamont on his return from a tour of the Soviet Union. Lamont, who is chairman of the American Friends of Soviet Russia, compared conditions with what he saw when he visited Russia in 1935.

"Any able-bodied man or woman who wants a job can have one," he reported. "Everyone gets vacations with pay, with a three-week minimum. People on their holidays are dancing in the public squares. The theatres, the opera, the ballets and the movies are filled nightly with workers."

Lamont also told of increased efficiency in public services. Trains run on time, restaurants are modernized, shops have a greater variety of better quality goods and "there is a greater feeling for style in women's clothes."

Social insurance for old age, accident and sickness. Education is free from the kindergarten through the Universities for those who can pass examinations and the age for compulsory schooling is being increased.

Belgian Army Is Tested In War Games

Nation At Same Time Builds Its Third Defence Line

LONDON, AUG. 16 — (AP) — Belgium today opened her biggest scale war manoeuvres since 1913 while her eastern neighbor throbbed to the drumbeats of Chancellor Hitler's similar manoeuvres, closely watched around the world.

Eastern districts of Belgium felt the first blow of invasion 24 years ago but the nation's official attitude was one of utter detachment from the German War Games.

To complete the contrast with tense days when the Great War was starting, France's Air Chief, General Victor Vuillemin, reached Berlin for a friendly tour of German aerial garrisons and aircraft industries.

[illegible]ceful activities of harvest-t[illegible] occupied Czech lands across G[illegible]ny's eastern frontier.

In Praha the Czechoslovak Supreme War Council held a regular meeting, but President Eduard Benes did not attend so it was believed only routine matters were dealt with.

Viscount Runciman, Great Britain's unofficial referee in the Czechoslovak quarrel with her Nazi-supported Germanic minority, was busy hearing the German side of the disagreement at headquarters of the Sudeten Party.

Another Defence Line

Belgium's manoeuvres coincided with reports the Government had decided to fortify the Nation's southern border around Marcheen-Famenne and Philippeville with concrete machine-gun nests to constitute a third line of defence in case other lines were forced to yield.

Southern defences also would repel invasion from France, and neutral observers saw the new construction plan as symbolic of Belgium's independence of policy depending on her strength rather than on alliances.

Observers also pointed out Germany, as a new guarantor of Belgian independence, would not fail to complain of Belgium locked her eastern door and left the southern one open.

The Belgian manoeuvres, held in the rugged southeastern Ardennes country, were aimed to test the power of motorized troops in meeting sudden attack on any frontier.

A report from the annual gipsy festivities at Kraljevo, Serbia, said a vivacious brunette brought the highest bid of $6.40. Other brides went for as low as $3.60 and $4. These prices were considerably lower than those paid in previous years to parents of marriageable daughters.

Dodge Millions Not For Danny's Widow

DETROIT, Aug. 16 (A.P.). — Daniel G. Dodge, drowned yesterday near Little Current, Ont., left a will naming his bride, the former Laurine Macdonald, as a beneficiary, but a spokesman for the Detroit Trust Company said to-day the young widow would not share in the millions left to her husband by his father.

Charles P. Spicer, executive vice-president of the trust company, explained that Daniel Dodge was given a life income from a $9,331,600 trust fund established after the death of his father, John F. Dodge, motor magnate.

"The John F. Dodge will does not provide for the wife of Daniel and the life income from the trust fund established for Daniel is not transferable to his wife," Spicer said. "The income terminates at Daniel Dodge's death."

"There is an amount of accumulated income from the trust which is unused. It belonged to Daniel Dodge and Mrs. Dodge will receive her share of this and of any other property owned outright and left by her husband.."

No estimate was available of that unexpected income which composes the greater part of Daniel Dodge's estate.

Matthew H. Bishop, attorney, disclosed that Daniel Dodge executed a will recently, after he reached the age of 21 and prior to his marriage to Miss Macdonald, former Gore Bay, Ont., telephone operator. He declined to reveal its contents except that Miss Macdonald was named a beneficiary. He said he had no knowledge of the value of the estate that would be disposed of by the will.

Mexico Is Warned City's Tall Buildings May Fall

Mexico City, Aug. 16 (AP)

A MEXICAN civil engineer who has devoted years of study to the problem reported today that Mexico City's high, slender buildings might some day tilt and fall down unless action is taken to retard a change in structure of the city's sub-soil.

The engineer, Jose A. Cuevas, made his forecast in a paper read before the opening session of the Congress of the International Housing and Town Planning Commission.

Extortion Plot Costs 3 Years

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 16.—(CP) —Commenting upon the "viciousness" and "filthiness" of the offence, Magistrate H. A. Burbidge, today sentenced Francis Lupton, 32-year-old garment knitter, to three years in Kingston Penitentiary on charges of extortion.

In passing sentence, His Worship recalled other internationally famous extortion plots and the punishment imposed by the courts upon the perpetrators. He said this particular case appeared to him "a serious one, a vicious and filthy offence." In view of the accused's youth, he felt that the sentence imposed met the ends of justice.

The trial was held in camera.

Lupton was charged with extortion by demanding of a person the sum of $500 with menaces, and of rendering or causing to be received an extortion note. He pleaded not guilty to both charges.

Charles Lupton, a brother of Francis, was convicted on a charge of attempting to defeat the course of justice and sentenced to three months definite and three months indeterminate in jail. The accused, after being sentenced, was remanded eight days for sentence in order that he might leave the jail in custody when his wife gives birth to a child expected the latter part of the week.

Find Toronto Boy Safe, Edge Of Lake

Unhurt By 2 Nights In Minden Bush, Just Wants 'Mummy'

MINDEN, Ont., Aug. 16—(CP)—Three-year-old Peter Elstone of Toronto, missing in the dense bush surrounding his grandfather's farm near here since early Sunday night, was found by a farmer this morning. Hungry, tired and covered with mud, the boy otherwise was in good condition.

Harold McCracken, the farmer, came on the boy on the edge of Mountain Lake. The shores of the Lake are steep and McCracken said a mis-step by the boy might have meant serious injury or death.

The boy's feet were wet and muddy, indicating he had stepped into muskeg in his wanderings since he ran Sunday from the barn at his grandfather's farm home when frightened by the stamping of horses. He slept under a bush last night during a heavy rain and was only slightly wet when found.

McCracken said the boy's first words were: "I called mother in the rain, but she didn"t come. I want to go home."

Failed to Pick Berries

Peter said he had nothing to eat all the time he was "losted" in the dense bush which surrounds the Haliburton county farm land of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Ball. There were many berries available but the lad had not picked any.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Elstone, the boy's parents, took up the search for their youngster early this morning after snatching a few hours sleep during the night. Elstone had come from his home in Toronto, 85 miles south-west of here, immediately on being informed his son was lost.

Peter told McCracken he had run away "because grandpa's horses scared me." This verified the story of the lad's young companions, who said Peter had raced away from the barn. They expected to find him at the farm house, but tracks from the barn showed he had headed for the thick bush.

At one time nearly 300 persons were engaged in searching for the youngster. The Ball farm is about five miles from Minden and in the district are many lakes. As time went by without trace of Peter, searchers feared he might have fallen into one of the lakes.

McCracken, a member of a search party organized by county constable L. A. Pritchard, said the child looked fit from the ordeal. The parents were overcome when informed that the child was found safe.

In Good Condition

McCracken picked up the boy and walked toward another group of searchers. There were shouts of joy as he approached and word raced quickly to other groups the lad had been found. At the Ball home, Dr. M. E. Gorman of Lindsay, Ont., examined Peter and said he was in extremely good condition.

Two privately-chartered airplanes had aided in the search yesterday, while acting Premier Harry Nixon of Ontario said the provincial government would send another plane to survey the region by air if a request was made. The thick bush about the Ball farm, however, was not conducive of effective examination of the territory from the air.

Paris Green Found Near Poisoned Cows

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 16 (CP). —Discovery of a mixture of paris green and salt found spread on the grass on the property of Herbert Kellar, Crookston farmer, and given as cause of the mysterious death of Kellar's two cows on Monday, was the reason for a rigid probe on the part of provincial police.

The owner found his cows dead near a quarry on his farm and each animal's mouth was heavily coated with the mixture. Constable Arthur Dymond of Madoc is in charge of the investigation. Kellar relied on the butter and milk supply from these cows for his large family.

Now A Widow

A bride of less than two weeks, Mrs. Daniel Dodge whose husband heir to the automobile fortune drowned in Georgian Bay on Monday. Dodge was badly burned in the accidental explosion of a stick of dynamite. Mrs. Dodge was formerly a telephone operator at Gore Bay.

Dynamite Blast Kills Dodge Injures Bride Of 13 Days

Honeymooning Heir Crazed With Pain Plunges Off Boat, Drowns

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Aug. 16 (CP).—The explosion-torn body of 21-year-old Daniel George Dodge, victim of a desire to hear dynamite explode, was sought today in 90 feet of water in Georgian Bay. His bride of 13 days was in hospital, the story-book romance of a millionaire's love for a telephone operator ended.

Dodge, heir to the motor-car millions, yesterday yielded to an oft-expressed desire to learn if dynamite left by workmen at his Kagawong summer camp eight years ago still was in good condition. He selected a stick of the explosive and asked an employee to light a 14-inch fuse that should have burned for three minutes. But the flame reached the dynamite in less than 10 seconds.

Terribly injured, Dodge was thrown to the floor of the camp garage by the force of the explosion. Mrs. Dodge, the former Ann Laurin MacDonald, was cut on the face, legs and arms. Two camp helpers were hurt, Lloyd Bryant so seriously it was feared he would die.

Young Dodge was drowned in the inside channel of the big bay, seven miles west of this little fishing port and not many miles from Gore Bay, where three years ago he met the daughter of a tug-boat captain who became his wife August 2. The survivors said Dodge, seemingly crazed by pain, leaped or fell overboard from a speed-boat bearing him to hospital.

Bride Drives Speedboat.

The 20-year-old bride, despite her injuries, drove the 28-foot launch across part of the 20 miles of choppy water between Kagawong and Little Current. With her were Bryant, injured internally; Frank Valiquette, the second camp worker, and Bryant's wife, who was working in the kitchen of the Dodge cottage at the time of the explosion.

When the craft docked here Mrs. Dodge and Bryant were taken by automobile to Mindemoya Red Cross Hospital, nearly 30 miles distant in the interior of Manitoulin Island. The 21-year-old Valiquette, his body a mass of powder burns, cuts and bruises, directed fishermen to the location of the spot where Dodge went down before entering the hospital.

Bryant and Mrs. Dodge, injured about the arms and legs, were operated upon late last night. Attending surgeons praised the young bride's courage. "She never whimpered or complained while I worked on her," said Dr. G. R. Young. Mrs. Dodge will recover, but little hope is held for the life of Bryant.

Danny Dodge, beneficiary of a trust fund of more than $9,000,000, was the least spectacular of the news-making Dodges. The extravagances of his sister, Frances, who married a music magazine publisher six weeks ago, for years have made society-page headlines. Danny found his chief pleasure in tinkering with airplanes and speedboat motors.

His father, John Dodge, set up an automobile shop in Detroit with

Greenwood Sure European Crisis Is Past

VANCOUVER, Aug. 16 (CP).—Viscount Greenwood of Holbourne, native of Whitby, Ont., and treasurer of the British Conservative party, said yesterday he had no fears of European war in the near future because of Britain's rearmament program and the leadership of Prime Minister Chamberlain.

Describing Mr. Chamberlain as "one of Britain's greatest prime ministers," Lord Greenwood credited him with easing European tension and added "the crisis in Europe is past."

Viscount Greenwood said in an interview he would return to eastern Canada before the end of the week. Accompanying him are his wife, Hon. Eric Greenwood, his son, and Hon. Deborah Greenwood, his daughter. His visit to Canada, he said, was "purely a holiday trip."

Sparks Off Fuse Undo Dodge As He Plays With Dynamite

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Aug. 16 (C.P.). — A 21-year-old camp worker, Frank Valiquette, lit the dynamite fuse which led to the death yesterday of Daniel George Dodge, 21-year-old Detroit millionaire married only 13 days. Valiquette told his story to-day to his physician, Dr. R. B. McQuay.

The injuries to Dodge, his bride, Lloyd Bryant, and Valiquette were caused, not by the dynamite stick which it was intended to explode, but by sticks of dynamite lying on the window of the Dodge garage, the camp worker said.

Dodge was standing inside the garage, beside a window; his bride and Mr. Bryant, a camp worker, were standing outside, near the window when preparations were completed to light the dynamite, which had been dug up from a cache in the bush where it had been buried several years.

"Mr. Dodge turned to Mr. Bryant and asked him to split the fuse," Mr. Valiquette said. "The two of them fitted up one stick and then turned to me, asking me to light it.

A 3-Minute Fuse.

"I took my cigarette lighter out of my pocket and touched off the fuse, which was about 14 inches long. It should have burned for about three minutes.

"Mr. Dodge pivotted sharply on the ball of one foot to throw the stick of dynamite out the garage door. As he did so the trailing sparks from the fuse lit on the sticks of dynamite and caps we'd left on the window-sill. There were seven or eight sticks there.

"The explosion of the sticks on the sill came instantly," he said.

Experienced powder men explained to-day that possibly the dynamite "sweated" bringing the nitro-glycerine to the surface. Under these conditions the slightest spark would be apt to cause the explosion.

Hore-Belisha Shakes Army Up Again And Retires 13 Generals

LONDON, Aug. 16 (CP Cable). — The biggest shake-up since the Great War among senior officers of the British Army was announced tonight in the War Office Gazette.

Placed on the retired list because of age were three generals, four lieutenant-generals and six major-generals.

The reorganization, it was authoritatively stated, has nothing to do with the troubled affairs of Europe or with any foreign army manoeuvres, but is part of the plans of Leslie Hore Belisha, Secretary for War, to hasten the promotion of young men with fresh ideas, and to inject new blood in the top positions of Britain's reorganized and expanded army.

Resulting from the announcement by Mr. Hore Belisha in the House of Commons July 28 of a lower retirement age for all ranks above that of major, the following army veterans were placed on the retired list:

Generals Sir George Jeffreys, Sir Harry Knox and Sir Hughes Elles.

Lieut.-Generals Sir Harry Karslake, Sir Arthur McNamara, Sir Geoffrey Howard and Sir Bertie Fisher.

Major-Generals E. D. Lewin, R. J. Collins, P. R. C. Commings, A. L. Ransome, H. A. Lewis and G. T. Raikes.

Two lieutenant-generals, Sir Walter Pitt-Taylor and Sir Reginald Hildyard, were promoted to the full rank of general

The promotion of Sir Hugh Elles from Lieut.-General to full General, and his retirement, were made concurrently.

All 13 retiring general officers benefit from the new retirement terms announced July 28, under which retiring age for generals and Lieutenant-generals was reduced from 67 to 60; Major generals from 62 to 57, and similar reductions made in ages of Colonels and Lieut.-Colonels.

Sir Walter Pitt-Taylor, now raised to the rank of full general, has been general officer commander-in-chief of the wester ncommand, India, since 1936. He is 60. Sir Reginald Hildyard, also promoted to general, has been governor and commander-in-chief, Bermuda, since 1936. He is 62.

Let's Make It 50,000

To the citizens of Peterborough and the surrounding district:

We are offering the best fair in history, with more entries, finer exhibits and one of the greatest programs ever presented to the local public. All we ask is that you and your friends visit the Exhibition grounds as often as possible this week. You will be royally entertained and at the same time you will be helping to make the Exhibition the most successful on record. Boost Peterborough's Fair.

Million Chinese Troops Ring Hankow

SHANGHAI, Aug. 16—(AP). — General Chiang Kai-Shek was reported to-day to have massed 1,000,000 Chinese troops around Hankow, his provisional capital toward which the Japanese have advanced slowly since occupying Kiukiang July 26.

The outer fringes of these defences were challenged to-day by Japanese units making exploratory drives up both banks of the Yangtse River and southward toward Nanchang, Chinese air base 90 miles south of Kiukiang and 225 miles south of Hankow.

Because the defenders expect the most serious Japanese threat to be along the Yangtse's south bank overland against the Canton-Hankow railway line, 10 divisions placed between the Nanchang Railway and the Canton Railway were reinforced by Cantonese troops.

Besides these large-scale preparations, a mobile army of 120,000 Chinese is moving into the south bank sector, causing optimism among the defenders that their lines there will withstand the Japanese thrust.

See-saw battles raged on both banks of the Yangtse in the Kiukiang area without major changes in positions as the war entered its 405th day. The most severe fighting was reported in hills around Red Lake, where the Japanese were trying to push toward Juichang, 85 miles from the Canton-Hankow Railway.

Cholera raged through Kiukiang and Japanese military authorities said nearly all the 10,000 Chinese who remained in that Yangtse port after its occupation were "likely victims" of the dread disease.

34 Planes Downed In Spanish Battle

HENDAYE, France, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Spanish government and insurgent warplanes battled viciously today for the upper hand in the 22-day battle in the Ebro River valley of Southern Catalonia.

Three apparently reorganized government air squadrons not only met insurgent planes on equal terms but adopted the insurgent tactics of bombing and machine-gunning troops on the ground. In two days of battle with an insurgent fleet of 42 German and Italian-made craft. At least 34 planes on both sides were reported shot down.

Official dispatches from each faction reported the other had lost many planes while minimizing its own loss. In one battle in which the government maintained 21 insurgent machines were downed and none of its own wrecked, the insurgents said 13 government planes were lost against two of theirs.

Bushel Of Wheat Brings $2,500

OTTAWA, Aug. 16—(CP)—A $1.90 bushel of Coronation wheat, sent to Brockville, Ont., last spring by Patrick O'Keefe, 26-year-old native of Winnipeg and Federal Agriculture Inspector here, resulted today in his being $2,500 richer.

O'Keefe won second prize of $2,500 in the Dominion Rifle Association's associate members draw. First prize of $5,000 went to W. McKeever of Edson, Alta., and third prize of $1,000 to Mrs. Nickson of Victoria.

"That's the best news I ever received," said O'Keefe when informed he won second prize. "I never bought the ticket which won. Last spring one of the department's inspectors at Brockville asked me to send him a bushel of Coronation wheat, worth $1.90, which he wanted to distribute in his district.

"It was a private transaction. The inspector did not have the money then to pay me, but he was selling draw tickets, and gave me two in payment for the wheat. Little did I know that one of them would win me $2,500. Saturday I went to Montreal to see the Davis Cup matches and had forgotten entirely about the tickets."

District Swept By Rainstorm

A heavy rainstom, preceded by strong wind swept the district Monday evening, bringing badly needed moisture to gardens and doing little damage to field crops throughout the rural area.

Alfred Phillips, official weather recorder, reports that two and a quarter inches of rain fell in the two storms; the reading being taken at 9.30 o'clock last evening when the skies had cleared.

Long distance telephone communication was interrupted in many directions and for some time contact could not be made in the regular channels to Campbellford, Belleville, Lindsay and Kingston, while several rural lines went out for a short period. The Utilities Department answered many calls for broken circuits, as trees blown down by the strong wind, fell across wires, snapping them.

A few transformers were put out of order and most of the damage occurred in the suburban and rural districts, with much of it being repaired last night.

Farmers report the wind and heavy rain failed to flatten the corn which gives promise of being a good crop. Oats and other grains which is cut and stooked will need drying before being drawn in. Many farmers have already threshed or have the bulk of the grain in the mows ready for the threshing machine.

Gardens, particularly in the city, had started to dry up, and the rain was welcome, giving new life to potatoes and cucumbers. The heavy wind blew down bushels of apples throughout the district.

Millbrook Friends Honor Newlyweds

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Aug. 16.—A very happy, and largely attended social gathering was held in the Town Hall on Friday evening, to do honor to Mr. and Mrs. William Todd, of Frankford, and both formerly of Millbrook, whose marriage took place recently at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bothwell.

Dancing, both round and square, took up the first part of the evening, music being supplied by William Edworthy; Jean and Robert Todd, Walter Kinsman, and Jack Patton, the latter calling off also for the old-time dances.

Shortly before midnight the chairman, ex-Warden Percy Stinson, invited the bride and groom to the platform, George Ellsworth escorting the former, and Allen Wood the latter, to the seats of honor. Mr. and Mrs. G. Bothwell and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Todd, parents of the bride and groom respectively were also asked to sit on either side of the guests of the evening, when an appreciative address was read by G. Harkness, and on behalf of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, Allen Wood and George Ellsworth presented Mr. and Mrs. Todd with a handsome floor lamp, with the triple lighting feature, a finely-upholstered occasional chair, and a walnut console table.

An additional surprise was provided for the bride when little Barbara Patton, her niece, presented her with a beautiful bouquet of gladioli. Both Mr. and Mrs. Todd made suitable acknowledgement of the lovely gifts, and at the request of the chair, all the guests present formed a big circle surrounding the guests of honor, and all joined in the time-honored chorus, "For they are jolly good fellows," Miss Jean Todd accompanying.

The service of a dainty lunch, and further dancing, completed a most enjoyable evening, the committee in charge including Messrs. Henry, Gray, George Harkness, Allen Wood, who was groomsman at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Todd, and George Ellsworth.

Quints Start School September 1 - All Instruction In French

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 16 (C. P.). — The Dionne quintuplets will start school on September 1, as soon as they recover from their current throat ailment, and their studies will be along lines drafted by Dr. Duncan McArthur, Ontario Deputy Minister of Education, and approved by their father, Oliva Dionne.

Education plans were approved at a meeting yesterday of the guardians, Dionne, Dr. A. R. Dafoe and Judge J. A. Valin, and Hon. G. D. Conant, Ontario Attorney-General, Hon. Colin Campbell, Ontario Public Works Minister, Dr. McArthur, and Edmon Clouthier of Ottawa of the French Educational Association.

Miss Gaetane Vezina of Ottawa, who will teach the quints, will assume her duties on September 1. Whether the children will be taught English or not was not announced, but earlier Mr. Dionne and Mr. Clouthier urged the five be taught French only at first, and as they concurred with Dr. McArthur's plans, it was believed all instructions would be in French.

No Home Decision.

A prepared statement after the meeting reported the guardians and Government officials in agreement the present Callander home of the quintuplets was inadequate and that guardians were satisfied headway has been made in a permanent solution of the problem of bringing the family together again.

Discussions centered on whether the present home of the quints could be enlarged to provide room for the entire family, or whether a new home would be necessary.

Guardians will present their plans for the change to Percy Wilson, official guardian for Ontario children, probably early next month before any action is taken.

Japs In China Like Napoleon In Russia

SASKATOON, Aug. 16.—CP).—"Japan's position in China now is very similar to that of Napolen in Russia in 1812," Rev. Louis Bouchard, S.J., Catholic missionary of Suchow, China, said here last night as the 28-year-old priest passed through the city en route to Montreal where he will spend four years studying theology before returning to Asia.

Father Bouchard described the bombings and warfare in China. He paid tribute to the smart generalship of the Chinese who in the knowledge that they could not afford to meet Japan's armies on open battlefields, due to inferior equipment, fought a guerilla war. The priest stated that ultimately China would win. The Japanese, he reported held only the main cities and many of these points were in continual danger of being retaken by Chinese guerilla troops.

$600,000 In Dope Found In Bay

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Six hundred thousand dollars' worth of narcotics, said by United States Treasury agents to be the largest seizure in the United States in twenty years, were found on the end of a rope dangling from a launch off a Brooklyn pier yesterday.

The launch, which had been under scrutiny for several days, was just putting into the pier when a Customs patrol boat with investigators aboard approached. As they boarded the craft a man jumped overboard and escaped.

About 550 pounds of contraband was in 1,330 tins in a bundle of oil-soaked burlap, from which investigators inferred it had been brought in the oil bunkers of a ship from the Orient.

Supervising Customs Agent John Roberts said the owner of the craft, a 40-foot open lobster skiff with a powerful new engine, had been arrested and would be arraigned tomorrow. He was booked as Frank R. McCann, 30, of Brooklyn.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 16 (C.P.). — Winnipeg wheat prices showed a firm trend most of the session today after a weak opening. A firm Chicago market and the United States acreage reduction plan were strong influences in the general upswing.

Quotations at the close were ¼ to 1⅜ higher, with October 68½, November 68a, December 67¼ to ⅜, and May 70 to 70⅛.

Trading showed life for the first time in several sessions although generally the session was not active. Brief flurries of business appeared at various times with southern houses showing good buying interest.

Export business was estimated at more than 300,000 bushels, mostly new crop wheat. Some hedging pressure appeared in the early session, but covering which accompanied the uptrend absorbed it.

Urge Hastings Curve Eased After Fatality

MADOC, Ont., Aug 16 (CP).—A recommendation that Hastings county council takes steps to reduce a road curve near Madoc on the Belleville highway was added here last night to the coroner's jury verdict inquiring into the death of Lancelot Vader, 37 year old Massassaga farmer, who died from injuries received in a motor accident August 6.

The jury laid no blame on the driver, A. Morris, finding that Vader came to his death while a passenger in the Morris car. At the time of the accident the driver attempted to avoid striking a woman and child on the road and Vader was thrown clear of the vehicle, breaking his neck when he hit a tree.

Bride-elect Is Janetville Guest

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Aug. 16. — The ladies of the Presbyterian Church gathered at the home of Mrs. Herbert McNeil, south of the village, on Thursday afternoon to honor her daughter, Miss Beatrice McNeil on the occasion of her coming marriage.

A short program of readings and music was first enjoyed, and later Miss McNeil was given a seat of honor, while Misses Verna Wright and Myra McGill carried in a large decorated basket filled with gifts of linen. Miss Ione Porter read a congratulatory address, expressing their appreciation of the splendid help the recipient had been as a member of the Auxiliary as well as in the choir and in young people's work.

After unwrapping the gifts and reading the humorous verses, the youthful bride-to-be thanked the donors in a few appropriate words, and later all joined in singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Contests were enjoyed for a time and the happy afternoon concluded with dainty refreshments.

Sleep In Your Pearls!

The growing vogue for pearls has resulted in many jewellers being asked whether the traditional belief that women should sleep in their pearls to preserve their lustre is correct.

According to a pearl expert the old custom of sleeping in pearls has a sound foundation in scientific fact. "Real pearls," he explained, "contain oil which tends to dry out of them as time goes on. By contact with the human skin they have the power of absorbing oil from the pores as time goes on. By contact with the human skin they have the power of absorbing oil from the pores to replace that which they have lost. In many cases the oil from the human skin enhances the beauty of the pearl, and the pearl is seen to gain in color and lustre."

It is a good plan for a woman to sleep in her pearls, particularly if she has a normal skin. But it is not absolutely necessary if the pearls are worn frequently in the daytime. Pearls should on no account be left unworn for weeks at a time.

Use Efficient Kitchen Equipment

Important in the utility of kitchen equipment is the ease and convenience it affords the user. Correct working heights for sink, tub and work tables or counters eliminate much necessary stooping and reaching. Toe space at the base of equipment where one naturally stands to perform tasks and knee space where work may be done sitting is essential, too.

The Question of Whether a Young Wife Should Continue Working Outside the Home After Marriage Is One She And Her Husband Should Settle

DEAR MISS DIX—Is it a crime for a girl to help her husband by keeping on with her job after she is married? My mother thinks it is. We have such bitter arguments all the time over this that now, when I should be happy, I am very miserable. Please help me, because if I don't get some help soon I will have a nervous breakdown. My husband-to-be does not know of these arguments.

WORRIED.

ANSWER:

Whether a girl should work outside of the home after marriage depends altogether upon the individual circumstances. Undoubtedly the old tradition of the husband being the breadwinner and the wife the bread-maker is the way Nature intended things to be, and makes, as a general thing, for domestic peace and happiness.

So if your young man is making enough money to support a home in reasonable comfort, I think it is better for you to turn your job over to some girl who needs it and to settle down at once into being a housewife rather than to work outside of the home to buy a few more gewgaws for yourself or finer furniture for your apartment.

There are many good reasons for this. One is that you can make a much better and more attractive and more comfortable home for your husband if you give your full time to it instead of making it a side job. It takes time, for instance, to cook a good dinner, and the meal you will prepare if you have all day to do it in won't taste like the delicatessen mess you slap up in ten minutes after you come from the store so tired you don't care whether or not you have anything to eat.

The first few months of your married life are when you will tame and domesticate your husband, if ever. If you want to make him a fireside companion you have to give him a comfortable chair by a warm hearth, and if you want to keep him eating out of your hand you will have to keep good food in it.

Then, too, the husband's view of the matter is of paramount importance. If he is opposed to your working after marriage, don't think of doing so. It will not only cause endless friction and arguments between you, but it will break down his morale. It will make him feel that you don't trust him and depend on him. Some men like clinging vines and some don't. Be guided by your husband's taste in this matter. That is one side of the working wife case.

The other side is that it is often necessary for a girl to continue to work outside of the home after marriage. There are many cases where a young man does not make enough to support a wife and unless the girl could furnish her own bread and butter, so to speak, they would have to defer their wedding until all the romance and fire of youth had gone out of it. There are other cases in which the wife can help her husband get a start in business by continuing to be a money-earner and thus lay the foundations of a fortune in which she will share. And there are many other cases in which there are dependent relatives to be supported when a couple could not marry at all if it were not for the wife putting her shoulders also under the burden.

Every wife who loves her husband desires to help him. If she can do this better by making money than by darning his socks, there is no reason why she shouldn't. Your mother's ideas about it being a crime for a girl to work after marriage belong in the Dark Ages not in these days of independent business women.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What is the proper solution of the problem of a childless home when a man and woman are financially able to rear and educate one or more children? After twelve years of most congenial married life, in which my wife and I have worked side by side and accumulated a very comfortable fortune, we find that our lives lack something, a child. Yet we are doubtful if an adoption from an orphans' home would fill our longing for children. What is your opinion?

J. L.

ANSWER:

There is no substitute for a child, and if God has sent you none of your own, the only thing you can do is to open your heart and your home to some forlorn little creature who is as eager for a father and mother as you are for children. Furthermore, you needn't worry about it not filling the bill and satisfying your yearnings for a child of your own. Observation will show you that the men and women who have adopted children are even more frantic about them than real parents are about their offspring. Which phenomenon is, of course, easily explained by the fact that only those who have a deep parental instinct and were child-hungry would put themselves to the expense and trouble of taking upon themselves vicarious parenthood.

Of course, adopting a child is a very serious matter and an undertaking fraught with great responsibility, but so is having one of your own. When you adopt a child you are taking a chance on a heredity of which you know nothing and which may be good or bad, but we have to take the risk in our own children of their throwing back to ancestors who do us no credit and of their "taking after" great-grandfather, who was no better than he should have been, and Uncle George, who would have been in the penitentiary if he had got his deserts. You have to take your chances with any child, and after that it is up to you and the way you rear it.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a boy of 19, very dissatisfied and upset about my future. I don't know what to do. Everything I do is wrong. I have just given up a perfectly good job for no reason at all. I fail at everything I try. I feel if I could go away from home I would make good and that I would be happy. Do you think I would make good if I went to some strange place?

BILL.

ANSWER:

It takes the same qualities to make good everywhere. Industry, grit, stick-at-iveness, putting your heart and back into what you are doing. If you give up everything you attempt as soon as you get tired of it, you will be a failure wherever you go. What you want to do is to have a heart-to-heart session with yourself and make up your mind to get a job and dig in and make a success of it. But your trouble is mainly adolescence and you will get over that.

When Your Sewing Machine Falters

When your sewing machine goes wrong, in most cases the fault is simuple to find out and put right.

If it is missing stitches—Look at the needle. See that it is put in the right way round, with, according to the type of needle, the long groove or the flat side facing inwards. Is the needle blunt? Check the threading.

If the cotton breaks on top—Examine the needle and the threading as above. If this does not put the trouble right, take out the tension screw, clean the plates and remove fluff. Is cotton caught round the reel pin?

QUESTION.—Sometime last year I read where one woman started a Wayside Inn and made herself famous by serving Blueberry Dumpling. The article went on to state that she merely kept the juice boiling and put in the dumplings and they could be made ata any time, but did not say how to make them. My husband just remembered these, as I remarked at the time when the blueberries came I would like to make some.

If you have the recipe for these dumplings, would you send it as soon as possible as blueberries are at their best now? Thanking you.—(Mrs.) H. R.

ANSWER.—Thank you for your letter.

Blueberry Dumplings.

Two cups blueberries, juice of ½ lemon, grated rind ½ lemon. 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 cups water. Wash berries and cook these ingredients for 3 minutes. While they are cooking prepare a batter of ½ cup granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup flour. Mix very well and drop by speenfuls into boiling mixture. Cover immediately, and keep covered for 20 minutes, boiling gently over low heat. This amount serves six. To my way of thinking this is rather sweet—to counteract this you might add more lemon juice—which will give it all a richer flavor or reduce the amount of sugar in the dumplings to 2 tablespoons. The fruit sauce is served over the dumplings of course.

Hoping this is the recipe you want and that we can help you again.

QUESTION.—Can you tell me how to boil an old fashioned style ham of 10 to 12 lbs. At home in the old days we always boiled hams and did not bake them in the oven, which I think dries them up. As far as I can remember we filled the pot up with boiling water and cooked the ham 20 minutes to the pound. It is so long since I have done any cooking on a large scale. Then another thing—would you please tell me how to roast a turkey or a chicken. Some people tell me not to put more than a cup of water in the pan when cooking and that they do not need butter or dripping spread over them while cooking. Well I distinctly remember that my mother put lots of it on them and she was a wonderful cook. It seems they would dry out terribly without lots of butter or bacon grease spread on them, but I am just out of the knack as it is so long since I have done much of it and at times now I have to do a certain amount. I read all your talks and cut out a number of recipes. —One of Your Readers in the West-end.

ANSWER.—Thank you for your letter.

Boiled Ham.

(Pickled ham or shoulder are best for this method).

Wash pickled ham, and put in large kettle, cover with boiling water, cover and let boil gently, allowing 20 minutes for each lb. To flavor ham 12 whole cloves, 1 stick of cinnamon, 1 clove of garlic, ½ cup vinegar, and ½ cup sugar may be added to the boiling water, but this spoils it for using for a base for soup after the ham is done. When ham is done, turn off heat, and let it cool in the water in which it was boiled (overnight is best). When cool removed from water and keep in refrigerator covered to keep from drying out between meals.

We hope this is the method to which you have reference.

Roast Turkey.

Wash, dress, clean, stuff and truss a 10-lb turkey. Place on its back on trivet in roasting pan, rub entire surface with a paste made of one-third butter creamed and then mixed with one-fourth cup flour. Dredge bottom of pan with 2 tablespoons flour. Place in oven of 525 deg. Fahr. and when flour begins to brown, reduce heat, cover, and in 15 minutes baste with one-half cup butter melted in ½ cup boiling water—every half hour after this baste with fat in pan—try to keep temperature at 350 deg. Fahr. during long baking of turkey. If additional water is needed to keep flour in bottom of pan from burning add very little at a time. The roasting time is about three hours in all.

Roast Chicken.

This is done the same as turkey (see above)—time required for a 4-lb. chicken being 1½ hours.

Please write again whenever we can help you.

The Case of Two Homes

Of buying lots and building homes there is much done, and it would be well if the much became more. The value of some of these houses and lots provides a study which is at least interesting. Within recent days there was shown to a representative of the Examiner some properties along Lake Huron; that is, vacant land along the water front. Some of the water-front lots which were not of extreme width, were being held at $2,000, and the person purchasing such property could do so only after agreeing to erect a house of certain cost. He could not put a tent or a shack on the place. He would be in eventually for an investment equal to building a home in a fairly good residential section of the city, and at best he could use the place for about three months in the summer.

Then there was another house in a substantial little place in Western Ontario, on a good village street with great trees and hedges and gardens and lawns. The man who had owned it was dead and it was necessary to find a buyer for the place. The house was built a good many years ago, and it was well built. A large white brick affair on good stone foundation. Spacious verandahs seem to suggest comfort outside as well as inside. One builder said he would not undertake to duplicate the house with the same kind of foundation and the same amount of brickwork for less than $9,000. Just what value one can place on great trees which have taken years to grow is difficult to put down in dollars and cents. The lot has a frontage of 80 feet and the depth is about 150. We were informed that if some person were to step forward with $1,000 the property would change hands. Of course it does not face out into a lake, but looks upon a well-shaded village street where there are other homes of the same type. The folk there refer to it as being "in the best section."

Possibly there is no well-drawn parallel between the two cases at all. In one there is the summer home in the preferred position on the lake front; the other the fine old home in the preferred position on the village street. The summer home, good for three months of the year would call for an expenditure of at least $7,000 before completion, while the greater and more substantial home in the village, good for 12 months in the year, sits there waiting for some person with $1,000 to come and take possession. The value of a home seems to depend to a great extent on where it is located.

The Queen Mary Steps Out

For a number of months the Queen Mary has been making regular trips across the Atlantic, but the French liner Normandie has been carrying the blue ribbon of the Atlantic, emblematic of being the fastest ship making the trip.

The little blue ribbon token has been handed back to the Queen Mary because that liner made the eastward crossing of 2,938 miles in three days, 20 hours and 42 minutes.

The best day's travelling of the Queen Mary was 738 nautical miles, for an average speed of 38.08 knots per mile. In England the nautical mile is placed at 6,080 feet, while the land mile is 5,280. So changing the speed of this liner into land miles it is found the greatest day's run was made at the rate of 43.850 miles per hour.

Cunard White Star officials were on the boat, but it is said the speed attained was not for the purpose of creating a new record for crossing the Atlantic, but to make observations with a view of securing information regarding equipment to be placed in the Queen Elizabeth, a sister ship now being built on the River Clyde.

It may be the Queen Mary found ideal conditions for making that record trip, for it must be admitted that a day's run at the average speed of 43.850 miles per hour could not be done in rough weather. The British officials are saying little about it; they have given no interviews and of boasting there has been none at all. They were merely seeing what the Queen Mary could do so they would better know how to put the power plant in the Queen Elizabeth. They did not even mention that they had regained the blue ribbon of the Atlantic against all competitors. But that is exactly what they did. Three days and 20 hours—and a good many of the folk who first settled in this section of Ontario took from six to seven weeks to cross the Atlantic.

They Are All Working

Tavistock is a village which lies between Perth and Oxford. Not a particularly large place but at the moment it is able to report that all the people there are working, and we consider that worth mentioning. Villages, towns and cities may advance their points of interest; they may urge good enough reasons why the tourist should turn aside and visit, but when a community rises to say "All our folk are working" then it has to be admitted that such utterance has a charm all its own.

The employees of the woollen mill, we learn, are having holidays but the mill will soon start operating 24 hours a day; the box factory is working eight hours per day, the planing mill is doing the same and the flour mill runs 24 hours a day.

The Public Utilities Commission is erecting a new building, but work was held up because there were no local men available. The Cheese and Butter Co. is erecting a new factory. So all the people in Tavistock are working and that means there is little or no relief. When other places qualify for the same standard we shall be pleased to accord them honorable mention.

Another Good Reason

There are a number of places in this province where hitch-hikers have become a nuisance. They stand at the edge of the community and in their efforts to flag cars step well out on the pavement, so far out that the driver has to swerve toward the centre of the road to keep from striking them. If a car is coming in the opposite direction it is quite possible that swerving toward the centre of the road is nothing short of dangerous practice.

Hitch-hikers as a rule are finding the going rather hard. Small boys meet with better results, but young men and adults are apt to stand and wait a long time. Almost every day provides its own good reason why motorists should let the hitch-hikers stand.

Today's reason comes from Brantford. Ernest Clover of Toronto picked up two hitch-hikers in London. When he reached Brantford he had a call to make and left the two in charge of his car. When he returned the hikers were gone—and so was his car.

Discipline In School

Student teachers attending the New Brunswick summer school at Saint John listened to an address by Dr. Carl C. Bernhardt of Toronto. He was talking about methods of teaching and his address centred around these three points:

1. There is no place for rewards in the educational system.
2. There is no place for punishment of any kind in a school system.
3. No rules should be made in a classroom except by the pupils themselves.

Dr. Bernhardt does not believe in merit marks; he does not believe in staying in after school, and the system of ranking children according to their standing in classes he describes as unjust and wrong.

There may be a good deal in what the man from Toronto was telling the teachers in the East but it cannot be ignored that the real purpose in going to school is preparation for what the scholars are going to meet after they leave school. They are apt to find then that the great world outside has its own way of ranking people, and that those who rank the highest go the farthest.

There may be something said for the school which knows no punishment, but again the pupil when going out to tackle the big world and to conquer it will find the world has its own way of inflicting punishment. It will not always deal kindly with them; it is apt to hurt them often enough and praise them slightly.

There may be something in favor of the pupils in a school making the rules which they are to observe, but when they get through with school days the pupils will find they come under rules in the making of which they have had nothing at all to do. They may not like them, they might not approve of them, but there they are. The world has a way of making rules with which people have to comply. It is difficult to see the wisdom of making conditions in a schoolroom greatly different to those which scholars will have to deal with in later years.

Threshing Sow Thistle

We stopped a short time the other day to see what was going on at a threshing on a farm in the south end of Huron county. The reason why this threshing attracted attention was the volume of dust coming from the blower and also from the barn doors. They were drawing in from the fields with three teams and putting the stuff directly into the separator. Standing in the field the sheaves all had the appearance of fuzz on top and that was because there was so much sow thistle.

In the barn the machine was so placed that the load could drive far enough to pitch sheaves directly; then it would back out when the next team arrived. It was said the farmer wanted it that way so part of an empty mow could be filled from the blower. Several of those who were helping said they liked all their stacking done out-of-doors because they believed there was somewhat less danger of fire.

But that barn was full of dust. It was heavy on all the beams and on everything in the place. Sow thistle dust for the most part. How the men working in the barn could stand it is something which would require a deal of explaining. One of the men who was storing grain in the bins was running his hand through it as men will on threshing day, and his remark about the wheat was "Just fair!" I've never known the sow thistle to do grain any good. It has been a dry season around here and the thistle has been taking the moisture the wheat needed."

We can recall years ago in Western Ontario when the sow thistle was unknown. There was always some of the Canadian thistle around but it was always kept pretty well under control. We heard it stated at that threshing that a few weeks ago some of the fields looked as yellow with sow thistle tops as a field which had been infested by mustard. We dare say that barn will have evidence of threshing day for months to come. Perhaps the sow thistle dust will be heavy on the beams when it comes time to do the threshing next year.

Brantford Gets a Bill

There was a provincial by-election in Brantford some weeks ago, and Brantford City Council has been presented with a bill for $1,526. That was the amount spent for preparing and printing the list known as Part 3 of the municipal voters' list, and is reserved exclusively for those who are entitled to vote at provincial elections.

Brantford City Council knew in advance that the bill would be coming along, and passed a resolution to be forwarded to the Provincial Government suggesting that the expense of the election should be paid by the provincial treasury. The Brantford Expositor says there has been no response to the letter, and it is doubtful if there will be. The bill which the council has received can be taken as the official negative answer to the municipality's request.

Brantford is not the only place interested because the same thing is going on all over the province and has been for years. Municipalities have always to prepare the provincial voters' list and pay for it, and at the moment we can think of not one good reason why they should ever have to pay a red cent for such purposes. The Provincial Government possesses the power to tell the municipalities what they must do, and that is the only reason why Brantford and other places have to submit to being billed for something which is entirely a provincial matter. We suspect the reason why there was no response made to the letter of protest from the Brantford City Council was that no person in Queen's Park could offer a reasonably good explanation as to why the province was insisting that Brantford should pay the bill for preparing a voters' list on the strength of which a member was to be elected to the Provincial Legislature.

AGREED

(By A R K.)

¶ Four wise men stopped to have a talk, they met just half way down the block, and they were friends of course; one man was telling what he lost, and what his trading spell had cost, for he had sold a horse.

¶ He talked of horses and their ways, how his had all seen better days, said plainly what he thought; and then he stopped to mop his head, and in between his moppings said, "Gee whiz, but ain't it hot!"

¶ Then Number 2, a learned man, discussed affairs in far Japan, he said they'd meet defeat; and then he paused to stroke his brow, and mentioned to the other how, "I cannot stand the heat!"

¶ And Number 3 had just come home, he'd been in Venice and in Rome, he'd tripped along the coast; he talked of cities far and near, then mopped around above his ear, and said he feared he'd roast.

¶ Now Number 4 is large and round, his voice comes out with booming sound, he sang a doleful tune; my collar's fresh to start the day, but now I'm grieved to have to say, it's wilted tame by noon.

¶ These men can talk of nation's woes, informed on how this old world goes, they're great on heavy thought; they argue long with weighted word, today each from the other heard—that it was very hot.

French Canadian Issue Discussed

(By DR. R. W. FRANK)

GENEVA PARK, Lake Couchiching, Aug. 16. From the four days of intensive and sometimes tiresome study of "the problems in Canadian Unity" the two problems that stand out in bold relief I think can be said to be racial and economic.

Two distinguished French Canadians Mr. L. M. Gouin K.C., and Mr. Roger Quimet, both of Montreal, very charmingly and very brilliantly presented the viewpoint of French Canada.

When people say, as they do say so often in this province, that this is an English speaking country and that our Bank of Canada bills and our Postal matter ought not to be printed in two languages they are guilty, I am afraid, of the very fault that they attribute to the Frenchmen, namely national egoism. They forget that the French race is one of the great races of the world with a long history and a proud tradition and their language one of the most beautiful in the world. "La Languor diplomatigue" fitly expresses its possibilities in politeness and delicately shaded meanings.

The True Canadian

Would you ask the Frenchman simply because he lives in Canada to forget these? Would you want to forget yours if you lived in France?

But do not forget that the French Canadian is the true Canadian. He was the Canadian before the English arrived and so he has remained. He does not hold allegiance to France. He was cut off from his ancestors a century and a half ago. Quebec is his native land. Would you say that the English are foreigners because they came from the Elbe and the Weiser?

There is a lamentable ignorance of the contributions made by the French to Canadian life and institutions by the rest of Canada and a charm to French culture that English culture lacks.

It is true that difference of language has created a great barrier to a better knowledge of this people but I think it can be safely said that most of the prejudice arises from religious intolerance. I do not believe that it is because the average Anglo-Canadian objects to anyone believing what he likes and worshipping accordingly. We surely cannot deny to another what we hold as an inalienable right for ourselves. I think it is because of the auspicion that mass adherence to the church makes the individual subservient to and agent for some sinister agency.

Loyal To Church

French Canadians are loyal and obedient to their church but can any one say that is a very bad thing. I have heard many a protestant layman and clergy regret the lack of that virtue or quality in his own church yet we blame the Frenchman for that which his critics lack.

But his critics will point to acts of mass action in gaining Parliamentary advantage. It is true he has done it on some occasions but do not imagine that Frenchmen cannot differ in politics. Their political fights take on an intensity scarcely known elsewhere in Canada and contrary to general belief they do not always send a solid block to Parliament.

The real trouble lies in the vicious practice by both our old political parties of assuming that the Frenchmen can be bought en masse and each tries to outbid the other in currying for his vote.

But if the Frenchman does want something and has strategy enough to get it. Can you blame him? Remember he is in the minority and his only hope of getting it is in organization and unity.

But you say he is subservient to his church. Is it subervience? or is it love and reverence? The church to the French Canadian is his very life, his spiritual guide and comfort, his social centre his business advisor, and his hope eternal.

The Best Definition

But you say he is a slave, not a free man. Well is he? what is liberty anyway. There is no exact definition. It is only relative but the best definition I have heard is the freedom to choose or refuse that which presents itself. Well if the Frenchman chooses to believe what he does that is liberty to him so why should we revile him for it. We choose what we want can we deny to him the same privilege?

I am trying to interpret the point of view of the French Canadian as expressed by the two eminent gentlemen named above and I recommend them to your serious thought.

We are both Canadians and let no one doubt his loyalty to Canada. But he does feel that the rest of Canada despises him and has developed a sort of inferiority complex and a suspicion that superiority of numbers might endanger his institutions. Just place yourself in his position if you want to understand him.

Now let us face things as they are and then look to the future. He is here and he is going to stay what is the answer for an amicable relationship? Assimilation? utterly ridiculous. He has made a great contribution and will continue to make one as he is. Unity and harmony can best be preserved by maintaining and furthering French culture. Obstacles should be removed from interfering with a more direct contact with old France as a cultural and liberalizing influence. Quit pandering to his vote but see that he gets every opportunity that his merit warrants the same as everybody else. Trust him and try to understand him but do not do it in a supercilious manner. He is a proud man. He has a right to be. He comes of good ancestry.

The English and the Scots learned to co-operate and live together. The Flemings and the Waloons form the Belgian nation. Can we not make up our minds to do the same?

A Fine Gesture

No finer gesture could be made than the employment of French teachers in our secondary schools in the teaching of French. I have advocated this for years but never got a hearing. If we are going to teach French, and we ought to because we are a bilingual country, and hundreds of cultured French teachers are available right in our own country, why in heavens name do we keep wasting our childrens time learning something that sounds only approximately like French.

We might also promote an exchange of scholarships between our universities and promote the exchange of boys and girls for the study of each others language. It is in such gestures as these practical at the same time, that better understanding will be brought about.

• Suns of the Milky Way

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

DR. HARLOW SHAPELY, attending the International Astronomical Union in Stockholm this week with fifteen other Harvard researchers, again makes headline news through experimental verification of the theory that our own disc-shaped galaxy, the Milky Way, is surrounded by an immense, low-density globe of scattered stars. This constitutes an advance in knowledge comparable with his reports a few years ago, measuring more accurately than ever before, the diameter from one edge of the galaxy to the opposite side across the center.

Early civilizations little dreamed what is the true nature of the Milky Way. Until Democritus, the Greek philosopher, it was variously "a road to the palace of heaven," "the path of Noah's ark," "grains of corn," and "the star-dust trail." Democritus theorized it as light from myriads of stars. Galileo later proved this, when he turned the newly invented "telescope" to astronomical use.

All of which turned natural science away from the earlier homocentric view of the universe as revolving around mankind inhabiting a flat earth. Copernicus helped still more to remove Earthian egotism when he figured out the gyrations of the planets around the sun. Our earth receded still further into insignificance when it was found that even the sun, 92,000,000 miles away, was not the center of things, but instead a very ordinary star in the Milky Way galaxy. But for a time, the Milky Way was considered to be about the last word in what we call galaxies.

Now there are indications that even our galaxy is but a local edition of many "island universes" or external galaxies which stretch out toward infinity as far as present telescopes can reach. The nearest neighboring galaxy is 850,000 light years distant, forming with literally equi-distant others a "supergalaxy." Such systems as these also have vast spaces between them and have been tracked through the Mount Wilson 100-inch telescope to more than 500,000,000 light years distant. This figure, translated into miles assuming the speed of light to be roughly 6,000,000,000,000 mile per year, puts our farthest known neighbor quite some distance from the "star-dust trail."

When Churches Had No Organs

(London Free Press)

THE DECISION of the Free Methodist conference committee, meeting at Brantford, in regard to silencing the organ in the Goderich church reminds old-timers of the seventies and eighties when difficulties arose in many Western Ontario churches over the subject of musical instruments. In St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, London, it resulted in the resignation of the pastor, Rev. John Scott, in 1875.

The minutes of the session of St. Andrew's Church, bearing the date, September 13, 1869, contains an item: "A communication having been received from the Sabbath School teachers proposing the use of a melodeon in conducting the service of praise in the Sunday School and asking the concurrence of the session in the said proposition, the session having conidered the matter find that having regard to the harmony and spiritual edification of the congregation they are unable to grant their concurrence to the proposal."

On the eve of the opening of the church, October 17, 1869, a letter was read before the session containing a resolution of the choir in which it stated that the members still adhered to the resignation which they had recently tendered. It seems the session had previously objected to the use of a musical instrument at a social meeting to be hold on the Monday following the opening of the new church. Advocates of the organ continued to urge the session to purchase an instrument but not until 1888 were they successful.

Out in the rural districts a similar discussion was taking place. The old session book of the Bethel Presbyterian Church, Proof Line road, London Township,s contains the following entry:

"March 18, 1868,

Moved by John Carmichael, seconded by John Sinclair, that the session of the Proof Line congregation having taken into consideration the remit of the synod respecting the use of instrumental music in the services of God resolve and declare that the introduction of instrumental music in the service of the Canada Presbyterian Church would be hurtful to the peace and unity of the church and that therefore the prayer of the overture from the congregation of Knox Church, Montreal, be not granted. Carried."

The movement, however, did not cease and on February 21, 1877, a meeting was held in the Bethel Church, London Township, to discuss the introduction of an organ into the church. The motion carried 36-11. Not desiring to cause any split in the congregation, Dr. Henry Arnott moved that an expression of the meeting be taken to find how many would rather (although favorable to instrumental music) not see it introduced if it should disturb the harmony of the church. Seconded by Mr. Cavin. The result—yeas 15—nays 0. It was then moved by John Robb, seconded by Mr. Boulton, that a committee be appointed consisting of Mr. Grant, Alexander Ironsides, and Dr. Arnott to give a suitable presentation to Mr. McFarlane for his services as leader.

THE FIRST ORGAN was placed in the historic St. Peter's Church, Tyrconnel, Elgin County, in the year 1865. This congregation had early displayed an interest in musical instruments. One of the earliest used in the church was the flute, played by Stephen Backus and later by his brother, Andrew, historical records state. The Hollands were said to have brought the first melodeon into the township and this was carried to the church and back each Sunday. Mrs. Holland was the organist. The Patterson family later purchased a melodeon and this was also taken to the church.

Records compiled by Anna F. Docker and J. E. Pearce refer to a singing school conducted by Archibald Duncan, clerk in a Tyrconnel store, the class meeting in John Pearce's loom house. This gentleman played the organ or flute in St. Peter's Church for several years around the middle of the last century. John Seabury Pearce played the violin and cello and later the organ, while Thomas Pearce and T. L. Pearce played the flute. Truly St. Peter's Anglican Church in the Talbot settlement was a church of musical instruments.

BARN FIRES.

(Windsor Star)

TWO BARNS were burned in the Tilsonburg area late last week during threshing operations. They serve as a reminder to all farmers that care must be exercised during this season of the year.

Even though such losses may be covered, or partially so, by insurance, there is a loss which cannot be met by money. Any farmer would rather have his bins filled with grain, and ample feed for his livestock in a good barn than the money with which to replace the building and its contents. It is heartbreaking to see a summer's work in grain go up in smoke, to say nothing of the barn itself, and it is no fun to have to start building again, even if the money is available to do so.

There cannot be too much caution around barns during the threshing season. The straw is as dry as tinder, and can be ignited by the smallest spark. Once a fire start, it is next to impossible to subdue it, and it only becomes a matter of saving what machinery or other movables can be rushed out.

FARM IMPROVEMENTS

(Perth Courier)

IT IS POSSIBLE the many rural municipalities are overlooking the provision of the Municipal Act designed to encourage the improvement of farm properties. It is contained in Section 513, and authorizes Township Councils to pass bylaws for granting a prize not exceeding $10 for the best-kept road-side, farm and farm house surroundings in each school section in the township, and for prescribing the conditions upon which such prizes may be competed for and awarded. A competition of this sort, if properly managed, may be the means of big improvement in the appearance to township roads. A bonus may also be granted, not exceeding 25 cents each, for planting on any highway or within six feet thereof, ash, basswood, beech, birch, butternut, cedar, cherry, chestnut, elm, hickory, maple oak, pine, sassafras, spruce, walnut or whitewood trees. Such bonus is payable at the expiration of three years from date of planting if the trees are the native healthy and in good form.

ANOTHER NUISANCE.

(Montreal Star)

RECORDER LEBLANC did a good job when he put his foot down heavily on the latest noise-nuisance, the bawling through loud-speakers of advertisements of various kinds on the streets. Furthermore, the Recorder inflicted a penalty heavy enough to make his judgment "stick" and also, it is to be hoped, to be a warning to others who may be using or be tempted to use the same sort of pest to help sales.

There is, Heaven knows, enough unavoidable noise in the streets (although it is very doubtful whether much of the uproar which we accept as inevitable could not be stopped if we insisted on it) without the deliberate addition to it of shrieking exhortations to buy such and such an article, hour after hour. That sort of thing is sufficiently irritating to the passer-by, but for people who have to spend their days—and sometimes their nights—within sound of this clamor it constitutes an intolerable nuisance to which the Recorder has done well to put a stop.

USE FOR OLD TRAMS

(Toronto Financial Post)

THE SANDWICH, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway has been modernizing its system by the introduction of a new fleet of buses. It is liquidating its old rolling stock by selling street cars at $75 or $100 respectively, depending on their size. Large display advertisements in the Windsor Star boast that these:

"Can be used for Summer cottages playhouses, fruit stands, highway restaurants, tool houses and other purposes."

Perhaps Canada might reduce her railway deficit by making similar disposition of some of the obsolete railway rolling stock we see on the tracks or in sidings from time to time.

Rotarians Hear Rev. Easton In Fine Message

Rev. George Easton of Trinity United Church cast a potent spell of simple and earnest words over his fellow members of Peterborough Rotary Club at their Monday luncheon in the Empress Hotel in a pinch-hitting talk that began unpretentiously and in that same disarming and deceptive strain ended as a little gem of informal discourse that briefly shut out the sensory grievance of weather registering 96 degrees.

It was an unexpected and quite evidently an undesigned accomplishment measurable by the unescapable heat of Monday noon hour that might have daunted any other speaker and likewise any audience. And yet Rev. Mr. Easton quietly evoked the spirit beyond the discomfort of the body with an effective application of a few truths as old as the hills into which by metaphor and imagery he led his fellow clubmen.

Summer bachelor for a month, Rev. Mr. Easton began dusting off some of the thousand books in his library the other day, but dusting was presently forgotten in some book he had always intended to read. Continuing in this easy perambulary vein he mentioned that common experience of men who buy books, browsing among the racks and stacks of the big bookstores, and taking home not only several books he intended to buy and various others that had attracted him in passing. And that led to the topic of the buying of books one doesn't want with the possibility of finding them more valuable than books bought purposely because of a familiar and attractive subject.

Mountain Climbing.

Rev. Mr. Easton recalled his purchase of two books on mountain climbing that had been recommended by a speaker in Massey Hall, Toronto. He wasn't interested in mountain climbing but those two books by George Abraham and Edward Wimper became two of the best friends in his library.

"I read a good deal about the climbing of mountains in Italy, and also something both those writers had to say about climbing the mountains of life," Rev. Mr. Easton said. And three thoughts he recalled from the brace of books were (1) No man has ever yet stood on top of the world; (2) social law is never so emphatic as it is up in the mountains; (3) most casualties occur on the easier paths. He applied these postulates to the climbing of the mountains of life. Man is not yet standing on top of the earth because the best things are yet to arrive. Seventy-five or eighty years from now our children's children will laugh at the clumsy machines in which men of today fly, and at the boxes in which we receive broadcasts by radio. In the same sense, Rev. Mr. Easton said, there is still work to be done in improving society and in trying to carry out the ideals of Rotary. "We live in a world where there is ample for all when men become unselfish enough to use it for all."

Casualties are greatest in the easy places of mountain climbing because the climbers relax their energies and their caution after surmounting the places of danger and difficulty. Ninety per cent. of the accidents occur on the easy stretches of paths. And so in the moral sense casualties too often happen during the middle years of life. Youth summons up reserves of strength and energy and caution, puts on a bold face, often to mask the feelings of timidity, and having come through that dangerous period, there is likely to be a let down in thirties and forties and beyond.

"How often then is caution thrown to the wind in the spirit of 'why worry now.' And we read of men doing something that brings shame to their friends and their community. By their lives up to that time they had got people to trust them, and they stood high in the regard of their friends."

Rev. M. Easton included in his closing thought a story in Wimper's book of a dwarf he met in a mountain village, a man whose deformities of body repelled people. Wimper, however, was attracted to him by the trust in him displayed by little children of the hamlet, and the dwarf was engaged to help in the work of the camp because he was content with that role, leaving the thrills of climbing to others. Then, on his last ascent Wimper told the dwarf he was to go along with the party. Mr. Easton related with dramatic effect the joy of the dwarf on reaching the top of the mountain, and the radiance in his face as he knelt above the majesty of nature below and around him. "In climbing the mountains of life what is the gain in climbing alone? How much better to see the radiance on the face of some one we have helped."

James Dutton presided and the thanks of the Club was expressed by T. J. Carley.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

The other afternoon Father came into the house and said: "My goodness! Those notes have come back to the garden again. They're spoiling our whole lawn."

Frank and Dinah looked up from their books. "What are moles, Father?"

"Yes, what are moles? Tell us, please," Knarf and Hanid added. They were the two shadows who belonged to the children and always followed them about in their footsteps.

Father didn't hear the two shadows, but he heard the two children.

Little Animals.

"Moles?" he repeated. "Why, they're little animals who live underground. They dig tunnels with their teeth and don't see very well."

"And why do they spoil lawns?"

"Well, they don't mean to spoil them, I guess. But they do, just the same. They dig their tunnels right under the grass, and that makes the grass stop growing, and when the grass stops growing in a lawn—why, that's the end of the lawn."

"They dig tunnels with their teeth."

The children were silent for a moment or two. Then little Frank asked: "What are you going to do to make them go away?"

"I suppose I'll have to set a trap for them. I don't like to do that. But I don't know any other way to make them go away. Now if one of us were only able to talk in such a way that the moles could understand us, that one could go to the edge of the lawn and call down one of the tunnels to the moles. 'Moles! Listen to me!' he could say. 'Father is going to set a trap for you. So you'd better pack your trunks and call for the moving van and move away!'"

Knarf Can Do It.

"But none of us can talk to the moles," Frank said.

"Yes! Yes! I can talk to the moles!" Knarf shouted at this moment. "I'll run out and warn them. Let me go to them, please!"

No one heard the shadow boy except Hanid, the shadow girl. She said: "It's no use your shouting, Knarf. You can't go out. You have to stay right here until all the lights are put out."

"Humph," said Knarf at last when he saw that no one was listening to him. "I'll wait until it gets dark. Then I'll tell the moles to move away. But just the same, it's not fair that I can't go right away. It's not fair at all."

TWO WORLDS

BY MAUD McCURDY WELCH

READ THIS FIRST:

Determined to show Dr. Julian Paige, the man she is in love with, that she can make her own way in the world, Noel Shayne, wealthy society girl, burns her bridges behind her, moves to a rooming house, and, for lack of anything better, obtains a job as a taxi dancer at the Peacock, run by Nick Luigi. She is living with a girl named Laurie Evans, whom she met in the park, and who is a cashier at the restaurant which Julian patronizes. Noel feels she has a dangerous rival in Ruth Chester, Julian's pretty nurse. During an outing in the country, Julian tells Noel he wants to kiss her but doesn't think he should. One evening at the Peacock, Luigi tries to kiss Noel. She slaps his face and threatens to quit. Noel gets a job in a laundry but loses it after three days because she doesn't work fast enough. Still dancing at the Peacock, Noel meets a young man named Chris Landers, whose refinement makes him stand out from the others she has danced with there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 17

A WHOLE WEEK had passed and Noel hadn't seen Julian. It had seemed almost unbearable. But Noel's pride was aroused. She wasn't going to follow Julian around as Ruth Chester did. She wasn't even going to make any effort to see him. The next move would have to be his. And whether or not he would make any further effort to see her, Noel didn't know.

The hours at the Peacock were becoming more and more hateful. She had made several efforts since her last disastrous failure to find another position. But without any success, or even any encouragement.

One thing, however, Noel had to be thankful for. Luigi didn't make any further effort to see her, even though she was conscious as always of his pale watching eyes.

Chris Landers didn't come back to the peacock. Noel found herself expecting him, looking forward to seeing him again, even searching the door at times hoping for a glimpse of his sleek, shining blond head.

It wasn't because of any sentimental feeling she had toward him. It was because he seemed more like a man from her own world than any of the others she had met and danced with. She was the kind of a girl who had room in her heart for only one man, no matter how indifferently he might treat her. She was made like that and simply couldn't help it. If she hadn't been, she would never have embarked on this adventure, and fought such a losing fight all these long weeks. And she had to admit, in all honesty, that the adventure was losing its zest, since Julian had practically dropped out of the picture.

Once again it was Saturday—a late morning for Laurie, who sometimes went to work as early as 7 o'clock, and sometimes not until 9.

So Laurie was fixing breakfast, while Noel sat in the hard rocker in her pajamas, trying to mend a run in her last pair of good hose. It was amazing, Noel thought, the amount of time it consumed, just trying to keep neat, although Laurie didn't seem to have much trouble doing it.

Laurie took the coffee pot off the gas ring. "Here, let me do that," she exclaimed, taking the stocking from Noel. "If you'll only take tiny stitches, honey, instead of trying to pull it together—"

Noel let Laurie have the chair and stood up, brushed her hair back from her forehead, with her hand, and said unhappily. "Oh, I don't suppose I'll ever learn to do anything."

"When I get rich, I'll get you a maid," Laurie said with a little laugh. "And anyway, I like doing things for you."

"I wonder why. I'm sure I don't deserve to have you" Noel said in a low voice. "What you ought to have," she went on, "is a husband and 13 children to fuss over."

"Thirten—golly!" Laurie's face was so shocked, that Noel had to laugh. "Well, anyway, seven," she amended. "That's a lucky number."

"I could do with seven," Laurie said quite seriously.

Noel stared at her, hardly able to believe Laurie meant what she said. Then she saw again the little fleeting look of sadness come into Laurie's eyes, so Noel changed the subject at once by saying that the weather was getting hot and she hadn't anything cool to wear.

In another minute Laurie was looking more cheerful. "I'll help you find some bargains," she promised and began brushing her hair vigorously. Then she added, "Doctor Paige was asking about you yesterday."

"Was he?" Noel's heart gave a little jump. Then he wasn't quite as indifferent as he seemed. At least he had asked about her.

"He wanted to know how you were, and said he hoped you were enjoying yourself as usual."

Laurie didn't see the dark flush that rose to Noel's face. She wondered if there had been anything ironic in Julian's inquiry as to whether she might be having a good time "as usual". At any rate, it was purely casual, and it gave her a feeling that he didn't expect to see her any time soon.

And all the time just because of his kiss—Noel's face burned at the thought. Then she asked herself impatiently why she couldn't have sense enough to realize that a kiss was a kiss to Julian Paige, as it was to hundreds of other men. He had probably forgotten it, while she had hugged the memory of it to her heart ever since. "Women are idiots, aren't they?" Noel said to Laurie.

She nodded. "They're always falling in love with the wrong man."

"You too?" Noel asked.

Laurie nodded. "It certainly looks like it."

She had finished dressing and was ready now to leave for work. Nothing more was said about Julian. Afterwards Noel would have given anything if she had explained her situation a little more clearly to Laurie If she had, the thing that happened afterward would have been prevented.

Noel felt so tired and dispirited this morning she didn't even get a paper and look over the ads. Even if she should be lucky enough to find a job, she told herself bitterly, she'd be fired the next day.

In the afternoon, Noel went up town. She had to have a pair of shoes to dance in. The sandals she had brought with her, along with the tulle evening dress, were practically gone. So had found the reason the girls always left their dance frocks and slippers in the lockers was to save all possible extra wear. They didn't last long at that.

And now Noel had to have new sandals. She didn't want to open her locker some night and find a new pair had been put in there by Nick, which was quite likely to happen.

So she went to the place Laurie had mentioned to her, where she could buy a pair for $2.98.

Once Noel had paid as much as $30 for a pair. Those days seemed very far away.

In the afternoon when she had bought the sandals, it was all Noel could do to resist the temptation of going to the De Luxe. But her pride won again. Julian had asked Laurie about her, but he hadn't expressed a desire to see her. It was true he had exacted a promise from her to keep in touch with him. But he had probably forgotten all about that now, being so engrossed in his work—and the pretty nurse!

So Noel resisted the temptation to go to the restaurant. And afterward, when it was too late, she knew it had been a mistake to let her stubborn pride keep her away. The truth was, she might as well admit to herself, it wasn't altogether pride. There was another reason. She had been afraid she would see Julian and Ruth Chester together, talking and laughing gaily, happy and quite oblivious of the fact that she, Noel, was even in the same world. She couldn't bear that again.

Like many a girl has before her, Noel came to a sudden resolve. She would put Julian Paige out of her life, and her thoughts....

That evening Chris Landers came back to the Peacock. Noel was overjoyed to see him. There was something so clean and fine and sweet about Chris. She liked him very much. With a little effort, she could like him a great deal more. And she needed just the very sort of friend Chris wanted to be.

She had heard it said that the way to get one man out of your mind was promptly to interest yourself in another. So here was Chris, blond and debonair and likeable always looking at her with admiration in his gray-green eyes, and paying her pretty compliments which were like honey to her sadly deflated ego after Julian's cool indifference.

It ought to be easy to fall in love with Chris, Noel decided.

But there's one thing that acid can't face. That's the neutralizing power of Vange Salts, the alkaline remedy with the natural mineral spa action. A teaspoonful in warm water surges through your system just like the medicinal spring water far away in England where Vange Salts come from. Excess acid is neutralized quickly, painlessly. Your blood is purified of poisons. Your sore stomach walls are soothed. And that mass of hard, poisonous waste matter lying in your intestines is softened gently, naturally, and passed out of your body. Then do you feel good! It's marvellous! But the most marvellous thing is that Vange Salts are only 60 cents a tin! At your druggist now—but if you're wise, on your bathroom shelf tonight!

Criminal Negligence Charge Is Dismissed Against Driver

Without putting the accused on his defence, Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court Monday afternoon dismissed a charge of criminal negligence against Archie McIntyre of Otonabee, arising out of an automobile-bicycle accident on the Keene Road in which fourteen-year-old Arthur Drummond received fatal injuries.

Granting the motion of defense counsel, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., that the case should be dismissed after the Crown had finished its evidence Magistrate Gee said the evidence for the prosecution had failed to show any criminal recklessness or wilful neglect on the part of McIntyre. The cause of the accident, he said, was that the bicycle had got out of control and he was satisfied that the motorist had done his best to avert striking the boy on the bicycle.

"It is a very unfortunate case," he remarked. "It is a sad thing for the young lad who lost his life and for his parents."

When the afternoon session opened evidence was given by Clayton Turner who lives near the scene of the accident and who told of hearing McIntyre's horn blowing as the car came over the crest of the hill.

Provincial Constable David Silvester who said that he knew the road well swore that there was nothing to obstruct the view of a motorist coming over the hill. He said that the travelled portion of the road at the time of the accident was 18 to 20 feet wide.

Constable Silvester told of a conversation he had with McIntyre recently in which he said the accused had stated that people said he was tight when the accident happened but he had had only a couple of glasses of beer.

Mr. Gordon pressed the witness as to whether he thought McIntyre meant that it was before the accident he had had two glasses of beer or afterward when he came into Peterborough to report the affair and the officer replied that it was his impression that the beer incident had been before the accident.

Mrs. Drummond, mother of the dead boy, told of a conversation with McIntyre in which she claimed he said that he had stepped on the gas when he was passing the boys. She said she could smell liquor off his breath at the hospital.

In asking for dismissal Mr. Gordon said that no evidence had been produced by the Crown that would justify the magistrate, sitting as a judge and jury, in registering a conviction. Mr. Kerr maintained that the Crown had made out a prima facie case and the accused should be put on his defense.

generations. The Four Deteros, Torelli's Animal Show, Willie Morris and Bobby will round out the vaudeville bill that is highly recommended in the assurance that will be as entertaining as those of recent years, to say the least in the form of a boost.

Four automobiles are to be given away, one each night beginning Wednesday, to the holder of the lucky tickets will be drawn in front of the grandstand at 9.30 p.m. The tickets for this draw have been distributed through the co-operation of merchants of the city and district, and if the interest this wonderful opportunity of receiving a car as a gift continues at the same peak as at the last two Exhibitions the grandstand should be packed every evening.

Then there is Conklin's all Canadian midway, directed by Paddy Conklin who has been supervisor of the midway attraction at the Canadian National Exhibition and is widely known at all the leading exhibitions across Canada.

Horse Races Three Days

With one of the best half mile tracks in the country the Exhibition Board is again presenting three days of racing commencing Thursday afternoon with purses totalling $1200.

These are some of the attractions the directors of the Exhibition have lined up. They are particularly grateful to the Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture, for accepting their invitation to come to Peterborough formally to open the Exhibition, and they are hoping for a big welcoming crowd for Thursday afternoon when Hon. Mr. Dewan will likely say something about Ontario's agricultural industry in his address at the opening function.

Host of Entries

Chas Westlake, managing director, told the Examiner today the only worry about the livestock exhibits was where and how the surplus of cattle and horses were going to be housed. Makeshift shelter under tarpaulins attached to the exterior of the main barns have been put up, and it is likely they will all be occupied. The several committees in charge of these classes have done their best to accommodate exhibitors, and it is simply a case of not having room enough. The directors built a new barn this summer for swine with an immediate result of an increase in exhibits in that class.

That, in brief, is an outline of what the Exhibition has to offer the public, and as stated at the outset this present accomplishment has been brought about by the persevering efforts of the citizens and directors of the city and county and neighboring district.

Possibly for future development the Board may receive the assistance for which it has been hoping from the government since attaining grade A rank. As a substantial step in that direction record attendances this week would go a long way to placing the directors in the position where they can confidently expand their plans for the future and at the same time renew their claims to the Department of Agriculture.

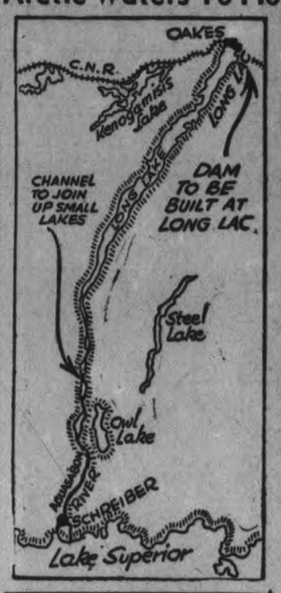
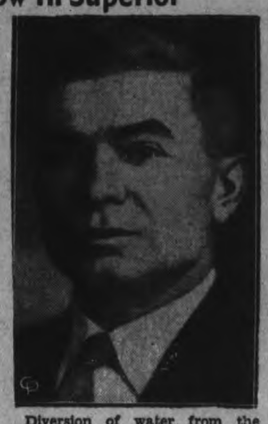
Arctic Waters To Flow In Superior





Diversion of water from the Arctic ocean watershed to the great lakes and the St. Lawrence through Long lake, one of the largest engineering projects ever undertaken in northern Ontario, will be almost complete by the end of the year, according to reports from Fort William, Ont. The map, LEFT, shows location of the development. A $600,000 dam has already been constructed at Kenogamisis lake, 50 miles north of Long Lac station and a second dam will be built at the head of Long Lac. The entire project, which will add a flow of 1,250 cubic feet of water per second to the Niagara river either to flow over the falls or for power development, and also making possible an increase of $1,000,000 per year in the revenue from Ontario's forests, is under the control of the Ontario Hydro, headed by Dr. T. Dynamite Blast his brother Horace. The "shop" was sold before the depression for $140,000,000. The cheque for the same was said to be the largest ever written in a private business transaction. The brothers died and their fortunes were divided equally between the two families.

The marriage of Danny and Captain John A. Macdonald's daughter took place at the Rochester, Mich., estate of the bridegroom's mother following rumors circulating for more than a year that they were engaged. They spent part of their honeymoon in an automobile trailer touring northern Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodge arrived at the summer camp a week ago. For three summers during Danny's vacation trips to the North the $15-a-week telephone operator was seen with the young millionaire in and about the hamlet of Gore Bay, 45 miles west of here, and the waters where they planned to continue their honeymoon were familiar to both.

No Time to Throw Stick.

The explosion occurred at 4 p.m. E.D.T. It happened so quickly Dodge did not have time to throw the stick of dynamite out of the garage window as he had intended. It exploded in his hands. As he lay on the floor a second explosion occurred as other sticks detonated. Prostrate, Dodge got the full force of the second explosion.

His face was torn, his right hand was mangled, and he was cut about the legs and body. Valiquette, standing nearby, was burned about the body. Mrs. Dodge was at the garage door and received the force of the blast upon the legs and face. Bryant was looking through a window and was injured when the wall was blown out.

The dynamite as left by workmen who eight years ago blasted tree stumps and rock from the property. Friends who knew Danny's love of experimenting said that he several times had expressed a wish to learn if the explosive still was in good condition. As he determined to find out yesterday Bryant picked what he thought was the safest spot to view the experiment. He was the most seriously injured of the watchers.

Terribly injured about the body, face, and arms, Bryant apparently did not realize how badly he was hurt. He ran to a motor car nearby with Mrs. Dodge to remove Dodge to the speedboat Mac. Bryant collapsed in the car as Valiquette, dazed by the blast, carried Dodge from the garage.

Roads Too Rough

Because of Manitoulin Island's tortuous, winding roads, too rough for Dodge by automobile in his condition, the launch was used to transport him. The water route up the inside channel of Georgian Bay to Little Current is a 40-minute run with the speedboat, capable of a sped of nearly 40 knots.

Mrs. Dodge took the wheel of the Mac. Mrs. Bryant sat in the stern, the unconscious form of her husband across her legs. Dodge lay upon a rear seat with Valiquette who tried to bandage his young employer's wounds. Her arms bleeding, Mrs. Dodge battles an after sea with waves running 4½ feet high.

"My legs—my legs—they're paining terribly," Dodge was said to have mumbled many times during the first 10 miles of the trip.

Dodge Goes Overboard

After 10 miles, Mrs. Dodge no longer could fight the rough water. She asked Valiquette to take the wheel. It was while Mrs. Dodge and the young camp helper both were in the driver's seat that Dodge went overboard.

"They turned around just in time to see young Dodge going over the stern of the boat," the father of Valiquette said here last night as he related what his young son told him before he was taken to hospital.

How Dodge fell from the boat was not clearly explained. One theory was that Dodge, crazed by the pain in his legs and in a semi-coma, tried to find relief in the chill waters of Georgian Bay.

Search 2 Hours In Vain

But Valiquette's father thought differently. After spending two hours in the Mac searching vainly for Dodge's body last night, he said: "I think he stood up from the pain of his injuries. Then, one of those big following seas hit the stern of the launch and threw it up. Weak, scarcely conscious, I think he fell over the stern.

Just before he went overboard, Dodge had been asked: "How are you feeling, Danny?"

"He looked straight ahead, as though he hadn't heard," Mrs. Bryant said when the launch docked. "He seemed to be staring off into space, as though he were not quite conscious of what was happening. Previously, however, he had been complaining of the terrible pains in his legs. He did not seem to mind the terrible cuts on his face or his mangled hand."

Mrs. Dodge and Valiquette turned the craft as they saw Danny going over. But the Mac, 28 feet long and speeding at 35 knots, required 300 yards to turn about. The survivors said they got to within 20 feet of Dodge who, though a good swimmer, was making no effort to swim.

Couldn't Get Alongside

Owing to the high waves it was impossible to bring the launch alongside Dodge immediately. Another big circle was necessary but by that time Dodge had gone down. Those in the boat continued to circle the spot for several minutes then decided to head for Little Current for assistance.

Here, Mrs. Dodge walked unaided to the office of Dr. C. R. Young and asked that a stretcher be sent to the boat to bring up Bryant. Both were given first aid and taken to Mindomoya. Valiquette gave his father, Edward Valiquette, directions to the scene of the drowning then he also was removed to hospital.

When Mrs. Dodge arrived at the Red Cross Hospital she asked for Etta Gervin, who formerly worked with her on the telephone switchboard at Gore Bay. She had Miss Gervin telephone Dodge's mother, Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, at Rochester, then told her friend of the accident.

Tells Bryant to Light Fuse.

Miss Gervin said Mrs. Dodge had told her Dodge had wanted to find out if the dynamite "was any good." "Here, touch a match to it," she quoted her husband as instructing Bryant, and said the explosion came immediately.

The widow's first knowledge that anything was wrong on the trip up the channel, Miss Gervin said, was when she heard Mrs. Bryant say: "Dan, don't do that."

"When I turned around Dan was in the water," Miss Gervin said her friend had told her.

Hospital authorities said Mrs. Dodge was suffering from nervous shock and that a hole was blown in her arm. Bryant's most serious injuries are in the abdomen, and his condition was said to be critical.

Fishing vessels in charge of Jack Trimmer and his son sought the body throughout most of the night. The search was resumed to-day. A heavily-weighted seine net is being employed in dragging the deep channel where the youthful heir was drowned.

Members of the Dodge family were exepected here today. Mrs. Wilson was reported to be on her way from Grand Bend, Ont., Lake Huron summer resort, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Holmes were en route by automobile. Mrs. Holmes is a sister of Mrs. Dodge and was her only attendant at the quiet wedding.

Bride Never Whimpered

"I have never seen a woman show such courage," Dr. Young, who administered first aid to the survivors, said of Mrs. Dodge. "She never whimpered or complained while I worked on her. She simply said she felt very weak. She told me what happened but I was really too busy dressing her wounds and, too, I am a little deaf so I didn't quite understand the details."

Asked what, in his opinion, would have caused Dodge to jump overboard, Dr. Young said he understood the young man was injured badly about the head and body. "Such a shock may have led to a temporary derangement, and in delirium the unfortunate man leaped overboard," he said.

Capt. C. R. Bradley, retired Little Current Lake mariner, said Mrs. Dodge told him before going to the hospital that Dodge had picked up a stick of old dynamite that had been lying in the garage "to see if it would work."

"It exploded in his hands, and he was thrown to the floor," Capt. Bradley said. "There was a second stick of dynamite on the window and the explosion set off this piece as well."

Entered England

Barred from England because of a quarantine of her "seeing-eye" dog, Babe, blind Hazel Hurst remained aboard the ship on which she had left United States, prepared to return without setting foot in England when word was received that, through the intervention of Ambasador Joseph Kennedy, both she and the dog would be permitted to land. It was but an ephemeral visit, however, and this picture illustrates practically all of it. Hazel and her dog are seen walking on the pier, all they had time to do before the ship sailed again.

Small Cruiser From Hawaii Is Making Trent Canal Voyage

Lieutenant Commander O. B. Earle, retired from the United States Navy, and his wife were distinguished visitors to the city on Monday in their small cruiser, the Humuhumunukunukuapuaa. Their home port is Kealakekua Bay, Hawaii.

"I sailed in the United States navy for a good many years, but I'm just beginning to know the inland waters now," said Commander Earle. "This is a new trip for me and we are enjoying every minute of it." He was greatly impressed with the beauty of this district and said he was looking forward to the rest of the trip through the Kawartha lakes. "You see, we're like all the other Americans," he smiled, pointing toward large bundles of woollen goods. "We bought them uptown this afternoon," he said.

Inveterate travellers are the retired seaman and his wife. They started out from New York on July 12, travelled through the New York barge canal to Oswego on the United States side of Lake Ontario, went down through the Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay and crossed over to the Canadian side. They journeyed through the Bay of Quinte to Trenton and up the Trent Canal to Peterborough.

They will travel from Peterborough to Georgian Bay, to the Straits of Michinac and down Lake Michigan to Chicago. From that point they will travel by canal to the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and on down to New Orleans.

This ambitious program is not their first in the tiny 25-foot boat. The boat was built in Honolulu and shipped to Seattle, Washington in 1935 and that year the couple cruised through the waters of British Columbia for 77 days, travelling to the Alaskan border.

The following two years they deserted the water for journeys by trailer, but found that mode of travel much inferior to the water. In their cruiser, which dock attendants said yesterday was one of the most seaworthy craft ever to dock here, they have every convenience, travel comfortably and safely.

The boat was named after a pretty fish common in Kealakekua Bay and its name in English would be "Little-Fish - With-A-Nose-Like-A-Pig." Commander Earle said its name is more pronounceable than some of the Indian names he has encountered in this district. Every two weeks he sends excerpts from the ship's log printed on a mimeograph, to fifty friends throughout the United States.

Rev. Smith Named Cathedral Church

The Rev. F. E. Smith who spent some time as assistant in All Saints' Church has been appointed by Bishop Sovereign to be rector of the Cathedral Church of the Diocese of Athabasca at Peace River. Mr. Smith spent the summer of 1937 in charge of All Saints' Parish during the absence of Canon Paterson and he has very many friends in the city of Peterborough who will rejoice in his well merited advancement.

It is expected that he will take up his new duties before the end of this month. St. James Pro-Cathedral was built within the last two years and has a very splendid new plant to replace the former pioneer church at the historic Peace River Crossing.

AN EPIDEMIC OF STIFF NECKS

Many people are complaining of distressing stiffness in the neck and shoulders during the past ten days and many have found it necessary to see the family doctor or a chiropractor. Asked by a reporter this morning Mark Goodwin, chiropractor, said: "People are sleeping in drafts and during the hot midday period sit between open doors and windows to eat their meals not realizing that they are in a direct draft. This in my opinion is the cause of much of the trouble." He added the warning that serious illness might result if a person who is overheated sits in such a position to enjoy what may appear to be only a cooling breeze.

A FAMILY OF LAWYERS

An interesting family get-together took place over the weekend when J. W. Gordon of Toronto, father of G. N. Gordon, K.C., visited his son. The father is in his 87th year and retired from active practise in the legal profession five year sago. His daughter, Miss Grace Gordon, sister of the local lawyer and also a barrister in Toronto accompanied her father. Miss Gordon is solicitor to to the Official Guardian of Ontario. Adding Wilmot (Pete) Gordon to the group and there are four lawyers in the one family. The four with Mrs. G. N. Gordon are enjoying fishing at Jack's Lake and J. W. Gordon who is very active for his age caught a good share of the fish.

PARTRIDGE ON ARMOUR HILL

A beautiful ruffed grouse stepped up on a rock in full view of several motorists parked on the top of Armour Memorial Park early Monday evening, and later a pair of these partridges were seen flying away from the young spruce trees. The trees are heavy with cones and growing rapidly and undoubtedly many birds will seek food on the hill this Autumn. At the present time there are groundhogs, rabbits and grouse in the park

BOATING POPULAR.

Paddling on the lake and river Sunday was reminiscent of years ago before the automobile dispersed people to all points of the compass. Scores of boats were seen all the way from the C.N.R. bridge almost up to the Hunter street bridge.

MIDWAY ARRIVES.

The Conklin Shows, the Midway attraction for the Peterborough Exhibition, rolled into town this morning and immediately the job of setting up the big show ready for Wednesday's opening was commenced.

RED ROOFS AT "EX"

Roofs of some of the buildings at the Exhibition Park have been painted a bright red, a splash of color recommended by Roland Denne, who believes that fresh paint is a sound investment whether it is applied to public or private buildings.

LOCAL GOLFERS IN DRAW.

Of the 149 golfers entered for competition in the Canadian open golf draw, three are entered from the local clubs. Play which takes place this week at the Mississauga Club, Toronto, has Bill Fairweather of the Peterborough club, Ben Norris and Stan Whiddon of the Kawartha entered in the draw.

WINS STUDIO COUCH.

Miss Jean Fee, 359 Stewart street, was the lucky winner for the beautiful studio couch, valued at $47 on which tickets had been sold in connection with the annual lawn social of the Immaculate Conception Church. The draw was made at a social evening held Monday night at Community Hall, Ashburnham. Joseph Garvey, 450 Driscall Terrace, was the winner of the table lamp.

MANY ENQUIRIES FOR BUILDING LOTS.

A list of all building lots in the city that are owned by the municipality has been compiled for the benefit of those seeking a building lot, and is now in the hands of Alderman Herb McCannan. So far there has been a flock of enquiries regarding location and price, and several lots have been sold. The West End and Ashburnham are getting the most attention.

CAR TICKETS GOING FAST.

R. M. Glover reports that the supply of car tickets are exhausted and those now in the hands of merchants will in all probability be all taken by customers even before the Exhibition gets underway. He points out that no member of the Exhibition Board of Directors is eligible to win a car, and that only one car may be won by a family. The Exhibition officials, to protect the public may demand proof from any car winners to show that the lucky persons purchased a ticket to enter the grounds.

PURCHASED ANOTHER LOT

William Tinker, Ashburnham fuel dealer, has purchased the lot on the north-west corner of Douro street and Armour road and intends to build one or two bungalows there this year. Mr. Tinker has just completed two houses on Rogers street and the demand for homes in the locality has prompted the building of additional houses. It was learned on good authority that many of the most desirable lots in that area, are being purchased by citizens who intend to build homes for themselves.

WHEAT BRINGS 59 CENTS.

A farmer informed The Examiner recently that he was paid 59 cents a bushel for his fall wheat just as it was threshed and bagged in the field.

A MAMMOTH TAP.

Fred A. Goodfellow isn't taking any chances on the public overlooking his plumbing shop on Water street. He has a mammoth tap of standard proportions in front of his door. It is symmetrical and all that, but is bigger than a street hydrant, and is suggestive of old guild customs, and even of the tradesmen's signs of later days that ended about the turn of the century.

SHIRT-SLEEVE JUSTICE.

It was a case of shirt-sleeve justice in the Peterborough Police Court Monday. At the morning session Magistrate Gee wore his own coat but mercifully permitted the stenographer and everybody else who wanted to, to get down to shirt sleeves. After luncheon, however, even the cadi was coatless when the proceedings opened.

BRANCH CAUSES TROUBLE.

A large branch of a tree blew down across several power wires along Highway 28 a few miles out of the city during the storm Monday evening, and fireworks resulted from the ensuing "short." Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton steered traffic carefully around the spot until the trouble had been cleared up.

NORTHEND HIT BY STORM.

Fire Chief Gimblett reports this morning that the fire alarm box at the Isolation Hospital was burned during the storm Monday night, and the entire northern city circuit was paralyzed by falling trees and broken wires. Repair men are busy this morning from the Bell Telephone, Utilities Commission and the Fire Hall, all three having plenty of work north of Parkhill Road.

SWIMMING POOL FAVORITE SPOT

Manq youngsters are using the swimming pool at Jackson Park on Sundays and at other times when the children attending camp are not on hand. The pool is ideal for the younger ones who cannot swim as the water is only three feet deep and the bottom slopes gradually. Several boys have been seen diving from the bridge and they are warned that this practise must be discontinued as a serious accident is certain to result.

A BOOST FOR THE EXHIBITION.

Every employee of the Canadian General Electric Company who is a member in good standing of the Social and Athletic Club will be given an admission ticket to the Exhibition Grounds and another to the Grand Stand for Thursday night's performance, free of charge. The association is paying for the tickets and passing the favor along to its members. In the event of rain the tickets will be honored Friday night. This not only helps the employees but will give the Exhibition Board a lift.

Pasteurization Areas In District Defined By Order In Council

SECTIONS OF North Monaghan and Smith townships adjacent to the city are included in the areas in which the regulations for the pasteurization of milk are effective on October 1, the same date as for the city. The section of North Monaghan is defined as follows: south of the city to the Otonabee River and Cameron Street, then Western Avenue on the west, extending north to the Peterborough-Port Hope highway, returning to the city boundary at Monaghan Road and Charlotte Street.

The section of Smith township is north of the city and bounded by Wolsely, Stewart, Bellevue, Barnardo and McClennan Streets. In addition to these suburbs in which the new law goes into force at the end of September, there are the following villages in this district where pasteurization is not required until December 31. Lakefield, Havelock, Madoc, Brighton, Tweed, Port Perry and Fenelon Falls.

Bobcaygeon is also mentioned in the list, but is included in the October 1st group of municipalities.

County Truck Is Damaged By Fire

Gasoline thieves are believed responsible for a fire which, over the weekend, did considerable damage to a truck belonging to the county of Peterborough. The vehicle had been left over Sunday at the gravel pit on the Lakefield-McCracken's Landing road where some work is being done and it is thought that some persons tried to steal the gasoline out of the tank and in so doing set fire to the cabin of the truck and caused considerable damage, the cushions in particular being badly burned. The affair is being investigated by Provincial Constable David Silvester.

Charles Stanley Returns To City Of Boyhood

Charles A. Stanley, Jr., of Detroit, whose father was general manager of the Stanley Piano Company at the northeast corner of George and Dalhousie streets nearly forty years ago is a visitor in the city for the Exhibition, and incidentally the impressions and friendships of his boyhood.

Charles Stanley, Sr., retired from business five years ago and is living at Grand Haven, Mich.

"I always regarded Peterborough as the old home town," his son told the Examiner this morning. "My father was associated with the late A. L. Davis of this city and the late Walter Turner of Hastings in the piano business here, but after the fire of 1902 our manufacturing interest here ended. My father afterwards went to Paris, France, and Americanized the methods of the Gouveau Piano Company, and on his return to the United States he built the American Piano Company's factories at East Rochester, N.Y. They made the Chickering, Knabe and other well-known pianos across the border."

Mr. Stanley left Peterborough as a boy, and he has one desire which he hopes to fill during his stay here.

Wants to See Old Home

"We lived at the northeast corner of Hunter and Park streets, (Hon. G. N. Gordon's residence) and I intend to ask the present owner to let me have a look through the old home. You know what boyhood attachments and memories are."

Mr. Stanley is engaged with a company manufacturing automatic lawn sprinklers and has come into Canada to try to sell the patent for this country. While in Toronto his uncle, Russell Nesbitt, M.L.A., requested to come down to the Peterborough Exhibition to do some publicity and circularizing work for the Easafoot Company in advance of the C.N.E.

Society Plans Flower Show

The first of a number of door prizes to be given away at the Peterborough Horticultural Society's annual flower show Friday, August 26 in the Canadian Legion Hall is a fine twilight table lamp presented by Carl A. Salmonsen. W. H. Young of the flower show committee of the Peterborough Exhibition was reminding some of his associates the other night of the Horticultural Society's show on the last Friday of August, and mentioned the gift from the works manager of the C.G.E. when he was asked if he would contribute a door prize. Mr. Salmonsen's tribute was to this effect: "Every time I go away from Peterborough and come home again I am always impressed with its neatness and beauty, the boulevards and lawns, and I think the Horticultural Society should receive a great deal of the credit that Peterborough is such an attractive city."

John A. Smith is president of the Horticultural Society, and with his executive has endeavored to keep the cause of beautification of the city before public attention. The admission to the flower show August 26 is only ten cents, and every ticket carries a chance to win one of the eight or nine door prizes.

Fled Chain Gang

Stoop-shouldered and bearing the marks of iron shackles on his legs, Paul Johnson, ABOVE, is pictured as he appeared in a Los Angeles police station, following his arrest as a fugitive from a Georgia chain gang. Johnson, 19 years old, said he had been with the chain gang since he was 16, when he was convicted on a robbery charge.

Hastings Officials Discuss Outside High School Problem

Preview Of Kingston

This is how President F. D. Roosevelt of United States will appear to the convocation audience at Queen's university, Kingston, Ont., when that institution confers the honorary title of doctor of civil laws upon him during his one-day visit to Canada, Aug. 18. Here Mr. Roosevelt has just received a similar degree from the University of Georgia at Athens, Ga., and, attired in cap, gown and hood, is delivering his acceptance speech to the convocation.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Aug. 16.—A meeting of the Municipal Council and Public and Separate School Boards of Hastings was held in the council chambers here last night for the purpose of discussing and getting the general public interested in sending their children to either Norwood or Campbellford schools in place of pupils going to each.

Reeve Lewis Kelly pointed out that this municipality has been hit harder than any village in the United Counties, due to increased taxation resulting from the new school act. He said there was a great difference in cost per child which the municipality was paying between Norwood and Campbellford schools. Campbellford school was highest at 70c per pupil per day, as against Norwood at 26c. This municipality received a bill for $1,360 for High School education of its children for one term, the Reeve announced.

The difference in type of education received at the two schools was discussed. The general opinion seemed to be that Campbellford was the better equipped and offered more subjects. Some present seemed of the opinion that Norwood school was installing more equipment this year, which would bring it more up-to-date.

Information on tuition at both schools will be had and a second meeting will be held here Friday night at eight o'clock, at which time Reeve R. Mallory of Warkworth and chairman of schools in the Counties Council, will outline the new school act.

Drinking Party Is Raided By Police

Police dropped in on a drinking party staged by two men and a woman in an automobile in Jackson Park Monday evening, and as a result all three were arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

The woman, who is married, pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal consumption, and was fined $10 and costs. She was represented by Reg. Chandler, who asked for a lenient sentence.

Magistrate Langley read her a lesson upon the impropriety of her conduct and warned her that another appearance in court on a liquor charge would result in severe penalties.

One of the men, facing a similar charge, pleaded not guilty and asked for a week's adjournment. The request was granted by the court.

The other male member of the party did not fare so well. He was charged with illegal possession of liquor and also wanted a week's adjournment without pleading. Inspector Reid objected and finally the Magistrate remanded the accused until Friday, bail being set at $200.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., acting Crown Attorney, prosecuted the cases.

PETES DROP 12-11 LACROSSE DECISION TO THE BROOKLIN CLUB

General Free-for-All Lends Excitement In The Closing Minutes Of Lacrosse Tangle

Vipond And Chute Draw Penalties For Starting Fight

Brooklin lacrossers took a 12-11 O.L.A. senior "B" victory over the Petes last night in Brooklin to gain vengeance on the locals for a recent defeat in Peterborough. Like their former meeting, last night's tilt was a wildly exciting fray, marked with close scoring, fine lacrosse and rough play. It wound up in a free-for-all with players of both teams mixing.

Lewis Vipond and Rowan Chute tangled with only a few minutes to go, dropping their sticks and wading in with fists flying. This touched off the spark, both sides having nursed grievances throughout, and opposing players tore into each other in a fiercely milling brawl, which was finally halted. Chute and Vipond drew 10-minute penalties. The locals got 10 against six penalties, Chute drawing six of them.

The score was 5-5 in the first quarter and 7-6 for Brooklin at halftime. Both sides scored twice in the third and both tallied three times in the hectic fourth frame. Play was plenty close every step of the way as the two classy, well-matched squads of battlers fought it out before a fair crowd of rabid home rooters.

Checking was rough from the first faceoff as the enemies used their weights and laid on the hickory. Slashing, rough checking, high-sticking, tripping and finally fighting, sent homesters and invaders off in every quarter. At the same time, both teams flashed some brilliant senior "B" lacrosse, with fast stepping, whistling passes and good shooting. Three or four of the goals were of the spectacular type, marked by tricky stickhandling.

W. Vipond got the first goal, with Chute taking Magee's pass to tie it up. Loucks and Magee each counted before L. Vipond came back to tally. Reid got the next for the Petes but Saunders and Grice both dented the hemp for the homesters. Worthy broke through for one and Brooklin replied with three markers, Cooper, W. Vipond and Ormiston scoring, Armour assisting on the latter. Reid tallied twice, Worthy aiding on one and, after Grice scored from L. Vipond, Chute worked in close to fool the goalie. W. Vipond and Cook counted, the latter taking a pass from Grice. Chute scored from Worthy, but Brooklin took a good lead with two nice goals, Kivell getting an assist from L. Vipond and Grice scoring from Cook. The Petes rallied to almost tie it up at the finish, scoring two goals, King getting one and Reid scoring on Magee's assist. The teams:

Petes—Goal, R. Creighton; defence, Chute and Sloan; centre, Magee; wings, Crowe and Dallin; rover, Vitarelli; alternates, Miller, Worthy, Loucks, Reid, King, Hendy, Pammett.

Brooklin—Goal, Clarke; defence, Grice and Stephens; centre, W. Vipond; wings, Kivell and L. Vipond; rover, Lu Vipond; alternates, Cook, Ormiston, Saunders, Lade, Cooper, Armour and MacDonald.

Fifth Game Necessary D.F.A. Finals

WINNIPEG, Aug. 16 (C.P.). — A fighting spirit that carried them from behind twice last night brought Timmins Dome Mines a 2-2 draw with Vancouver North Shore United in the fourth game of the Dominion football final. Thirty minutes of overtime play failed to produce a winner.

The tie necessitated a fifth game Wednesday in what was scheduled a best-of-three series. Each team has won a game, Dome taking the second 3 to 1, and North Shore the third 1 to 0. The series opener ended 1 to 1.

Henry Lone scored both Dome goals and led many clever plays along with his running mates, George Chambers and Willie Whyte. Lone's first marker came on Albert Paynter's pass and the second was a well-executed header on Willie Whyte's corner kick.

Mike McManus was credited with both Western goals, although the first rolled over the line off Paynter's knee. Mike's shot was saved by Goalie Baxter, but the rebound struck Paynter and barely rolled over the goal-line. McManus's second goal was a header on Paul Kazoolin's corner kick.

North Shore lost the services of hard-driving Jimmy Spencer late in the overtime when he was carried off the field with torn ligaments in his right ankle. Manager Bill Thomson said after the game he did not believe Spencer would be able to play in the fifth game on Wednesday.

Dalhousie Celebrates

HALIFAX, Aug. 16 (C.P.).—Many a tale was spun 'round many a Halifax dinner table last night as hundreds of former Dalhousians poured into the city, preparing to pay their respects to alma mater on her 100th birthday. Dalhousie University's centennial celebration and re-union open here to-day. More than 1,000 former students are expected to attend the ceremonies.

ALCOHOLIC UPSET

DUNSTAFFNAGE, P.E.I.—(CP).—Add to the list of things which don't mix: liquor, flour, barbed wire and a truck. A truck driver here failed to turn when the road did, and residents spent considerable time extricating the vehicle and part of its load of flour and barbed wire from the surrounding landscape. The driver was arrested and sentenced to seven days' imprisonment on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Sheepdog Trials Seasonal Thrill

LONDON, Aug. 16—(CP).—Shepherds and their educated dogs are preparing to come down from lonely hills to give their annual "season" of public performances—the big sheepdog trials.

Scotland's contingent starts the show at Kelso, July 31 for the Scottis national trials at the International Sheepdog Society. Then follow the Welsh National at Margam, the English National, Ilkley, both in August, and the grand finals, the International Trials at Southport in September.

Internationa lchampion shepherd is J. M. Wilson of Innerleithen and the champion dog is Gallant Roy, one-eyed wonder of the sheepdog world. Roy, only dog ever to have won his title three times, has all the good points—he's patient, gentle but firm, resourceful and good-tempered. His swift, uncanny appreciator of emergency has more than once led crowds to forget the rule of silence and cheer his performances. In fact Roy is almost a shepherd in himself.

This was the task set each dog and which Roy performed with such distinction to win the championship last year: Each had to gather two lots of shep which were released right and left at a distance of 800 yards and bring them to the shepherd. Then the sheep had to be "given away" over a trangular course on which there were two obstacle gates. Finally five marked sheep had to be "shed" and penned. It all had to be accomplished within half an hour.

SPORTS -DAY BY DAY-

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

WE RAN INTO JAVA JOE, the word mixer-upper, last night in a low beanery. "Hi, stupe," greets Joe, "I haven't seen you in a month of Mondays. And here you are at a scamperous hour when it is ruined abroad that you were all tied up in matrimoany." We said no, it was merely a rumor and it wasn't such a scandalous hour anyway. Furthermore, we wondered, what had Joe been doing recently. "That is nothing to discrust at such an unseasonable hour as one a.n., even if it is the flank of the evening. For one thing I have bee n labelling at hard work, and my recreating has been on the slim side so far. But I may get a week of vocation yet." And Joe wanted to know what was doing in sports, besides the Peters winning a game from Oshawa on Saturday.

* * * * * *

INFORMED THAT WE were billed to do the harness horse racing at the Ex. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday—covering two races a day—he remarked: "I have always had a pennant for harvest horse races, and will certainly try to witless these races. My altitude is the harvest horses really put on a spectacled show and it is great fun to watch the drivers of the harvest horses jocular for prostrations." We agreed that it was quite a job jockey for positions in the harness hoss events, and finally tore away from Joseph just as he was busy piloting into port another waiter with a mug of his "indefensible" java.

They Don't Run On Gas

SPEAKING OF HARNESS HOSS racing, the Ex. has lined up quite a program for those who are interested—and we wouldn't be boosting this three-day meet if we didn't know that a sizeable hunk of humanity is quite het up on how the hosses run. Thursday's events are the 2.30 and 2.22 classes, while the 2.27 and 2.14 runs are on Friday. And the 2.18 and 2.24 on Saturday. With plenty of shekels up for prizes. Unlike the recent motorbike races, or the auto contests, these broncs are decidedly un-mechanized. It is a matter of breeding and endless training, as well as good driving in the races. The owners and drivers spend plenty of time, money and worry before the fans see the horses out there running around the half-mile circuit And they put on real races—and we're all for 'em.

DOWN IN KINGSTON—there's a school there called Queen's where they play some rugby—the scribe tells of a tale provided by Ted Reeve, who is by way of being a witty coacher or a coaching wit. It seems that a ball-carrier climbed on a teammate's shoulders, and the latter tore down the field. The rivals were quite nonplussed as they couldn't tackle the runner, since he was not the ball-carrier. It looked like a sure touchdown till the runner tried to dash between the goal posts. Well, he knocked the ball-carrier off so hard that he shot away back and the enemy scored a safety touch to win the game! We agree that it was a scandalous thing, but why the heck didn't they hire a trapeze act and use three men, the top man with the ball falling over the bar to get a try and the extra point?

The GM-Men And Roosevelt

THE PETES PLAY ball in Oshawa on Saturday next, and we hope they really play ball this time—not like their last showing there. The locals can lick the GM-men this time if they just believe it themselves. On account of the Motor Citizens have slowed up a lot, though still tough, the Petes have improved a lot in '38—after worrying Oshawa in '37—and it is a Jinxed fact that no team wins three in a row. Anymore than a U. S. prexy ever goes back for the third term, including Roosevelt. Not counting of course the old C. O. B. L. when fans didn't know players' names till 'way out in August! We have it over Oshawa this year, if the players believe that.

* * * * * *

OSHAWA SCRIBE HAS plenty to say of the game here Saturday. He mitts the locals for turning in a nifty effort, and he runs quite a rave on the reversal in form shown by Lefty McNally, adding "Mr. McNally may have a lot to say about who wins the C. O. B. L. title this year." And, before leaving the Petes to pan the GM-men, he tosses a few orchids toward Eddie Murphy, Al Clark and Chuck Kearns. Calls the latter "one of the fastest men in the league" and nominates Turner and Bennett for the position of goat in trying to head off the redheaded flash on the paths after bunts were laid down. Scribe Campbell follows up by pointedly asking the Motor City team management why Doc Rowden, who hit over .500 this season, wasn't in the lineup. Well, 'tis rumored Rowden is getting hitched up in matrimony—a most serious step, we're told.

Munns In The Word On It

TOMMY MUNNS IN THE a.m. sheet today discusses harmony as shown by the senior O. R. F. U. Says he: "Pooled gate receipts will help Sarnia in their increased travelling expenses and will aid Peterborough, a small city making an advent to senior ranks—or rather a return, for Peterborough won the O. R. F. U. senior championship 31 years ago." He quotes Sec. Bailey of the Rugby Union as saying: "Peterborough can be compared to Sarnia when the Imperials first joined us. They have a team that will make a good showing and should be built into a championship threat within a couple of seasons. They themselves don't expect to win any title for a year or two. Being under no delusions in that respect, they will have plenty of patience and won't be discouraged by early losses."

BROOKLIN GAINED SWEET REVENGE in lacrosse last night by yanking out a 12-11 nod over the Petes in another thriller in Brooklin. Bad weather discouraged a number of local fans who intended to make the trip, and they certainly missed a humdinger. Wound up in another free-for-all, after Chute and Vipond swung fists like fighting cocks toss their spurs. Everyone got into it and the locals undoubtedly held their own against "our boys" and the home fans—who were rabid to the nth degree. Score was 5-all in the first frame and 7-6 for them at halftime, being even otherwise. The Petes must be right around the top of the heap, not more than one game out of first place in their grouping now. Quite likely Brooklin will be seen here again this year—we hope, we hope, we hope!

Frank Frisch On Way Out In St. Louis?

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16.—Will Frankie Frisch, once one of the greatest second basemen in the major leagues, be retained as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1939?

This question is being asked by fans here as the Cardinals wind up one of the most disastrous seasons they have had in many years.

Sam Breadon, owner of the club, declines to discuss Frisch's case, averting all questions pertaining to Cardinals' manager for next season. It is known, however, that Frisch is held in high esteem by Breadon.

Burt Shotton in '39?

But the "know-it-all" group of fans believe that Frisch will not be the leader of the Cardinals in 1939. Rumors have it that Burt Shotton, current pilot of the Columbus team of the American Association, will succeed Frisch.

Shotton acted as Sunday manager for Branch Rickey when the latter managed the Cardinals from 1919 to 1925. It is reported that Rickey, now general manager of the Cardinals, has been trying to sell Shotton to Breadon for the past several years.

FRANKIE FRISCH

. . . The Cards' drop to seventh place this year has put Onkel Franz squarely on the spot.

BURT SHOTTON

. . . Shotton had a spell of managing the lowly Phils. St. Louis rumors him to succeed Frisch.

Speech Recalled

As the Cardinals flounder in the second division fans recall, ironically, a pep talk given by Rickey before the chamber of commerce banquet here last April. On that occasion, Rickey said:

"This is the best ball club our organization has ever placed on the field—with the possible exception of the pitching staff."

These rumors regarding the future status of Frisch have spread chiefly because the Cardinals collapsed as a pennant contender this season.

It's an old story—oust the manager when the team falls into the second division.

Frisch has been manager of the Cardinals since July, 1933, when he replaced Gabby Street, current pilot of the St. Louis Browns. Frisch's club won the pennant in 1935, tied with the Cubs for second place in 1936 and wound up fourth last year.

Cause Of Court Controversy

The United States Lawn Tennis Association never gets very far away from a verbal battle of some kind or other, and the latest centres around Frank Kovacs, ABOVE, youthful California star and one of the favorites to occupy the No. 2 spot on the U.S. Davis Cup team. According to George Hudson, coach of a San Francisco club, U.S.L.T.A. officials lured Kovacs away from him after he had coached him to his present high rating. It need hardly be said that the men who pull the tennis strings denied this. Kovacs has thrown in his lot with the latter by saying Hudson "never" taught me a darn thing," and that he only took lessons from him because his father had paid for them in advance.

Fight To Finish

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 16 (C.P.).—Supporters of the Spanish Government will fight to extinction rather than concede victory to the insurgents, according to William Brown, Great War veteran, just returned from 10 months' fighting in Spain. The Loyalist army has better discipline, equipment and morale than at any time since the beginning of the Civil War, he said. For his capture of 363 prisoners, including 18 officers, all Spanish, he was awarded a gold watch. The men he captured were hidden in a dug-out when the Loyalists took Quito.

Americans Sweep Ontario Titles

WINDSOR, Aug., 16 — (CP) — United States dominance of the fifteenth annual Western Ontario tennis championship was completed at the Windsor Tennis Club Monday, when the Detroit team of Carl Fischer and Bob Madden whipped Bruce Hall, Toronto, and Max Curman, Detroit, 6-4, 6-3, 6-0, to take the men's doubles title.

All other finals were played Saturday and Sunday. The doubles match, originally scheduled for Sunday, was postponed at Hall's request.

Madden, who took the singles title from Fischer, defending champion, Saturday, and his erstwhile opponent, proved an unbeatable combination after a fairly even first set. Hall at times appeared off his game double-faulting frequently.

The crack Detroit pair often caught their opponent out of position with well-aimed drives. The victory gave Madden, former University of Pittsburg star, three Western Ontario titles. Besides winning the singles and men's doubles, he paired with Mrs. Sylvia Campbell, Boston and Detroit, to capture the mixed doubles from Ernie Richardson, Windsor, and Mrs. Anne Clark, Toronto.

Falls Upstairs

Things loomed rather dark for Wes Ferrell, ABOVE, when he was given his outright release by Washington Senators, after Clark Griffith, Washington owner, had tried to interest the other clubs in the American league in him. It turned out to be a cloud with a silver lining for Wesley, however, as he promptly signed with the Yankees and helped himself to a slice of almost certain world series cash.

Lone Canadian Is Eliminated

MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug 16—(AP)—All but one of the twelve seeded stars Monday survived the opening warfare of the Essex County Club's fourteenth annual Women's Invitation Tennis Tournament.

Dorothy Worman, the fifth-seeded "giant killer" from Los Angeles, was the lone exception, as she bowed to Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

Mrs. Ewart Seager of Vancouver, lone Canadian entry, was eliminated in the first round.

Second-seeded Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica, al., found the going none too easy in her first round match with Patricia Canning, 16-year-old United States hard courts champion from San Francisco. Miss Bundy was forced all the way to 8-6, 10-8 to overcome her surprisingly hard-hitting fellow Californian.

45 Miners Killed

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 16—(AP).—Forty-five miners in the Kaigando coal mine, Northern Korea, were killed to-day when floods caused the mine to collapse. Ten were killed elsewhere in the collapse of six rain-demolished houses.

RUMOR PLACES STAR SENIOR PLAYERS OF EAST WITH ORFUNS

Local Executive Keeping Plans Dark Until Outdoor Workouts; Balmy Beach Much Stronger

Imperials Will Miss Services Of Hayes, Stirling To Stay

TORONTO, Aug. 16 (CP).—This is no time to be calling the Autumn's football winners, but just as a starter take a look at the possibilities among the Ontario Rugby Football Union teams.

Forced to take a back seat for years to the interprovincial union in the way of balanced competition, and to the intercollegiate union for spectacles, the O.R.F.U. is going to trot out a smart new set-up this year that may shade everything in the east. Two new clubs will replace weak links and apparently there will be strength in all four entries.

The four are: Sarnia Imperials, tops in the league picture for years; Toronto Balmy Beach, who in last couple of seasons furnished stoutest opposition for the Imperials; Montreal Nationals, who will field nearly the same lineup Montreal Indians used last year; and Peterborough's intermediate O.R.F.U. finalists, who will be augmented by outside players of ability.

Right in the forefront will be Balmy Beach, for the East Toronto club has strengthened its lineup tremendously. Opening their training sessions last night, the Beachers had on hand Clem Faust and Teddy Manorek from the 1937 Hamilton Tigers and Tiger Worman from Ontario Agricultural College. They expect to add Charlie Box, former University of Western Ontario captain and brother of Ab Box of the Beach team, and Curly Krug from the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts.

Will Miss Hayes

In the face of the Beach's strengthening, Sarnia apparently has done little building. The Imperials will miss Alex Hayes, veteran quarterback who has retired, and it is doubtful if young Arnie McWatters will be able to shoulder the full burden of the signal-calling position.

But then the Imperials still have Bummer Stirling, the country's best all-around player, and Orm Beach, giant secondary defence star. Hayes will instruct the backfield for coach Art Massucci. The Imps haven't lost much of their 1937 lustre.

Montreal Indians were the only team to defeat Toronto Argonauts all last year. Led by Johnny Ferraro, Tommy Burns and Dave Ryan, most of the members of the interprovincial unit have moved over to Montreal's new O.R.F.U. entry. Perhaps this season they will uncork the power they were supposed to have had for two years as Indians.

Orfuns Keep Dark

Peterborough Orfuns plan to keep dark thei radditions until outdoor practices start. So far, however, the club has gone about its senior entry as if business and a winner were the objects. The field will be enlarged and a first-rate coach will be engaged. Rumors already have placed some of the east's best senior players in Peterborough.

Unemployment in Denmark is said to be due to the failure of industry to keep up with the increase in population.

Westerners In Spotlight At Canadian Henley

The big surprise of this year's Canadian Henley at St. Catharines, Ontario, was the great showing made by scullers and crews from western Canada. Three western representatives who covered themselves with glory are shown. The two sturdy oarsmen standing are A. F. Riley and C. S. Riley, Jr., of the Winnipeg Rowing Club, who captured the junior doubles crown. While J. Chambers, of Fort William, seated in his scull, came through to take the title in the 140-pound junior singles event.

Leaders Drop Decisions In National

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(CP). — There's still a possibility of one of those traditionally close National Leagues races this baseball season, but right now it begins to look like a shoo-in for Pittsburgh Pirates unless they run into the kind of luck that has been plaguing their rivals.

There's no doubt the Buccaneers are a tier dcrew right now. They played that way against Cincinnati Reds yesterday and got a 6-2 beating as a result. But they're still managing to go along with the same team that rushed from fourth place to the top in late June and early July.

Chicago Cubs, also victims of numerous crackups, took another severe blow yesterday, when Manager Gabby Hartnett cracked a thumb trying to handle a foul tip off Ducky Medwick's bat. He won't be able to catch for three weeks, although he may be available earlier for pinch hitting duty. To make it tougher, the Cubs lost the game 8-4 to the Cards, and dropped into a third-place tie with Cincinnati.

The only other game yesterday saw Boston Bees trim the Phillies 5-3 as Rabbit Warstler set the pace with a triple and two singles. That gave them a 1½-game margin over Brooklyn Dodgers, who, like the Giants, were idle. The eight American League clubs also had the day off.

Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons Still Good According To His Battery Mate

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Aug. 16. — (CP).—Freddie Fitzsimmons—they call him "Fat Freddie" most of the time now—has been a part of the major league landscape for a long time but you can take the word of Flatbush fans and Catcher Gilly Campbell that Fitz still has plenty of substance on the ball.

Fitzsimmons came up to the Giants in 1925. That means he's been around the big time years and years—so many in fact that the Giants gave him over to Brooklyn as a washed-up pitcher last season and might well regret it today when so much pressure is on the old mealticket, Carl Hubbell.

Campbell caught Fritz Sunday as the veteran turned in his 7th success of the season, pitching the Dodgers to a 2-0 victory over Boston in the first game of a doubleheader, and was all praise for his portly knuckle-ball battery mate.

"Fitz may not be able to work as often as in the past," said Campbell, "but give him four days of rest in between assignments and he'll pitch you a bang-up ball game.

Leafs Divide Double Bill With Newark

TORONTO, Aug. 16. (CP).—The "nothin' ball" pitchers, those old guys who can't mow 'em down with sheer speed any more but have to depend upon wisdom and control to take care of rival batters, still have something on the ball in the International league.

This season's classic example is 38-7year-old Bill Harris, who did so well for Buffalo that Boston Red Sox finally summoned him back to the majors.

The Buffalo fans celebrated "Bill Harris night," brought Bill back for a visit and handed him a purse last night. There were some 6,500 on hand and they saw another old timer, Ken Ash, do as well as Harris to pace the Bisons to a double-header victory over the last-place Baltimore Orioles. Ash allowed onl ythree hits, all singles, in the opening game as Buffalo won 9-0. The Bisons got seven hits and five walks off Heft in the second game and won 6-3 with the aid of a brilliant defence.

Another veteran, Montreal's Harry Smythe, chalked up his 14th victory as the Royals whipped Syracuse Chiefs, 5-3. He gave nine hits but whiffed six and was tight in the clutches.

Joe Sullivan, also an ex-major leaguer, tossed a six-hitter for Toronto Leafs in the opener against Newark's league leaders and won it 5-0. Newark, as usual, squared accounts in the second game, winning 6-5 but only after a real struggle.

Jersey Giants outlassed Rochester's Red Wings in a 10 inning struggle to win 5-2.

Box Office Sale Booms For Postponed Ambers-Armstrong Fight At New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP).—The public suddenly has realized Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers will punch it out for Lou's lightweight title in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, and the result is a gratifying boom in box office business.

All day yesterday fans stood in line outside the box office at the Hippodrome, where the 20th Century Sporting Club makes its headquarters. Mike Jacobs beamed, snapped his famous crockery teeth and predicted "a sellout sure."

A week ago when the fight was set for the Polo Grounds, it looked as Mike's biggest failure. But now the best guess is that the fans have suddenly become interested in watching Ambers, a cold, crafty fellow, defend his title against the St. Louis negro, hailed as the greatest little fighter of a decade.

The odds favor Henry by as much as 3 to 1 to beat Lou, and add the lightweight crown to his featherweight and welterweight honors.

Upright and just to the end of his days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.

MEN WANTED!

MEN OVER 18, WHO ARE ELECTRICALLY INCLINED, WITH A FAIR EDUCATION TO BECOME RADIO OPERATORS (WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY), AND TO PREPARE THEMSELVES SO THEY CAN ADVANCE IN THE AIR TRANSPORTATION OR IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

Opportunities for good employment are the best they have been for years. The new Trans-Canada Air Line and proposed Canada-to-England Over-seas Air-Line is rapidly changing the transportation picture in Canada. Now that the West is having a good wheat crop and all appearances show a continuance of good crops for years to come, Canada will go ahead at a fast rate. That improvement is right now being reflected in the much brighter employment outlook for new radio operators. Employment for new operators next year should be very good.

The work is interesting and pays good wages. One needs a Government certificate designating he is an operator before he can secure employment. That and the special training required of an operator helps keep this field from being overcrowded.

ENQUIRE AT ONCE ABOUT OUR METHOD OF TRAINING. IT IS RECOGNIZED AS THE BEST IN CANADA! THE COST IS REASONABLE, AND IT CAN BE PAID MONTHLY. OUR FREE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE HELPS PLACE YOU INTO GOOD EMPLOYMENT. WE HAVE A RECORD FOR CONSISTENT AND SUCCESSFUL PLACEMENT OF MEN. WRITE TO

MOST TENACES lose much of their value unless they stand at the right of the card they cover. It will pay, though, to hold on to one, even when it is at the left, if your opponent can't lead through it but must lead away from his blanketed honor. This is an entity to consider when discarding on the defense while the declarer is running other suits.

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North started the bidding on this deal with 2-Clubs and South responded with 2-No Trump. After 3-Clubs by North, South called 3-No Trump and North allowed it to play there.

The heart 5 was led by West. When the Q held the trick, South took time out to decide how to get nine tricks. It was absolutely impossible for him to enter his own hand, so he went right after the club suit. The A was played and followed by the K. When East failed to follow, the suit was abandoned. Three rounds of spades were now led and followed by the diamonds A and K. The discards by West on the two diamonds and one spade to which he could not follow were clubs, baring his club Q. This made things simple for South, for all he had to do then was to lead a club to West for one trick in that suit, whereas he should have lost at least two. West, after cashing his two high hearts, was obliged to give South a heart trick.

People Not Greatly Concerned About Possibility Of War Rev. Parr Finds In Europe

Italy Is Bankrupt, Germany Is Facing Financial Crisis.

Little anxiety among the people of Europe over the possibility of a war in the near future, is evident to the casual inquirer, said Rev. M. C. Parr today. He has just returned from a six weeks' visit in England, Scotland, Belgium and France.

All through England great precautions are being taken to make life as safe as possible from air attack, yet the people do not seem to be greatly concerned about the possibility of a general war, he said. They are taking things as they come, living so close to continual war scares that they have ceased to worry about them.

On board ship, returning to Canada, Mr. Parr talked to Beverley Baxter. The distinguished British member of parliament and journalist, who had just returned from Czechoslovakia, told him that in his opinion a general war in the near future was an impossibility. Italy is bankrupt and Germany is so rapidly approaching financial suicide that within a year and a half she will probably be forced to ask Great Britain for funds with which to carry on, he quoted Baxter as telling him. The Czechoslovakian crisis is not a serious one and the only possibility of war breaking out would be as a result of a last desperate stand by a bankrupt Hitler, he told Mr. Parr.

Despite a good deal of unsettled weather, his trip was a most successful one, Mr. Parr said. "The diversities of the Scottish scene are such as amply repay an extended tour. Perhaps in no other European country is there so much variety within so small a compass."

"Our first stop in Scotland was the humble cottage at Alloway which was the birth-place of Robert Burns, Scotland's national poet. It has been preserved as it was when the poet was born. We then were privileged to visit the Empire Exhibition. The day was wet, but to those of us who remained for the evening were not disappointed, as it was a veritable fairyland, as seen from the Empire tower.

Edinburgh is a beautiful city. The exceptional beauty of her situation, her historic buildings, her romantic history, her place in the literary world, and her present eminence as an educational and professional centre have combined to invest Edinburgh with a glamour which attracts the traveller.

"On our first Sunday spent in this fine city we were privileged to attend St. Gile's Cathedral and heard The Very Rev. Charles L. Warr, C.Y.O., D.D., L.L.D., Chaplain to His Majesty the King.

"Our next sight-seeing was to be through the Trossachs. Scarred by warfare for many centuries, the Border Country is now in the main a pleasant pastoral territory but its peels and ruined abbeys bear witness to a long and stirring history.

"While in Callendar, Scotland for lunch we were in a jewelery store and the proprietor showed us five small broaches, which had been bought by Sir Edward Beatty to send to the quintuplets at Callendar, Ontario. He was to call for them in person and take them personally to the Quints.

The mass of border history, legend and poetry is enormous and the spirit of the old days has been preserved by Sir Walter Scott for the delight of succeeding generations. Abbotsford House with its collection of relics attracts all tourists. Among the abbeys that at Melrose provides the fullest example although fragmentary of Scottish ecclesiastical architecture in its golden age, while Dryburgh enshrines in the peaceful beauty the remains of Sir Walter Scott and of Earl Haig, Commander-in-Chief of the British Armies during the Great War.

"The Trossachs need no praise. Few visitors would care to leave Scotland without viewing the romantic scenery of this area, rendered famous by Sir Walter Scott in "The Lady of the Lake" and "Rob Roy."

"The English Lakes lie in a compact area in the Northwest of the country we entered via Gretna Green.

"It was an American, James R. Lowell, who coined the admirable phrase, 'Wordsworthshire' to cover the beautiful dales, lakes and fells which the greatest of nature poets knew and loved so well

"It was our delight to see the Stone Steps up which Wordsworth walked to a quiet nook where we were informed he received much of his inspiration for writing. It was here in this section of Grosmere, he gave us his beautiful poem 'Daffodils.' It was a great joy to go for a boat ride on Lake Windermere, England's largest lake.

"In Chester we walked around the Roman Wall, and visited the Chester Cathedral, one of the oldest in England.

"As you walk around this Cathedral one can say 1800 years of English history is looking at him from these walls. These walls were built by men who had a great vision of God, a vision that inspired them to put their very selves into their work and to make it perfect as they could, to His honor from whom comes all perfection and beauty.

"We were privileged while at Stratford-on-Avon to see the Shakespearean play, Romeo and Juliet, dramatized in the Shakespearean Theatre.

"A visit to Ann Hathaway's Cottage, the little thatch-roofed cottage stands in an old, walled garden, which throughout the summer is a riot of bloom and color.

"Also the visit to Shapeare's birthplace and museum made one feel the time was altogether too short and with reluctance we bid farewell to this famous town with its memories of Englands Immortal Bard.

"A visit to Oxford, the university centre, enhanced in its beauty by the myriad spires, towners and turrets of the numerous colleges, which form the university..

"During our stay in London we made several tours of this historic old city, including Buckingham Palace, changing of the guard, St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, Houses of Parliament, Hyde Park, Tower of London, Windsor Castle, Stoke-Poges, the ancient Church of St. Gile's, in the churchyard of which Thomas Gray wrote his famous 'Elegy.' On Sunday, July 31, we heard Dr. Leslie Weatherhead in the City Temple church.

"Holland is a unique country quite unlike anthing else in Europe. It is veritably a country wrested from the sea, a Netherland or lowland, that is in many places lower than the sea that surrounds it.

"It is a land of peace, simplicity and unspoiled quaintness, a place to dream in, and to dream. We were thrilled with our visit to Volendam and Isle of Markem, where we saw typical villages of Dutch style and fashion and particularly the dykes, and irrigation system.

"The cities of Amsterdam and the Hague, were clean and to an American, one was impressed with its modern buildings in architecture and beatuy. The oldest part of the Hague dates from the 11th century. It was most interesting to see where the city maintains its poor. The streets were modest rows of homes, with lovely flowers and we were told the people were most happy and satisfied."

In Belgium Mr. Parr was impressed with the panoramic view of the battle of Waterloo, seen from the heights above Brussels. Paintings depicting the battle are on 124½ yards of canvas 39 yards wide, in a circle about a building overlooking the field. It is estimated that at least two million people visit the spot annually. The Lion monument in the vicinity stands on a mound of earth 182 feet in height that took 400 women four years to erect. They carried the earth in baskets every day for that length of time, shortly after Waterloo had been lost by Napoleon.

Paris and Versailles were on Mr. Parr's itinery just after the King and Queen had visited the city, which was still decorated luxuriantly when he arrived. The last days before sailing were spent in England where he found the flowers to be outstanding.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, August 17.

A very lively and probably eventful day may be expected in writings, publishing and professional life. Advancement or some mark of distinction may be conferred by influential persons who may be attracted by originality, stability, unusual skill or hard work.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of splendid progress and achievement, perhaps in some outstanding professional, scientific or creative calling that will arrest the attention of those of prestige and ability. It is a propitious time to seek capital for such projects, wherein industry, originality, and outstanding merit are convincing.

A child born on this day may have much versatility, originality, and sound merit, attracting the solid support of those who may assist it to a place of importance in education or letters. It should be gracious and tactful.

Expect Bumper Tobacco Crop As Harvest Starts

Tobacco growers in Canada are jubilant over what appears to be the best year for "My Lady Nicotine," for some time. Except in the Yamaska Valley of Quebec, bumper crops and exceptional prospects of commanding higher rates than in previous years, are cheering growers of the plant. The total acreage of the commercial crop is estimated at approximately 84,000 acres as compared with 69,000 acres in 1937. Some $18,000,000 is expected to be the sale value of this year's crop in Ontario alone, although an accurate estimate cannot be made until the price for this year's crop is settled which may occur within the next few weeks. Here are some pictures of the Canadian industry. One field of growing tobacco is shown at top LEFT, while at RIGHT, the plants are covered with bags to prevent cross pollination by bees and other insects. These bags are kept on until all danger of cross-pollination is past. BELOW, an Ontario tobacco grower in the Tillsonburg area is seen examining a sample "stick" of his crop from the window of a drying barn. The tobacco leaves are tied to these sticks and hung to dry in barns until fully matured.

Rebels Cast In With Duce, Hitler

Reported Open Move Seen Death Of Volunteer Plan

By Taylor Henry.
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

PARIS, Aug. 17—(AP).—Spanish insurgents were reported to-day definitely to have cast their lot with Italy and Germany, perhaps thereby jeopardizing hopes of Great Britain and France to withdraw foreign volunteers from the civil war.

While Insurgent General Franco's answer to the British plan for sending foreign fighters home from Spain remained a secret, insurgent informants in Paris predicted its terms may mean the end of the non-intervention scheme designed to end foreign participation in the civil war.

The Spanish Government July 23 accepted the plan which provides for a census of the volunteers and then proportionate withdrawals from each side.

Insurgent sources here expressed belief the insurgent note, given to Sir Robert Hodgson, Britain's representative in Burgos yesterday, would raise so many technical objections to the London plan the reply might as well be an out and out "No."

Negrin Still Arms to Fight.

The Spanish Government, meanwhile, came out of a ministerial crisis apparently stronger than before, with Premier Juan Negrin firmly in control of all factors and pledged to fight the 25-months-old conflict to the end.

Two ministers ousted by Dr. Negrin's administration belong to the Catalan and Basque factions which were reported to favor an armistice.

They are Manuel Irujo, Basque Nationalist Minister without portfolio, and Jaime Aguade, a Catalan Left Republican. Tomas Bilbao Hospitalet, a Basque and the Spanish Consul at Perpignan, France, and Jose Moix Regas, mayor of Sabadell, near Barcelona, replaced them. Moix, member of the Unified Socialist Party of Catalonia which adheres to the Communist party, became Labor minister. Bilbao is without portfolio.

10 Constables Gassed Slugged By Mob In Gambling Raid

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 17.

An angry street crowd routed the raiders with a barrage of milk bottles and other brickbats, and beat up several officers.

Sudetens Warn Party Can't Be Czechized

PRAHA, Aug. 17—(CP-Havas)—Viscount Runciman's efforts to reach a solution of Czechoslovakia's thorny minority problem were complicated today by a warning from Konrad Henlein, leader of the pro-Nazi Sudeten German party, that it was impossible to "Czechize" the 3,500,000 Germans living within the Czechoslovak frontiers.

The warning followed a meeting between Great Britain's unofficial adviser to Czechoslovakia and five prominent members of the Henlein party.

Ready For The Step?

LONDON, Aug. 17—(CP-Havas)—Premonitions that Chancellor Hitler may decide to "take the risk" of a Czechoslovak coup to erase mounting discontent within Germany was voiced today by the Diplomatic Correspondent of the Manchester Guardian (Liberal).

Citing the "discontent and terror" which allegedly has sprung up after annexation of Austria, together with the working-man's dissatisfaction over rising prices, poor food and clothing, the writer said:

"Hitler and his associates must think of further conquests. The conquest of Czechoslovakia would, if rapidly achieved, justify the existence of the new army, which is to a large extent Hitler's creation. Leading National Socialists also believe an armed victory in the heart of Europe would stimulate patriotic fervor and make Germany appear irresistible. It would also give her access to further supplies of raw materials, especially Rumanian oil and grain.

"It is true that a long and arduous ous conflict would probably mean the end of the Nazi dictatorship and of a good deal more. But it is feared that National Socialist leaders, Hitler included, may be inclined to take the risk and take it soon.

"That is the reason why the European situation is recognized both here and in Paris as being grave."

Hull Presses World Use Reason

Italy Said Angered At Warning Of Mounting Danger

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP).—State secretary Hull's appeal to the world to "turn the tide of lawlessness" through economic and moral reconstruction aroused enthusiasm today among British and French officials, worried over recurring war threats.

A spokesman for the French foreign office said in Paris of the United States cabinet member's address: "The speech shows that the leaders of America's foreign policy are alive to the danger in Europe."

Britons welcomed the address, broadcast internationally last night, as raising a danger sign against German abitions in central Europe.

Dispatches from Rome, on the other hand, told of mounting Fascist displeasure over the speech, which was not distributed to Italian papers by the semi-official news agency, Stefani.

Mr. Hull warned all governments to "be on guard against certain dangerous developments which imperil them."

Hull's Seven Ideas

He made seven proposals which he said were the only ones capable of placing the world firmly on the only road to enduring peace and security.

These embraced economic reconstruction; adherence to international law; observance of treaties and their orderly modification when necessary; abstention from use of force; no interference in the internal affairs of other nations and peaceful settlement of differences; disarmament, and cultural collabroation.

"In a smaller and smaller world," he said, "it will soon no longer be possible for some nations to choose and follow way of force and other nations at the same time to choose and follow the way of reason. All will have to go in one direction and by one way.

"We well know, of course, that a condition of wholesale chaos will not develop overnight; but it is clear that the present trend is in that direction that the whole world may be sucked into a malstrom of unregulated and savage economic, political and military competition and conflict."

Hull spoke emphatically to place America's moral influence at this time before a Europe rendered uneasy by Hitler's mobilization of 1,000,000 men for manoeuvres near the French and Czechoslovakian borders.

Chaos or Progress.

He said a clear-cut issue is before the world:—

"The first of the alternative ways leads through military adventuring to international lawlessness, the result of which is chaos and loss of the previous values which, through centuries of struggle, toil and sacrifice, civilized nations have slowly achieved.

"The other way leads, through the exercise of moral restraint and observance of international obligations and treaties to conditions of order based on law, giving security and facilitating progress."

Boy 8, Bolsters Self With 'Snort' Of Wine After First Robbery, Then Boasts

Calgary, Aug. 17.

"I DONE IT all myself," was the proud boast of an eight-year-old boy after he was "captured" by his mother and a detective following the robbery of a Calgary home.

Wearing the clothes of an older chum, he gained entrance by removing a screen. His loot: A dollar in silver taken from a baby's bank.

After the robbery he purchased a supply of candy and went to a theatre where he was "captured."

Before leaving the scene of the robbery he stuffed himself with cheese and crackers and took a "snort" of wine, he told police.

"How did it taste?" asked the detective, E. G. Chapman.

"Well, it was kind of bitter and sort of burned my throat. I don't want any more of it."

In atonement for his misdeeds he must spend the rest of the school holidays at home — no candy or shows.

Valuable Rowell Report Expected By King

States Work Of Commission Will Continue; Will Discuss Problems With Roosevelt

OTTAWA, Aug. 17 (CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King believes the report of the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations will be of great value in assisting a Dominion-Provincial conference on financial and taxation matters.

His statement last night that the work of the commission would go on came just a day after Premier William Aberhart of Alberta had declared it had collapsed. The Alberta Premier was praising the stand taken by Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, who said last week Ontario would have nothing more to do with the commission.

The commission was never expected to be more than a fact-finding body, said Mr. King, as he indicated the importance the Federal Government attached to the commission's inquiry despite the attacks of the Provincial premiers.

The Dominion-Provincial conference, Mr. King indicated, would be a representative meeting of the governments of the Dominion.

"The commission," he said, "should be able to make a most valuable report—just what will be needed in dealing with matters which must be considered at the representative conference."

Talk With Roosevelt.

The Prime Minister today prepared for his meeting with President Roosevelt at Kingston tomorrow. He indicated after the Cabinet meeting yesterday he hoped to have a chance to talk over mutual problems with the United States' chief executive as they drive from Kingston to Ivy Lea for the dedication of the new Thousand Islands International bridge.

The protracted negotiations for a new trade agreement between the two countries and the prospects of initiating the St. Lawrence deep waterway project may be among the matters discussed.

Cleveland Fiend Adds 2 More Torso Victims

CLEVELAND, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Detectives found arm, leg and rib bones today on Cleveland's lakefront dump. Coroner Samuel Gerber said they were parts of the body of the 12th victim of the city's mad "torso killer."

The bones, which Coroner Gerber said matched a skull found last night 100 feet away, were those of a man.

The head and upper torso of a woman—the 11th torso killing victim—were found at the dump yesterday.

The coroner said he was satisfied, after investigation that No. 13th victim was represented. Earlier he had expressed belief the bone collection gathered in two days might be from three persons.

Coroner S. R. Gerber said the slayer left his mark of surgical skill and an obvious knowledge of anatomy. The victims were unidentified, like all but three of the four women and six men who met a similar fate in the last three years.

A search for scrap iron led James Dawson, 21, to the remnants of a woman. A curious passer-by attracted by officers at the scene uncovered decomposed fragments of the second victim, described by Gerber as "probably another woman." A hair pin was found with the severed bones.

Remains of the first, Gerber said, indicated that she had been slain not more than six months ago. He said the other had been dead an indefinite time.

Police said gruesome parcels containing the piecemeal dead had been in the dump not more than two or three weeks.

One Body in 4 Parts

The first body was in four parts, the skull, upper torso and dismembered arms and legs. The torso was found concealed under stones, wrapped in butcher's paper, a dark blue suit and a torn quilt. The head, also wrapped in paper, was a few feet distant. A similar package and two cardboard cartons held other segments.

Nearly 200 feet away were found the skull, in a tin can, and paper-wrapped bones of the second victim.

The coroner placed the age of the woman at between 30 and 40 years.

Portions of the second victim, possibly a negro, were so decomposed as to make it impossible immediately to determine sex or age. Eighteen x-ray pictures were expected to produce further data.

Investigators obtained a "good fingerprint" from the left thumb of the 11th victim and sought to get prints from three fingers of the right hand.

New Bug Appears As Menace To Alberta Crops

Calgary, Aug. 17.

A NEW CROP menace, the Say's bug—green in color and about half an inch long—was reported from Southern Alberta districts today.

The bugs, now found in many fields, suck the juices from the maturing kernels, preventing the head from properly forming.

First reported in Alberta in 1931, the new menace, coming in from across the Alberta - Montana boundary, has spread to crops as far north as Calgary, 225 miles from the boundary, and into Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Alberta agriculturists report the infestation has spread rapidly this year.

Hines Branded Protector In Policy Game

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (A.P.). — District Attorney Thomas Dewey to-day told a jury the notorious Dutch Schultz mob advertised to the underworld that James (Jimmy) Hines, powerful Tammany District leader, was political protector of the multi- million dollar policy racket.

Dewey charged that Hines was present with Abraham (Bo) Weinberg, a Schultz mobster, in March, 1932, at a meeting in which the Schultz gang laid plans to "take over" the policy racket, then unorganized.

The prosecutor said J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, known as "the kid mouthpiece" of the Schultz gang, who has pleaded guilty and turned State's evidence in the present trial, was present at the meeting.

"By the use of gunmen, beatings and murder, Schultz took over control of the business," Dewey said. "Its centre was located in Harlem, where 500 storekeepers alone acted as collectors."

Dewey said that having organized the policy racket with political protection, Schultz harvested $45.00 a day in 1933, a total of $20,000,000 a year.

Perfect Raids eBaten.

In his opening statement at Hines' trial on conspiracy charges growing out of the policy racket, Dewey said that at the organization meeting of the gangsters, Hines had been able to point to the "effectiveness" of his political protection—and that numerous policy cases had been thrown out of court although the police had staged "perfect raids."

Dewey also charged the Schultz

Hitler Fights Rising Prices, Men All Playing War

BERLIN, Aug. 17 (CP-Havas).—Chancellor Hitler today conferred with the four-year-plan director, Field Marshal Goering, and other key members of his Cabinet on financial and economic problems.

The purpose was understood to be the drafting of an economic program to carry the Reich through the next few months. German economic circles declared there was little possibility of a financial crisis at the present time and that the economic situation of the nation was not in immediate danger.

They said the principal problem facing the nation at present was maintaining price levels. With the Reich short of food and the usual lack of man-power aggravated by fortification works and military manoeuvres, it was feared that there might be an unwarranted increase in the price of necessities.

Economic circles expressed satisfaction in German crop reports, stating the harvest surpassed all expectations.

Mrs. Dodge Swallows Fear Pilots Racer 'For Danny'

MINDEMOYA, Ont., Aug. 17 — (CP)—The heartbroken widow of Daniel Dodge said today from a hospital cot she had told her husband only a few hours before his death that she never again would ride in the motor-boat from which he toppled into the waters of Georgian Bay and was drowned.

Mrs. Dodge said she and her millionaire husband, married only 15 days ago, had taken a trip in the boat to Little Current, Ont., to obtain provisions for their summer place only two hours before a dynamite explosion which injured Dodge critically. Dodge was drowned, however, when he either fell or jumped from the boat being used to take those injured in the blast to Little Current.

Mrs. Dodge, Former Gore Bay, Ont., telephone operator, said there was a heavy sea running in the first trip. Never a speed boat enthusiast, she said she was frightened in the craft, capable of attaining a speed of almost 40 knots.

"I told Danny I would never ride in the speed boat again, and just think . . . Two hours later this had to happen."

Saskatchewan Beyond Aid Or Harm From Any Regime Says Taggart

LAKE COUCHICHING, Ont., Aug. 17—(CP).—Ontario farmers may care what sort of a provincial government they have, but in Saskatchewan it "doesn't matter a bit," according to Hon. J. T. Taggart, Minister of Agriculture for the Western Province. He says no government "could do much harm or good."

"No government could bring us more trouble than we have now," Mr. Taggart told the seven annual conference of the Canadian Institue of Economics and Politics here yesterday. "We couldn't lose much if we lost all and we couldn't get further into debt because no one will lend us any more money."

The Liberal Government Agricultural Minister described to the conference of educationists, businessmen and students debt-cancellation schemes under a board of review which since 1935 has cancelled $120,000,000 worth of agricultural debts, 45 per cent of the total debts in Saskatchewan. He said the worst debts still were unsettled.

Ownership Picture the Same.

"Our farmers' debts have not resulted in wholesale evictions, indeed they have no altered substantially the picture of land ownership," he said "Never have fewer transfers of land been made in Saskatchewan than this year. Foreclosures usually mean transference of tenure and seldom mean eviction."

Of Saskatchewan's total agricultural debt of $500,000,000, only $180,000,000 was owing on mortgages. "The farmers owe more to other farmers and individuals than to corporations," Mr. Taggart explained. "They owe practically nothing to banks. Debt never will put any large number of farmers off the land.

"Even though Western agriculture has had more serious difficulties than any other agricultural area in North America, despite adverse factors we cannot remove, I still believe the Western farmer will contribute substantially for years to come to the life of the country as a whole."

No Immigrants Wanted.

Saskatchewan had no room for immigrants, said Mr. Taggart. Of 50,000,000 acres officially declared areable land, 30,000,000 were under cultivation but his experience had convinced him that for many years abandonment of land would at least equal cultivation of new land which was mostly within boundaries of existing farms.

Rehabilitation of Western agriculture should be a matter of Dominion responsibility because on it depends the future economic prosperity of all Canada, M. J. Coldwell, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member of parliament for Rosetown-Biggar, said.

The Western farmer's problem was "created by Dominion policies," he said. It should be the responsibility of the Dominion, "not of those people who are to some degree victims of the Dominion's disregard of scientific advice and reports which actually formed part of its own records."

Make It A Record-Breaker

Hon. P. W. Dewan, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture has recognized the important work the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is doing for the cause of agriculture by devoting almost two days of his time to visiting Peterborough's big fair. It is the responsibility of the citizens of the whole district to show their appreciation for this official interest in the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition by turning out in record numbers to make this year's fair the greatest and most successful in history. There should be a record attendance, first as a gesture of thanks to the Minister of Agriculture and second as a demonstration to him that not only is Peterborough's fair doing a fine job for the farming community by encouraging the breeding of better livestock and the development of better farming methods and by keeping alive in farm boys and girls a realization of the important place agriculture occupies in Canadian life, but that urban and rural dwellers alike in the whole of Central Ontario are solidly behind the fair.

Make the total 50,000 for the week and set a new mark in point of attendance. The fair is worth a new record for in point of entries, quality of exhibits, special features and entertainment interest a new level has been reached.

It's a great show, it's your show and its up to you to do your part to make it a record-breaking show.

Lindsay Farms Hard Hit In Wild Storm

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Aug. 17.—Farmers in this district sustained serious loss as a result of Monday's heavy downpour of rain, which was accompanied by a driving wind. On the farm of J. Howel, R.R. No. 2, a fine implement and cattle shed was completely demolished. The structure was flattened to the ground, trapping five cows and wrecking farm machinery stored in the building. On the farms of Ed. Ray and Leo Gunn, the storm tore off the steel roofs on the barns. On the Ray farm the roofing was carried over three hundred feet. The rain poured in on the wheat and oats causing great damage. The roof of a pig pen was carried off and several large trees uprooted. On the Gunn farm the steel roofing toppled over on some cattle, badly injuring them. Bert Walden, Ops township, also suffered the loss of a 16 x 16 section of his barn roof. The rain also poured in on the new crop stored in the structure. Fields throughout the district were converted into lakes and sheaves of grain floated about on many farms.

The storm washed out a portion of the C.N.R. track near Cresswell and traffic was delayed until the roadbed was repaired. A section of the highway near Manilla was also washed out.

N.S. Mine Union Swings In With C.C.F.

TRURO, N.S., Aug. 17 (CP)—The 12,000 members of District 26 of the United Mine Workers of America turned today to Canada's Co-operative Commonwealth Federation for a political alliance that would reinforce their demands for more social legislation.

The alliance was born here yesterday at a three-hour meeting, attended chiefly by delegates to the district's biennial convention. It voted to affiliate the district with the C.C.F. for political action, decided upon a convention to elect a permanent representative and found means of raising finances.

A levy of one cent a month will be placed on each member, most of whom work in the Nova Scotia coalfields. Other labor groups will be invited into the fold.

International board member Silby Barrett said formation of a labor group was a "crying need." Many labor groups were thinking about political action. People were looking for leadership in political action, he believed. "That is why today we are looking for a political machine and I would say the need is greater than ever before."

Welcomed By Woodsworth

J. S. Woodsworth, national leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, said at Comox, B.C., he was "delighted" to hear the United Mine Workers District 26 convention had decided to affiliate with the C.C.F. for political action.

"Naturally I am delighted at the decision of the miners," he said. "Today's action is very encouraging to us. I was at a convention in New Brunswick on July 1, and at that time we knew of no such move in the offing. It is all the more welcome because it is of their own initiative."

"The Committee for Industrial Organization also wants to affiliate with us," the C.C.F. leader continued. "We are willing to accept anybody who will come in on our basis."

Urge Wagner Act For Canadian Labor

WINDSOR, Aug. 17 (CP).—Homer Martin of Detroit, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, believes Canada should have a legislative new deal to protect the workers' right to organize into unions.

"Why don't you have a Wagner Act?" the head of the affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization asked 2,500 people at a park meeting here last night. "Here in Canada you should realize you are not going to get the proper laws until you say to those who are at the beck and call of employers 'we want you to pass some laws for us'."

(The Wagner Act provides penalties for United States employers who attempt to halt unionization of their employees.)

"It is to be hoped that Premier Hepburn and some others in Canada will learn that labor is going to organize. It is to be hoped they learn that people are not going to continue to submit to industrial servitude imposed by those that heed no law but that of profit or greed."

(Mr. Hepburn in May, 1937, announced he was opposed to C.I.O.-unionization efforts in Canada.)

Martin told the audience the U.A.W.A. remained determined to organize the entire automobile industry in Canada.

He spoke at a rally called by a Windsor local of the U.A.W.A. the Union local is on strike for a union agreement with the Walker Metal Products Limited.

Unidentified Driver Killed In Stolen Car

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP)—An unidentified man was killed here last night when the stolen automobile he was driving crashed into the rear of a crowded street car carrying fans from a baseball game. The street car was knocked off the tracks.

The chief coroner's office at first identified the man as Oliver B. Merrill, 38, of New York through the license plates of the car. It was learned two hours later the car had been stolen and Mr. Merrill was safe at his hotel. He later went to the coroner's office in an unsuccessful effort to identify the body.

Tragedy Awakens Little Current

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Aug. 17 (C.P.). — The death of 21-year-old Daniel Dodge, heir to the Dodge motor car fortune, shook this sleepy little fishing port on the north shore of Manitoulin Island out of its usual lethargy last night.

By air, train and boat, newspapermen and photographers rushed to the scene where Dodge drowned in Georgian Bay after being injured in a dynamite explosion. Telegraphers were brought from Sudbury, 75 miles north of here, to handle the thousands of words of "copy" that flowed out of a telegraph office which normally handles only a few hundred words a day.

Early in the evening, long-distance telephone calls were accepted on a 30-minute delay basis. Within a short time the delay was extended to one hour, then to an hour and a half. By midnight, telephone calls were being taken subject to a delay of 2 hours 20 minutes.

Terrorists Score In Holy Land

The wreckage (TOP) is that of a crack railway train which ran between Haifa, Palestine and Egyptian cities before terrorists operating in the present Holy Land disturbances derailed it near Haifa. No Buck-Passing Vag Cases Conant Warns Cadis

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—There will be no buck-passing by magistrates, from now on, in the handling of vagrancy charges. Attorney-General Conant has directed that such cases be disposed of "on their merits," and that the practice of some magistrates, in allegedly evading proper disposition of them by suspending sentence and requiring accused, in effect, to get out of town, be halted immediately.

"Complaints have been made and information has come to this department," says the Attorney-General in a memorandum mailed yesterday to all magistrates, "that some magistrates have adopted the practice of disposing of vagrancy and other charges by suspending sentence and requiring the accused person to leave the municipality or district in which he is found. This practice does not meet, but, on the contrary, aggravates the situation. It only causes trouble and embarrassment to some other municipality.

Administer the Law.

"In future you will please dispose of these cases on their merits and refrain from imposing as a condition of suspended sentence or any other disposition of the case that the accused person must leave the municipality or district. If the accused person is guilty he should be sentenced according to law and your own judgment and discretion. It is not desirable to impose as part of a sentence that an accused person must leave the municipality or district."

The practice of which Mr. Conant complains is said to have developed from reports that a large number of the one-time Vancouver strike trouble-makers were headed east, "riding the rods," and were being knicked off trains by the R.C.M.P. to become Ontario vagrants.

Rather than court possible trouble with these men, the magistrates, in places affected, have been shunting them out of town, it is understood, at the first opportunity. Toronto has also, it is said, been doing considerable complaining. Toronto has protested that once such men leave the small places, they naturally head for the large centres.

5 U.S. Navy Fliers Die In 2 Crashes

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 17. — (AP).—Disaster struck twice among the United States Navy's war planes in routine manoeuvres, leaving five fliers dead and four injured today.

Attempting a landing after dark last night, a patrol bomber smashed nose first into San Diego Bay, carrying two of a crew of six to their deaths. The four survivors, all injured, were pulled from the water as the wreckage sank.

Ten hours earlier, a torpedo plane plunged earthward from an altitude of 3,000 feet over Camp Kearny Mesa. Its three crewmen perished.

Death, however, spared six men in another patrol bomber, which was damaged in a forced landing on the bay last night. The fliers emerged unhurt.

Paris Green Found Near Poisoned Cows

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 16 (CP). —Discovery of a mixture of paris green and salt found spread on the grass on the property of Herbert Kellar, Crookston farmer, and given as cause of the mysterious death of Kellar's two cows on Monday, was the reason for a rigid probe on the part of provincial police.

The owner found his cows dead near a quarry on his farm and each animal's mouth was heavily coated with the mixture. Constable Arthur Dymond of Madoc is in charge of the investigation. Kellar relied on the butter and milk supply from these cows for his large family.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17 (C.P.). — Firmness in southern markets and strength in stock securities brought fractionally higher wheat prices on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Quotations were above previous closing levels throughout a dull session and closed ¼ to ¾ higher with October at 68⅜, November 68½a, December 68⅞ to 68, and May 70¾ to ⅞ cents.

Operations were mixed with southern interests on both sides of the market. Some support from the south was on October and selling appeared in the may option. This suggestion inter-market spreading.

Local traders did some spreading in the October and May options and limited hedging operations were in evidence. Some estimates of a 500,000 bushels export business were made, but confirmation was lacking.

Drunk Drivers In Toronto Jump 200 p.c.

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—A tremendous increase in drunk and reckless driving charges dealt with during the first six months of this year over the same period in 1937, is shown in a survey of police figures released yesterday.

The greatest jump occurred in the drunk-driving column. In 1937 only 85 motorists appeared in court. For the first six months of 1938, 109 have already been charged with the same offense—an increase of nearly 200 per cent.

While not so marked, the advance in the reckless-driving offenses is equally as startling. In 1937, 1,849 offenders were dealt with. So far this year 1,008 have been disposed of, some sentenced to jail, fined or dismissed.

Proportionate Increase

Summonses for speeding, failure to observe stop and traffic signs and other traffic violations have increased proportionately.

The unprecedented increase is attributed by police officials to more rigid enforcement of existing laws and not to lessening of public responsibility or a sudden jump in liquor consumption.

Another factor which substantiates the claim that enforcement is responsible for the increase in convictions is the number of cars impounded on a Magistrate's order since legislation permitting such procedure was approved in June.

The eighteenth automobile of a drunken driver was ordered off the road for three months yesterday. It is being held with another car at the Central Police Garage. The others have been released on bond to the owners. This relieves the drunk drivers of the cost of storing their cars, which amounts to $54, before the expiration of the impounding order.

Extra Penalties

If the impounded car is used, even by any one beside the owner, the bond is automatically forfeited, and the car is again confiscated.

Under a new recording system adopted last year, the statistical branch of the Police Department is now able to give details regarding the disposition of every traffic offender. Prior to that time, all offenses were grouped in one bracket.

With the new method the number of drunk drivers brought to court is split into columns according to the disposition. Of the 109 that have appeared so far this year 62 were committed to jail, 46 were discharged, and a warrant was issued for one.

A breakdown of the 1,008 reckless-driving charges show 495 were fined or imprisoned, 473 were discharged, 37 remanded for sentence, 1 committed to jail, and 1 placed on probation.

American cars predominated at the 1938 auto show in Melbourne, Australia.

"The Old Man" Will Pay

The man who operates a garage in a lakeside resort was disturbed the other night; truth is he was annoyed to the point of being moved to rather strong language. There had been a telephone call from a farm house six miles distant telling of a car which had taken to the ditch. He and one of his men had taken the truck out and towed the car in. There was a party of two young men and two young women in the car but none of them was hurt.

The garage man put a couple of workers on the car to get it in shape so it could be driven back to town, and meantime the young people who had been in it spent the evening dancing and taking in all the places they could find at the summer resort. It was 12.30 at night before the car was ready and the bill for towing it in, making repairs and supplying needed parts amounted to $11.50, and as such things go it would appear that the young fellow who owned the car was getting off easily enough.

When it came to paying the bill the two young men in the party had between them just $1.75, and then it was that the car owner said to the garage keeper: "Send the bill along; the old man will mail you a cheque."

The garage man said he was certain that would happen. The boy's father would pay the bill and he would get his money by return mail. That was the third time in two seasons the same thing had happened. And it would be the third time the bill had gone to the father. The man at the garage was saying a good deal about the son using the words "the old man" when referring to the father who would be called upon to settle the bills which the son could not pay. "A decent and straight man who deserves to have a better son than that young whippersnapper. And to hear him speak of his father as 'the old man' makes me boil like a leaking radiator."

If the man at the garage had been able to fix the young man as efficiently as he repaired the car he might have done a good night's work.

We Think They Are Wrong

Premier Hepburn of Ontario has united with Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec in saying that these two provinces intend to ignore the Rowell Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations. That Commission was formed in the first place because the British North America Act was not giving to this country the kind of government it desired. We were getting too much government. And still are.

The Rowell Commission had been going about its business in what appeared to be an intelligent manner; it has been securing facts; it had been trying to find out if there were provincial and federal departments which overlapped, and in a general way was seeking information which would have provided a sure basis on which to rebuild Confederation.

When the Premiers of Ontario and Quebec unite in saying they will have nothing more to do with it we do not see how the Rowell Commission can continue. The preponderance of Canadian population is in these two provinces, and it is fairly good example of what can happen when two provinces—two strong ones—care to come out in the open and plainly defy the desires and plans of the central Federal government.

We are moved to doubt whether Mr. Hepburn is speaking for the people of Ontario when he turns thumbs down on the Rowell Commission. We believe people in this province would welcome an intelligent revision of our form of government; they would like very much to know if we can eliminate much, little or any at all of our existing equipment because we are paying more for it than it is worth to us.

We find it impossible to believe that the people of Ontario desire Premier Hepburn to join with Premier Duplessis of Quebec in saying the work of the Rowell Commission shall not be carried to completion.

Dollars And Tragedy

Perhaps it's true that the world is rather a mercenary place. In the morning papers it was announced that Daniel George Dodge, heir to automobile millions, badly injured by a dynamite explosion, had jumped from the boat which was taking him to a hospital and was drowned in Georgian Bay.

In the afternoon papers of the same day writers were busy supplying information regarding how much of the fortune was likely to go to his widow, a girl from Gore Bay, to whom Dodge wss married only two weeks ago. Before the day was over they had it all figured out that Mrs. Dodge would get no part of the original fortune, but she would get her share of anything which had been owned privately by her husband.

Truth is there was much more space taken up telling how she was likely to come out financially than there was in mentioning the tragedy which blasted the married life of a girl. Possibly the news was what the people wanted to read, but it is hard to get away entirely from the idea that there was something rather cold-blooded about it.

Belgium Trying Arms

Belgium is having big-scale war manoeuvres, and is said to be testing the speed which her mechanized transports could attain in case there were a sudden invasion. They have compulsory military service in that country; they have had it for years.

It may be Belgium feels safer and stronger by reason of increasing her army, and reports seem to indicate the country prefers to depend on her own military strength rather than making alliances with any other countries to guarantee her safety.

Germany went thrqugh Belgium at the beginning of the World War and it may be Belgium believes that she can make herself sufficiently strong to prevent such a thing happening again.

The chances are that she can do no such thing. War is a business where might and strength and the number of trained men count. Belgium on her own account might be able to temporarily arrest a larger and greater force, but the answer would be known when the attack was made, and the answer would be that Belgium and her army was not great enough to ward off the blow of a superior nation.

The little nation which puts its confidence in arms is not in an enviable position today. She can put up a good show in war manoeuvres, but Belgium could not make herself strong enough to resist attack from a superior power.

The Proper Move

Canadian planes will eventually fly to Detroit and Buffalo, just as American Airlines are now landing in Montreal and Vancouver. To the average individual who has no occasion to use air travel that may mean little enough. There are times when it means a good deal. Here is a case in point: A resident of Peterborough found it urgently necessary to be in New York City as quickly as possible, and he desired to return as rapidly as he could. The nearest point for plane service is Buffalo, and the only way to reach that point is by car or rail. On the return trip it was the same. The flight from New York to Buffalo was made in one hour and fifty minutes, and after that is a three-hour train trip to Toronto, plus the time of waiting for the train connection at Buffalo.

In the meantime and until Trans-Canada Airlines have their spurs completed to touch such places as Buffalo and Detroit, there appears to be no good reason why American Airlines should not be operating in and out of Toronto. They can give that service and give it right now. If and when Trans-Canada is prepared to offer the service it can notify American Airlines that it is ready to take over the work, but there is no good reason in forcing Ontario people to travel by car or rail to Buffalo or Detroit when they could just as well get a service out of Toronto. Our Minister of Transport should be the first to see the advantage of giving such an arrangement.

He Had $1,000

At one time or another there has been much written about riches taking wings; and if any more evidence were required on that point it was abundantly offered when the will of the late Samuel Insull was probated.

Several years ago he told a jury which tried and acquitted him of fraud that he was a poor man, but no person seemed to have believed him then. The feeling was that he had hidden some of his wealth. Probably Samuel Insull told the truth, for his will showed he was able to leave just one thousand dollars for the support of his widow.

Time was when Samuel Insull had brought together a giant organization said to have been worth $4,000,000,000, and his personal fortune was said to have mounted to $100,000,000. When things cracked and his companies started to fold up he left United States; he was pursued in many European lands and finally brought back for trial. He died abroad a month or so ago and it is now disclosed he was worth $1,000. It does look as though there was truth in the 23rd of Proverbs where in the fifth verse it is recorded: "For riches certainly make themselves wings; they fly away as an eagle toward Heaven."

Starting At The Bottom

There is always something to be said for the young man who desires to start from the bottom and work up. Books have been written on the subject and no doubt the number of addresses which have been uttered on the same topic would be numerous and if placed end to end would reach impressive mileage.

John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President of United States, is going in for that sort of business. He is going to work in a department store in Boston and will receive a beginner's salary of $18 per week. He says he is taking that position because he does not wish to take a more lucrative post where he would probably have to exploit the family name.

All of which is very well until one starts to study the case. John Roosevelt was married two months ago and his wife comes from a family where money is not an unknown article. Since his marriage he and his bride have been on a honeymoon trip of two months in Bermuda, and we doubt very much if such a trip could be financed by a clerk in a store earning $18 per week.

There will also be the suspicion that this experiment of starting at the bottom and working up will not mean that at the weekend John will come home from his labors and place an envelope containing $18 on the kitchen table and then sit down with his bride and figure out how they are going to keep the house on that amount and start a little savings account against a rainy day. John may be starting on $18 per week, but we suspect he and his bride will not be living at the $18 per week level.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Thieves broke into a Toronto Stop and Shop store and instead of robbing the place they ate cheese and crackers. In other words they stopped and ate.

First glances at the new hats for the fall suggest that mere man had better restrain his sense of humor when asked for an opinion as to how they look.

Two people have been arrested for robbing 100 clothes lines in Toronto. It didn't take the police long to pin the charge to the guilty parties.

We hope pedestrians will see their way clear to rejoice in the fact that the Ford Motor Co. has called 24,000 men to go to work on next year's cars.

Add to the day's good news: Wage increases in plants of Canada Packers following the decreases of 1931 have brought the present standard of pay to 40 per cent. above the 1929 mark.

Uncle Sam is spending five million dollars on controlling mosquitoes in New York. We imagine in spite of that it will be quite easy for visitors to get stung there.

The winner of a beauty contest in Toronto was bitten on the leg by a dog. Of course the dog should never have done such a thing, but his power of selection was running fairly high.

Oshawa city council ejected the press from a special meeting. That of course is the surest way of convincing the ratepayers there is something rotten in the state of Denmark.

For sixteen years Toronto police team has held the tug-of-war championship, but they lost the other day to police from Dearborn, Mich. We don't care as in this country we do not approve of our policemen having too much pull.

Trade Minister Euler is making a six weeks' trip to Great Britain and the continent to survey Canadian marketing services and publicity in Europe. If the latter has not improved very recently it should not take six weeks to study it.

In three months Canadian visitors to the United States have brought back over $2,300,000 worth of goods with them. That's not a bad thing for the returning tourists but Canadian business men can be forgiven for not being enthusiastic about the whole affair.

There is so much in the papers about the military plans of the Nazis that we are apt to overlook the performance of the German plane Brandenburg. Leaving New York it was stated it would make Berlin in 20 hours, and the trip was completed in 19 hours and 55 minutes.

A skeleton found near Whitby is declared to have not been that of the late Ambrose Small, who disappeared in Toronto almost 20 years ago. How many times Ambrose Small has been reported found in the last 20 years we do not know, but the number is great and equalled only by the inaccuracy of the reports.

WEE ANGUS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Wee Angus farmed three weeks this year, and he is brown from heel to ear, he's been with Uncle Jed; he never stayed up very late, before it come to half-past eight, they shooed him off to bed.

¶ Going back to school Wee Angus said, is what is sticking in his head, he's cool toward the scheme; he's learned so much around the farm, and helping chore inside the barn, and all the things he's seen.

¶ He knows how much a cow should eat, can name the different kinds of sheep, knows much of this and that; he knows what milk a cow can give, how much it costs to make one live, the price of butter-fat.

¶ He helped them buy the binder twine, was up one night till after nine, because a horse went lame; he heard them argue on the cause, to find whose fault the trouble was, but no one was to blame.

¶ Wee Angus says he learned a lot, on things his school has never taught, and likely never will; to go back doing his sums once more, and likely staying after four, will be like standing still.

¶ Wee Angus talks of farming now, on speaking terms with horse and cow, and spins a cheerful yarn; he's learned so much in three weeks there, that he is ready to declare—that he could run a farm.

A.F. of L. Causes Labor Split

(By DR. R. W. FRANK)

GENEVA PARK, Lake Couchiching, Aug. 17.—The study of trades and labor movements started yesterday and the attendance visibly jumped showing the wide interest this subject holds.

I think it is essential if we are to approach these problems with any idea of securing an intelligent conception of the questions involved that we must present the fundamental basis upon which these organizations are founded.

"In the development of human society it was found that if success was to attend the efforts of the people in creating a higher and better type of civilization that a common basis of relationship and understanding was essential. The freedom of the individual is assured for the most part in the exercise of his rights to citizenship, by freedom of speech and association providing it does not conflict with the interests of the community.

Now this social system which we may call a competitive or capitalist system developed and permitted the establishment of groups within its structure whom we have come to regard as the owner or master class, who through control of finance and administration of all forms of governing institutions secured control over industry and commerce.

Thus larger scale industries created virtual empires operating them at times with a ruthless disregard of the rights of workmen and denied them any voice or control in the development of the industry of which they were so essential a factor.

The ultimate result was that because of this denial of his believed democratic rights of self expression, and because of the exploitation of human beings for private gain without any consideration for his social and economic securety, the better instincts within the worker, protesting these injustices, applied himself to the creation of some form of organization that would be expressive of his desires, and which with the combined efforts of his fellow workers could secure a greater share of the wealth that was being produced together with protection from exploitation that denied him almost the right to live, and which was a negation of all those rights and privileges which ought to be his under our so called system of democracy." (Quotation from Mr. Bruce A. F. of L.)

The tortuous and difficult but ever upward path of trade unionism through the last hundred and fifty years is a story unto itself. But it is a path trampled by bitter struggles, persecutions and suffering, recriminations and hatreds, but it is the only path by which the industrial worker has brought himself to what he is.

He has a long way to go yet and conditions seem to change faster than his ability to meet them, but his efforts like change itself are never ceasing. His cause is just and his efforts will prevail.

Today after a hundred and fifty years struggle he finds himself, as far as the Anglo-Saxon world is concerned, possessed of certain legal rights. He may organize. He may use the strike as a means to force his demands when negotiation fails, and he may picket peacefully.

In the early days of industry when hard labor was the rule the organizations into trade unions was the national thing to do. Each trade had its particular problems and standards, differing widely from other trades, and so the movement grew along trade lines, brick layers, masons, weavers, printers and so on.

But with the coming of mass production with its power driven machines man became a mere tender of machines, pulling a lever or perhaps tightening a nut. He did not know a trade nor was it necessary to know one. He was outside the protection of trade unions and found himself entirely at the mercy of powers over which he had no control. And with which he had as an individual not the slightest power to cope.

Thence came the need for industrial organization, that is to say an association of all the members of a particular industry. That is spoken of as perpendicular organization, from bottom to top as it were, as against horizontal organization of like classes. In the United States these industrial unions grew up out of the trade unions which are united into the American Federation of Labor, but that body the A. F. of L. which it seems had no interest in anyone but tradesmen, refused these new organizations admission. The result was a new body called the Committee for Industrial Organization or C. I. O.

The Committe for Industrial Organization you see is simply an organization of the otherwise unorganizable and because its members and its potential members have an overwhelming preponderance in numbers it has for the first time true possibilities in industrial reform.

There, you have the reason for the intense opposition. It is the only force that has shown itself capable of opposition to organized finance. The leaders of the C. I. O. are devout Roman Catholics and I have not noticed any close alliance between the Catholic Church and Communism. It is just one of those clever tricks to create a prejudice where reasonable arguments cannot be found.

The unfortunate strife between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. has tended also to cloud the issue. From all the evidence submitted here, and there has been plenty, the A. F. of L. must be held responsible for the split. Like a judge I can only find on evidence given, and it appears to be this—that the trades unions represent a distinct class of workers namely those engaged in manual work, that they believe in class consciousness, and the promotion of that class only.

The Committee for Industrial Organization recognizes that every person is a worker who earns a living whether in overalls or in white collars, and that the general welfare of society can better be attained by the expression, needs and opinions through organizations than individuals.

• Children Should Have Dogs

(Dr. Donald Snow in Our Dumb Animal)

WHY DO I STATE a dog? Because in most cases that animal is capable of greater response to human attention than any other pet. True, there are plenty of companionable cats and horses but in the great majority of cases the dog fits into the scheme of human relationship to the greatest degree.

The possession of a dog is one of the greatest developers of a child's character and social instincts. There is nothing like a pet to bring the overshy, quiet child out of himself into the open. In his daily relationship with his dog he learns to get along with his fellow beings, for he gradually realizes that the same policies as apply to animals apply to humans.

In the case of his pet he develops self-reliance because he must prepare the animal's meals. He learns regularity, because pets must be fed and walked at rather stated intervals. He learns that life is full of responsibilities because his pet is dependent upon him for every necessity. Through it all he develops a sense of service. The importance of being of service is much overlooked. Too frequently our every act is dominated by selfishness and the pleasure of "just doing" for the other fellow is forgotten. I have noticed that in caring for his pet our little boy has become desirous of performing little errands and duties we require of him simply for the pleasure of doing something for us. This brings us to the matter of self-esteem, which we have learned is so important to the normal child. By seeing his pet respond to his care and affection he feels that he really is of some importance in this world.

We often hear from those who do not like animals that the dog is a menace to health. Nothing is farther from the truth. In but very rare instances is the dog a carrier of human disease element, and because the dog must have fresh air and sunshine it becomes an added incentive for the youngster to play outdoors. Furthermore, the importance of cleanliness is made apparent because the dog must be brushed and combed and occasionally bathed.

When adversity comes, as it does to all of us, the child learns to overcome it. If his pet becomes ill he learns to nurse it, and if the worst comes to pass and death takes his friend away he learns to view it stoically. Our five-year-old son used to take the passing of any living thing very hard. If we tried to dodge the issue, he knew that something serious had occurred and would become quite upset about it. After the death of some of his canine acquaintances he has learned to take it, not without sorrow, but calmly and wisely, as we all must do.

The mutual love and faithfulness of a child and his dog is a pleasure to behold. We learn to be just indeed when we scold his pet, for if we are not, we soon hear about it. Nor can we afford to be hasty and harsh if we would hold the esteem of our child.

By giving his love to his dog his life is made more complete, for what an empty world is that without love!

The child learns the virtue of charity in forgiving his pet its little transgressions, and the virtue of patience as he attempts to teach his dog the little tricks which are a pleasure to him, and which the dog loves to exhibit.

A properly natural attitude is furthered by the gradual awareness of various bodily functions as exhibited by the dog. Although the dog is like a child which in many ways never grows up, its whole life span is unfurled in comparatively few years before the eyes of the child. As the various questions of life, of which sex is one, are asked, we find a ready and sensible example for his education.

The child learns that all living things are his friends if properly approached. My little boy knows that he can neither tease nor maltreat his pet without its retaliating with a proper scolding. He is not afraid of any dog, nor need he be, for all animals, no matter how contrary, like him. They sense in him the proper approach.

• Why the Taxpayer Pays

(From The Stratford Beacon Herald)

"OH, JIM'S ALL RIGHT," chuckled the stout man with the black-rimmed glasses over his soup in the hotel dining room to his partner across the table. "He landed a big fat government contract. He says he will make some easy money."

To a great many people "government contracts" and "easy money" are synonymous terms. They mean the same thing. When a man succeeds in getting a contract for certain construction work he feels that the margin of profit has a right to be much bigger than if he were doing the same work for a private concern. Public funds are easy funds. Public conscience is an elastic conscience, and where there is an elastic conscience somebody is compelled to pay an elastic price. In the case of government contracts its the dear taxpayer who pays, and pays.

We frequently hear something about the double standard of morality when dealing with our social life; but what about the double standard of ethics we hold toward public and private institutions? Why is it considered wrong to defraud the individual and quite all right to beat the government which, after all, is but a vast number of individuals expressed in a single unit? For some strange reason honesty loses its identity in the crowd.

Last year we watched the building of a culvert on the highway by the government. It took over two months. On several occasions, just to get a slant on how anxious the workers were to render an honest hour for an honest dollar we tarried and engaged them in conversation. It was quite obvious that there was no serious intention to play fair with the government payroll. It was a reservoir to be tapped with impunity. It took nine weeks to do the job in question—and it could have been done by an up-to-date contractor with an eye to economy in three weeks.

• But It Could Have Happened

(New York Herald Tribune)

HAS AN ABLE but slightly eccentric ex-corporal and statesman in Berlin decided to plunge the earth into universal holocaust August 15? So incredible is our world that this incredible question, which once one would never have dreamed of meeting outside the pages of an Oppenheim romance, has actually become a subject of almost serious speculation. The fatal date — August 15 (the precise hour, as our London correspondent, Mr. Joseph Driscoll, ironically observes, is still a matter of conjecture) only recently began to appear on this side of the ocean; but it seems that in Paris and London it has been "popping up in a hundred different forms" and is being discussed with so much gravity in the British newspapers that Mr. Driscoll yesterday devoted a Sunday cable to it.

According to one version, early last month a "secret council" in Berlin selected August 13 as the day for carrying through the coup against Czechoslovakia which failed to come off on May 21; according to another, the French Embassy in London has very recently heard that the "push" is scheduled for some time between the 10th and 15th; others flatly make it next Monday, the 15th. And the date is surrounded with a lot of other rumors, about mobilizing the peasantry, completing fortifications, and so on. The more rational British view seems to be that there is nothing in it—nothing, that is to say, except that the rumors are being deliberately put out from Berlin with the idea of further discouraging any sympathies Lord Runciman may still entertain for the Czechs. The British are officially calm. The manoeuvre is too transparent to be taken seriously; if the coup were really coming it would not be advertised, and with the Runciman mission the British have cleverly put the damper on the flames and postponed any explosion.

And yet——And yet, while it is true that exactly this kind of calculated threat has become a prime instrument in the new, concealed and undeclared warfare of the totalitarianisms, it is also horribly true that they wield the concentrated powers which not only make such threats believable but are capable of translating them upon the instant from mere threat into actuality. A dictator may, purely for purposes of persuasion, put out a rumor that he is going to start a world war a week from today at 5 o'clock in the morning. The dreadful thing is that today everybody knows not only that he could do it if he would, but that he would do it if the persuasion failed and the breaks happened to fall badly for him. When sober men can take a date like August 15 with even semi-seriousness, one is reminded of nothing so much as the old Millerites waiting for Judgment Day. Only now the ascension robes, of course, are gas masks.

PLACE NAMES

(Lethbridge Herald)

WHAT is in a name? At Canada's Capital there has been a suggestion that a district just outside the city limits, Hog's Back on the Rideau, should have its name changed from Hog's Back to something of a quieter, fancier type. Proudly and rightly The Ottawa Journal came to the defence of the name that has been in existence for a century. Hog's Back is a name that isn't common to Ottawa; it has good company. Only the other day in reading an article about the new Guilford Cathedral in England, we found that when the Bishop sets out to visit his cathedral city, he must pass along the Hog's Back, that famous spine running east and west which forms part of the old Pilgrim's Way from Winchester to Canterbury, made familiar by Chaucer through his "Canterbury Tales."

Hog's Back is more striking than Idyl Wild, Dew Drop Inn, Sloping Sands, or some such cognomen. But here in Alberta we have our Whiskey Gap, Seven Persons, Pincher Creek, Medicine Hat and we wouldn't trade them for the names that are often given to hamlets and towns and villages.

These names we have mentioned are the original names, the names that were given by men who came into the country first, and why should we abandon them? They have a meaning and when we learn what the meaning is, a romance attaches itself to the place and its early history.

WASN'T ET BY A WOLF

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

THERE WILL be general thankfulness that the five-year-old Sturgeon Falls boy who was lost in the bush near his home should have been found well and sound after five days' wandering.

The lad, it appears, had lots to eat and drink, so it would seem that this Northern Ontario bush is not the fearsome place it is so often painted by those at a distance. At any rate there seems to have been no justification for the headline of a Toronto paper which read: "Fear Helpless Child Had Met Cruel Death Amid Wolves of Wilds". For, strange as it may seem, the boy saw neither wolf nor bear and it is understood that he agrees thoroughly with the dictum of Old Sam Martin that "any man that says he's been et by a wolf is a liar".

ON A NEW YORK STREET

(New York Times)

TAKE A WALK down a busy street. One out of every 37 persons you meet will be a criminal. One out of every 650—and it doesn't take long to meet that many in New York City—is or will be a murderer. This of course, if every sample of our population were representative of the whole.

Among them the criminals cost us $15 000,000,000 annually or about $115 for each man, woman and child in the population—between one-fifth and one-sixth of our present national income.

These are figures or deductions from the report of the law enforcement committee of the American Bar Association.

NORTHERN LIGHTS

(Windsor Star)

THE ARGUMENT continues among those who have heard the northern lights and the professors who say it is scientifically impossible to do so. Dr. A. S. Eve of McGill comes forward with the theory that observers of the aurora borealis "have heard the blood in their own heads, the wind whistling through the rigging of their ships, or the tinkling of the ice of their frozen breaths." However, when scientists can explain what the northern lights actually are, their opinions for or against the audibility of the phenomenon will be much more impressive.

British Shipmen Would Ban Oil, Use Coal

LONDON, Aug. 17 (CP).—Supported by distinguished admirals of the Royal Navy and leading shipowners, a movement has been launched in United Kingdom for the gradual displacement of imported fuel oil by domestic coal.

For several years, promoters of the campaign declare, Great Britain's existence has been menaced by ever-increasing use of foreign oil at the expense of her own indigenous fuel.

"Total displacement of coal in the Royal navy and in about half our mercantile marine has made our freedom of movement on the high seas dependent on the good-will of those countries which export oil," says a manifesto issued by the campaign committee.

"It is suggested the energies of engineers, constructors, shipowners, the coal industry generally and the government should be enlisted immediately to tackle the problem, primarily from the standpoint of national defence."

Prices Continue to Rise

The coal industry as a whole, the manifesto proceeds, has been misled by political remedies such as quotas, restrictions and central selling schemes. What it describes as "political doctors" had affirmed these remedies would eliminate friction and promote extended use of British coal. The adverse, however, had proved to be the case Price of bunker coal had risen to uneconomic figures and many shipowners had been compelled to draw their supplies from the continent.

Urging a new era for coal, the declaration says:

"The enormous sums sent out of the country to buy oil would not be of such moment were we able to export an increasing quantity of manufactured goods. But rising costs of labor and fuel are in a fair way to reducing our foreign trade to a minimum and the adverse trade balance rises steadily each year.

"Possessing as we do the finest fuel in the world, it requires only energy and vision to alter the whole situation. The danger exists in an ever-increasing degree. Action, to be successful, should be taken now."

Hijackers Robbing Fishermen's Nets

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 17 (CP).—Fish hijackers who have been marauding nets in Lake Ontario near Grimsby were being sought by Provincial Police today after Edward Hand reported his catch of trout was torn from his nets last night. It was the third raid made in recent weeks, he reported.

The theft was perpetrated four miles off Grimsby shore, where the nets had been placed in 100 feet of water.

William Hand, son of the fisherman, was approaching the fishing field at dawn this morning when he saw a fast boat speed away from the scene that had been marked with buoys to guide the owners to their nets.

When he started to raise the huge nets, he found they had been ruthlessly torn and cut by the hijackers in their hurried task of tearing the prized trout from them. It was estimated that 150 pounds of trout were stolen before Mr. Hands approach frightened the thieves.

THREE ARE INJURED

WOODSTOCK.— Mrs. W. Brodel, Mrs. Roy Taylor and the latter's daughter Florence, were taken to Alexandra Hospital, Ingersoll, none seriously injured, as the result of their car driven by Mrs. Brodel, leaving No. 2 highway just west of Beachville and crashing today into a barn on the north side of the road. The car was badly wrecked.

Deaths Ends Storybook Romance

His face, arm and body torn and burned by exploding dynamite and suffering terrible agony, 21-year-old Daniel G. Dodge, heir to part of the motor millions, tumbled into the waters of Georgian Bay from a speedboat rushing him to medical help at Little Current, Ont., and was drowned. Thus ended the Cinderella romance of Dodge and 19-year-old Loreen MacDonald, former telephone operator at Gore Bay and the daughter of a retired tugboat captain.

racket contributed to the campaign funds of former District Attorney William Copeland Dodge, whom Dewey has named in a bill of particulars as having been "intimidated, influenced or bribed" by the policy gang.

He said the contributions were made "on instructions from Hines," and that the mob provided "thousands and thousands" of gangand votes for the former leader of the Democratic Party's Uew York Tammany organization.

Earlier, in outlining his case, Dewey pictured the policy racket as influenced by "superstitions and dreams" and said that it was played by poor people against 1,00-to-1 odds.

"There are penny bets, two-cent bets, nickel bets, dime bets, occasionally a quarter, a half-dollar, a dollar. Sedom does it run over a $5.00 bet."

Dewey said the policy game began in New York about 20 years ago, operating through the use of clearing house figures to provide the lottery's winning numbers.

Though he recognizes in the shrewd prosecutor a "tough young fellow," Hines said yesterday:

"There's no doubt in my mind that I will be acquitted, and it may be a directed verdict."

Whole Game Crooked

"After the policy organization got going, they decided to make more money by making it all crooked and fixing the numbers," Dewey said.

"Except for the small bets, the public was defrauded."

The prosecutor ran over some of the "big shots" in the policy game in the early days of its operation—Masjo Isom, Henry Miro, George Weinberg, "Big Harry" Schoenhaus, "Lulu" Wilson the strongarm mobster, "Solly" Girsch, John Cooney and others.

"Those were the big names in the early days," Dewey said.

"Then in 1931, the Dutchman decided to make these small, unorganized gambling games into a racket by killings, beatings and intimidation."

"Hines got $500 a week in cash, always in cash," Dewey said.

"Sometimes Weinberg paid him, sometimes Dixie Davis.

"Hines went on the payroll and promised to deliver. We will show you," he told the jury, "that without a doubt, his duty was to protect the racket."

Dewey referred briefly to the much-publicized clandestine meetings of Dixie Davis, then imprisoned in the Tombs, and his red-haired Broadway showgirl sweetheart, Hope Dare, with whom he was captured several months ago in a Philadelphia hideout.

"On his visits to Hope Dare's apartment," Dewey said, "they were never alone together."

Cyclist Convicted

GUELPH, Ont., Aug. 17.—(CP)—Declaring that "a large proportion of accidents are caused by young fools of that age (17 to 18) who did not know the power of the machines they are driving," Magistrate Watt in police court today convicted Harold Harrison, 17, on a charge of criminal negligence.

Harrison was the driver of a motorcycle which struck and seriously injured six-year-old Ronald Kerr on the grass in Lyon Park June 22. He was remanded a week for sentence.

til more than 10 of the 20 miles to Little Current had been covered. Then, because of arm injuries which required 15 stitches later and power burs, she turned the wheel over to Frank Valiquette, a camp worker.

Of her husband's disappearance over the side of the boat, Mrs. Dodge could say little. One theory was that the youth, crazed by pain, had leaped into the waters. Another was that he had fallen overboard when the boat lurched as he went to stand up. Lloyd Bryant, another camp worker, and his wife also were in the boat.

"I just heard Mrs. Bryant say: 'Oh, Danny...don't do that.' When I turned around Danny was in the water. I think that he came to and got up to his feet to see if he could help us. Then the boat must have lurched, and weakened as he was, he was thrown overboard."

Wind Halts Search

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Aug. 17.—(CP).—A driving wind and heavy rain forced a temporary halt today to the search in the inside channel of Georgian Bay for the body of Daniel C. Dodge. The young millionaire was drowned Monday while being brought to hospital after a dynamite explosion at his summer home.

No Doubt About It!

There's no doubt about it—it takes skill to pitch a horse shoe so that it neither slides nor rolls, but thuds to earth for a "ringer", a "leaner" or a fairly won point.

There's no doubt about Old Chum, either—not among pipe smokers who know good tobacco. Old Chum's soothing fragrance and sweet Virginia aroma have made it the favourite tobacco of smokers of every age for over half a century.

Try a package. You'll agree with all Old Chum smokers that:

CANADIAN GENERAL TROUNCES BRINTON ATHLETIC 3 TO 2

Custodians Play Clever Game In Tight Soccer

Ideal weather prevailed last night for the return league fixture between the Canadian General and Brinton on King Edward Park, before a large crowd of spectators in a league tilt.

Both custodians were brilliant, while the brand of the code was good throughout. The winners getting the last goal to gain two valuable league points thereby making the league interesting. Deloro are anxiously awaiting the league leaders' visit which if lost will make the C.G.E. and Electrics a tie.

Penalties In First

The spin of the coin fell in favor of the Brinton and Electrics facing the sun. Mid-field tactics held sway in the early stages, with Buchan converting from the spot kick to put C.G.E. one up. Within the next minute, Richardson dribbled his way through three men to let his pivot drive a shot against the upright. He caught the rebound to send a shot against the far post. Brinton were now at full strength to start up a gruelling attack upon Bolton's charge who grasped a dangerous shot from the air. Then fisted a rocket drive from the foot of Castle.

Brinton kept up the pressure to get a penalty kick that was trusted to N. Downer who made no mistake. Teams were now on even terms again and Bolton, on the next visit, turning aside a smashing drive as he fell upon the ball at the corner of the upright. Buchan transferred the play to the right wing where a foul kick taken by Early compelled Brinton goalie to punt clear. A continuous seige by the Electrics found the Brinton defense nullifying their efforts while Adams, in Brinton goal, was brilliant to the extreme. Just before the interval, the C.G.E. hammered away from every angle to find Brinton goalie unbeatable. McLeod dribbled his way along the wing and adjudged his wing man position nicely to get the better of the Electrics' defense as he gently tipped the ball past into the net away out of the reach of the custodian. Brinton 2, Canadian General 1.

Keen Tactics Prevail

On resuming play shifted from end to end with neither team allowing any privileges whenever within shooting distance. At the twenty-minute mark, A. Mitchell, C.G.E., feinted a false move to split the opposing defense nicely where McMaster was awaiting the opening and took advantage of it by scoring from a peculiar angle to even the count again. For the remainder of the period, it was evident that the forwards could not make any progress while halves concentrated in tackling at the logical moment to offset anything tangible. At the thirty-five-minute mark, the Brintons were harrassing the Electrics' defence from every angle in which the wing men were predominant. From a scrimmage in front of goal Earl punted up the field where Keith outguessed the full back by sending a drive across the goal. Adams saving but not sufficient to prevent the C.G.E. gaining the leading goal. In the closing minutes, the Brintons forced the pace but were held to the score: Canadian General 3, Brinton Athletic 2.

Goal scorers—Brinton: N. Downer and G. Downer. Canadian General: Buchan and McMaster (2).

Brinton—H. Adams, goal; F. Todd and A. Downer, full backs; Art Downer, E. Jones and McLeod, halves; S. Clark, J. Richardson, N. Downer, D. Leether and G. Downer, forwards.

Canadian General — J. Bolton, goal; W. Mackenzie and S. Murduff, full backs; F. Earl, J. Buchan and T. McPhate, halves; H. Keith, A. Mitchell, B. McMaster, A. Ross and W. Harris, forwards; subs, W. Cribbis and J. Goodhue.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

YEP, THE BOYS ARE STILL talking about that lacrosse game played night before last in Brooklin. Some local fans made the trip but bad weather scared off many more—and are they sorry! A good-sized crowd of home fans on deck for the festivities and it was a real game. Sparkling close lacrosse with plenty of rough stuff and a free-for-all at the finish that embroiled all the players on both teams and many of the customers. A whizz of a fight. Several players on both sides are wearing scars yet as it lasted for some 10 minutes with everybody and his brother swinging fists or sticks, and not a cop in sight. "Our boys" of Brooklin will be back here a week from Friday for a loop fixture and the local club has decided not to raise prices—though extra bleachers may have to be installed to handle the crowd. And we'll bet any part of a hunk of Confederacy currency the Brooklins aren't looking forward with great pleasure to this joust.

* * * * * *

IT WAS DECIDED to call off the game next Friday because of the local Exhibition. East York and the Petes wanted to postpone it till Sept. 6th, but the O. L. A. advised the Petes that playoffs would would start that week and all teams must start 'em together. So now East York and the locals will play here next Tuesday, making three games that week. The Petes are at Long Branch Monday, play East York here next night and Brooklin here Friday. And then will be idle all the following week till after Labor Day.

Off For Higher Education

DON CROWE WILL BE leaving for Clarkson Tech, with Al and Gee Clark, in about two weeks now. The locals have 23 signed players and will get by with them. For goal there are Joe Meyette, Bill Rogers and Red Creighton; on defence, Rowan Chute, Doug Miller, Jack Westonfelt, Jerry Creighton, Cliff Cadd and Ossie Sloane; and forwards include Pete King, Buster Whitton, Owen Hendy, Ira Dundas, Red Dallin, Mick Magee, Don Crowe, Shorty Reid, Dutch Pammett, Ford Loucks, Fraser Bowen, Emmett Creighton, Norm Worthy and Ned Vitarelli. They'll be tough in playoffs. The squad had a practise last night, there being no midget fray—it'll be next Tuesday at 8.15 between Lions and Rotary. Winning team of the midgets get crests from the O. L. A. and an all-star team will enter playdowns, these players requiring proof of age from the Registrar General, S. J. Manchester, Toronto, at half a buck each.

IN HIS TELY COLUMN, Bunny Morgensen boosts a former local junior pitcher thusly: "Harold (Lefty) Lesurf, Webbers' ace southpaw, convinced 8,000 fans at Willowvale Park that he is one of the best in the city among the portsiders. In limiting Kiwanis to five hits and striking out 10, Lesurf never looked better. It was his third win of the final series and his eighth of the 1938 season against no defeats." Yeah, Lefty was always a good young hurler, but he was beaten this year by the Petes in an exhibition game here. Toronto Webbers lost a 7-1 decision to the locals in Riverside toward the end of June and Lesurf was charged with the loss, leaving after five innings. We would expect a twirler of his ability to go good in Toronto where the batters look very surprised when a hurler curves one once in awhile.

A Win For a Proud Poppa

IVAN FLETCHER, manager of the Keene Gals' softball team, became a daddy on Saturday—not a future girl softballer, though—and his players helped him celebrate the event last night at the Bowl with a 6-4 win over Westclox. To keep 'em in the playoffs after the Delahaye damsels had copped two playoffs wins in a row. They held up the game last eve as a messenger had failed to carry word of it to Bea McDowell, ace hurler, and 'phone wires were down. Well, she didn't arrive, but D. Warner twirled a swell game for Keene. Westclox rallied to tie it up in the eighth when the fray was called for darkness before their side was out—and were they as mad as splashed pedestrians.

* * * * * *

PREXY EV. THOMAS of the gals' circuit announces that fourth game in this serial will be tonight (Wednesday) in the Bowl between Keene and Westclox; and fifth, if necessary, in Keene on Thursday. On account of the gals must be ready to play in Ottawa in P. W. S. U. playdowns this Saturday. The men's loop have agreed to postpone their tilt tonight, as they have more time to declare a winner. Revised men's round-robin schedule is: Westclox vs. Omemee on this Thursday, Motorists vs. Omemee on Aug. 22nd, Westclox vs. Motorists the 23rd, and Omemee vs. Westclox the 24th. These tussles should be started on time, both girls' and men's games, as the days are shortening with the merchants nearly ready to resurrect those printed pleas: "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early." And you can't convince the Westclox lasses and their followers last p.m. that it was too dark to call the fray during the eighth heat. Ah, weel.

From Cot To 'Cycle Saddle

A LETTER WAS RECEIVED here the other day from a Toronto friend of his, saying that Jack Crouch—injured in the motorbike meet in this city Civic Holiday—is out of the hospital and ready to race again. He had a slight operation on a cheek bone and is okay once more. Much appreciation is expressed on behalf of Crouch to the local St. John's Ambulance Corps for its efficient work at the time of the accident and afterward. Personally, had we gone flying through the air with the quakiest of knees as Jawn did at the northwest corner of the track that day, we would never again attempt to ride anything faster than a tricycle and then only on country roads week days. But we never did run heavily to the pioneer or derring-do spirit.

* * * * * *

DESPITE THE HEAT AND humility of the weather, Balmy Beaches—and they're not so balmy—of Toronto and Nationals of Mo'real have begun grid practises. The other two senior O. R. F. U.-ers, Sarnia and Peterborough, commence drilling next week. Three players, Kerr of Westsides, Marchand of Cobourg and Daniels of Oshawa who have played against the Orfuns, are trying out with the Ponton pack—some 25 huskies being on deck yester gloaming. Nats have nearly ruined the Indians in the Big Four already by signing up the cream of the crop. Ted Reeve of the Tely cracks wise with the remark that pooled gates will aid O. R. F. U. teams but pooled points might help Peterborough! And Baz O'Meara of the Montreal Star says we will have a chance to expand on gridiron coverage this autumn. Yep, if travel is broadening, we should hang a bit more poundage on the streamlined chassis.

NEW SWIM RECORD

GREAT YARMOUTH, England—(CP).—Joyce Harrowby, 16-year-old Leicester schoolgirl, made a new British 100-yard free-style swimming record, going the distance in 62 1-5 seconds, 1-5 second better than the previous record.

Golfers Practise On Canadian Eve

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP).—Golf's howitzers and artillery fired last practice shots over the long fairways at Mississauga Club today on the eve of the Canadian open.

The shooting starts in earnest tomorrow when the 72-hole medal tournament begins. Most of the game's big names from two countries and a few from father away are included in the entry list to close to 160.

Paul Runyan, who isn't of the home run type at all, turned on his approaching and putting magic yesterday for a 66, six strokes under par. He dropped six birdies.

The little pro from White Plains, N.Y., was two strokes over the course record, set by Gordon Brydson, Mississauga pro. He was two under the Mississauga competitive mark set by Percy Allis of England in winning the open in 1931.

Right back of Runyan among the practising players were Davie Ferguson, pro at the Elms, Toronto, and Tony Manero, a former U.S. titlist, who scored 67's.

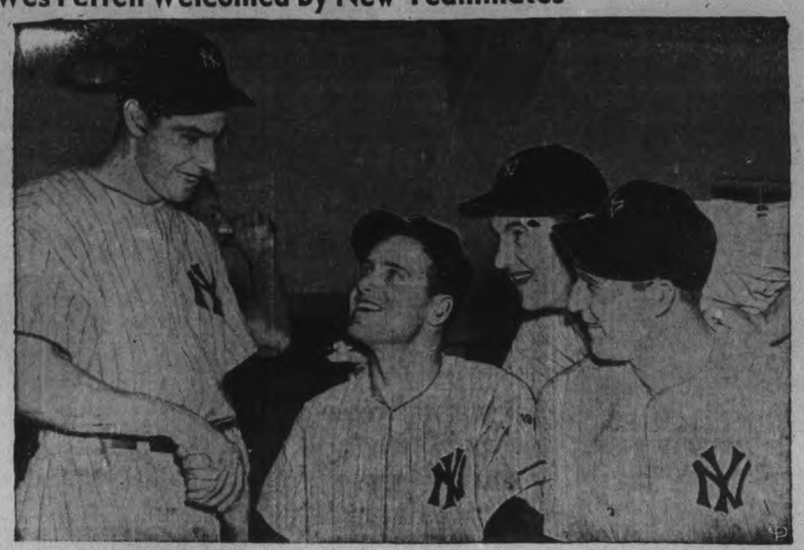
Wes Ferrell Welcomed By New Teammates



It didn't take Wes Ferrell long to make a new connection when he was given his outright release by Washington Senators. A ten-year man in the majors, he was free to peddle himself wherever he could . . . and how he peddled! Right into what looks like a certain world series cheque! The temperamental hurler signed up with New York's rampaging Yankees and he should add plenty to the 13 wins he has already posted this season, while with the Nats. Here is the new Yankee being greeted by slugging Joe DiMaggio, LEFT, while two fellow pitchers look on, Lefty Gomez and Red Ruffing. Gomez is the one peeping over the Ferrell shoulder.

Lads From Land Of Spaghetti Handy To Have Around Park

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—An Italian player is handy around a ball club . . . take for example, big Johnny Rizzo of the Pirates...a recruit who may be right up there with Arky Vaughan in the runs-driven-in department 'ere summer wanes...the Yankess lost Lazzeri but they still have Di Maggio, a fair country hitter, and Crosetti, a pretty nifty sort of shortstop . . and look how Lombardi has been going for those Cinci Reds...Schnozzola has been quarterbacking the pitchers to great deeds, including those two no-hitters by Vander Meer...the Cubs have Lazzeri, and he isn't hurting 'em a bit...great competitors, those Italian lads.

WHAT CAN THE MATTER BE?

Manager Bill Terry of the sometimes baffling New York Giants, has a puzzled frown on his face as he keeps an eye on his charges. His latest move is to bring up George Myatt to play third and shift Mel Ott back to the outfield.

Terrible Terry's Tribulations

Our Will Terry's prescription for the Giants is another shakeup . . . bringing George Myatt from Jersey City to play third, and putting Mel Ott back in the outfield . . . Myatt leads the International league in the matter of pilfering pillows . . . The race in which Thingumabob broke a leg was the Sanford Stakes . . . that was the race in which Man O'War met his only defeat . . . Odd thing about those Bronx Bombers . . . they're winning games in which they are outhit . . . The prize tussel of the season was that which the Yanks won from Washington 9 to 6, in which the bombers were outbombed 17 to 5 . . . Carl Hubbell's kid brother John is pitching some slick ball for Jersey City.

We're told by the Mike Jacobs enterprises that Joe Louis will defend his title four times next year. . . but I don't believe it . . . not if Max Baer gets to him first . . . for that matter, Gunnar Barlund might be able to outsmack him . . . Jacobs plans the fights for January, April, June and November . . . one in the Garden, one in the Polo Grounds, one in Yankee stadium and perhaps one in San Francisco . . . if Louis meets Baer in April in San Francisco he will get knocked out! That's a prediction that has been coming over us for some time.

That Man McPhail!

Mogadore Shurtsinger MacPhail, maestro of the Dodgers, says that Prexy Will Harridge needn't be poking fun at him for his Ebbets Field carnival . . . and that the American league will be playing night baseball ere long . . . The St. Louis Browns want it, and Cleveland wants it, according to the mogadore . . . The Cardinals want Sportsmen's Park lighted for games, but don't want to spend the money all by themselves. ...and then see the Browns come along later and use the lights without sharing original cost . . . Connie Mack isn't crazy about the idea, but his friends say he would go for it if the Phils would help put in the lights . . . the same situation prevails in Philly that exists in St Louis,, both teams using the same park.

Fred Johnson, who finally reached the majors recently when he joined the Browns, first came up from San Antonio for trial in 1922 . . . John McGraw passed him up after a dispute over his purchase price . . . so Fred went back to the minors where he has been toiling all these years, waiting for a break . . . he's 40 now.

THE OLD FUN-POKER

That's Will Harridge, who got a pretty hot retort from Larry (Circus Man) McPhail after he had denounced the latter's tactics at Brooklyn. Larry says the American league will soon have lights . . . and Pres. Harridge is not strongly opposed to the idea himself.

Havelock Blanks Norwood 8 to 0

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Aug. 17.—Exhibiting top-form the Havelock "Wreckers" handed the Norwood softball squad an 8-0 trimming last evening at the Havelock park. "Beatty" Brunton, Havelock's star hurler turned in a marvellous performance on the mound, pitching a no-run, no-hit game, with twelve strikeouts to his credit.

Webb pitching for Norwood was hit quite freely after the first two innings, being relieved by "Chuck" Puffer in the sixth. Several of Havelock's 18 safe hits came through errors in the infield rather than poor hurling.

Both teams were scoreless for the first stanzas, McMullen scoring the initial run of the game for Havelock in the last of the third. Bedford stealing home in this innings gave the locals their second counter. "Mickey" Puffer first up in the fourth on a 2-bagger, being driven home by Brunton with a single after Moore and Pollock had flied out. McMullen and Bedford following with singles scored on infield errors. Norwood stopped a scoring threat in the fifth, with McCutcheon on third, Kennedy on second and none out, when Richardson and McMaster came through with a nice double-play putting both runners out. Two runs in the final stanza, Ketchen and Brunton scoring, brought the total to eight.

The two teams will play again Thursday evening in Norwood, and with the visitors out to reverse the decision, promises to be a pretty sweet battle. The teams:

Norwood—McMaster, ss; C. Puffer, 2b; G. Puffer, c; Richardson, 3b; Innes, cf; Murphy, 1b; Webb, p; Hamblin, lf; Fleming, rf.

Havelock—Bedford, rf; Ketchen, c; McCutcheon, 2b; Kennedy, lf; Puffer, 1b; Moore, 3b; Pollock, ss; Brunton, p; McMullen, cf.

Score by innings:

Norwood ..... 000 000—0

Havelock ..... 002 402—8

Umpires—P. Voyer, Havelock, at plate; D. Clarke, Norwood, bases.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Jake Mintz, Pittsburgh promoter, has just signed Cocoa Kid and Charlie Burly to fight for the "Negro welterweight championship of the world"...What do they think Henry Armstrong is—a Mexican?...As soon as Baron Von Cramm, the tennis star, gets out of clink in Germany, he is expected to turn pro and dash over here for a cash and carry tour. . . Aboard the vessel was J. H. Lymburner, of Montreal, veteran arctic flier and member of a previous Ellsworth expedition. Commander Ellsworth, Mrs. Ellsworth and Sir Hubert Wilkins, also a member of the expedition, will join the ship at Cape Town, South Africa, Oct. 1.

GOMEZ AND RUFFING SHADE SENATORS IN A DOUBLEHEADER

Yankees Pile 16-1, 6-2 Wins At Washington

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (C.P.). — New York Yankees, a team of one-man tradition, are pulling together now, and as a result they're likely to win the American League pennant by a margin big enough to satisfy even Col. Jacob Ruppert. The Colonel isn't satisfied while there's another club within shouting distance of his Yanks.

Lefty Gomez and Charley Ruffing didn't need all the runs they got yesterday to dispose of the fourth-place Washington Senators. They pitched a pair of six-hitters to win by the comfortable margins of 16-1 and 6-2.

Jake Powell, back from the 10-day suspension that resulted from his remarks during a broadcast interview, also probably could have dispensed with a few pop bottles that came his way. He was subjected to a glass shower that caused a five-minute delay so the field could be cleared during the second game.

The Yankees had a nine-run fourth inning in the opener, and DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig hit homers.

An 8-Game Lead.

The twin triumph stretched New York's lead to eight games as Cleveland took a single contest from St. Louis Browns, 9-6 to give Mel Harder his 10th mound victory. The Athletics drove Boston's Red Sox still deeper into third, beating them 14-11 after belting Jim Bagby for five runs in the first and Dick Midkiff for five in the sixth. Two homers by Jimmy Foxx couldn't make up for those two innings. The Chicago White Sox-Detroit clash was rained out.

Manager Pie Traynor of Pittsburg decided to give some of his weary Pirates a rest and benched Gus Suhr and Al Todd in favor of Bill Brubaker and Ray Berres. Brubaker made three hits, including a homer, and the Bucs walloped Cincinnati 10-0 to stretch their National League lead to five games.

Dodgers Beat Giants.

Brooklyn's Dodgers beat the second place New York Giants for the second time in twelve encounters, 7-3, combing Harry Gumbert and Dick Coffman for five hits and four runs in the ninth. Chicago's Cubs split a twin bill with St. Louis Cardinals, winning the opener 5-4 in 11 innings on Frank Demaree's triple, then losing the second to Curt Davis, 5-2.

Another 11-inning struggle saw the Phillies beat Boston Bees 7-6 when Chuck Klein singled home Herschel Martin with the winning run.

Fergus Trims Orillia 19-7 League Game

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP).—While Orillia Terriers have been concentrating on defeating St. Catharines' league leaders, the lesser lights of the Ontario Lacrosse Association have been snapping at the Terriers' heels and keeping them away from the top.

St. Catharines have been beaten four times in 23 games this season and three of the beatings have come from Orillia. But Terriers havn't always been able to muster the same battling ability against the trailing teams and have suffered three more losses than the A's.

Fergus Thistles, jammed down in fifth place, pushed the Terriers around freely last night in scoring a 19-7 victory at home. Coming on top of a convincing triumph over St. Catharines Saturday, defeat made Orillia more than ever the question-mark club of the O.L.A.

The win heightened the Thistles' prestige for the six-team playoffs. At the same time Brampton Excelsiors bettered their hold on fourth place by defeating the sixth-place Hamilton Burlington Combines 20-16 at Burlington. St. Catharines and Mimico Mountaineers, holders of third position, were rained out at Mimico's outdoor box.

The loss at Fergus was Orillia's worst in years and assured the Athletics of taking first place if they win two of five remaining games. White and Jordan led the Thistles with four goals each and the winners held the league's top scorer, coach Bucko McDonald, without a goal or an assist.

Bill Isaacs supplanted McDonald as scoring leader by rapping home five goals despite his team's defeat at Burlington. The Combines grabbed an early 6-4 lead in a session of heavy checking but Brampton gained a 10-9 lead at half time and never was headed.

Odds Hold 3-1 That Henry Armstrong Will Be Ring's First Triple Champ

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP) — If they don't melt down and run off in a puddle, Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers will gang up on each other for 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden tonight, with Ambers' 135-pound title at stake.

It promises to be a hot event, with upward of 15,000 onlookers stuck to their seats in the big Eighth Avenue emporium.

One thing is certain: rain cannot interfere with the festivities as it did last Wednesday night at the Polo Grounds, when Promoter Mike Jacobs swallowed a $10,000 installation loss and hoped he could get it back indoors.

The postponement has not affected the betting odds. The men with talking money still are offering up to 3-1 that Armstrong leaves the ring the holder of the feather-weight, lightweight and welter-weight championships, the first triple-plated crown wearer in boxing history.

If Ambers should win, he will not be recognized as the welterweight champion in New York State. The commission pulled the rival managers and Promoter Jacobs in on the carpet yesterday and made them sign an amendment to the original contract, stipulating that "no title except the lightweight is at stake."

Newark Finds Tough Sledding In Defeating Toronto Leafs

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP) — All that glitters isn't gold and all those fine percentages on the Newark pitching staff don't mean that the Bears hurling corps is going to graduate into the big leagues en masse next season.

Far from it. Outside of Marius Russo and Atley Donald, the left-handed and right-handed standbys of the staff, Johnny Neun's boys are having plenty of trouble finishing ball games.

The weakness cropped up last night as the Bears barely outlasted Toronto Maple Leafs, 6-4. Rain halted the game for an hour and made the grounds unplayable for the scheduled second contest.

Before the seven innings were over, the Bears had sent four pitchers to the hill, Nick Strinevich, John Fallon, Phil Page and John Haley.

Elsewhere in the league the hurling was sensational last night. Jake Mooty, a fine Syracuse prospect, blanked Montreal 1-0 in the nightcap after Marvin Duke had beaten the Chief, 2-1, in the opener.

Nubs Kleinke pitched Rochester Red Wings into a clean sweep over Jersey City, beating the Giants, 5-2, in the nightcap after the Wings had taken the opener, 6-2. Baltimore's double bill at Buffalo was rained out after two innings of the opener.

Harlemites Win From De Lavals

In a keen Southend Softball League semi-final playoff series last night at the Brinton Field, Little Harlem took a 13-10 win over De-Laval in the first of their two-in-three series. After an early lead was shot, the winners finished strong to win. Naish was nicked for 15 hits and three walks as he fanned five, while Craig gave 11 hits and four walks, with five struck out. Conroy and Tompkins led the winners with four hits, the latter two homers. Rennie also hit for the circuit with two mates aboard. For De Laval, Jamieson hit a homer, Weart a triple and Wright a double. McNabb and Tompkins shone defensively for Little Harlem, as Wiley and Abbott went good afield for the losers. The teams:

De Laval—Gatfield, 2b; Wiley, 3b; Dallin, cf; Weart, ss; Jamieson, 1b; Abbott, lf; Pearson, c; Wright, rf; Naish, p.

Little Harlem—Price, 1b; Rennie, rf; Gray, c; Conroy, lf; F. Maloney, ss; McNabb, 2b; G. Maloney, cf; Tompkins, 3b; Craig, p.

Umpires—Smith and Coursey.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Little Harlem 150 113 02x—13 15 3
De Laval ... 020 133 010—10 11 4

Second game of the first-half playoffs is Thursday, winner meeting Keene. Tonight the Leafs and Quakers tangle in a postponed sudden-death fray for first place in the second half, the loser to start the second-half playoffs with Cogs on Friday. These games are at 6.30 at the Brinton Field.

'We Licked That Bum, Joe!'

It was a happy event in one of Philadelphia's hospitals when Joe Jacobs and Tony Galento looked at the camera for this picture. The Newark Nightstick (that's Tony), stricken with pneumonia a few days before his scheduled fight with John Henry Lewis, has almost recovered and his dire threats of what he will do to any and every fighter in the land are beginning to flow with their old time regularity. Yussell, the Mussel (that's Joe) is as happy as his rotund fighter about everything.

Race That Caused Double Suspension

ABOVE is the finish of the $35,000 match race at Del Mar, California, that resulted in boosting the earnings of Seabiscuit to $315,350, and give him fifth place in all-time earnings for a race horse, and also resulted in the suspension of Jockey George Woolf (alongside) and Noel Richarson, up on Ligaroti, the other horse in the race. The race between C. S. Howard's five-year-old and the South American champion was a battle all the way with a driving finish giving the Biscuit victory. Track stewards investigated the rides of both jockeys and announced their suspension for the rest of the meeting, with a recommendation to the California Horse Racing Board that it be continued until the end of the year.

Keene Lasses Beat Westclox

Keene kept in the girls' softball playoff by grabbing a 6-4 win over Westclox at the Bowl last night before a big crowd of fans. The tilt was terminated in the first half of the eighth, the score reverting back to the seventh, owing to darkness—and Westclox were rallying in the eighth to score two runs and have a runner on second with one out. The game was late in starting, and the losers and their followers were angry at the calling-off of the contest. It was the third game of the three-in-five final series, Westclox winning the first two.

D. Warner pitched good ball for the winners, holding Westclox to five hits and three walks. M. Snowden of Westclox allowed nine hits and three walks, while fanning five. Some sparkling fielding was shown in spots, with the winners turning in two snappy double-plays, H. Nelson to M. Belle, and D. Warner to M. Belle. Good catches were made by M. Hawthorne, M. Selkirk and T. Mills, as H. Nelson, G. Nelson and M. Ferguson also fielded well. M. Snowden hit a homer with bases full in the second and M Hawthorne got a double and single. For Keene, M. Belle led with three hits, as H. Nelson got two and T. Mills a triple. The teams:

Westclox—G. Mortimer, 1b; M. Ferguson, ss; M. Allison, 2b; M. Hawthorne, 3b; A. Sturgeon, cf; D. Merrett, lf; D. Botting, c; M. Selkirk, rf; M. Snowden, p.

Fear Many Teachers Studying Too Much

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 1 (C.P.).—There has been a strong feeling in educational circles for some time that school teachers are required to spend too much of their summer vacations taking special courses, according to J. F. Twigg, chairman of the Windsor Board of Education, in commenting on a report that representations on the subject might be made to the Ontario Board of Education.

Board of Education at London was said to be considering an investigation to determine how much of their vacations teachers spend taking special courses. Twigg approved of the idea.

"It makes it pretty onerous for teachers when they have to attend summer school during most of what should be their vacation," Twigg said.

In London, it was estimated more than a quarter of the teaching staff of primary schools attend one or more courses during the vacation period, with the result large numbers of teachers have but two weeks' holidays left after they have attended summer school.

more than three weeks, was believed by Paris observers to have convinced General Franco he would be unable to win the war without the continued support of Premier Mussolini's Italian blackshirts.

An indication of this was seen in the demotion of Franco's "pro-British" personal adviser in foreign affairs, Jose Antonio da Sangroniz, reported almost to have convinced the general of the advisability of gaining British good will even if it meant giving up Mussolini's troops. Sangroniz was removed from the general's staff and put under Count de Jordana, foreign minister in the Burgos capital and Sangroniz' rival. The action was said to mean the end of long-standing friction with the Franco administration. Close observers of the situation pointed out the British had pressed for a reply to the withdrawal plan for weeks and that Franco's long delay in answering, coupled with continuing reports of new Italian reinforcements, made it almost a foregone conclusion that General Franco would not accept the plan.

Does Your Breath Broadcast— "I WEAR FALSE TEETH"?

Play Safe—Be Sure—Use Polident

Most people who wear plates or bridges suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it—"denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—but it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shudder—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing cannot prevent it. Neither will mouth washes. For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect.

One thing can stop "denture breath"—and that's Polident! This new brushless cleaner has won the approval of thousands of dentists. Users say it's a blessing.

Polident not only purifies false teeth—but also removes all stain, tarnish and deposits. Makes breath sweeter—plates look better and feel better. Costs only 40¢ at any drug store and lasts for many weeks. Money back if not delighted.

265 JUNIOR FARMERS COMPETE AT INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION

Girls Outdo Boys in Numbers As Team Commence Fully Day's Judging Program

Seven Counties Are Represented In Various Young Teams.

Representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture took virtually complete charge of the junior branch of the Peterborough Exhibition this morning, when nearly 265 young men and women from a broad strip of Central Ontario, from Prince Edward and Hastings counties on the east to Ontario and Victoria on the west registered for the two days' of competitions that began promptly at 9.30.

Frank C Paterson, local representative of the Department, became the liason officer between the Exhibition Board and M. C. McPhail of Toronto, assistant director of agricultural representatives, and his group of assistants, including the agricultural representatives from seven counties whose aid was directed entirely to the program for the young men. Associated with Mr. McPhail in charge of the young ladies' division was Miss Florence Eadie, Miss Grace Pollard, and Miss Flora Durnin of Toronto.

Started Sharp on Time.

Previous experience in management of this important section of the Exhibition enabled Mr. McPhail and his helpers to begin judging competitions in three classes of cattle actually on the dot of 9.30, and in the meantime the girls' division got under way at the same time.

Groups of boys were assigned to the judging of beef and dairy cattle as the opening class of the morning, and in the girls' tents the allied program included demonstrating and judging of the work of homemaking clubs, in clothing, home furnishing and nutrition.

Miss Pollard informed The Examiner that 154 girls had registered up to 9.15 o'clock, fifty more than last year, and that would probably be the total for the day. Mr. Paterson reported about 110 boys at the same time, only a few of the members of the county teams being unable to make the trip to Peterborough. Mr. Paterson's estimate that the attendance at this evening's banquet would run close to 300 was amply realized in this morning's registration.

Appreciated by Directors.

Tom Brown, president of the Exhibition, stated to The Examiner that the directors greatly appreciated the keen interest displayed in the junior division by Mr. McPhail and other executives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, also the county agricultural representatives whose assistance has been invaluable in promoting this feature, and the ladies of the department who conduct the classes in home-making.

Mr. Brown remarked that the fact the junior division attracted young men and women from as far as Picton on the east and Brooklin, Uxbridge and Fenelon Falls on the west was an asset to the Exhibition for which the Department could claim a great deal of credit.

To-day's program will be concluded with a dinner at the Empress Hotel, at which the competing junior farmers will be guests of Gordon S. Matthews, general manager of Canada Packers Limited. With them will also be Mr. McPhail and his staff, and the guest speaker will be the Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture.

His report says:

Routine inspection of bake shops was carried out during the month. In every case the buildings and equipment were in good sanitary condition. Floors, walls and ceilings were clean and free from dust and dirt. Troughs, tables, mixers, proovers, panners and ovens were clean and well cared for. Stock rooms were clean and the stock in good condition. In several shops, new floors have replaced others which were objectionable due to poor state of repair. In others, such improvements as thorough cleaning and painting of buildings, whitewashing of stables and use of screens and insecticides for control of flies have been noted.

Restaurants

These were inspected as to general cleanliness of dining rooms, kitchens, rest-rooms and store rooms. Particular attention was given to the condition of the foods. Iceboxes were remarkably well looked after and the foods therein were fresh and wholesome. This is to the credit of the proprietors of these establishments, since it is always considerably more difficult in hot summer weather to keep the foods fresh.

Market

The market square and market house were inspected regularly and were, in general, quite clean and sanitary. In the majority of cases, the vendors were careful to keep their stalls clean and tidy. The vendors have co-operated very well in providing receptacles for cast-off leaves from fruits and vegetables. Co-operation in this respect tends to make the market more presentable and it is very gratifying to note the extent to which each vendor endeavors to do his share.

There were large quantities of fruits and vegetables offered for sale during the month. These were of the very finest quality, fresh and wholesome. The fowl also were found in very good condition. During the month, no certificate for diseased fowl has been issued by the Department. This speaks well of the general healthy state of the fowl offered for sale.

Campaign To Exterminate Ragweed Planned By Board

That ragweed, Public Enemy No. 1 to hay fever victims and the cause of 80 per cent of that distressing disease, is growing within one hundred yards of the city buildings, close to the welfare building on Simcoe street, in front of the court house, within ten feet of George street in several sections and is to be found in many different parts of the city, was information furnished the Board of Health at Tuesday's meeting by Dr. Murray Fraser, M.O.H., who urged a campaign to eliminate the nuisance.

Dr. Fraser stated that he had made a survey of certain sections of the city and the above were some of his findings. He pointed out that hay fever was a most distressing complaint affecting some 60,000 people in Ontario annually and that a considerable percentage of the victims developed bronchial asthma afterward. It had been found that ragweed was responsible for 80 per cent of the cases. The remedy was to destroy the ragweed before the pollination period began and Dr. Fraser advised asking for the co-operation of the citizens in getting rid of the evil.

It was moved by Ald. McCannan seconded by Mayor Hamilton that Medical Officer of Health be authorized to advertise in the Examiner an appeal to the citizens to pull up or cut the ragweed round their property.

At the same time it was decided to ask Relief Officer Metheral to select six relief recipients to destroy the weed under the instructions of the Medical Officer of Health. The Board of Works will also take part in the campaign by attacking the ragweed along the streets and in other public places where it may be found.

In order to let the members of the Board see what this harmful weed looked like Sanitary Inspector MacPherson brought in a specimen for the inspection of the Board.

"Why there's lots of that around our place," exclaimed Ald. McCannan who had just finished telling his fellow members that a member of his family was a hay fever victim.

The Board members present were Ald. Walter Stocker, chairman, Mayor Hamilton, Ald. James Dutton, Ald. Herb McCannan and Dr. Murray Fraser, M.O.H.

Trapeze Artist Wishes For Her Own Home

Winnifred Colleano, talented trapeze artist who will be seen on the grandstand program at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is an exception to the rule, that artists live for their work alone. This girl has another great love, the love of a woman for a home of her own, children and a kitchen to experiment on foods instead of a flying trapeze and the ever present danger.

She was born in Australia, one of a family of ten children, everyone of whom went with the circus troupes. Her father Cornelius O'Sullivan was born in Cork and her mother, whose name she takes in professional life is Spanish.

"Most circus and vaudeville performers marry into the profession and keep on working the same as before", said Miss Colleano. "But my idea of married life is a home for the woman and a job for the man, and perhaps some day the right man will come along, until that time I guess I'll just have to be like other girls and dream of a painted cottage and a rose garden.

Leaders in Their Field.

The Colleanos are leaders in their field, her brother Con. Colleano at present playing in Germany is the world's greatest slack wire artist, and his earnings are $1,000 a week, the highest paid man in the profession. Six other members of the family are touring the continent and the British Isles now in a vaudeville act, and three girls are married, but have not retired from the stage.

The entire family of Colleanos were Ringland's circus together and Miss Colleano, who is now performing at the Exhibition was billed for two consecutive years as a headliner for this circus. Her act is a dangerous one, and a net is always spread beneath the aerial equipment to protect her should she fall.

It is a solo act, as she refuses to work with any other aerialist since an accident in 1931 an acrobat let her fall and she received serious injuries to her shoulder. In the same act a man fell and broke his neck. In her opinion the net offers only a small amount of protection, as this woman claims unless an athlete falls properly into the net considerably injury may result.

Hazards Are Many

The hazards of aerial trapeze work are many. Perspiring hands in warm weather makes it difficult for the performers to grip strongly and complete the act, while rain and dew settling on the bars add to the difficulties of the act.

Miss Colleano performs at breakneck height, floats through space with the epitome of grace and features in her unmatched repertoire a twisting somersault. In this one stunt she swings from a trapeze, twists into a somersault and swings back catching the same trapeze by the backs of her heels. Hanging by the toes is comparatively easy but holding to a swinging trapeze by the heels is doubly difficult.

Her mother travels with her in a specially built trailer that has most of the comforts of a modern home, and the scrap book and file carried in the trailer shows the Colleanos starring in many countries, including Germany and France.

KNOCKED DOWN BY CAR.

J. T. Durkin, who resides at 160 Rubidge Street, escaped with minor injuries when he was in collision with a taxicab driven by James Turner and owned by Hugh Davis on Rubidge Street shortly before 10 o'clock on Tuesday night. The driver stated that Durkin walked from the east curb and came into contact with the car. He was picked up and driven to the office of Dr. Bob Young, where it was found that he had sustained bruises along the side of his body and on his arm.

MOSQUITOES ARE PLENTIFUL

Citizens who sought comfort from the heat on cool verandahs during the past few evenings have been harassed by Mosquitoes and it seems there is a regular epidemic of them at the present time. Lymburner, famous Canadian aviator, who left New York yesterday on Lincoln Ellesworth's base ship bound for the Antarctic where Enderby Land will be explored was a visitor in Peterborough several months ago and at that time had no intimation that he would shortly be headed on another trip into the Antarctic wastes.

BRICK YARD IS BUSY

Curtis Brothers' Brick Yard is running at normal capacity and has been for several weeks to meet the demand created by a minor building boom, locally, and in the district. 15,000 bricks are being turned out daily, and twenty men are at work at the yard, and burning the kilns. The several large building projects underway along with the additions and alterations to the Y. W. C. A. building has given the building trades new life.

AIDS IN DISCOVERY

Norbert Miller, Peterborough boy who learned his flying here and has been engaged in comercial flying ever since he received his certificate has had a prominent part in the discovery of gold at a lake 30 miles east of Yellowknife in the Northwest Territories last month, a strike that may rank as one of the biggest in history. Miller piloted the green Waco airplane which set Fred W. Thompson and Roy Lundmark down at the scene of the discovery.

COLLIDES WITH COW.

S. J. Hickey, 387 Armour Road, had his car somewhat damaged on Highway 28 at the Kawartha Club last night when the machine collided with a cow on the road. The animal escaped much more lightly than the automobile, which had its grill, lights, and fenders damaged to the extent of some $75.

Show Animals Hit Hard By Torrid Heat

Only two of the many herds of cattle for which entries had been received by secretary Fred J. A. Hall of the Exhibition were missing this morning in the final count by Charlie Westlake, managing director. One of them was Malcolm Bailey's Angus cattle from Uxbridge and the other was Colonel R .E. Birdsall and Son's Herefords from Asphodel.

Pressure of work at home, resulting from the frequent rains, was the reason Colonel Birdsall was unable to forward the entries he had planned. Otherwise, the livestock entries were aparently on the way to a new record in number and quality.

Monday night's heat reached an oppressive and almost a dangerous level in the lowest of the cattle barns, one at the southeast corner where the Jersey herds shown by J. W. Innis of Woodstock and D. J. Begg of St. Thomas were affected by the lack of ventilation. One of the herdsmen told the Examiner a Jersey bull had splintered several boards on the south side of the building, possibly from an animal's instinct of self-preservation, and the men themselves followed that stroke up by knocking out some other boards on their own account.

Cow is Overcome

One of the Begg Jerseys was overcome by the heat early last night requiring the aid of a local veterinary, and the herdsmen informed the Examiner this morning he was not sure that he could save the animal.

"This barn might have been all right for September," he commented, "but the metal roof is too low and there is no cross ventilation. I certainly wish the directors would do something about it right away. The Innis herd is showing here for the first time, and this is our first visit to Peterborough. We don't like to complain, but it shouldn't be difficult to cut a few openings on the south side even if you have to bar them. I could lose $1,000 here quite easily because the cattle were off their feed this morning."

Burned Matches Are Used To Build House

A house made of thousands upon thousands of matches glued together, is the property of proud Leonard Mahood, 23, of 530 Bolivar street, and is being exhibited at the Peterborough Exhibition this week.

Between six and seven thousand burnt matches have gone into construction of the elaborate house, which is complete with kitchen, dining room, living room, sunporch, stairway, bedrooms, and bathroom. And there is not a nail in the entire building. The house and the garage at the rear, are made from burnt matches blued together in intricate pattern. It took Leonard Mahood four months to make.

Leonard started the house after he had read an account in the Examiner of a man in Eastern Canada who had fashioned a cathedral from 15,000 matches. Recovering from a foot infection that has crippled him for two years Leonard decided to construct a house in like fashion. He started it when he got up from his sick bed four months ago, has been at it practically ever since. "I never thought I'd finish it but so many people started saving matches for me I just had to not let them down." Leonard said. More than a dozen neighbors and friends in the city saved their burnt matches for him, together with two Toronto people.

The house is complete in every detail: it has even glass windows with tiny curtains behind them. A lilliputian could live in it with luxury were he able to furnish it. For even its architecture is irreproachable and it has excellent proportion. Its grass lawn is well cared for, its flag walk is in good taste.

For the 'umpteen' time this season, our open bonspiel has been called off on account of rain, only this time the calling off was final. No playing within two or three hours, the weatherman took care of that ....20 local mixed rinks had gathered for an evening's fun and had played one game and half way through the next when the downpour started. At the time of writing we had not received word when the tournament will be replayed.

Weather and mosquitoes permitting we will try and hold another mixed tonight at 7.30 p.m.....We notice where our good friend Billy Whitty of Stirling has succeeded in reaching the finals of the Henry trophy of Toronto.

Constable Tests Beer Finds It Intoxicating

A liquor charge in which Fred Hull, who lives at the mouth of Jack's Creek, Stoney Lake, was charged with the illegal possession of liquor occupied the attention of Magistrate Gee in Police Court this morning, and when court adjourned at 1 o'clock for luncheon only the Crown evidence had been submitted.

There was a great deal of battling over technical points between F. D. Kerr, K.C., Acting Crown Atorney, and T. J. Carley, K.C., who appeared for the accused, and at one stage the case had to be adjourned to allow police to go to the court house and bring down thirteen cases of beer required as exhibits.

The old point as to whether or not the liquor contained in the bottles produced was intoxicating liquor was also responsible for much of the delay in the proceedings.

Evidence against Hull was given by County Constable Harry McLachlan and Provincial Constable Don. M. Carruthers who told of visiting Hull's place on July 8 and searching the premises when they said fourteen unbroken cases and one case from which three bottles were missing had been found. The officers stated that before they reached Hull's place he had assisted them by cutting through a tree that had been blown down across the road. Afterward they had paid for supper at Hull's and after the meal a search warrant was produced and Constable Carruthers had reached the cellar and discovered the beer.

To Mr. Kerr, Constable Carruthers said that he judged the liquid in the bottles was intoxicating beer, basing his judgment on the labels and caps of the bottles.

Get More Exhibits.

One broken case and one full one had been put in as exhibits, and Mr. Kerr asked Mr. Carley to admit that the other thirteen cases which it was stated were in the Provincial Constable's office at the Court House, contained twelve bottles each.

Mr. Carley declined to go that far in admission, saying that it was impossible for him to do so whereupon the Acting Crown Attorney insisted upon the thirteen cartons being brought to the Police Court. Then they were opened by Constable Carruthers and counted.

Provincial Constable Silvester shook a bottle from one of the cases and swore that by the amount of froth produced he could state definitely that the bottle contained intoxicating beer. Then a bottle was opened and tasting the contents the officer again stated that the liquid was intoxicating beer.

"You have sworn on oath that you can tell that the contents of the bottle are intoxicating by the froth," said Mr. Carley in cross-examination. "I suggest to you that you can do nothing of the kind."

Witness repeated that he could tell by the test he had made.

W. T. Hall, in charge of the brewers' warehouse, here told Mr. Kerr that nothing but intoxicants were sold at the warehouse. He identified the bottles produced as that of a brewery whose product was sold at the warehouse. He also identified two order forms issued on July 8, one purporting to be signed by Fred Hull for five cases and the other by James McDonald for ten cases.

This concluded the Crown evidence and the court adjourned for luncheon.

Alberta Cattle Being Shown At Exhibition

Herds of cattle from Alberta and Quebec, showing here for the first time, afforded new and impressive evidence of the importance of Peterborough's Exhibition since it attained the highest rating as a Class A fair.

W. A. Crawford-Frost of Nanton, Alberta, is the owner of a splendid herd of Herefords that are going on to Ottawa and Toronto, having come east from the western circuit recently concluded. Never before in the history of the Peterborough Exhibition have any exhibits from Alberta been entered here for competition. That is also true of the Holstein herd shown by Legault Freres of Deux Monts, Quebec.

The Quebec cattle are being exhibited by John J. Legault who is also headed for Ottawa and Toronto, "but perhaps I may sell them all before that," he added. Mr. Legault said his father had been a breeder of Holsteins for more than twenty years. Six years ago they decided to go to the exhibition wars, and now for the first time are including Peterborough in their itinerary. The Legault herd numbers eighteen head.

From Victoria County

Another of the newcomers to Peterborough is the herd of ten Aberdeen-Angus cattle entered by the Windsweep Farms Limited on Sturgeon Lake, near Dunsford, in Victoria County. The proprietor is Robert Fennell, and Harold Hillis is manager.

"We were here last year with some of our horses, in fact more than we have entered this year, but this is the first time we are showing cattle. We have ten head of Aberdeen-Angus and four Clydesdale horses."

Included in the John Gardhouse herd of Shorthorns from Weston is the bull "Roland" bought by Mr. Gardhouse from George Whittington and Son of South Monaghan. This herd also made the round of the western circuit of exhibitions, and is showing at Peterborough on the way to Ottawa and Toronto.

Among those who called on Mr. Gardhouse this morning were George Whittington and his son, Roy, both of whom retain keen interest in the animal they parted with. "Roland" won a string of second prizes in beef cattle in the west, generally taking second place to the Gardhouse herd sire.

Charge Ex-Boxer Murdered His Wife

LACLEDE, Mo., Aug 17—(AP)—Dr. William Lamance, onetime boxer who turned to Osteopathy because he lost a bet with his father, was charged with wife murder early today.

The body of Mrs. Ella Lamance, 29, was found Monday night on a cot in the vegetable cellar behind the Doctor's home. Lamance made no statement.

Lamance was a boxer until his evangelist father made a bet his son, fighting as "Billy the Kid" Lamance, would quit the ring if he lost an important match. "Billy the Kid" lost and quit the ring.

"Service With A Smile"

Offers $1,000 For Finding Dodge's Body

Boats, Planes Comb Bay In Vain; Widow Recovering

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Aug. 17—(CP)—Search for the broken body of 21-year-old Daniel Dodge continued by air and water today as hope it soon would be found began to wane among the Georgian Bay fishermen dragging the green depths with heavily weighted seine nets.

Privately chartered airplanes and Dodge's own Osa's Ark, an amphibian machane, flew low over the turbulent inside channel of the Bay where the young heir to the motor-car millions was drowned Monday. The search was spurred by the presence of Danny's step-father, Alfred G. Wilson of Detroit, who has offered a reward of $1,000 for the finding of the body.

Six fishing vessels, manned by from 25 to 30 men, dragged the 90-foot-deep channel. With them were two trained men brought from Detroit by plane to direct the operations. The search area extended for miles around the spot eight miles west of this Manitoulin Island port where Dodge fell or leaped from a speedboat.

Dodge was drowned as he was being brought here from his summer camp at Kagawong, 20 miles west, for medical treatment for injuries suffered in a dynamite explosion. The blast came as the young heir, known for his love of experimenting, held a stick of old explosive in his hand.

Only One Unhurt

In the boat were Dodge's bride of 13 days, a former $15 a week telephone operator; Lloyd Bryant and Frank Valiquette, camp caretakers, and Bryant's wife. Of the four, only Mrs. Bryant was uninjured in the explosion that blew out a wall of the garage.

Mrs. Dodge, suffering from serious head, arm and face injuries, was said to be "considerably improved" last night in the Red Cross Hospital at Mindemoya, 26 miles distant in the interior of the Island. The 20-year-old widow was secluded in her sickroom. Only members of her family were permitted to see her.

Attending surgeons also were optimistic that Bryant, most seriously hurt of those who watched Dodge test the dynamite, would recover. Suffering from internal injuries, Bryant was brought to hospital unconscious. Yesterday for the first time he began to display an interest in his surroundings. Valiquette, burned about the body, was released from hospital.

Fell Trying to Aid Bride.

Whether Dodge fell from the boat or was rendered crazed by the pain of his injuries and leaped overboard remained uncertain. The widow said yesterday he fell out as he tried to move from the stern to the bow to help her control the craft in a pitching sea. Mrs. Bryant said "It seemed to me as though he dived over the side."

Danny's right hand was mangled in the blast. His face was torn and he was cut about the lower abdomen and both legs. Surgeons who attended the injured when the speedboat docked said that from the description of his injuries Dodge probably would have died in any case.

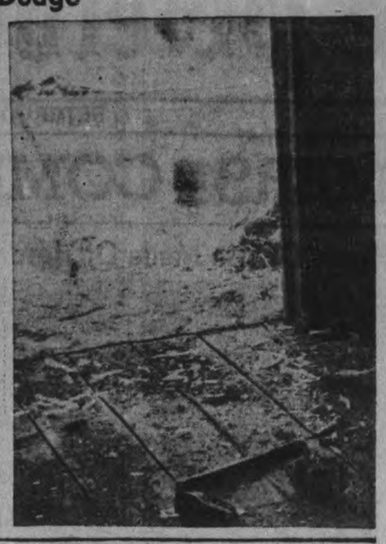
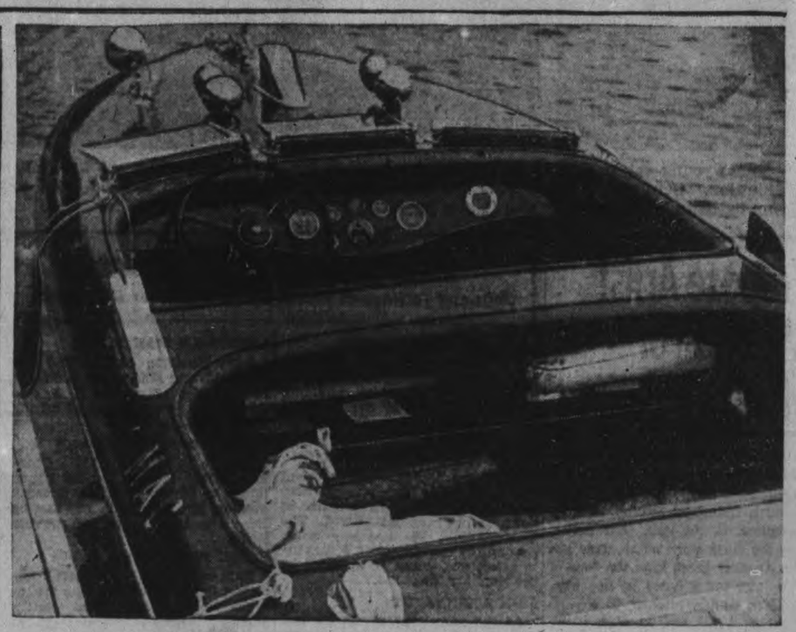
Pictures Tell Story Of Tragedy Which Killed Daniel Dodge





These pictures, flown by airplane from the Georgian Bay scene of the accident which snuffed out the life of automobile heir Daniel Dodge, are the first pictures illustrating the tragedy. The garage in which the dynamite explosion occurred, horribly mangling young Dodge and seriously injurying his wife and caretakers Lloyd Bryant and Frank Valiquette, is pictured BELOW and at RIGHT is shown a corner of the building strewn with wreckage from the explosion. At top RIGHT is the Dodge motorboat which Mrs. Dodge, herself suffering from injuries, steered through the four-foot waves of Georgian Bay toward Little Current, and from which Dodge plunged to his death by drowning. At top LEFT is Mrs. Lloyd Bryant, wife of the caretaker at the summer camp and only member of the group uninjured. In the dash for medical aid she probably saved her husband's life by applying tourniquets to staunch the flow of blood from his wounds, and she was able to give reporters a graphic story of the explosion and the lake tragedy which followed.

Paroled Convict Dies In Collision As Stolen Car Derails Trolley

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (CP)—Kenneth Stover, 28, of Chatham, Ont., recently paroled from Collins Bay Penitentiary on an automobile theft charge, was killed here last night when a stolen automobile crashed into a street car loaded with homebound baseball fans.

Stover suffered a broken neck, a fracture of the skull and was almost scalped in the collision which demolished the front of the car he was said to have been driving and knocked the heavy streetcar off its rails.

For hours the identity of the dead man was unknown. Since the car bore New York licence plates, he was at first thought to be the car's owner, Oliver B. Merrill, 38, of New York, but it was later learned the car had been stolen from in front of the hotel where Mr. Merrill was staying.

Stover had been released from penitentiary, to which he was sentenced in October 1936, under the new remission system giving 60 days off the two-year sentence for good behavior. He was given a train ticket to Chatham on his release. At the time of the accident, he was wearing the suit of clothes given him at that time.

Stover's identity was learned from a train ticket found in his pocket at the hospital.

Latest War Scare Eases In Britain

LONDON, Aug. 17 (CP-Havas).—Great Britain's concern over Germany's mass military manoeuvres appeared to be abating today, with only three newspapers devoting leading articles to the Central European situation. This was in contrast to the press of Saturday, Sunday and Monday, when most papers carried comment on dangers that might possibly arise from the war games.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express (Independent) renewed its pleas for a government policy of "splendid isolation" and declared: "There could be no European war this year or next."

"If there is one, Great Britain will not be involved," the Daily Express said. "No British interests are concerned in the nationalities' dispute between Germany and Czechoslovakia."

Viscount Rothermere's Daily Mail (Independent) stressed that although Britain must remain on the alert, there was no reason for undue alarm over the German war games.

"Lest uneasiness should be aroused by the spectacle of the German military machine being set in motion and the national normal routine being temporarily superseded, this emphasized that these manoeuvres were announced in a perfectly open manner and that reservists have been called up solely to afford them training," the paper said.

Rotary Suggests Split In Office

CAMPBELLFORD
(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 17. — A spliting up of the office of secretary-treasurer was advocated by Earl A. Bell who was recently appointed to this office by members of the Campbellford Rotary Club. Addressing Rotarians at their noonday luncheon Mr. Bell suggested that by dividing the work it would create a greater interest in the club's activities for some other member. He left the matter with members for their consideration.

Chairman T. E. Hall of the Street Fair Committee indicate dthat considerable progress in arrangements for the fair on September 13 had been made. It was revealed that permission had been granted by the Council for use of Bridge Street by the club.
